A Tip to Youth

If you want to be a B.M.O.C. (Big Man on Campus) or a Campus Queen stay away from liquor.

Not only young people's societies but an increasing number of college leaders, movie stars, society leaders, health columnists, and etiquette experts are giving such advice to youth.

"You can't be the conquering quarterback in Saturday's game and have spent Friday night in a beer barrel" is the theme presented by college units of the Youth's Temperance Council, the youth division of W.C.T.U. "In fact the choice isn't even left up to you. The men that the coaches select for their teams are not those with muscles in their right arms trained to hoist beer steins."

"A Campus Queen"

Girls particularly are told to maintain mental alertness and physical attractiveness by complete abstinence from liquor.

One effective quotation is from a "Tips to the Teens" column in a current national magazine:

"A girl is never so attractive after she's had something to drink as she was before. After a drink or two your hair sort of slips, like a wig. It gets tired and looks it. Your eyes, supposed to shine like stars, are fixed and glassy, more like marbles. It all adds up to this: You are an attractive girl or you wouldn't be out on parties. Why make yourself less so?"

"Or, a Bar-Fly?"

Without Controls

Those hidden unsocial impulses which lurk near the surface in every man are generally kept locked in a secret room, behind the closed door of self-control. Alcohol is the key which unlocks that door, according to Bertha Rachel Palmer, scientific temperance education director for the W.C.T.U. Whatever is in that room stalks out cruel impulses, amorous or ugly emotions

GEORGIA DOGGEREL

De skeeters wid dair pizenous bills
Prepares yo' sistem fer sum pills,
When lightin on yo' epiderm
Dey nockerlates you wid er germ.

THIS masterpiece of foolery is part of a long rhyme written by Dr. H. M. Branham, a surgeon of Georgia. For many years he was a member of the Glynn County Board of Health, which operates in one of the worst malaria areas of the U. S.

A little figuring showed a better and much cheaper way.

Dr. Branham realized years ago that malaria in Georgia was their most serious local trouble. And in fact the whole state is pretty badly infected, while 37 counties are among those having the highest death rate from malaria in the whole country.

Georgia for many years has been trying to follow the suggestion of Dr. Branham who advises getting rid of mosquitoes. Many millions of dollars have been spent in attempting to rid Georgia of malarial mosquitoes, but the disease still takes a heavy toll. Far too many are ill with it each summer.

The ineffective drainage program has cost millions and some authorities have suggested that Georgia health officers spend a little time with paper and pencil, especially upon the arithmetic of malaria. The state has a population of something over three million. Malaria is largely a rural disease and if only one-third live in such places that makes about a million potential sufferers. Fortunately only a fraction of these live in the most seriously malarial counties, perhaps no more than two hundred thousand. Assuming that half of these are likely to get malaria in any one year, what would be the cost of curing them compared to the cost of drainage?

It costs about 36¢ to cure the average malaria case by following the dosage recommended by the U. S. Public Health Service, who state that 30 grains of quinine for 5-7 days is sufficient. For one hundred thousand cases that makes only $36,000, which is a minute fraction of the money spent in trying to get rid of mosquitoes. Arithmetic such as this is worth a lot of study by not only Georgia but every malarial state in the country.

Mrs. W. S. Friend and son Scott attended the X-ray clinic, sponsored by the Boone Co. Tuberculosis Association, held at the Florence High school last Tuesday. All school teachers, bus drivers, school cooks and caretakers as well as many children, were examined by Dr. Floyd of the State Board of Health. Since Mrs. Friend is Health Chairman of New Haven P.-T. A., she discovered that one learns many interesting facts by attending each clinic.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Jones and family had his brother, Mr. Nick Jones and family of Cincinnati as their week end guests.

Several of our local children are attending Daily Vacation Bible School, which is being held at the Richwood Presbyterian church this week, under the leadership of Rev. J. Russell Cross. Others were unable to attend due to an epidemic of dysentery, which has struck in this community since last week.

Aubrey Knox returned to his camp in Texas on Sunday. His host of friends will miss him as Aubrey is a fine boy, but we hope him a very enjoyable stay with In letters received by his friends Uncle Sam.

here, Private Albert Denton states that he likes the Army more and more. He is stationed at Camp Sheridan, Ill., at this time, and likes the northern climate fine.

THE FIRST AUTOMOBILE

It was my first time to be away from home, and incidentally, the first time I had ever taken a trip by train. As the train wound around the numerous bends and across small bridges, I felt the thrills that only the train can bring. Every station where we stopped had the typical crowd who had come down to watch the train go by. A few people got on or off, but that was not the real reason why people had assembled. After stopping at twenty small places, we neared the really big town. The train whistled for the station, and then people began jumping up and crowding to one side of the coach. I followed suit, probably supposing that all good people who rode on trains had to do that. Soon it was apparent that something out of the ordinary was outside. There in the dim winter light sat by the station an automobile, the very first one I had ever seen and the first for many another traveler on the train. Curious people were gathered around the contraption, saucer-eyed. As I recall now, it was nothing especially fine-looking, but it could run without a horse attached. And as the train came to a halt, few people paid any attention to such a commonplace thing as a locomotive; they were too busy looking at the new wonder. The train discharged its passengers, its mail, and its express and then puffed away out of the yards; at the same time instant the automobile (horseless carriage) got under way after a few feints and starts and sped down the dusty street at ten miles an hour, the admired of all the gazers.

We had seen something new, something that was destined to transform our view of the whole world within a few years.

Some months later I was teaching my first school by the side of a dusty little country road. One day at noon recess a car came wheezing along; the boys took after it as if it had been a rabbit and actually caught up with it. Most of them were afraid to touch it, but one daring boy jumped on the back of it and rode a few yards before he was dislodged when the car hit a bump in the road. His dirty clothes were bearable all the rest of the day, for he was a local hero, a boy who had ridden on a car.

Still a year later, when I had advanced in my teaching to a small village school, some visitors came to my boarding house in a car. As they were leaving on Sunday afternoon, they asked me to ride with them for a distance if I wished. I rode to the railroad crossing, a half mile away, probably fearful that the contraption might blow up. As I walked back through the deep dust, many an envious eye was cast at me by the less fortunate villagers who had not had such a daring experience.

To the younger generation this sounds like pure fiction, and if it were not for a good memory bolstered up with the diary I kept at that time, I would doubt the truth of it myself. In less time than it takes to tell it, the automobile became a fixture, so that today one wonders how we ever got anywhere in the good old days. Distances have shortened, wonders have ceased, gasoline has taken the place of horseflesh. And the first automobiles seen today even stranger than the one-hoss shay, the oxcart, or the covered wagon. In museums, such as the one Mr. Ford has built at Dearborn, Michigan, the earliest cars attract the most comment of the numerous means of travel exhibited there. In a short lifetime we have spanned centuries of thinking and eons of human experience. Styles have so hastened the passing of earlier types of cars that we soon laugh at the strange gadgets that we spent our good money for a few years ago.

EARLY HISTORY OF BOONE COUNTY

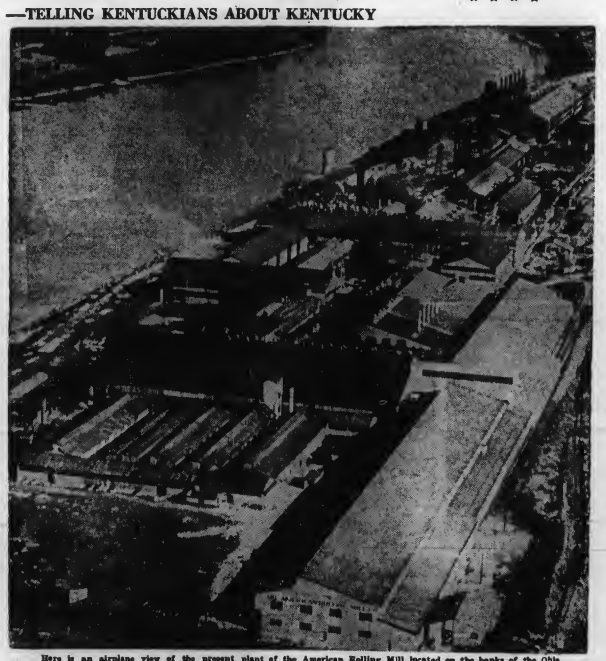
By A. M. Yealey

When Kentucky was admitted as a state, 1792, the great question of internal improvement became the great issue and a better and more rapid way of transportation was undertaken by trying to find the ways and means by building roads. We should remember that the same laws that applied to Virginia during a short period applied to Kentucky, but in 1797 an Act was passed for the opening of new roads and surveyors were appointed by the Courts to survey routes over which roads could be constructed and all male laboring persons over 16 years of age were required to work the roads, except those who were masters of two or more slaves over said age or be fined $1.25 per day for each day's absence or neglect to work. The surveyors were ordered, also, to make these roads out of stone, timber, or earth and to receive their pay from each county levy of taxes as the law provided.

In March 1797, Joseph Crockett was appointed to make a turn pike leading from Craborchard and intersect with the trail road that led from Madison Court House to Cumberland Gap.

He completed this road and it was formed out to the highest bidder. Robert Craig was the successful bidder on this road, and established a toll gate on the road and collected toll as follows: For every person except Post Riders, expresses, women and children under the age of tens years, 12½ cents. Every norse, two wheel carriage, four wheel carriage, cattle 4 1-6 per head. All surplus funds were to belong to the keeper of the toll road for keeping the same passable. This road was made of earth and graded 15 to 18 feet wide. This was the beginning of road building in our state and February 4th, 1817, the Legislature passed an Act for the purpose of formirg artificial roads.

On February 8th, 1819, a Charter was granted to a stock company to build an artificial stone road from Georgetown to Cincinnati. This road was to follow the same course as the Dixie Highway but the U. S. Government was at that time building a National Highway west from Baltimore and the Legislature of Kentucky by a resolution February 3rd, 1828, recommended to Congress to extend a branch from Zanesville, Ohio, down through Kentucky, but it appears that when it came to a vote a Kentucky senator voted against this proposition and all the senators from the Southern States did likewise. After this measure was lost the State then became more active and began to make appropriations on condition that the State would contribute $1.00 every time the subscriber and stockholder contributed $3.00 for the purpose of building a McAdmized road and by 1837 the State had spent $26,000 on the road from Covington to Williamstown, a distance of 37 miles, and when it was completed to Lexington, 85 miles, it had cost the State around $170,000 besides what the stockholders paid and subscriptions. This road was built of broken stone and spread 9 to 10 inches deep and the roadway was graded 20 to 50 feet wide and the stone laid 16 to 20 feet wide.



Toll gates were built at convenient places, and it became the most traveled road in the State and paid the best dividend (4⅛%) of any road in the State. (About 12 miles of this road lies in Boone county is the reason of this article.) What would the younger generation do today as when the auto appeared these toll roads charged 20 cents a mile. Think of it, $2.40 for a round trip from Florence to Burlington!

American Rolling Mill Holds Spotlight As Eastern Kentucky's No. 1 Industry

—TELLING KENTUCKIANS ABOUT KENTUCKY

Here is an airplane view of the present plant of the American Rolling Mill located on the banks of the Ohio river, west of Ashland. A new $6,000,000 blast furnace is under construction.

(This is one of a series of articles sponsored by the Kentucky Press Association which in 1941 would tell Kentuckians of Kentucky as Kentucky should tell the world in 1942—Sesquicentennial Year.)

★ ★ ★ ★

BY RAY HATCHER

Ashland's billion dollar industry, the American Rolling Mill Company's plant, has launched an $8,000,000 construction program that will surpass everything in its continuous stream of improvements since its location here in 1922.

Already one of the finest steel plants in the nation, $3,000,000 worth of reconstruction will condition the local industry to handle a greater volume of production than any other mill operated by the American Rolling Mill Company, whose main offices are in Middletown, Ohio.

However, a greater portion of the huge appropriation, the cost being estimated at $5,000,000, will pour into the erection of a giant blast furnace, monstrous enough to turn out hundreds of tons of pig iron daily for use in not only the local plant but in other steel industries of the nation.

The huge furnace will be a new industry in itself, a place of employment for over one hundred men, a direct market for more than 125 car loads of Great Lakes ore daily; towering 200 feet, this new industry will also stand out as a sentinel of Ashland Armco's continual progress.

All Eastern Kentucky recently saluted the American Rolling Mill Company in its new undertaking at a colorful "ground-breaking" ceremony.

All Eastern Kentucky is aware of the vastness and the great worth of an industry such as Armco.

The American Rolling Mill Company purchased the Ashland Iron and Mining Company's holdings of furnaces and property in 1922 and spent millions of dollars in founding the nation's number one continuous rolling mill, The West Ashland works underwent extensive reconstruction. Ashland immediately became known as "Kentucky's City of Steel" and the city "Where Coal Meets Iron." It was given nation-wide recognition as one of the country's greater steel producing centers.

Several thousands more men were called upon to take their places in the hundreds of various industrial and clerical occupations created by the new plant. Ashland's population jumped nearly 100 per cent in the span of ten years, from 14,729 in 1920 to 29,074 in 1930.

Along with the industrial growth, the city's civic and professional fields expanded immensely and Ashland found its place among Kentucky's leading cities.

When Armco established one of its finer operations in Ashland nearly two decades ago, many men of outstanding achievements in the steel industry were transferred here from other plants. They brought with them two distinct qualities that have been upheld in high accord through years past, and very probably for years to come. These principles are (1) a united spirit of cooperation between plant officials and plant employes and (2) a program of safety for the welfare of both workmen and the plant.

The maintenance of both of these standards in the local plant has been unparalleled by any other steel producing plant of its size. The Ashland plant for a number of years has held the "iron man" trophy which is awarded annually to the department having the outstanding safety record of the year in any one of Armco's five operating plants. The trophy is now in the possession of the processing department of the Ashland plant.

Among the outstanding improvements Armco has made at the Ashland plant are listed the following: Constructed the bar and jobbing mill and the first successful three-high continuous mill in 1926; installed annealing furnaces; built the No. 1 sheet mill in 1924 and the No. 2 sheet mill in 1927; constructed warehouse buildings; increased the number of open hearth furnaces from 6 to 8; purchased new charging, soaking pit and mill cranes; installed two three-high hot reducing mill; built new normalizing and pickling units; enlarged the sheet mill; enlarged the processing, shipping and jobbing mill warehouse buildings, and built six main locker room buildings and as many refrigerating plants for cooling drinking water.

The additions and improvements have made it possible for the local plant to produce any type of rolled sheet.

Outstanding among the interplant organizations is the Ashland Armco Employes Association that was founded in 1923 to afford relief to any member who may, through sickness or injury, be rendered incapable of performing his duty, and also to promote the general welfare of its members and to maintain close relationship between employes of the various departments. Although not compulsory, all Armco employes are association members.

In addition to personal service to its members, the association is directly responsible for the many social and recreational features which are not only enjoyed by Armco employes but by the entirety of Eastern Kentucky, Southern Ohio and nearby West Virginia. A complete list of activities sponsored by the association since its founding would be too lengthy to list, but among them may be mentioned the Armco baseball and football teams of the late twenties and early thirties. Armco field has served the community as a site for not only football and baseball but also for track meets, boxing events, softball and other activities. It is now the home field for the Ashland Colonels, a Class D team of the Mountain States professional league.

Popular among Eastern Kentucky sportsmen are the Armco skeet and trap shooting fields.

These and hundreds of other Armco features, both industrially and socially, are obvious reasons why Ashland enjoys the most complete of entertainment and economical blessings of the steel industry.

MORGANSVILLE

"The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms." And other promises fortify us for whatever the future may hold of trials and difficulties.

The many friends of Dr. E. F. Wolfe are pleased to learn of his improvement, and prayerfully trust he may be restored speedily and fully.

Welcomed as fondly as a ray of sunshine after a rainy day were pleasant calls of Mrs. Jasper N. Williams, Miss Anna Lee Wolfe, Miss Alice Jane Williams, Mrs. C. W. Pickett, Mrs. Winfield Myers, Mrs. Ralph Jones, Miss Nancy Gay Myers. and Dale Myers. Gratefully acknowledged was a lovely cluster of gladioli and 18 more jars of delicious canned fruit from Mrs. Williams. When our hand was extended in greeting to Miss Wolfe, she sweetly slipped an appreciated dollar bill therein, for which hearty thanks are extended. Lovely gifts of money, luscious bananas, and salted peanuts given to the children by Mrs. Pickett, Mrs. Myers and Miss Nancy were thankfully received. Most deeply appreciated was the recent kindness of Mr. Robert E. Hawkins in plowing the garden and kindly deeds from Mr. and Mrs. Amos Lawson. Truly these, and all of the kindnesses that have been shown throughout the year, are like gleams of sunshine in a dark valley, but as past blessings will not suffice, we humbly pray for a continuance.

Not everyone stops to consider what it means to be a real friend, for being a real friend certainly does consist of mor e thanksgiving smiles or a pat on the shoulder. Naturally we do question the sincerity of those failing to "lend a hand."

NAGGING BACKACHE
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Don't Neglect It!
Modern life with its ceaseless hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion whatnot, keeps doctors busy, hospitals crowded. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and oftentimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.
After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.
Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbance sometimes are burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. They have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Be sure to get Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.
THE REASON DOAN'S ARE FAMOUS

hicans, one of the small businessmen who are and have been the backbone of this system of business and government known as a democracy. He was a good Senator and represented his people well. He voted for everything that would promote the welfare of his people (the small business man and the farmer) and against everything that would infringe upon their liberties.

We still have the greatest country in the world and Kentucky is one of the brightest stars in its crown. Let's profit by the mistakes of others and maintain our liberty by exercising the right of suffrage against anything that remotely resembles dictatorship. The only thing the dictators will not tolerate is difference of opinion. Yet difference of opinion is the essence of democracy. Eternal vigilance is the price we must pay. Politics, in that word, are both liberty and slavery. It's up to you which it shall be.

Local Red Cross Says "Thank You"

The Boone County Chapter of the American Red Cross desires to express its thanks to the Happy Twelve Club of Verona for sponsoring a Fish Fry on Saturday evening, July 19th at Verona. The members of this club worked hard in making the necessary preparations for a successful event, and were enabled to turn over to the Boone County Chapter $82.60 to be used in the WarProduction of the chapter. The Executive committee appreciates this help on the part of the Happy Twelve Club, and would thank especially Mr. W. R. King and Mr. James Pennington, who fried the fish.

Mrs. Bernard C. Gaines of Burlington sponsored a Garden Party sometime ago, for the benefit of the Boone County Chapter, and turned over $22.00 to the treasurer. It is hoped that other individuals and organizations in the various sections of the county will sponsor benefits for the Red Cross during the months of August and September. The Executive committee, composed of the chairman, Rev. J. Russell Cross; vice-chairman Charles W. Riley; Secretary Mrs. Patsy Huey Slayback; Treasurer Mr. Carroll Cropper; Chairman of Nursing Activities Committee Mrs. Kirtley Cropper; Chairman of War Production Mrs. Martha L. Huey, appreciates the help already rendered by the two mentioned above and hopes that others will provide similar help in the near future.

I have never used my Legion connections in political races, but since my opponent has seen fit to use his service records, I will state to the public, that I am a World War veteran and a Legionaire in good standing.

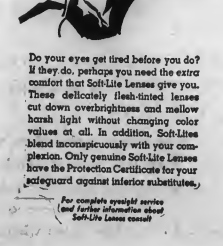
DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. What is the reason for buying a Defense Bond?

A. To keep America free. To show your faith and pride in your country. To warn foreign dictators that the United States is the strongest country in the world.

Q. But if I do not have enough money to buy a Defense Bond, what can I do?

A. Buy Defense Postal Stamps, on sale almost everywhere. Your post office, bank, department store or druggist has them, or can get them for you, at 10 cents upward. Save enough Stamps to exchange for a Defense Bond.



NOTE: To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

OPEN CLASSES AT 4-H CLUB FAIR

Bench Shows for Fox Hounds and Bird Dogs, a pony show, flowers, quilts and vegetables will be featured for the first time in the Ninth Annual 4-H and Utopia Club free fair and county picnic, that will be held at Burlington on Saturday, August 23rd, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

Plans are to make the fair this year the biggest and best on record. Four hundred and seventeen 4-H Club members, 73 adult leaders, 65 Utopia Club members and scores of friends and special committeemen will donate freely of their time and ability to make the county's biggest one-day "round up" of friends from far and wide, a success.

Cooperators in the program are hoping that at some near future date a permanent fair and picnic site, open to all the organizations and people of the county, can be secured. Such a site would serve a great purpose in bringing people together in worthwhile county and other out-of-door social gatherings. Such gatherings tend to develop greater understanding and community and county pride. Let's all lend our support to this movement.

Elect Alvin Kidwell State Senator!

Alvin Kidwell, Sparta, 47-year old nurseryman and active member of the Methodist church, the American Legion and the Democratic Party, is a candidate for his party's nomination for the state senate in the Boone-Gallatin-Grant-Pendleton-Owen district.

Quiet and modest, Mr. Kidwell has not indulged in an active speaking campaign, He prefers to see voters face to face, have a word with them and pass on. He never has been known to say an unkind word of an adversary, but when he is asked concerning his opponent he speaks of him in the most gentlemanly terms.

Mr. Kidwell is a native of Trimble county and a graduate of the Trimble county high school. He taught school a number of years, but quit this profession at the outbreak of the last World War to join the U. S. Army. He was stationed at Camp Taylor during the war.

He entered the nursery business in 1923 at St. Matthews. In 1929 he moved to Sparta, his present home, and established his present business in that community. In 1934 he was married to Miss Josephine Graham.—Pol. Adv.

Washington Snapshots by James Preston

It is reported that the even-tempered Robert E. Lee became tired of receiving instructions from so many sources at one point during the Civil War, and humorously complained "that he had got a crick in his neck from looking over his shoulder towards Richmond."

The average business man with a defense contract is likely to feel a certain amount of sympathy with Lee's plight these days. Partly because of the complexities of defense work, but even more because of the complexities of defense work, but even more because of the bureaucratic habits of Washington itself, it frequently looks as though there are more officials—"more cooks than customers"—than there are occasions to officiate.

Thus, one commentator observes, a regulation from the Office of Production Management will be signed by five important officials and attested by another gentleman. Meanwhile the Labor Division of the same OPM will announce "a new and concentrated approach to the problem," which it immediately signalizes by naming one man as director of a particular branch of work in association with 12 other chiefs, chairmen, and commissions!

It all points to the need, often reiterated here by experienced observers, for one man with a business and executive sense who is permitted authority enough to clear up the defense program's ambiguities and divided responsibilities.

Incidentally all the cricks in industry's neck don't come from looking to Washington for "go-ahead" signals. You've heard a lot about the growing power of labor union officials. Well, here's an actual case where one wielded "life or death" authority over part of the defense program itself.

A Pennsylvania company received a defense order from the Army and found that it required certain raw materials on which priorities were in force. Having duly applied to the local Army Ordnance Department for a priority certificate, which was sent to Washington, countersigned, and returned to it, the company naturally assumed that it was ready to go ahead and fill the defense order.

But it happened that there was a trucking strike in the Pennsylvania city that completely tied up operations. The company found that it would be permitted to submit the priorities certificate to union officials, who would determine whether the shipment of raw materials was sufficiently important in their eyes to justify delivery.

The officials having concluded that it was worthwhile to have the defense equipment in question, they then gave the company a list of "approved" truckers and also presented it with the names of men whom it could hire to unload the needed materials.

Thoughtful people have already been greatly concerned over the manner in which defense strikes have hamstrung large parts of the defense program. But how would they react to the idea of local union officials entering into the realms of high military strategy and deciding whether Army orders are important enough to be filled?

—o—

WASHINGTON SNAPSHOTS: Buried in the middle of Leon Henderson's recent gloomy report on sacrifices that lie ahead in the defense program was a real tribute to the efficiency of American industry, and its component parts—skilled management and loyal workers. Henderson declared that we can out-produce Nazi Germany and its conquered territories by working three hours out of every eight on defense, although Germany is working four to five hours out of eight to produce war materials. The Price Administrator didn't go into the reasons for this superiority, but they ought to be pretty plain—private enterprise, and a way of life based upon individual opportunity!

POND BUILDING SPECIALIST HERE

Mr. Grover Robertson, pond building specialist, began work on the farm of George Baker of near Beaver on Monday of this week, according to County Agent H. R. Forkner.

Mr. Baker is having a large lake constructed. The lake when completed will be developed into a commercial fishing site and if successful will be one of the largest and deepest lakes in the county.

Mr. Robertson has secured contracts for pond construction from a number of Boone county farmers. He uses modern pond building equipment that enables him to build ponds at a minimum cost. He invites the public to see his construction work. He will contract his work by the hour or by the job. Notes will be taken where farmers do not have ready cash.

Water is one of the first essentials to successful livestock management. Good water is just as important as good feed. Farmers desiring pond construction should contact Mr. Robertson direct. Names left at the County Agent's office will be turned over to him for personal contact.

The County Agent's office will serve as a contact agency, but takes no part in any contract between the pond builder and the farmer. The actual construction work is entirely by private trade between the two interested parties.

POISON BAIT FOR GRASSHOPPERS

Grasshoppers are causing considerable damage in certain localities. Farmers need to use control measures to combat this pest.

A poison bait can be made by mixing, while dry, 25 pounds of bran and one pound of Paris green and adding enough water to (2½ to 3 gallons) to make the mass moist. Broadcast the bait in the evening after sunset, or early in the morning to that portion of the field under direct attack. Use 12 to 15 pounds of the bait to the acre. Do not let chickens to eat the bait. It is a poison and should be kept away from chickens.

HAVE OLD ALUMINUM READY

Anyone having old aluminum for the defense program, please have it on your front porch by nine o'clock Friday morning, and it will be collected by Rob. Brugh.

Tobacco Pool Members Should Vote

All members of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association commonly called the "Old Pool", should vote on the question of amending the Articles of Incorporation for an additional twenty years Charter, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Reports from the Association indicate that only very few Boone County farmers have voted to date.

Farmers generally agree that we should have one strong tobacco marketing pool. Recently the new pool and the old pool combined their interests and it was agreed to continue under the name of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association with an election to be held soon after the Charter vote was completed.

All members of the Association were recently mailed cards to cast their vote in favor of extending the Charter for an additional 20 years. Fifty one per cent, or fifty per cent plus one member's vote is necessary before the Charter can be renewed.

Those farmers, who have not already voted on this question, should do so immediately. It will soon be tobacco marketing season. The Association must be completed to handle the government loan. The Government loan on an average crop is 85% of $21.80 or parity price for tobacco which amounts to an average of $18.53 per hundred pounds.

Send your signed card in now. If you have lost or misplaced your card, call at the County Agent's Office for another one. Help have the Association ready to operate when the market opens.

Final Message To Boone Voters

The primary election is drawing to a close, "As in previous elections" the night before, plenty of propaganda will be distributed as a last resort to change your vote. Don't let it effect you. I have made no promises and am under no obligations to anyone. But, I will say, if elected I will free that laboring man (who works for the county) so he can cast his vote for whom he wishes without losing his job.

I will leave my 35 year srecord as a teacher in the Boone county schools for you the voter and not my opposition to judge. In my campaign I have refrained from indulgence in personalities. In this race for Judge the voters reserve the right to pass upon the qualifications of the various candidates. I am willing to meet the issue and submit myself to your consideration from the standpoint of qualification.

This is my last message and I hereby thank all my friends and co-workers who have so willingly assisted me and sincerely hope we will have a nice clean-cut primary election.

(Signed) A. M. YEALEY

The gospel sends forth refreshing water from fountains that are never dry.

Having sold their bungalow and 20 acres to Prof. Brown, principal of the Piner Consolidated school, Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon Rich recently purchased the farm of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Steve Rich on Rich Road. It is the homestead of Mr. Rich, where happily he had passed the days of his childhood and youth, and naturally it is a very dear spot.

Congratulations and heartiest good wishes are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Clark Davis on the arrival of their darling little son, Dallas Franklin. Sharing in the felicitations is his great grandfather, Mr. Madison Hoffman of near Florence.

Deep appreciation is expressed for the kind thoughtfulness of Mrs. Harry Fisk of Nicholson in sending delicious cake. Truly, "a rose to the living means more than countless wreaths for the dead."

Most heartily do we thank Mrs. George White for recent kindness.

"I would rather have one little rose
From the garden of a friend
Than to have the choicest flowers
When my stay on earth must end.
I would rather have kind words
And a smile that I can see
Than flattery when my heart is still
And life has 'ceased to be."

EARLY HISTORY OF BOONE COUNTY

By A. M. Yealey

The writer shall now give you young people a historical fact in how people were treated who did the charivariing in Florence about 70 years ago. The building now being used by Mrs. Fanny Utz as a garage, at the corner of Shelby St. and the Burlington Pike, was in those times used as a residence by a family by the name of Varcer. A marriage had been performed and the man and wife retired to this residence and the young folks of Florence went forth to charivari them, but failing to dislodge them with their horns, bells, and tin pans, they proceeded to pull up all the cabbage in the garden and drop it down the chimney until they stopped the passage of smoke, and finally the rooms became so full of smoke the doors were opened and the married couple came outside.—

Not with cigars, cake or wine, but in search of Squire Ashly. A warrant was issued and several of the crowd were caught and arrested and given a trial before the Squire and a jury which had been impaneled and the jury disagreed and stood as follows: two of the jury were for fining $5 and costs; two for $1, and the balance for discharging the boys. The trial was then set for a later period, and Mr. Varner began a civil suit for damages in $500. Then the parents of the boys involved paid him $50 to compromise the civil suit.

Later on all the boys went before Judge Ashby and plead guilty to the Affidavits charging them with a Breach of Peace and the Judge fined the largest boy $2.50 and the next largest $2.00, and the balance $1.50 each, and costs. Before he discharged them, the Judge gave them a short moral lecture, speaking to them in such pathetic tones as would draw tears to the eyes of a potato.

He told them that George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abe Lincoln, General Grant never went to a charivari, and if they ever expected to be president they must mend their way. One of the smaller boys was visibly affected by the Judge's words.

Upon being asked what he did at the charivari he said that he had rattled a tin pan and then he was asked if he would not do better the next time. And he said yes, "I will rattle two."

To the Voters of Boone County--

You were gracious enough to let me serve you as representative for the past two years for which I am grateful. I am now asking you to let me serve you for another two years.

I do not profers to have been perfect, but I do claim that I did my best. It is a tough job for a new man to go up against a lot of old heads at the game. The counties that do not alternate, but send the same representative term after term have a distinct advantage over a one term county.

I will truthfully tell you that a new man in legislature is really lucky if he learns the going ons in one term.

I have now had that experience and believe that I can serve you better by having served you, and can really be a help to the people whom I represent. Won't you please come out and vote in this race and if you think that I am qualified and sincere, cast your vote for me.

Thanks.

NOTICE!

TO THE VOTERS OF BOONE COUNTY:

I have learned that reports are being circulated throughout the county to the effect that I have a written agreement with Harold Conner to appoint him as my deputy if I am elected sheriff.

This is purely political propaganda.

I have not appointed any deputies, and if elected sheriff, I will appoint two deputies to serve with me during my term of office. Mr. Conner will not be one of them.

NEWS and FACTS . . . of Statewide Interest

NOT WANTED!

"Jook-joints", "honkey-tonks", "dives", and other lawbreaking retail beer outlets are not wanted by Kentucky's $20,000,000 legalized beer industry!

Beer is a wholesome beverage, and the makers of beer insist that it be sold under equally wholesome conditions.

Kentucky's beer industry, therefore, wants all undesirable retail beer outlets eliminated entirely. Accordingly, we are cooperating with state and local law-enforcement officials to maintain wholesome conditions wherever beer is sold.

We invite you to help in this public-spirited "clean up" effort, by (1) patronizing only reputable beer retailers; and (2) reporting any disorderly outlets to enforcement officials or to this committee.

Editorial

Kentucky Times-Star — March 3, 1934.

Mr. Samuel Furste Performs.

If by any chance the Kentucky Senators refuse to pass the bill providing for a refund to automobile and truck owners for excess fees paid for license tags, failure to obtain such relief will not be the fault of Samuel Furste, our Kenton County Clerk.

This official conceived the idea that automobile and truck owners, who paid their fee for these tags before the reduction in the cost was authorized by the Legislature, were entitled to obtain a refund. Mr. Furste lost no time in contemplation. He proceeded to act.

Editorial

Kentucky Post — March 16, 1934.

The Autoists Champion.

Northern Kentucky autoists and truck owners who profited by the bill passed by the General Assembly providing for refunds to those who bought their license tags before the reduction went into effect, have Sam Furste, Kenton County Clerk to thank for their good fortune. The bill has passed both House and Senate and now awaits the governor's signature.

Mr. Furste's fight was not without its setbacks. Before winning his victory he was forced to make several trips to Frankfort when fears arose that the bill would be allowed to die in committee.

Northern Kentucky Motor Club—Resolution

WHEREAS, Sam Furste, County Clerk of Kenton County aided materially in bringing about legislation with reference to the refund on motor vehicle license taxes and in that way rendered valuable service to the motoring public, now therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE NORTHERN KENTUCKY MOTOR CLUB, THAT we do now express a vote of thanks to the Hon, Sam Furste, Clerk of Kenton County, Kentucky.

RESOLVED further, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the said Sam Furste.

AUTO LICENSE SETUP PRAISED BY DEALER

Efforts of County Clerk Winning Commendation Here.

Favorable comment of Covington auto dealers has resulted from changes in the Auto License Department which Sam Furste, Kenton County Clerk, has made during the past year.

His system is the only one of its kind in the state, one dealer pointed out today. He said:

"A splendid service has been inaugurated in the clerk's office of Kenton County. Anyone can phone or give personally the name of any motor car or truck owner and get complete license information on the car or truck.

"This service is made possible in the complete alphabetical filing system, the only one of its kind in the state, installed through the courtesy of Sam Furste, County Clerk. Kenton County auto dealers and citizens who use the service greatly appreciate Mr. Furste's new filing system."

Dear Mr. Furste:

I want at this time to express to you my personal belief that the new method of photographing instruments and recording the same in your office is a great improvement. By this method there can be no question but that the copy is an exact duplicate of the original instrument and assures with certainty that any one examining the record of same has the entire instrument before him.

Contrary to what I expected, I find that the photographed copy is quite legible and not at all difficult to read.

I think that you are to be greatly commended for adopting this very modern method of recording.

With kindest regards, I am,

Yours sincerely, Signed: CHARLES S. ADAMS

Dear Mr. Furste:

I wish to express to you and Mr. Russell Sweeney of your automobile license department, my appreciation for your co-operation and assistance in the several automobile theft investigations in Cincinnati, Covington and vicinity in recent years, in which it was necessary to check automobile bills of sale and license records in Kenton County.

"TO THE VOTERS OF BOONE COUNTY:

"As the Democratic Primary draws to a close, I desire to thank all the people for the kindness and courtesy shown me during my canvass and also for the many favors shown me throughout my term of office.

"Also, I wish to express my appreciation to my opposition in this race for the clean manner in which they have conducted their campaign.

"I am a candidate for re-election for County Court Clerk and am devoting my time to my own election and any reports to the contrary are unfounded and not based on facts. I know that none of my friends will be mislead by such reports.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass of harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

A CALL IN THE NIGHT

We heard the children romping in their playroom upstairs—then suddenly, a scream!

We both rushed up and found our young son had fallen and apparently broken his arm. We immediately phoned our family physician, who verified our worst fears.

In time, the arm was carefully set, but other difficulties arose that called for an unusual prescription.

I looked at the clock—where could we get it filled at this late hour?

We spoke to the doctor, who then picked up the phone and called "that man" out of bed—again "that man" (our neighborhood druggist) did not fail us.

Our neighborhood druggist never fails us! Should you, like most women, suffer discomforts during the menstrual period, just phone your druggist—he usually advises women to try Vatona Tablets—this may be just what you need!

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for August 3

PAUL PREACHES FAITH IN CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Romans 3:21-31; 5: 1, 2.

GOLDEN TEXT—As it is written, The just shall live by faith.—Romans 1:17.

Justification by faith is a doctrine which lies at the very heart of the gospel. It provides the answer to man's age-old question, "What must I do to be saved?" (Acts 16:30).

"This was a question with which Paul had himself grappled, and for years he had sought salvation in the traditional Jewish way. Then one day he met Christ and he underwent a spiritual transformation through faith in Him, apart from the works of the law. Because of that experience, and because of the divine revelations made to him, he was able to show others how to be saved and how to live a life of victory. Among the writers of the New Testament it is Paul who most clearly sets forth the doctrine of justification by faith, a doctrine which has brought comfort of soul to multitudes, and the consciousness of sins forgiven." (Olmstead).

I. How Can God Be Just and Justify Sinners? (Rom. 3:21-31).

The portion of Romans just preceding our lesson is devoted to a devastating treatment of man's sinfulness, bringing him face to face with the question, "What can I do about it?" The answer has a hopeless ring to it.

1. Man has no righteousness of his own, and cannot by any of his own works save himself. "He has tried many ways, in every age, but no human being, or groups of men or women, have ever devised any scheme, have ever conceived of any ritual, have ever established any religion by their own efforts, through which peace with God has been found and a sinner has been enabled to stand before a holy God without condemnation. Man being helpless, God now intervenes" (Wilbur M. Smith).

2. Christ paid the penalty for man's sin by His own blood. How clearly verse 25 declares the sacrificial death of Christ to provide a covering of blood (the real meaning of "propitiation") which will enable a just God to forgive the sinner that believes in Christ (v. 22). Why not receive it in all its grace and power, not trying to explain it away or to evade its requirements? Why attempt to provide some other means of salvation when we know that "without the shedding of blood is no remission" of sin (Heb. 9:22)?

3. Man receives salvation by grace through faith, apart from works. Man can only be "justified freely by his grace" (v. 24). It is for "them that believe" (v. 22), it is "through faith" (vv. 25, 26) and, note with care, "man is justified by faith apart from the works of the law" (v. 28). Thus God establishes the law (v. 31) and yet becomes the righteous justifier of a repentant believing sinner.

II. What Happens When a Man Is Justified? (Rom. 5:1, 2).

These verses sound like the uplifting music of a mighty organ, with the celestial choirs joining in to sing, "Therefore being justified by faith, we have"—What? Oh many precious possessions, three of which are here mentioned.

1. "Peace With God."

"Through our Lord Jesus Christ" the barrier of sin with all its malicious enmity has been broken down and the believer is at peace with God. What could be more wonderful than thus to be really "in tune with the Infinite"? That is something, by the way, which can only be true of the believer, one who has both peace with God and the peace of God flooding his soul. Every sinner who covets that experience may have it—now—by faith in Christ.

2. Standing in Grace.

"To stand in grace is to occupy the position wherein love is able to carry out its desires. To stand in grace is to come into such relationship with the Lord that He may do that thing that is in His heart, the thing which His love prompts. To stand in favor is to be unafraid. It is to be able to pass into the presence of One of whom we are unafraid, and know that there will be welcome. It is to know that to come into the presence of this One is to receive, not necessarily a gift, but love, and of Himself, in a communion which is unbroken and perfect". (G. Campbell Morgan).

3. Rejoicing in Hope.

The world is sorrowful for it has lost hope, but the believer rejoices "in hope of the glory of God" (v. 2). The Christian has the forward look. His future is as bright as the promises of God. He knows that he will one day see the glory of God revealed in all His holiness, power, love and grace. Even now the believer has that hope in his heart, and lives a rejoicing life (or should do so!). It's a great thing to be saved!

July 26, 1941, God in his great wisdom called from our midst to His heavenly home, our beloved sister and friend, Mrs. Ora Dorman. She was a faithful member of the Glencoe Baptist church and the W. M. S., for many years a teacher of a Sunday school class. She lived to see a goodly number of her class saved and each working for her Master and His Kingdom.

Glencoe W. M. S. has lost one of its loyal workers. The memory of her lovely christian character, her unfailing cheerfulness, her deep devotion to her husband and children, her love for her friends and neighbors, these deeds of kindness we shall forever cherish. Resolved, we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family and pray God's tenderness to abide with them. We, the Glencoe W. M. S., count it a privilege to pay this tribute to our beloved co-worker and friend.

Her smiling face and pleasant way
Are a pleasure to recall
She had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet her
That day we are not told
To clasp her hand in heaven
In the land where we never grow old.

The campaign of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association to obtain a 20 year extension of its charter will be headed by R. H. Gilbert of Shelbyville, It was announced Saturday by the Operating Committee of the Association at Lexington.

Assisting Mr. Gilbert will be Headley Shouse of Fayette county and W. C. Clay, sr., of Montgomery county. Their work will be done under the supervision of the Board of Directors of the Association and the Operating Committee, which is composed of President Dawson Chambers, Vice-President John W. Jones and the Secretary-Treasurer, Frank C. Taylor.

All members of the Association, which includes those who delivered tobacco to the Association last year and during the years from 1921 through 1926, have been mailed cards on which they may vote for the extension. In a letter to the members, Mr. Taylor pointed out that these votes are solely on the question of extending the charter for another 20 year period, and are in no way connected with a marketing contract, or the warehouse properties owned by the District Warehousing Corporations, or the stock which members hold in these corporations.

The Committee stated that it is the plan of the Association to conduct a stabilization operation similar to that of last season beginning with the first day of the burley market on the 1941 crop. Advances on the 1941 crop will be made at the rate of 85 per cent of parity price instead of 75 per cent as was made on the 1940 crop. Present parity price for burley tobacco is $21.80 per cwt. Eighty-five per cent advance would mean about $18.53 per cwt., if an average of grades are delivered.

It was pointed out by the committee that loans from the Government to growers of tobacco could only be made through an Association owned by all who participate as members, and not to individual growers; thus making it necessary to get a renewal of the charter so that the Association can operate for the next twenty years. Any burley tobacco growers who is not satisfied with the price offered for his tobacco on the auction market may offer it to the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association and receive 85% of parity price for an immediate payment. The Government takes the risk by practically assuring the tobacco grower of this price of 85% parity by making a non-recourse loan to the Association of this amount. It should be understood that the Commodity Credit Corporation does not purchase the tobacco, it simply makes a loan to the grower through the Association and retains a lien on the tobacco for funds advanced. In the event the tobacco can be sold to the manufacturer at a price in excess of the loan, plus carrying charges, such excess will be paid to the growers as an additional payment on a grade basis.

All tobacco received by the Association must be graded by the Government graders. It is understood that plans are being made to government grade all burley markets for the coming season.

A charter for 20 years was granted the Association in 1922 when it was incorporated. The charter expires January 11, 1942. If the price stabilization operations of the Association are to continue for the protection of the 1941 crop as well as crops for future years, it is necessary to get a renewal of the charter. The campaign under way is to inform those growers who delivered tobacco to the Association from the 1940 crop or from any crop during the years of 1921 through 1926, the importance of signing their voting cards which were mailed to them about two months ago. These voting cards should be mailed in to the Association's address in Lexington as soon as possible. Those who have misplaced their cards or did not receive a voting card, may secure them at the county agent's office in the various burley producing counties. After signing these voting cards they may be left at the county agent's office where these cards will be collected.

Emphasis is placed on the fact that burley growers have everything to gain and nothing to lose by sending in their votes to re-charter their cooperative association. A grower's vote to re-charter the Association does not obligate him in any way whatever. In fact, he can vote to extend the life of his cooperative for twenty years and then not deliver any part of a crop of tobacco to it. In order for the charter to be renewed a favorable vote must be received from the majority of its living members. One of the problems in the drive is to find out the total number of living members and to have them vote. If the burley members would return these voting cards promptly with the information requested on deceased members, the problem before the Association would be greatly simplified.

"Be still, and know that I am God." Psalm 46:10.

Revival services closed at the Baptist church here Friday night. Rev. Roy Johnson brought inspiring messages each time and the spirit of the church was greatly revived. There were six conversions and the baptismal services were held Sunday evening at 6:15, just before preaching services. We cannot always see great visible results yet we know that these inspiring sermons have lifted our hearts to higher levels and our church was greatly blessed by having had Bro. Johnson with us.

Save vital food elements with
"WATERLESS" Electric COOKING
Vitamins and minerals essential to radiant health are naturally present in all foods. But all too frequently these vital food elements are destroyed by improper cooking or poured away with excess cooking water. To preserve the vitamins, authorities agree on these simple rules:
USE LITTLE OR NO WATER
START FOODS FAST — DO NOT OVERCOOK
AVOID VIOLENT BOILING
COOK IN COVERED UTENSILS WITHOUT STIRRING
It's easy to follow these rules and serve more healthful foods with electric cooking. Electric heat is applied only to bottom of utensils, none laps up sides, so only enough water to cover bottom of pans is needed. Foods are brought to a steam quickly in covered utensils, cook on gentle simmer heat until done and need no stirring. There is no excess cooking water, laden with vitamins, to be thrown away after cooking.
You owe it to yourself and family to investigate this clean, cool way to cook more healthful meals. It costs much less than you think!

BIG VALUE! This beautiful, built-to-floor Hotpoint Century model, with new speed and new efficiency, only $117.95* installed. Liberal allowance for your old stove. Thirty equal monthly payments.

To the Voters Of Boone County

My Campaign is drawing to a close, and I take this opportunity to thank the women and men, and boys and girls for their kindness and many courtesies and loyal interest that they have shown me in my race for County Judge.

It has been one of the greatest pleasures of my life to meet the Citizens of Boone County face to face and state the fact and issue of this Campaign, for I have nothing to hide and my life work is an open book for anyone to investigate.

(I was born and reared in My Old Kentucky Home where the sun shines the brightest and the glow of the moon is the softest.)

I have taken the oath of allegiance to the American Flag, and will love and honor the Stars and Stripes forever!

In 1900 I married a Boone County girl, Grace M. Rogers, and to this union was born three sons and one daughter.

The office of County Judge belongs to the people of Boone Co. and I am asking you for your votes and support, and if elected I will be your faithful servant.

I am in favor of good roads and for every dollar spent I shall see that the County gets 100% benefit. I will have the interest of the taxpayers at heart at all times. I believe in probation and will show mercy at all times.

I have two opponents who I hold in the highest esteem, but I promise the people that I will never ask them to elect me thirty-two years.

(I have read law and know right from wrong and Boone Co. has had three men to serve as County Judge who were not Lawyers, Judges Stevens, Baker and Roberts, and all had successful administrations.) And a great deal of business of the County Judge's office has been transacted by another who was not a Lawyer. In this world of ours are many dictators, both large and small. We have them here at home, but I am opposed to a dictator of any size.

I have been a follower of Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic Party—the greatest Party in the world today, all my life. Our President, Senators, Congressmen and Governor are all Champions of Democracy, and I have voted for them all, for which I have no regret.

I believe in God the founder of the Universe and I am not ashamed of my Savior any time, any where. I am not the Candidate of any firm or business organization. I will do all in my power to give a safe and business-like administration—on the job six days a week.

Respectfully,

Forrest H. Brown

"SHARING HIS COMPASSION" TOPIC FOR B. Y. P. U., SUNDAY

"Sharing His Compassion" is the topic of the devotional program for Sunday evening, August 10th, in Baptist Young People's Union.

AIM: To Lead Us to Share Christ's Compassion Toward All Who Are in Need.

Meditation . . .

"Body and soul unstintingly He gave, . . .
Himself, His all, and without rest or stay.
Homeless, without a place to lay His head,
Hungry and thirsty, weary with the road,
But hungering and thirsting most for men,
That not one soul in all the world be lost.
One thought alone filled all His days and nights,
One sole desire,—to win men back to God."

MRS. CLARENCE STURGEON

EDWARD SNYDER DIES SUDDENLY

Funeral services for Edward S. Snyder, 79, who passed away suddenly at his residence 351 Dixie Highway, Thursday, were held Saturday afternoon from the home. Interment was in Hopeful cemetery.

Mr. Snyder was a livelong resident of Boone county and was well known throughout this community.

He is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Ben Rouse and Mrs. Ernest Horton, Florence; Mrs. Mattie Rouse, Erlanger; Mrs. Charlie Aylor, Bromley; and Mrs. J. D. Schoffer, Ludlow; two brothers, Robert Snyder, Florence, and Walter Snyder, Louisville; 11 grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

Miss Minnie Baxter, Florence correspondent for the Advertiser, is a niece.

417 BOYS AND GIRLS VISITED 4-H TOURS

Four hundred and seventeen 4-H club boys and girls are being visited in a series of 10 community 4-H club project tours and picnics, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Project work has been found in good shape and a good display of work is planned for the County Fair on August 23.

4-H members in Hamilton, Hebron, Grant, Petersburg, Verona, Burlington and Constance clubs have already been visited. Walton, Florence and New Haven clubs will meet on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, respectively. Mr. Franklin Frazier, new assistant county agent, and Mary Scott Moore, assistant home demonstration agent, are assisting in the project tours.

PASTOR ON VACATION

Rev. J. Russell Cross, pastor of the Richwood and Union Presbyterian churches, left Tuesday morning on his vacation, and will be gone the entire month of August. There will not be any services, except Sunday school and the Woman's Auxiliary meetings, at either Richwood or Union, during August.

Improvement Seen In Gardens On Tour

Marked improvement in home production of food was seen on the county garden tour, held on Tuesday of last week, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Demonstration garden meetings in Petersburg, Burlington, Florence, and Verona communities were held.

The present severe drought was found taking a heavy toll of late plantings. Early plantings as a whole turned out good. Larger varieties of different vegetables and four to give or more different plantings of main crop vegetables were seen at each meeting stop. Now is an ideal time for seeding the winter green crops including kale, mustard greens, spinach, turnips and Chinese cabbage. Many growers are still planting late beans.

Homemakers' Clubs, in connection with the Live at Home program, are stressing not only greater supply of vegetables over a longer period but the production of those vegetables and foods that supply large amounts of the vitamins most needed for better feeding the family.

4-H CAMP POSTPONED UNTIL 1942

This year's 4-H Club Camp, scheduled for Camp Bingham, Washington county, August 11-15, has been postponed until next year, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

The postponement comes as a disappointment to many Boone county 4-H Club members, but plans are for a bigger and better camp program next year.

Farmers Interested In Pond Bldg. Program

Boone county farmers are interested in the pond building and farm water supply program, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Approximately 100 farmers have requested pond building service and contracts for approximately 25 ponds have been made.

Mr. Grover Robertson, pond building specialist, who has contracted with a large number of farmers, is apparently doing a good job of work.

Where farm reservoirs are to be built with tractor power by customs operators for an hourly charge, there are several things which may be done to decrease the cost of the work and assure a supply of water during the entire year. Some of these things are as follows:

1. Study Kentucky Extension Circular No. 317, "Earth Dams for Farm Reservoirs."

2. Locate your dam, if possible, where a large arear will supply water to the reservoir.

3. Examine the area to be covered with water, carefully for sink holes or gravel beds which may drain your reservoir.

4. Be sure a core trench is dug to inpervious soil and refilled with tight soil to cut off seepage under the earth fill.

5. See that allowance is made for settling of earth in the dam and that there are no low places in the top line of the dam.

6. Minimum slopes of 2 feet horizontal to 1 foot vertical are essential on the dry slope of a dam and 3 to 1 on the water side. This is very important.

7. Do not guess at the size of a spillway required. Determine the size of the spillway by measuring the size of the drainage area above the dam and consulting tables in Circular No. 317.

8. Protect the spillway from erosion by means of sod, concrete or rock immediately after the dam is built.

9. You may save the cost of several hours of tractor time by using your own teams and equipment to smooth up the job after the heavy work has been completed with power machinery.

10. Some kind of dense-rooted vegetation should be sown on the top and lower slope to contrl erosion. Use lime and fertilizer if necessary.

11. Protect the water side of the dam from the action of waves with rock rip-rap.

12. Remember you are going to pay out your money for a permanent supply of water and it will pay you well to do the job right.

URGED TO AID DEFENSE AGENCIES

All Selective Service registrants who have been deferred from military service today were urged by Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Deputy Director of Selective Service, to offer their full assistance to State and local civilian defense agencies.

Many young men have been granted deferment because of their occupations, because they have dependents or because they are not physically capable of undergoing service in the armed forces, the General said. Nevertheless, he added, they are qualified to perform some work in connection with civilian defense activities and should offer their services to existing agencies or those which are being organized.

By granting certain men deferment, Congress, when it adopted the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, gave no indication that it intended to excuse these men from the obligation which rests upon every young man—that of helping his country in times of emergency, General Hershey declared. Each man is expected to do his share, in one way or another, when a crisis threatens the national security, he said.

The Deputy Director asserted:

"Many of our young men have entered the armed forces, leaving at home others who for one reason or another have had their military training deferred. Those who remain owe it to those who have been called and owe it to their country to help in its defense when they are needed.

"They can do their part by offering their services in the interests of civilian defense."

Pointing out that the Office of Civilian Defense is coordinating the civilian defense activities of the States and expanding them to communities where they are not organized as yet, the Deputy Director said that in the very near future the vast majority of deferred registrants should be able to find a civilian defense activity where their services can be used.

He declared: "In the very near future each community will be engaged in civilian defense activities. Such activities, of course, cover a wide range and should include a task for almost every young man who is deferred from military training for one reason or another."

No young man should shirk his responsibility if it is humanly possible for him to take part in the increasing civilian defense activities, General Hershey said.

DEARBORN COUNTY FAIR AUGUST 18-23

When the Dearborn County Fair, Lawrenceburg, Indiana, swings open its gates August 18 to 23 inclusive, for its 20th annual Fair, to the thousands who have been watching the construction of their new 56-acre home since early Spring, it will be a revelation. WILLIAMSTOWN P. O. DEDICATED MON.

An estimated crowd of about 1200 gathered in Williamstown Tuesday afternoon, for the dedication services of the new post office building.

About 102 attended the luncheon, among whom were a number of widely known men. These were: Hon. Brent Spence, Hon. Wrightson Chambers, Mr. Richard T. VanHoene, Covington Postmaster; Mr. William E. Eimer, Newport Postmaster; Mr. Howard Cummins, Falmouth Postmaster; Mr. C. A. Mahan of the State Agricultural Department.

The new building is a beautiful structure and one of which Williamstown may be justly proud. It adds much to the improvement of the town and is just another step of advancement made by her up and going businessmen.

To William Thomas Webb, who has been Postmaster since July 25, 1936, goes much credit for obtaining this Federal building for Williamstown.

The Hon. Wrightson Chambers, Superintendent Division of Engineering and Research, Post Office Department, gave the dedication address, and we herewith give his address:

"It is a pleasure to be with you in Williamstown today, and to participate with you in the dedication of your new Post Office building. Ceremonies of this character cannot but inspire in our hearts renewed allegiance and devotion to our country, its institutions, and its people.

"It is also my privilege to extend to you the best wishes of the Hon. Frank C. Walker, Postmaster General, and the Hon. Walter Myers, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, who is in charge of the building program.

"The Division of Engineering and Research of the Post Office Department is in charge of the design and construction of Post Office buildings insofar as the operation of the postal service is concerned. This includes conveyors and other labor-saving devices, and matters of this kind are therefore of deep personal interest.

"The Post Office Department has for years enjoyed the reputation of being one of the most efficient of the Government organizations, and the new buildings have been planned with a view to maintaining this reputation by providing the most modern methods for expeditious mail handling.

"Owing to the personal part taken by me in the preparation of the plans for this building, it is

This Week In Defense

President Roosevelt sent a special message to Congress saying "we stand as we did in the closing months of 1915, at the beginning of an upward swing of the whole price structure," and asked authority to set ceilings for prices and rents, to purchase commodities when necessary to assure price stability, and to deal more extensively with excesses in installment credit.

He said the "facts today are frighteningly similar" to the situation in the last war when the wholesale price index increased nearly 140 percent between October, 1915, and June, 1920. In the past 60 days wholesale prices have risen more than five times as fast as during the preceding period since the outbreak of the war in Europe, he said.

"The whole production machinery falters under inflation," he said, and "the unskilled worker, the white-collar worker, the farmer, the small business man and the small investor all find that their dollar buys ever less and less."

The Bureau of Labor statistics announced its index of prices, as of July 26, stood at at 88.8 percent of the 1926 average, 15 percent above a year ago. Price Administrator Henderson said the crisis in the Far East necessitates a price ceiling on raw silk and may make necessary a ceiling on tin prices. He asked dealers and consumers not to pay prices for high grade waste paper above those prevailing July 26, "pending an investigation of the price structure."

Economic Defense

President Roosevelt created an Economic Defense Board consisting of Vice President Wallace, Chairman, seven Cabinet members, and such additional members as Mr. Wallace may select. The President said the new Board will formulate the nation's international economic policy, coordinate the economic activities of defense agencies and plan for post-war reconstruction.

Foreign Affairs

The President ordered the freezing of all Japaneses credits in the United States and extended the order to Chinese assets to protect China against Japanese use of assets controlled from occupied China. The President also placed the Army and Navy of the Philippine Commonwealth with the command of the armed forces of the United States, and named Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur, former Chief of Staff, commanding general.

The State Department protested the dropping of bombs by Japanese planes near the U. S. Gunboat "Tutuila," and announced the incident closed after the Japanese Government promised full investigation and reparation. Acting Secretary Welles denounced Germany for its note to the Mexican Government with regard to the blacklist recently issued by President Roosevelt and for the Nazi Government's reported threats of reprisal.

Aid to Russia

Lend-Lease Administrator Hopkins arrived in Moscow to discuss expediting of needed war materials to the Soviet Union and the Russian Military Mission conferred with President Roosevelt and the State Department. Acting Secretary Welles said Lend-Lease aid has not been discussed because the Russian Government can purchase needed materials with cash.

Tax Anticipation Notes

The Treasury placed on sale at Federal Reserve Banks tax anticipation notes intended to help taxpayers set aside sufficient money to meet increased tax bills of the coming year. The notes are redeemable in cash or as payment for income taxes and bear interest up to 1.92 percent. Secretary Morgenthau, in a letter to all banking institutions, said "It is important that the taxpayers of the nation become aware of the unprecedented taxes they will have to pay next year on this year's income, and they should be encouraged to set aside funds now with which to meet those later payments."

Army

The War Department created five air support commands in order to coordinate the activities of aviation units and ground forces. The Department announced the signal Corps has developed electrical sentries that will warn of invading aircraft "long before they are actually sighted," but said the Army needs 500 men from the radio engineering field to learn to operate the secret devcies.

War Secretary Stimson said 1,-000 airplanes and 10,000 Air Corps officers and enlisted men will take part in maneuvers stressing coordination of ground and air strength in the Beauregard, La., area from Sept. 1-30, in the simulated warfare between 50,000 men of the Second and Third Armies, and in the First Army maneuvers to be held in the Carolinas, Nov. 3-30.

Oil

Defense Petroleum Coordinator Ickes recommended 100,000 gasoline filling stations in the following States be closed from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m., every night beginning Sunday, August 3: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, District of Columbia, and "all Appalachian mountains in the marketing areas in or east of the States of New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia." He appealed for a voluntary one-third cut in consumption and said he hoped closing the stations in Eastern States nightly "plus the voluntary curtailment will be enough to put us across."

Priorities

Director of Priorities Stettinius issued an order freezing all stocks of raw silk because of "unsettled conditions in the Far East." Mr. Stettinius announced a newplan to grant blanket preference ratings to projects which must be completed promptly. He issued a limited preference rating to 40 manufacturers of mining machinery and to 75 producers of cranes and hoists needed by defense manufacturing plants.

Agriculture

OPM Director Knudsen told Agriculture Secretary Wickard the OPM will cooperate to meet shortages of farm equipment and machinery now hindering efforts to increase farm production. The Office of Price Administration revised its allocation program to increase stoarge space for farmers for the current grain harvest by increasing the quantities of steel and zinc for grain bin construction.

Materials

The OPM Production Division formed a defense advisory committee of the pulp and paper products industry and said defense requirements will increase consumption of the industry's products by 2,000,000 tons this year and an additional 2,000,000 tons next year.

OPM announced plans to increase the scrapping of worn-out automobiles by 1,000,000 tons a year, and said one car provides enough scrap for a light cannon, and 20 cars, enough for a tank. OPM asked zinc producers to set aside 27 percent of their June production during August for an emergency pool, and said the supply of fabricated alloy steel for aircraft manufacture will be tripled before the end of next year.

Labor and Employment

Labor Secretary Perkins reported non-agricultural employment increased by 484,000 during June to reach a new all-time high of 38,799,000—an increase of 3,365,000 since June, 1940, and 1,-900,000 more than the June, 1929, record. WPA employment dropped 77,000 and NYA, 96,000, she said.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

The influence of Dr. John Maynard Keynes, the British economist who visited Washington recently, is seen by Washington observers in reports that Administration officials are considering a new plan to give a man money but not let him spend it—that is, not for some years to come.

The proposal under discussion is a tax plan that is not a tax plan, for the money that is collected now in taxes would be repaid later on.

Briefly, the idea is to keep money received as the result of wage increases from forcing prices upward, causing inflation. The taxpayer would be given a credit (up to a certain maximum) in baby or defense bonds, savings stamps, or special postal savings certificates equivalent to the increase in taxes resulting from reductions of exemptions under the income tax law.

Some government officials estimate that as many as five million citizens may be brought into the income tax structure under such a plan. If the plan goes through it will probably be labeled a "compulsory savings plan," or some equivalent designation, in the knowledge that the word "savings" has a good connotation which is readily acceptable to the people.

One school of thought in Washington has held consistently over a period of months that rising living costs pustify labor's demands for wage increases. Figures just developed, however, raise an interesting question regarding this argument.

Living costs, it is revealed, increased 3.5 per cent between last October and the end of June. Factory wages, on the other hand, increased 22 per cent from October, 1940, through May of this year.

At a time when business men serving the government in Washington are generally agreed that "business as usual" is no longer possible and at a time when one industry after another is curtailing normal production in the interests of defense, Washington observers wonder when politicians will come to a similar recognition in connection with "pet projects" of one kind and another.

In thisconnection, the proposed St. Lawrence seaway and power project has been criticized roundly by representatives both of labor and of industry. One industrial spokesman summed it up as follows: "The first order of the day is naturally the production of arms, equipment and supplies necessary for the Army, the Navy and civilian defense to protect America. Anything that hampers or impedes this prime objective should be rejected promptly or deferred for consideration at a later date. The seaway project should be definitely rejected because it will result in a tremendous diversion of labor, funds and materials to a non-essential project."

Commenting upon the fact that the House of Representatives, while considering means to raise some three and one half billions in revenue, takes time out to consider an appropriation bill to spend over seven billions for the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission, one Congressman was heard to say: "That's catching up like the frog in the well that slipped back two hops to every hop forward."

IS YOUR SUBSCRIPTION PAID?

OPM Associate Director Hillman asked airplane companies to employ and train women in defense jobs without lowering wages or working standards.

The Navy, War and Commerce Departments jointly proposed the 60,000,000 Americans born in this country but without documentary proof of citizenship apply to State bureaus of vital statistics and similar agencies for "delayed birth certificates" to break the bottleneck by which native-born workers are barred from jobs in defense plants for lack of such proof of citizenship.

EARLY HISTORY OF BOONE COUNTY

By A. M. Yealey

One of Boone county's outstanding citizens was John Norris. During the War of 1812 with Great Britain, Mr. Norris volunteered as a sailor at the request of Commodore Perry and assisted with great heroism in that glorious victory on Lake Erie, Sept. 10, 1813. Every school boy knows Perry's message to General Harrison, "We have met the enemy and they are ours—two ships, two brigs, one schooner and one sloop." In later years Commodore Perry had the General Assembly of the State of Kentucky procure a gold medal for Mr. Norris in appreciation of his heroic services during this Naval battle. After the war was over Mr. Norris returned to Boone and farmed on an extensive scale. Being the owner of slaves he had much trouble in their escaping over the Ohio River then through Indiana by the way of Richmond, Ft. Wayne and South Bend. Mr. Norris and his agents made several trips, returning slaves belonging to him from the northern part of Indiana and always received very bad treatment from those that assisted his run aways and he failed to get any satisfaction in in the state courts.

During his last trip with slaves he had recaptured at South Bend, Ind., and while returning with them he was attacked by a band of sympathizers of his slaves and they were taken away from him by force. Realizing it was no use to sue in the state courts, he brought suit in the U. S. Circuit Court at Indianapolis against Newlan Crocker and others for his runaway slaves, which he had recaptured at South Bend and which they took from him by force. He recovered a judgement in this court in the sum of $2,800 and costs (about $2,000) but even these judgements were seldom of any value for the reason so many that assisted these run aways were financially not responsible.

Money Talks

By
Frederick Stamm, Economist
Director of Adult Education
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

Small business men all over this country are wondering what their chances are of surviving the regimentation essential in an all-out war effort. In Great Britain the small retailers were the first to feel the full impact of the war economy. More than 20,000 were forced to close down within two mnnths after England entered the war, and another 20,000 were forced to close early on 1940. Many of these small shopkeepers were handling non-essentials, both domestic and imported, and were compelled to close after their stocks were used up. Their owners have gone to work in the defense industries or in the armed forces.

You may be sure our government is not going to put out of business the smaller firms if it can help it. The fact that it has insisted that defense orders be allotted to small manufacturers is an indication of its desire to keep small industry alive. Another reason for this policy is that modern war makes decentralization rather than concentration of industry the better and safer policy.

But with essential materials becoming scarcer and with production of consumer goods declining, retailers will find it increasingly difficult to restock many items. An excellent illustration of this is the proposed 50% cut in production of electric refrigerators and washing machines. You can readily see the effect this will have on retailers handling these commodities.

Recently in Chicago the National Association of Retail Grocers at their annual convention devoted a special session to a consideration of what may happen to them if the U. S. actually enters the war. Whether we enter the war or not, we may be assured that the retailers will find it more difficult to secure the goods they desire. And that, consequently, means the consumer may expect to do without many commodities to which he has been accustomed.

THE COMING OF THE ORGAN

Ever since the church had been built in the creek bottom near Fidelity, long before I could remember, the music had been vocal purely. There were few hymnbooks, but they were scarcely missed, for the preacher had one and always lined the hymn anyway. That is, he would read the whole hymn and then begin over again by reading two lines; we would sing these, he would line two more, and thus we achieved our hymn. There was no choir or anything so exclusive. It had apparently been so in the beginning, it was now, and everybody in Fidelity apparently supposed that it would be so, world without end. But modernness came to us, even us in the far-away little neighborhood. Some of the neighbors had organs, and it was rumored that some of the churches nearer the county seats had actually installed them in church. Fidelity was never known to be afraid of any part of the world, but it feared public opinion, even as you and I. And by degrees there grew up a desire on the part of some of the good members of the church for an organ. Desire was one thing; money to gratify it, another. But persistent souls took up the fight, and soon the new organ was on hand, right in our conservative little church. That called for an addition to the preacher's little stage, one big enough for the organ and its player and the choir. Pretty soon after the organ was installed, we had a big program at church, in which I, as a boy singer, took part. The neighborhood came and wondered, at the organ and probably at my high notes, such notes as are not found except on the Chinese musical scale.

From that day forth the music in our church changed. We had to have books, lining the hymn practically ceased, the congregation had little part in the singing. We sang snappy songs from newer books and increased the tempo of our religion a bit. The oldtimers, who sat down in the audience, had difficulty in keeping up with our songs, since they had been accustomed to drawing out the endnotes until breath failed. The organist pepped up things somewhat, so that there was at least a semblance of tempo. The singers followed the organ and drowned out the stragglers in the church proper.

The organ loft soon acquired another function. There the young swains took their girls to help in the choir. Not to have done this would have marked one as an outsider, a visitor. We fanned the girl with one hand, held the song book with the other, and sang with fervor if not with tunefulness.

The organ loft looked mighty bare; hence some good women suggested that it be carpeted. That in turn called for a carpet down the aisles and in the Amencorner. When all of this was done, our bleak little church looked dressed up and must have tempted the preacher mightily to bewail the worldliness of his congregation, but, so far as I can now remember, he didn't. And so the organ, with its new brightness, brought a whole reform into our little old church near Fidelity, and music added some charm and melody to our lives, so barren in aesthetic things.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of worldwide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

A Million Dollar Tree

TREES that yield oil have always attracted industrial nations and none more than the one yielding tung-oil. The Chinese have used it for years in making varnish, but since the turn of the century many planters in other countries have seen in tung trees a possible Eldorado. Dissster has dogged some of these trials, for two reasons.

The Chinese have used tung-oil for years in making varnish.

This Chinese tree needs a winter chilling, but flowers so early that its bloom is often killed by late frosts, which means a total loss of the nuts for that year. Millions of tung-oil trees, especially in the southeastern United States, have been uprooted because the planters did not know this.

A long growing season and intense summer heat are also essential. Present day plantations of tung-trees, comprising thousands of acres, are located in the climatically favorable parts of Florida, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

But unfortunately the very regions suited to tung are the most malarial sections of America, and successful planters have to guard their workers against this scourge or suffer a labor shortage during their busiest season.

Most of the more intelligent owners use quinine to prevent malaria, giving their field hands six grains a day. To those who are careless enough to ignore or forget this preventive measure a spell of malaria is pretty apt to be the sequel. For these unfortunates a dose of 20 grains of quinine a day for 5-7 days is the remedy. This dosage is the one recommended by the United States Public Health Service, and its cost is so low and tung-oil so valuable that few are likely to ignore it.

"By their fruits ye shall know them." True christians do not need to shout from the house tops that they are christians, but be as lighthouses, which illumine dark places of the earth by just shining.

The many friends of Mr. James T. Hurt of Walton, regret to learn of his illness, and wish him a speedy recovery. Mr. Hurt has certainly proven his friendship by gracing our "Helping Hand" list, and his gifts were indeed like gleams of light bursting through bleak darkness. By actions of friends toward us, we can discern their loyalty and being a real friend certainly does consist of more than giving smiles or a pat on the shoulder. Friends, who "lend a hand" in an hour of need and continue to think kindly of you regardless of what others say, are deeply appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Richardson recently sold their farm to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rector and have purchased the farm of the late Daniel Hanrahan from Mrs. Hanrahan. Spats and Walking-Sticks

SOME of our rough and ready hard guys from the great open spaces poke fun at the diplomatic representatives of the U. S. in foreign capitals. They are accused of wearing spats, going to too many cocktail parties and some are even said to wear monocles.

American tourists resent the polished appearance of U. S. consuls.

Cordell Hull never bothers to answer such criticism. As Secretary of State he knows that most of his staff are hard-working, highly trained men who get themselves planted in remote and often unhealthy posts, work like the devil, and pray for occasional leaves of absence.

Some time ago Secretary Hull made a tragic, if indirect, answer to such critics. He announced the death at a Panama hospital of a trusted American consul who had lived for years in tropical America. The pity of it is the man died of malignant malaria—a preventable and curable disease.

It must be presumed that the consul knew that quinine taken in time would have saved him. But perhaps, like many who live in the tropics, he became careless. The U. S. Public Health Service has broadcast the cure and prevention of malaria. It is a message that no one should forget and that this unnecessary death makes worth repeating.

As a preventive of malaria take six grains of quinine daily whenever exposed to the bite of infected mosquitoes. If malaria comes, take 20 grains of quinine for 5-7 days and stop the quinine when the chills and fever have stopped. Such a regime would have saved the life of our diplomat.

WELL KNOWN RESIDENT PASSES AFTER OPERATION

"No one hears the dorr that opens
As they pass beyond our call;
Soft, like loosened leaves of roses,
One by one our loved ones fall."

Deeply mourned is the recent passing of Mr. Emery Ellis, who died at Booth hospital in Covington, July 25, following an operation.

Mr. Ellis was born September 9, 1873, and died July 25, 1941, being nearly 68 years of age at the time of his death.

On June 24, 1894, he was married to Birdie Brock, and to this union were born four children, two of whom preceded him in death, Mary, who died in infancy, and Harry, who died in early manhood.

The deceased was a faithful member and a deacon of the Oakland Baptist church, from where funeral services were held, July 27, his pastor, Rev. Smith, assisted by Rev. Ellis, a relative of North Carolina, officiated.

No better evidence of his popularity could be found than the large number of friends and relatives who gathered to pay the last tribute of respect to his memory.

He was laid to rest in the Oakland cemetery

He leaves to mourn for him, his devoted wife; one daughter, Mrs. Mabel Cleveland; one son, Raymond Elliss of near Warsaw; one brother, Joe Ellis of Ohio; one half-sister, Mrs. Luther Hon; three grandchildren, and a host of other relatives and friends.

Flower bearers were: Misses Dorothy Ellis, Lillian Brock, Sara Bettie Ellis, Mabel Kemper, Louise Brock, and Virginia Ellis. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

Pall-bearers were: Harry, Harold, Alva, Fred and Waller Ellis, and Leonard Taylor. C. L. Carlton and Son had charge of the burial.

Softly the stars will gleam, upon a lonely grave
Where sleeps a loving father, one we love but could not save.
Sweet and peaceful be his rest, forget him we can never
God called him, He alone knows best, His will be done forever.
Our dear Savior gently calling, summoned him to lead the way,
O'er a pathway watched by Angels we will follow some sweet day.

Soup in Summer Menus

It may be difficult to predict what any woman will be doing at a particular time, but one could safely wager that homemakers will be serving soup frequently in their menus this summer. Both light and substantial meals, as well as party meals and the simpler everyday lunches and dinners are the more tempting for the gusto provided by a steaming bowl of soup. Serve the soup sometimes as appetizer and sometimes as the main dish. And on a very hot day have jellied consommé lend its refreshing touch.

One reason homemakers are particularly enthusiastic about soups in summer is that 23 different kinds of them may be had prepared and ready to serve but for the heating. Thus they help carry out resolves not to spend hot summer days slaving over a stove. Here are listed some of the ways soup helps give variety to these easy-to-get meals:

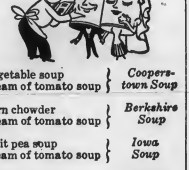
A substantial soup such as corn chowder plus a salad and rolls makes just the kind of meal most men want when the mercury starts doing serial acrobatic stunts.

When you want a meal that is a little more sturdy, serve a soup and sandwich meal topped off with a fresh fruit dessert.

Another way to vary the menu is to start it with an appetizer soup such as hot consommé or chicken noodle soup—or one of the cream soups—then serve a main dish salad such as kidney bean salad.



But for lunch and a less formal dinner it is delightful to pass the jellied consommé in the living room in bouillon cups and then serve the hot main course from the buffet table. To jell the consommé, just place the can of soup in the refrigerator to chill a short time.

A brand new soup which has just been placed on the market provides another choice with which to enhance your summer menus. It is called Split Pea Soup with Vegetables and Ham. Thick and substantial and an artful blend of flavor, it is one you will want to be the first to serve to your group.

Then, for even more variety, here are some combinations of the different prepared soups:

Soup Mergers

Vegetable soup Cream of tomato soup	Coopers-town Soup
Corn chowder Cream of tomato soup	Berkshire Soup
Split pea soup Cream of tomato soup	Iowa Soup
Split pea soup Vegetable soup	Soldier Boy's Soup
Vegetarian soup Cream of asparagus soup	Spring Soup

Ice Cream Topping

Desserts may come and desserts may go—but ice cream still remains the most popular sweet you can choose to top off a summer meal. A variety of sauces and garnishes will help you make this old favorite an ever new surprise for your family and guests.

Butter Krisp Topping is one you will want to make to serve on ice cream. It's a crunchy, caramel-like combination of crisp rice flakes, pecans, butter and brown sugar heated together in the oven and then allowed to harden. What could be simpler? You can even have one of the children try his hand at making it.

Butter Krisp Ice Cream

Combine—

¼ cup rice flakes, crushed fine before measuring
¼ cup finely chopped pecans
2 tablespoons butter, melted
2 tablespoons brown sugar.

Place in a shallow baking pan, spreading out well, and bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 10 minutes. Move the mixture around with a fork two or three times during baking. Cool. When cold, break up into crumbs. Use as topping for ice cream. Or when making refrigerator ice cream, fold into the partially frozen cream and continue freezing until firm.

Note: Ice cream may be purchased and beaten until soft enough to have the rice flakes mixture folded into it.

Will Dogwood Cure Malaria?

EVERY spring the hillsides of America from Maine to Florida are splashed white with the gorgeous, showy bloom of this medium-sized, showiest tree of the eastern states.

It grows in the under-canopy of the forest but its great white bracts open before most trees are in full leaf, so that whole hillsides seem as though spotted with snow drifts in April and May.

Nearly two hundred years ago the first specimen of dogwood reached Europe and Linnaeus gave it the name Cornus florida, mistakenly supposing it was confined only to the southern states. But it is wild almost to the Canadian border and perfectly hardy in most gardens in the northern states.

Ages before Linnaeus tagged it with a Latin name, the Indians had a quaint idea about dogwood that modern science has completely dispelled. Apparently the Indians were much subject to malaria and like most primitive people looked for a cure among their native plants. Cinchona, the tree that furnishes quinine, does not occur in North America, but the Indians seemed to know that they needed some bitter bark, and found one in the dogwood. An infusion of its bark was used for centuries, probably with very little effect.

Not long ago an old Indian on one of the reservations which have been set aside for them, came to a government doctor with this dogwood infusion, and the lore of its supposed virtue may still exist. But since this ancient indian nostrum was first made, the bark of another tree has forever changed men's minds about malaria.

Quinine, at first only an infusion of cinchona bark, is now a highly refined product and the world's remedy for malaria. Thousands of Indians on reservations and millions of people in the South are told by their doctors that 20 grains of quinine per day for 5-7 days are better than dogwood, ipecac, whiskey or a dozen other substitutes for this standard remedy for malaria.

RODEO AND CIRCUS BIG ATTRACTION AT STATE FAIR

Approximately 250 head of livestock will be on the Kentucky State Fairgrounds all of Fair Week, September 6-13, inclusive, and the judges won't give them a tumble. Neither will they take any ribbons. The number represents the herds of wild steers, untamed mustangs and buffaloes Col. Cliff Gatewood will bring along with his Flying "X" Rodeo and Circus for roping and riding exhibitions nightly Sunday, September 7, through Saturday, September 13, at the big Grandstand Show.

SQUIRREL HUNTING SEASON BEGINS ON AUGUST 15

Nimrods are making last-minute check-ups on guns, ammunition and wearing apparel in anticipation of the opening of the squirrel hunting season which begins August 15.

According to the most recent information received by officials of the Division of Game and Fish from Conservation Officers, hunters and farmers, squirrels are plentiful generally over the state and this should mean that Kentucky nimrods will enjoy one of the best hunting seasons for the little bushy-tailed animals in years.

Hunters are required to purchase a $1-county hunting license if they do their hunting in one particular county, but if they hunt in two or more counties they must then purchase and have in possession a $3-state-wide license.

Every person, buying his or her hunting license, should investigate fully the difference between the $1-county license and the $3-state-wide license and consider their hunting territory before purchasing the license because it is impossible for a person to bring back a $1 county license to the county court clerk and ask for an exchange to the $3-state-wide license, S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, stated today. By obtaining the $3-state-wide license the purchaser knows definitely that there will be no worry of crossing county boundaries and running afoul of the law. This could, and probably will happen with holders of the $1-county license.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT TO AID MOTORISTS

Enlistment of the entire Kentucky Highway Department in a campaign to promote the highest possible standard of service to motorists, was announced last week by J. Lyter Donaldson, Commissioner of Highways, in a memorandum to all highway employees. Pointing out that the Department of Highways, in all of its activities, is maintained exclusively by revenue collected from motor users, the Commissioner stated that "the Department is justified only to the extent that it provides service to those who were responsible for its creation and continued existence."

Is Your Subscription Paid?

To the Voters of Third Magisterial District:

I want to thank each one who voted for me on August 2, 1941. Also those who would have liked to but saw otherwise.

I want to thank my opponents for the clean and efficient manner in which they conducted their campaign.

I want to urge the people to co-operate with their new Magistrate remembering he is only one man and needs the co-operation of the people to make a good magistrate.

I want to say to those who did not vote for me, I am still your friend and am willing to help you anytime, and in any way.

EVERETT JONES

THANK YOU—

I want to thank the people of Boone County for the many courtesies extended me in my campaign for County Court Clerk of Boone County.

I want to thank those who saw fit to support me and I hope that in the future you will have no cause to regret that fact.

I have only the kindest feeling for those who cast their vote for my opponent, and to my successful opponent I offer my congratulations.

Again I would like to say "thank you" for the gracious manner in which you received me, in my visit to your homes.

DOROTHA RYLE

FRIENDS AND VOTERS:

To the many citizens of Boone County who extended to me their sincere kindness and staunch support in the recent Primary election, I desire to express publicly my heart-felt appreciation and thanks.

Although I was unsuccessful in my endeavors to be elected to the office of Jailer, I feel that I was amply repaid for any effort that I may have expended, in that so many friends, both old and new, expressed their confidence in me by casting their respective votes in my behalf. To those who did not support me, I hold no ill will, and hope to be their friend in the future as in the past.

I sought to conduct a clean campaign, as did both my opponents, to whom I wish to express my thanks and to offer my congratulations to the successful candidate.

Respectfully,

GROVER C. JARRELL.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become overtaxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

A CALL IN THE NIGHT

We heard the children romping in their playroom upstairs—then suddenly, a scream!

We both rushed up and found our young son had fallen and apparently broken his arm. We immediately phoned our family physician, who verified our worst fears.

In time, the arm was carefully set, but other difficulties arose that called for an unusual prescription.

I looked at the clock—where could we get it filled at this late hour?

We spoke to the doctor, who then picked up the phone and called "that man" out of bed—again "that man" (our neighborhood druggist) did not fail us.

Our neighborhood druggist never fails us! Should you, like most women, suffer discomforts during the menstrual period, just phone your druggist—he usually advises women to try Vatona Tablets—this may be just what you need!

JAMES TEACHES CONSISTENT CHRISTIAN LIVING

LESSON TEXT—James 1:17-22; 2:14-17; 4:13-17; 5:7-12.

GOLDEN TEXT—Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.—James 1:27.

Spiritually minded but very practical was James, an outstanding leader in the Church (Gal. 2:9; Acts 15) and the brother of our Lord. His epistle speaks little about Christ, but it reflects more of His teachings than any of the other epistles. It parallels the sermon on the mount and in that way, as well as other ways, greatly resembles the teachings of Jesus. It is a straightforward discussion of practical Christian living.

There is so much inconsistency among Christians in their daily walk that nothing could be more needed than a careful study of the exhortations of James.

I. Be Doers of the Word—Not Hearers Only (1:17-22).

Knowing God's will is important, but it amounts to little except to bring condemnation upon us, unless we do it. It is good to hear with swift apprehension, but there is no point in talking about what we have heard unless we practice it.

God is the "giver of every good and perfect gift" (that's literally and wonderfully true). He has not withheld one blessing, even to the giving of His Son, who was sent down from heaven to redeem us.

His very goodness should prompt us to lay aside everything which dishonors His name. Wrath (v. 20), all uncleanness and much or thought, pride (v. 21)—all these must go, and will go, as we permit the Word to take root (be "engrafted") in our hearts and lives. Note that it is not enough to read the Word, or even to memorize it. It must take root and grow in our life.

II. Believe—But Do Not Forget to Work (2:14-17).

Saved by faith? Yes, we are, and in no other way; but the man who says he has faith in Christ will inevitably show the results of that faith in his life.

James is not in any way contradicting the teaching of Paul's epistles regarding justification by faith, but is clearly stating what must be true, "that a faith which does not result in works, i. e., in a manifestation of a Christian life, externally and visibly, is not the kind of faith commanded by God, and constantly revealed in the New Testament as the only instrument for the appropriation of the redemption that is in Jesus Christ our Lord. There is no such thing as real, genuine, vital, living, Christian faith, except it has its fruits in the works of faith" (Wilbur M. Smith).

How that faith will show itself in the practical dealings of daily life is graphically presented in verses 15 and 16. Pious talk has always been very cheap, and it certainly accomplishes nothing. Real Christianity works.

III. Trust—But Do Not Boast of Tomorrow (4:13-17).

There is a strange religious attitude which talks about faith as though it were something of which to boast, which encourages people not only to believe, but actually to presume. There is a radical difference between faith and presumption.

All Christians are subject to the temptation of talking about being "strangers and pilgrims" (Heb. 11: 13) in this earth, and then planning their lives and their business as though everything will continue as it is through all eternity. It is right to plan, but every day we should plan subject to God's will, always realizing that this may be the day when we shall be called into His presence to give an account of the deeds done in the flesh.

Every hour of life should find us ready to meet the Lord, and with all in readiness, so that our going may leave behind a clear testimony of faith in God, and of consistent Christian living.

IV. Be Honest—Without the Need of an Oath (5:12).

A Christian should never need to give an oath in the ordinary affairs of daily life. His life should be so transparently honest and consistently aboveboard that his word ("yea, yea, or nay, nay") will be "as good as his bond."

The Jews were accustomed to use formulas for oaths such as those mentioned in Matthew 5:33-37. They would have felt much at home in our day when there is so much dishonesty that people are constantly calling on God to witness to their truthfulness. Those who have least to do with Him and the worst records for dishonesty are most prone to thus seek to bolster their word.

What a striking contrast is the simple "yes" or "no" of the true Christian. Let us make our word always good, because it is the expression of the integrity of our live.

Boys and Beers

Parents generally are very sound thinkers where their children's welfare is concerned, but many parents have been misled by the salesmen for the so-called "moderate" alcoholic drinks.

Cautioning parents that "These two, boys and beers, do not belong together," Angelo Patri wrote recently in the Chicago Daily News:

". . . Beer is not a drink for boys and anybody grown to adult size knows it. Beer is an alcoholic drink. Call it mild if you wish, it is still an alcoholic beverage, and is no drink for a boy. If it were not for its power to intoxicate, men would not use it. How then can it possibly be a mild drink for boys?

"Each a Bad Actor"

". . . Boys love speed . . . To use one of these machines a boy needs all he has of clear brain, steady hand and clear eye. If he has one drink of beer he has lost so much self-control that he would better go to bed instead of sitting in the driver's seat.

". . . An intelligent driver does not drink on duty. An intelligent boy will not drink at any time because he looks forward to the day when he will . . . (be) . the trusted representative of his family, his community, or his country.

". . . Any business or anybody using beer to lure boys into serving their selfish interests, reveals an idea that is abhorrent to decent people."

What's the Difference?

Beer claims it is mild, wine claims it is the drink of moderation, whisky doesn't have much to say. What, asks the W.C.T.U., is the difference?

A bottle of 4½ per cent beer, an ordinary glass of wine, and one ounce of whisky contain about the same quantities of alcohol by weight although the amounts of liquid are different. A driver gets the same effect from bottle, glass or ounce—and the pedestrian he hits will be just as dead.

HOW TO BE YOUR OWN DECORATOR

Color Schemes for Kitchen and Pantry

March as a month is rather a delusion and a snare to a lot of us isn't it? Just as we think spring is about to arrive, and want to begin spring painting, it turns cold suddenly and we have the snow storm of the year. But every month has a speciality and you'll find your favorite newspaper full of news about housewares, china, and glass sales, so it's wise to go over your kitchen and pantry equipment, and turn your mind to making these two rooms attractive as well as efficient. For color schemes are just as important here as anywhere else in the house, and there are so many ways to follow a color theme.

HELEN KOUES Director of Good Housekeeping Studio

For instance, in either or both rooms, begin with your linoleum floor. If you need a new one let it be the base of your color scheme. If the one you have is a block pattern, as so many are, with blue, red, and yellow in it, you have a choice of white, pale blue, or straw color for your walls. Your equipment is probably white, so you can choose dark blue linoleum with chromium edge for table and sink tops and red for your accent color. This red can be used for the inside of your cupboards, for canisters, for curtains, for the handles of knives and forks, cutlery, etc. Other basic color schemes are: block patterned linoleum in ivory, green, yellow and beige; walls, pale yellow; counter tops, green; curtains, white edged with green. Or oyster white linoleum, with gray, red, and black design and black cove base; walls, pale gray; woodwork, oyster white; inside of cupboards, red; curtains, white with red rickrack. Or: linoleum in tones of beige; walls, and woodwork, beige; cove, countertop and ceiling, blue; curtains, white with fruit design in natural colors.

Brighten your kitchen with color

If you're buying curtains, remember that you can buy, by the yard, the same kind of rubberized fabric that is used for shower curtains. It withstands kitchen wear and is easily wiped off. These curtains you could make. Hem top and bottom and sew small brass rings an inch apart at the top and hang on a brass rod. Close them at night as you would overdraperies. Or you can buy or make the cottage sets of thin cotton materials in a checked or figured material combined with a solid color. These are called "double Dutch" in upholstery terms, and may have the top open with the bottom closed, as shown in the illustration. They add a lot to the homey feeling of the kitchen.

And what does all this decoration cost? Not very much. Our costs today are in the actual equipment of range, refrigerator, and sink, and even these come in units which are especially priced this month. In a small kitchen, 9 ft. by 15 ft., for instance, the painting (which you could do yourself) would cost around $12 to $15. The linoleum, and it pays to buy good grade and have it properly laid by being cemented to the floor over felt, is on the high side, from about $22.50 to $37.50. In a new house, the linoleum is probably laid as it is considered a flooring. Curtains might vary from one dollar to two a pair. While canisters come at about $1.50 the set and up. So, depending on what you need, a remodeled color scheme for the kitchen of linoleum, fresh paint, curtains, and canisters would be about $37 to $57; without linoleum only $14.50 to $19.50.

Doings of The REDS

Don't count the Reds out of the 1941 National League pennant race. They're still in it, for the records show that several teams in National League history have turned the trick after having been as far, or farther, off the pace than the Reds are today.

The records also show that the Reds played better ball than any other club over a combined two-month period, June and July. They were tops in June and second only to Pittsburgh, which had a phenomenal streak, in July. This is mighty encouraging, for it proves that in each of the past two months the club has played a better brand of ball than St. Louis and Brooklyn, the pace-setting teams.

While claims are flying about in respect to advantages of the schedule, etc., the Reds can made their own claim, for they have very much the right kind of a schedule setup. They are at home during the greater part of September, which is the stretch month.

There is plenty of immediate action ahead for the Reds, however, and they don't have to wait for September to get it. They were scheduled for a Sunday twin bill against the Boston Braves, then were to meet the red hot Pittsburgh Pirates in a two game series Monday and Tuesday. Wednesday, the St. Louis Cardinals will come here for a ladies' day game, and will remain over for another single game Thursday.

Friday, the Reds will play an exhibition game in Indianapolis. Saturday and Sunday, they'll be in Chicago, then they'll rest Monday and Tuesday, prior to taking on the St. Louis Cardinals in the last night game of the season Wednesday, August 13. August 14 will be another off day, whereupon the Reds will close their home stand with a four-game series against the Chicago Cubs Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 15, 16, and 17. The doubleheader will be played Sunday, August 17.

That twin bill will be the first of four successive doubleheaders for the Reds, as they are scheduled for three straight in Philadelphia August 18, 19 and 20, as they start their last eastern trip. Return to Cincinnati from that trip is scheduled for Saturday, August 30, when the Cardinals come here to open a two-game series against the Reds.

GRASSHOPPERS BECOMING MORE DESTRUCTIVE IN ALL CROPS

Poison Bait Recommended

Bran, 20 to 25 pounds; Paris green, one to 2 pounds; Molasses, one quart; water enough to moisten the bait.

Mix the poison with the bran and the molasses with the water and then moisten the mass of bait.

Scatter the bait where the pests can get it. It should be scattered along the fence row or edges of the field because the grasshoppers usually go to the fence rows or edge of grass strips to roost for the night, and then migrate to the growing crops early in the morning.

The Poisoned Bait should be kept away from chickens or animals.

When mowing hay it is well to leave a strip of hay and scatter poison bait in the uncut strips where the grasshoppers feed. If the entire hay field is cut the grasshoppers will move to other crops and do heavy damage.

Another way to kill them is to stake off a part of the hay field, poison it and leave the poisoned strip for the grasshoppers to feed where they can be poisoned in large numbers.

Grasshoppers are eating peaches, and other fruit so it would be wise to keep watch for their movements on your farm.

Prices of canned goods are going up. This is an opportune time to can and process peaches for this winter and next year.

Next year peaches may be a short crop.

Dried Peaches

The folder also tells how to put up dried peaches. Simple trays can be made for drying peaches in the sun. Peaches can also be dried in a slow oven as explained in the folder.

Let Us Rejoice

WHEN we see the joy of children spontaneously and continuously manifested, and their assurance of the love of their parents, it might well inspire in us a greater confidence in the Father, God, who ever blesses all. That men stand in need of a fuller, more permanent joy is plain. Those who consider the subject of little importance would do well not only to remember how essential joy is to true living, but to recall how highly the Apostle Paul valued it when, in his list of spiritual fruits, he placed it next to love. . . .

The fundamental nature of joy can best be understood when it is discerned how all good is possible of attainment through the spiritual understanding of man's true being as the son of God. If God is All and man is created in His image and likeness — as is so clearly stated in the first chapter of Genesis — the possibilities of good in such a relationship must indeed be limitless. Here, then, is the scientific call to a joy far beyond what materiality could provide.

Many Bible characters have experienced great joy as the result of their understanding of God; but no one has so fully demonstrated joy to be the inevitable result of the understanding of man's unity with God as has Christ Jesus, the Way-shower. When he told his hearers (John 10:30), "I and my Father are one," he proved what he said by casting out every form of error. He also made it clear that those who understood his teaching would do even greater works than he was doing. True joy, then, is a spiritual quality arising from the fundamental fact of man's oneness with his Father, God, and it can never spring from the illusory pleasures of matter, mood, or caprice.

When the prophet Isaiah spoke of the manifestation of the Christ-idea, he sought to make it clear that joy was one of its notable characteristics. He wrote (Isaiah 61, 3), "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; . . . to appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified;" while in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy has written a correlative passage which reads (p. 304): "Harmony is produced by its Principle, is controlled by it and abides with it. Divine Principle is the Life of man. Man's happiness is not, therefore, at the disposal of physical sense. Truth is not contaminated by error. Harmony in man is as beautiful as in music, and discord is unnatural, unreal."

One's understanding of the allness of God as the source of true, that is, of spiritual joy, is strengthened by a statement of the Way-shower's, which brings steadfastness and peace. He comforted his followers with the assurance (John 16:22), "Your joy no man taketh from you." . . .

To lack joy is to be deprived of the logical outcome of spiritual understanding. Consistently to recognize the things for which we can be grateful is to cultivate joy and to enhance its loveliness. Let us then cheer our own experience, as well as the world about us, by the expression of more gratitude.

In the universe of God's creating, where the spiritual man forever dwells, there is no hectic rushing hither and thither to seek joy. Joy is a spiritual attribute which all may express here and now in the simple kindnesses of the daily routine. Thus we see how true it is that while good brings joy, joy also brings more good!

"Rejoice evermore. . . . In every thing give thanks" (I Thessalonians 5:16, 18). Not only with our lips, but in our lives should joy and gratitude be expressed, and this will result in untold blessings.

Improved Low-caloried Diet Helps Shed Extra Pounds

EXCESS weight, a bulging unattractive figure, provide a very real problem. It's a temptation not to indulge in the joys of eating, to forbid yourself the things you like most to eat.

But with determination and a well-planned diet, the task is not impossible. Take for instance, the improved 9-day reducing diet appearing in the August issue of Good Housekeeping magazine. Prepared by the Good Housekeeping Bureau and tested by a volunteer squad, the diet works like a charm. The meals are planned to provide approximately 1000 calories each day, but the foods have been selected so that you will be adequately and well fed. Included on the diet are substitutes for vegetables and fruits, so menus can be adapted to financial conditions, seasons of the year, and personal preferences.

Margaret Kingsley of the Good Housekeeping Bureau, who supervised the diet has proof of its success. Members of the volunteer squad lost from four to nine pounds in the prescribed period while carrying on a normal schedule of work, and no unfavorable results were reported. Though any normal man or woman can follow the program, Miss Kingsley advises that no diet should be undertaken without the authority of a physician.

To correct any vitamin deficiency which may occur in a restricted diet, the Good Housekeeping schedule provides liver, green, leafy vegetables and eggs for Vitamin A; whole-wheat bread, milk, vegetables and meat for Vitamins B, and B_2; and tomatoes, cabbage and fruit for Vitamin C.

But here are some suggestions to enhance the effectiveness of the new diet. Drink plenty of water, including two glasses of warm water immediately upon arising in the morning. Use mineral-oil salad dressings. Get plenty of exercise. Be sure to eat only the lean portion of meat because of its low calorie content, and for the same reason stick to boiled or poached eggs. And remember not to nibble between meals.

But do not continue this low-caloried diet beyond the recommended 9-day period. At the end of this time take a week's vacation. If, after this, there are still too many pounds, start another nine-day schedule, but don't forget that the vacation is an important part of the reducing routine.

"The Post Office is one of our oldest institutions. The American postal service had its beginnings in the earliest Colonial days, and in the 300 years of its existence it has been one of the most important influences in the development and progress of our country. It has been an indispensable aid to tour commerce and to our business and social life in all periods of American history.

"The Post Office Department is the one Department that is older than the Government itself, having been established by the Continental Congress before the adoption of the Constitution. It is the largest single business institution in the world and is the only branch of our Government that reaches and is in intimate contact with, all the people. Many of our citizens have no other contact with our Government but through the Post Office, and it is incumbent upon every postal employee to so conduct himself as to bring credit and honor to the Government in the eyes of its citizens.

"With the four post offices at the extreme limits . . . from Keegan, Maine, on the northeast, 7,790 miles southwest to Guam; from Tigera, Alaska on the northwest, 5,167 miles southeast to Christiansted, Saint Croix Island in the Virgin Islands, there are 45,153 post offices, all dedicated to the service of the public. Because the postal service touches the lives of all citizens vitally and affects the business of the nation, it must be maintained at a high efficiency, must function with clock-like regularity, and yet must be intensely human in its management. There is no other business, public or private, that to such a great extent renders personal service. Everything that is done in the postal service, all of the work that is performed, is personal service to individuals.

"A Federal building is always a milestone in the life of a town, is a symbol of progress and a source of pride to the community, and the future generation. Let those who follow be able to say of us that we not only kept unsullied all which was handed down to us in our national state and local Government which was good, but that we also cast out of public life and affairs all that was bad and unwholesome. Let us hope that they may truly say we left them a better and finer appreciation of the active interest each citizen should take in his country's Government, and the rectitude with which every official should carry out the trusts imposed upon him. Let them be able to say we left them a greater heritage of toleration for those of adverse opinion, more sympathy for the unfortunate, and a code of kindlier manners and better laws.

"It has been a pleasure to be with you on this occasion and I thank you."

HIS ARMS FELL OFF
Or They Felt Like It—From Steering Wheel Shake of Unbalanced Front Wheels.
Hard and tiresome driving is in many cases by front wheels out of balance. Not only that but unsafe to drive at reasonably high speeds with unbalanced wheels.

Unbalanced Wheels have been known to throw the car out of control to such an extent that it would leave the road or a collision would result.
Unbalanced wheels hammer the bearings of the front end assembly and wear them out prematurely.
Unbalanced wheels are caused by changing tires—uneven wear of tread—addition of patches—improper mounting of tires—loss of balance weights. YOUR WHEELS SHOULD BE CHECKED REGULARLY.
Prepare your car for safer and more pleasant driving by coming into our Wheel Balancing Department and having your wheels checked and balanced. It can be done in a short time and the cost is small.

POULTRY JUDGING TEAM TO BEGIN TRAINING

-4H Boys who plan to become members of the poultry judging team to represent Boone County at the State Fair in September, will begin training this week, it was announced by Franklin Frazier, assistant county agent.

The four boys that have proven themselves to be the most capable judges of poultry production, will be selected for the three-day trip to the State Fair.

This training in poultry culling will be valuable to these 4-H boys, since the Government is appealing to farmers for increased egg production. Therefore, the elimination of unprofitable birds from the flock will make more room in poultry houses for profitable birds and consequently the annual egg production will be increased.

Lift Load Limit For Food Trucks

Liberalized regulations to permit shipment of perishable foodstuffs over Kentucky highways in loads exceeding the state's 18,000-pound truck weight limit were prepared Monday by J. Lyter Donaldson, State Highway Commissioner.

The new code followed protests of Georgia produce truckers which stalemated reciprocal license negotiations between the two states, but Donaldson said the regulations would apply to trucks of Kentucky and all other states as well as Georgia.

Under the revised rules, Kentucky will:

Issue special permits good for 60 days at $2 a truck. The $2 permits now are required for each load, and are good only 48 hours.

Accept $500 bonds for the permits without surety when the applicant establishes his financial solvency and shows a net worth of at least $10,000. Surety now is required on all bonds.

Provide special permits for all perishable produce instead of melons, tomatoes, and peaches only, as in the past.

"The national emergency," Donaldson commented, "has placed such a burden on all transportation facilities that it was necessary to meet the demands with liberalized regulations.

"However, it must be made clear that such liberalizations can be made only under special conditions such as the transportation of these perishable foodstuffs."

FIDELIS CLASS TO MEET

The Fidelis class of the Baptist Sunday school, will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Randolph Beach, Thursday evening, August 14th, at 8:00 o'clock, with Mrs. Joe Code as co-hostess.

NO VACATION FOR THE CHURCH—

The sermon topic for the Sunday morning service at the Methodist church will be "Christian Love." The service in the evening will be one of special interest. Rev. D .E. Bedinger will bring the message. Mrs. S. J. Hudson will bring a special message in song. The public is cordially invited to attend both of these services.

"It is true that this is the vacation season but the Church should be the last institution that would take it. Every conceivable force of evil is alert and on the job. The Church of Christ should work until every knee shall bow and every tongue confess that Jesus is the Lord. Our prayers should be that God shall save the Church from recanting or appeasing regardless of the pressure within or without."—J. H. Tallay.

The Christian church was the setting for a beautiful wedding, Tuesday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, when Miss Virginia Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore, became the bride of Mr. James Ligget, jr., of Lexington, son of Mrs. James Ligget of that place.

The ceremony, beautiful in its marked simplicity, was preceded by soft piano music by Mrs. O'Neal, of Covington; two violin numbers, Toselli's "Serenade" and "At Dawning," played by Miss Ruth Adams of St. Louis, Mo., and three vocal solos, "I Love You Truly," "Because," and "Oh, Promise Me," were sung by Mr. Gentry Shelton of Lexington.

As the strains from Lohengrin's Wedding March were softly played the groom and his best man took their places before the fern-banked altar, on either side of which were large candelabra.

The bridesmaids, Miss Betty Smith of Shelbyville, and Miss Thelma Moore, entering separately, were dressed in identical gowns of blue net and each carried a bouquet of salmon-colored gladoli.

Miss Ethel Estell of Lexington, as maid of honor, wore peach net, and carried salmon gladoli and delphinium, of the same shade as the bridesmaids' gowns.

Little India Lou Norton, cousin of the bride, sweet in a dress of peach net, preceded the bride, to scatter rosebuds in her path.

The bride, approaching the altar alone, was lovely in a gown of white net, fashioned with a tight-fitting bodice and square neckline and wearing a fingertip veil. Her flowers were white gladoli.

The double ring ceremony, which was beautiful because of its air of sacred simplicity, was read by the Rev. Hampton Adams, of St. Louis, cousin of the bride. Rev. T. H. Alderson, pastor of the local Christian church, assisted Rev. Adams.

As the Mendelssohn Wedding March was played, the bridal party left the church.

J. Ryan Nevius, of Lexington, served Mr. Ligget as bestman, and Roland Lormir of Olympia, Washington, and Thomas Shrout of Independence, Mo., were the ushers.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding, a dress of light green, with which she wore black accessories. Her flowers

President Roosevelt placed airplane fuels under export control, limiting shipment to points in the Western Hemisphere, the British Empire and unoccupied territories of countries resisting aggression. Secretary Hull told his press conference any move of Japan into Thailand would be a matter of concern to the United States. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau announced the lend-lease administration has ordered 10,000,000 yards of cotton grey goods to make uniforms for Chinese soldiers.

Aid to Russia

The State Department announced extension of the trade agreement between the U. S. S. R. and the United States until August 6, 1942, to insure 'continuance during the emergency period of our established commercial relations with the Soviet Union on the basis of the 1937 commercial agreement." Russia will pay cash or will earmark gold for all materials bought, the Department said.

Silk

The Office of Production Management "froze" all silk supplies in the country because minimum requirements of the Army and Navy for silk powder bags and parachutes will consume total stocks. Price Administrator Henderson said the action should not result in retail stocking price increases for stocks on hand. OPM formed a special commodity section to handle problems of obtaining substitute materials, allocating rayon yarn and manufacturing capacity.

Federal Security Administrator McNutt called for immediate registration by State Employment Services of the approximately 175,000 silk industry workers being forced out of work by the raw silk shortage. The Department of Agriculture reported more than 150 different cotton stocking designs are available to the hosiery industry, and stated 89 percent of the 16,000 knitting machines can knit cotton as well as silk.

Army

The War Deparment announced a campaign to convert to armament production thousands of consumer-goods factories facing eventual shutdown because of diversion of raw materials to the defense program, and said it already has a list of 500 such plants.

The Department expanded its officer candidate schools to provide opportunities for one in each 100 soldiers to receive a commission. Advancement during the first year will be available to about 58 percent of all trainees, the Department said. It reported 100 Canadian officers and 65 junior officers from the Latin American Republics are now enrolled in various courses with the U. S. Army.

Selective Service

The Senate passed legislation authorizing extension of service of Selectees, Guardsmen and Reserves from 12 months to 30 months, and of enlisted men from three to 4½ years. The legislation provides for a salary increase of $10 a month for every month served in excess of one year. Congress also approved legislation deferring from military service all men who had reached their 28th birthday July 1, and authorizing resignation of men already inducted who became 28 before July 1 and whose discharge is not found contrary to the best interests of the Army.

Oil

Petroleum Coordinator Ickes said he was satisfied with first results of the nightly blackout of East Coast Gasoline stations, but asked motorists to redouble efforts to cut motor fuel consumption voluntarily. He made recommendations for operators of commercial vehicles which he said would cut gas consumption about 30 percent, and announced the oil industry will give its patrons windshield stickers pledging the use of one-third less gasoline than usual. He said 82 insurance companies have contributed to the "share-your-car - campaign" by revising underwriting rules to enable motorists to carry paying passengers to and from work.

Federal Security Administrator McNutt urged immediate registration at State employment offices of all automobile service station workers who lose their jobs as a result of the drive to cut gasoline consumption, in order that they may "be transferred as rapidly as possible to other work."

Power

Consumer Administrator Harriet Elliott issued a list of suggestions to housewives for the conservation of power for defense by cutting electric bills, and said, "The practice of careful consumption habits now is the best preparation forthe future." Miss Elliott recommended economies be practiced particularly in parts of the country where power shortages are threatened.

Labor Supply

The OPM said railroad labor and management will help meet skilled labor shortages in defense industries out of the available supply of railroad workers, which includes 20,000 skilled mechanics now unemployed and 80,000 apprentices who could be promoted to release other workers. The OPM also announced 21 Gulf Coast shipyards have put into effect zone labor standards prohibiting strikes and stabilizing wages during the next two years. Federal Security Administrator McNutt said 2,300,000 jobs were filled by State Employment Services during the first six months of 1941, a gain of 52 percent over the same period in 1940.

Defense Housing

FWA Administrator Carmody said nearly 8,000 homes for defense workers—an average of 256 houses a day—were constructed during July, 16 more houses a day than in June. Mr. Carmody said 16,107 homes were completed, as of August 1, of the 90,465 approved for construction. Contracts have been let for 60,835 more, he said.

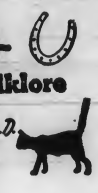
Agriculture

Assistant Price Administrator Galbraith, speaking during the annual Farm & Home Week, said "farmers . . . must be the natural leaders in the fight against inflation. If they take the leadership then stability is assured . . . To stop this price increase . . . we need the willingness to see price advances stopped and stopped firmly." He said prices today are more favorable to farmers than in years, but it took 20 years "to rebuild agriculture out of the wreckage left by the inflation of the last war."

Prices

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported retail food prices increased 1.5 percent during the last two weeks of July to a level almost 16 percent above August, 1939. The Federal Reserve Board said national income payments by last June had reached about $88 billion a year—19 percent above May, 1940—and said unless an unusually large part of consumer income is saved or paid out in taxes, price inflation will grow.

World Affairs



Secretary of State Hull, returning to his desk after a six-weeks absence, said "During the weeks of my absence the most clinching demonstration has been given . . . (that) there is a world-movement of conquest by force, accompanied by methods of governing the conquered peoples that are rooted mainly in savagery and barbarism." Secretary Hull said "with full effort and ever-increasing production and preparation for defense . . . a successful resistance to the present world movement . . . will be made."

Dry weather prevented setting tomatoes and also damaged growing plants in Muhlenberg county.

CHILLS AND FEVERS

It was malaria, but we did not know it. Everybody of our acquaintance had chills and fever every summer, and we expected this to happen, just like birth and matrimony and death. It is true that we took the quinine in huge quantities, but I doubt whether any of us seriously believed that it would cure us. Nobody knew anything about germs; chills were caught by breathing night air. Miasmatic vapors, the learned ones said, come in through open windows and poisoned us. This was especially true if we lived near swamps. The pesky mosquito was not even suspected of harboring germs. And so we just had our chills and fever and accepted life as we found it.

Quinine was in every home, just as was turpentine for skin abrasions. The very hardy ones could take their quinine straight, as I was forced to do once when I was teaching school in a very malarial area. Capsules had come in not long before my time and were to be found everywhere. You took a big dose if you filled both "cap" and "sule" with quinine; otherwise it was more sensible to fill only the "sule." Some there made quinine pills by mixing the drug with sorghum molasses. This got the quinine down, but it left a bitter taste, which was lacking when capsules were used.

There were other remedies, probably not so scientific. One dear old lady told me that she broke chills and fever for her young daughter by gathering nine kinds of weeds from the garden and tying them into a bundle. This bundle was hung up in the chimney, and forthwith the chills fled, just as asthma had previously fled when the same old lady had cut off a lock of hair from the same child and put it into an auger hole bored in a tree level with the child's head.

Quinine made one's ears ring and caused one to be in a daze. Hence some medical men advised chill tonic, all sweetened up and much easier on the nerves. Then quinine retired somewhat into the background. One took his chill tonic much as he had long taken his burdock bitters. A famous inventor of chill tonic got so wealthy with his invention that his name is perpetuated today in a town not so far from Fidelity as the name of the county seat high school. Outsiders lose no opportunity to rib the ball teams there about being fed on chill tonic.

It is said that many a person who is now grown does not know the strange experience of having a chill and fever. I suppose that all chills were about the same, except that some came every third day, while others came every day. I have had all kinds. You begin to get cold, pitifully cold; your teeth chatter until you fear that they will break themselves; you sometimes get painfully nauseated. No amount of cover seems to warm you up until you have chattered the requisite amount. Then starts the fever, and you burn as badly as you were freezing a few minutes before. Fever, as usual, prostrates you, and you lie the rest of the day between wakefulness and sleep. The next day you feel better and manage to renew your acquaintance with food, only to repeat this disgusting process the next day after. Prolong this as you please, and you have chills and fever. Quinine and other remedies may break some gaps in this painful monotony, but some of our summers seem in retrospect a series of chills followed by off days when we were getting ready for the next ones. Thanks to medical men, this story is now not so familiar as formerly, and we also should thank the doctors for making us know the guilty mosquito for his deabolical work and malaria for its real evil in forming the seedbed in weakness and debility for tuberculosis.

Money Talks

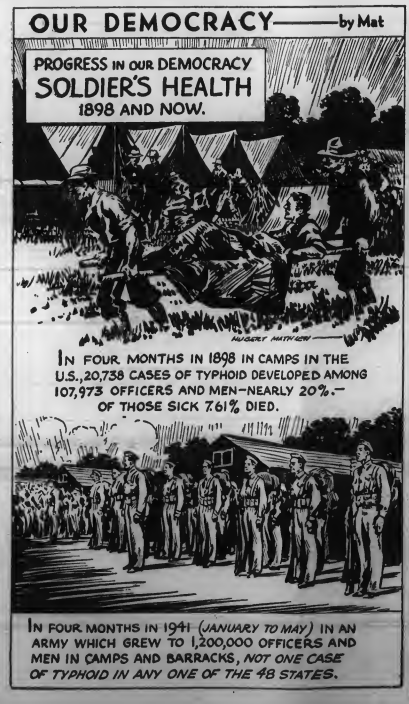
The price control bill now before Congress should be passed in some form within the next month or six weeks. Many people believe this will put a stop to all price increases and that prices will be frozen at present levels. But after looking over the bill carefully, I doubt if prices will be held down to present levels.

If this bill is passed, what effect would it have on important groups of our population?

First, on the working man. Under the proposed plan there would be no ceiling put on wages, and there would be no bar to demands for increased wages. Consequently if prices could be stabilized, his purchasing power would be greatly enhanced.



Second, what can the farmer expect? There would be no ceiling on farm prices that are below "parity." Parity prices are prices that guarantee to the farmers the same purchasing power in the form of manufactured goods that they enjoyed during the five years prior to the first World War. This simply means that under this proposed law there would be no fixing of farmer prices since they would vary with the cost of living.

The price control bill would tend to stabilize many prices and should help the housewife some. But since farm prices are not subject to definite control and the cost of clothing and food are two of the biggest items in most family budgets, the budgeteer will still have some problems.

For the business man price control will mean more government regulations. It may mean an order freezing many prices at the July 29 level. This would likely mean lower profit margins as the uncontrolled elements of cost are increased (wages, taxes, and farm prices.)

The government is trying to avoid the dangers of inflation and deflation. But it seems to me a bill which will actually do this must place some ceiling in all prices as well as wages.

What Uncle Sam Bought

SHREWD old Uncle Sam seems to be as spry as ever—when his interests are at stake. Somewhere in the general mad-house that is Washington rumors began to fly that all was not well along the Potomac.

Two years ago the rumblings were confined to obscure army and navy officers. But more important people came to see that these quiet experts knew what they were talking about, and Washington woke up one morning to the fact that the U. S. was woefully deficient in some pretty important commodities.

Uncle Sam has bought 8,500,000 ounces of quinine.

With the maddening inefficiency of all democracies, Congress did finally draw up a bill to allow the U. S. to purchase the things of foreign origin that cannot be produced in America. After the usual amount of talk and delay the bill was finally passed and got itself on the front page of the newspapers. There was general amazement that the U. S. needed seventeen commodities so badly that the government was purchasing huge quantities.

And, to the hasty newspaper reader, one of the strangest of the seventeen was an item of quinine—tons of it. It sounded like a huge supply of just one drug, and people wondered whether the government hed blundered.

But it hadn't, and the doctors who wrote that section of the bill pointed out that Greece often bought 32 tons per year—so that the U. S. purchase was really very moderate. What they didn't say but every doctor knows is that quinine is the world remedy for malaria and that this disease, in any war, will incapacitate more men than fighting, if it is not controlled.

The shrewd old gentleman with the speckled coat has not forgotten Panama when General Gorgas demanded and got over a ton of quinine a year and so made the canal possible. And Uncle Sam knows, too, the avoidable loss of life from malaria in the World War. He is determined that if war comes, U. S. soldiers and sailors will be protected by quinine against melaria, well knowing that his army and navy doctors will need at least 30 grains per day for 5-7 days for every malaria case. That means a lot of quinine, and at Washington the government vaults now contain eight and a half million ounces.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Many Washington observers have interpreted the hearings by the special Senate committee investigating the old-age pension situation as a prelude to strongly-backed proposed legislation along the lines of the Townsend Plan.

Sitting at the committee table when the investigation began was Dr. Francis Townsend, founder of the Townsend Plan.

Senator Downey, Democrat of California, made it clear at the outset that his attitude was not of a judicial nature, and many spectators thought he demonstrated this by reading into the record a prepared speech assailing the operation of the present Social Security Act.

Lying dormant in the House is a bill (H. R. 1045) which if enacted would provide a minimum federal old-age pension of $30 a month for every citizen over 60. An attempt is being made to bring it to the floor by means of a discharge petition. Signatures of 217 members of the House—a majority—would be required. Already 170 members have signed.

A tribute was paid to American industry when the government's leading tank expert, Lieutenant Colonel John K. Christmas, stated that tank production in the United States has reached in a little more than a year a point which Germany, with its much-vaunted regimented economy, attained in more than five years. He said the American tanks are superior to any being produced by Germany.

Those who know the philosophies of the factions within the defense set-up in Washington see little prospect of any immediate adoption of a unified program. They say that the battle for the American way of life is being fought behind the scenes in Washington right now.

The business and industrial leaders who, at the request of the government, have given up their private jobs to become dollar-a-year men for the defense emergency, believe in individual initiative. They have seen private enterprise produce the highest standard of living in the world, and they believe private enterprise, adapted to the emergency, can out-produce any other system when it comes to armaments too.

The business baiters of the crack-down school, of whom there are many in important defense agency positions, see this as a golden opportunity to make America over. Dominating the blueprints they want is an all-powerful centralized control in Washington of all business and industry, established now and to continue in the future.

These differences are deep-seated, and the issues involved are vitally important to the America which we are arming to defend.

In the Open!

The ultimate liquor traffic goal of "more victims and more profits" has been pointed out for decades by church and temperance groups.

It now has been printed publicly by an important liquor trade paper, The Brewers Digest, which wrote in May, 1941:

"One of the finest things that could have happened to the brewing industry was the insistence by high ranking army officers to make beer available at army camps . . . The opportunity presented to the brewing industry by this measure is so obvious that it is superfluous to go into it in detail.

"Liquor's Goal"

"Here is a chance for brewers to cultivate a taste for beer in millions of young men who will eventually constitute the largest beer consuming section of our population."

This brewery attitude is contrasted with the 65-year goal of the W.C.T.U., which is to build up and protect the American home. The W.C.T.U. members—and millions of others for that matter—believe liquor and its many fellow travelers of social disease, poverty, drug addiction, and polluted politics, are the deadliest enemies of the American home.

While on the subject, let's see what other liquor trade press writers have to say:

The Beverage Retailer Weekly—"A passive attitude will not stave off prohibition. We must be more aggressive . . . We suggest that a war chest be collected . . ."

Again, it said: "If one were to draw a graph of the public's sympathy with the industry, it would be a steadily decreasing curve. When that curve breaks through the red line, when public opinion turns completely against liquor, the Drys will have won!"

"The Nation's Goal"

After several months of expanding employment resulting from defense, Washington foresees the spectre of unemployment rising again in many production centers. The cause of the unemployment too will be defense—defense priorities which will cut off or reduce the flow of raw materials to many non-defense companies.

One-fifth of the employees of the aluminum cooking utensil industry have already been laid off or have quit their jobs because of the aluminum priority ruling. Workers in silk mills may be similarly affected, and hundreds of plants normally making automobile parts will find a greatly reduced demand for their products as a result of the reduction in automobile output. Many industries and every part of the country will be affected.

Some who are watching the rapidly spreading effect of priorities feel that a coordinated defense set-up in Washington might prevent much of the hardship which consumer industries will suffer. Planning further ahead, so that production of materials which may be short could be speeded up or substitutes found, would help. There is also a feeling in some quarters that priorities are being clamped down unnecessarily, merely on the theory, in some instances, that there may be a shortage in the future.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist.

NAGGING BACKACHE

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Don't Neglect It!

Modern life with its ceaseless hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion, alcohol, keeps doctors busy, hospitals crowded. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and oftentimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.

After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.

Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbances sometimes are burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. They have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Be sure to get Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

PRIZED POSSESSION

Good eating habits are one of the important backgrounds for good health. They are formed at an early age, and if you teach your child to like the foods which are rich in the vitamins and minerals, thus promoting his good health and enjoyment of life, you are giving him one of the world's most prized possessions.

This campaign for your child's health should be started as soon as he is born, of course. Keep him under a doctor's care to be sure his schedule of feeding and his formulas are right at all times. At four to six months, the age when many doctors recommend strained foods in the child's diet, you will find the prepared strained foods are a great help in starting your baby to learn to like the vegetables, fruits and cereals which are so good for him.

One reason so many doctors start a child on the strained foods as soon as he can take them is that recent research has proven that an infant's body becomes deficient in iron a few months after his birth and this iron is not replaced by his usual milk and orange juice diet. Also, the child has an increased vitamin need after a few months, and he should have a mild, non-irritating form of bulk in his diet.

Naturally, the strained foods which are given to the infant should be prepared with the greatest care to insure good flavors and the highest nutritional values—a reason the prepared strained foods which come in cans are so highly recommended, for they are prepared according to specially developed scientific processes with special equipment which could not be duplicated in homes. Enamel linings are used in the tins to prevent possible flavor defect or discoloration.

Fourteen different kinds of the prepared strained foods give you ample variety with which to start your child on his first adventures in good eating. Strained cereal is often the first one recommended for the child. Strained peas, strained mixed greens, strained beef and liver soup and strained apricots and apple sauce are also among the earliest additions to the baby's diet because of their iron content and richness in important vitamins.

Strained carrots, spinach, tomato soup, vegetable soup (with cereal and yeast concentrate), green beans, prunes, beets, pears and pineapple and strained asparagus complete the list of prepared strained foods which help teach the baby good eating habits and promote his nutritional well-being. The strained cereal comes in a 10-oz. tin, while the strained prunes are in a 5-oz. tin and the remaining 12 varieties are packed in 4½-oz. tins.

To be sure the child develops no prejudices against new foods, he should be started on his strained foods gradually. A small quantity such as a teaspoon may be diluted with water or milk for his first strained foods feeding. The quantities should be increased a little at a time and the proportion of liquid reduced and finally dispensed with. Soon the child is taking a full 4½-oz. tin at 10 to 12 months of age.

Many questions are asked as to whether it is safe to keep the foods that are left over in the opened tins. The answer is that the canned strained foods may remain safely in the enameled tin, if properly chilled, for serving the second day. Just cover the tin with clean waxed paper or a sterilized rubber bottle cap. When kept well protected from any contamination in a refrigerator which has a constant temperature below 45 degrees, these foods may be held safely for as long as six days.

The good effects of the strained foods on the child's eating habits are, of course, not noticeable until he starts eating with the family and is given adult food. Then it is that you discover that Junior already likes carrots, spinach and other of the good foods he needs for healthy growth, and he needs no urging to carry on with the eating habits you instilled in him when he was less than a year old.

Director, Good Housekeeping Institute

Try a salad buffet on your family when hot-weather appetites need perking up. The mere thought of a salad buffet is cooling. It's an easy meal to prepare, and offers a fine way to include that raw vegetable with health-giving vitamins. Serve indoors or out, wherever it is cooler. The family will enjoy the change from the usual routine as, plate in hand, they serve themselves.

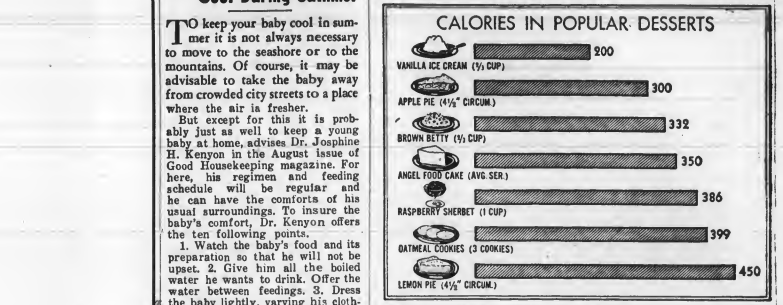
Hints To Keep Baby Cool During Summer



TO keep your baby cool in summer it is not always necessary to move to the seashore or to the mountains. Of course, it may be advisable to take the baby away from crowded city streets to a place where the air is fresher.

But except for this it is probably just as well to keep a young baby at home, advises Dr. Josphine H. Kenyon in the August issue of Good Housekeeping magazine. For here, his regimen and feeding schedule will be regular and he can have the comforts of his usual surroundings. To insure the baby's comfort, Dr. Kenyon offers the ten following points.

1. Watch the baby's food and its preparation so that he will not be upset. 2. Give him all the boiled water he wants to drink. Offer the water between feedings. 3. Dress the baby lightly, varying his clothing with the weather. During the heat of the day, a diaper may be the only garment needed. 4. Beware of prickly heat. If a baby is clothed too warmly, his body may break out in a rash—a reaction of the sweat glands in the skin. 5. Never omit the baby's daily bath. In summer he may need two.

Keep the baby's skin clean. During the summer the skin may become irritated in the creases between the fat folds. 7. Keep the nursery air in motion. This can easily be done by cross ventilation. 8. Give the baby his daily outing before and after the heat of the day. 9. Avoid motor trips and air-cooled establishments. The abrupt change of temperature may be harmful. 10. Be careful about sunbaths. They should always be begun cautiously, and for severe sunburn a doctor should be consulted as soon as possible.

Little Known Facts About Ice Cream

MANY people are not aware that most popular desserts are much higher in calories than ice cream.

According to figures recently compiled by the National Dairy Council, an average serving of vanilla ice cream, measuring approximately one sixth of a quart, provides 200 calories. Compare this with 450 calories for a piece of lemon pie or 350 for a serving of angel food cake.

Another mistaken idea about ice cream is that it is "full of air." Air is a necessary ingredient in ice cream, as without it a solid frozen mass would result. Ice cream that did not have air beaten into it would be like bread that had not risen. The principle is similar to that followed in the kitchen when air is beaten into eggs, whipping cream, or battera.

The combination of lobster or other fish and ice cream in a meal is still believed hy many to be a cause of indigestion. Scientists have disproved this old belief, stating that if the fish is fresh no harm can result from the combination. Fish is often combined with milk in tasty sea food dishes. Ice cream, a milk product, can be served in the same meal with equal success.

Ice cream is a healthful food containing most of the nutritive elements of milk—proteins, minerals, and vitamins. Cream, milk and milk concentrates, sugar, and sometimes eggs, form the basis of all ice cream. The typical proportion of ingredients is about 80% cream and milk products, 15% sugar, 4.5% flavor, 0.5% stabilizer (usually gelatine).

About 4½ billion pounds of milk are used each year to supply the cream and other dairy products used in the twelve hundred million quarts of ice cream which Americans eat annually.

To Please the Men

Here is a main dish salad that you can count on for real man-appeal—Kidney Bean and Frankfurter Salad. The prepared oven-baked kidney beans in their delicate sweet sauce are the kind of substantial basis that men always like, and the frankfurters add spiciness. For crispness and piquancy, a diced dill pickle is included.

Serve this salad for dinner or lunch at home and also carry it along for picnics. You can place it in a fruit jar which you bury in ice to keep it cold on the picnic journey—then serve it in crisp lettuce cups. It would be simple to mix after you arrive at the picnic spot, too.

Kidney Bean and Frankfurter Salad

Skin and slice—
3 to 4 cooked frankfurters.
Add to them—
1 medium (17½-oz.) can oven-baked red kidney beans
1 genuine dill pickle, diced
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion.

Toss lightly and serve cold as main dish salad. Serves four.

The Modern Touch

An old favorite main dish—corned beef and cabbage—goes modern when prepared by the recipe below, and in so doing it becomes even more delicious. Its flavor is enriched by a sauce made of spicy tomato ketchup and melted butter.

Quick Corned Beef and Cabbage

Cut one-half of a medium head of cabbage in four wedges about 1½ inches wide at the widest part. Cook in boiling salted water until just tender, about 20 minutes. Combine ⅓ cup butter which has been melted with ½ cup tomato ketchup, then beat together with a rotary egg beater about one minute or until thoroughly combined and slightly thickened.

Slice ½ pound canned or cooked corned beef in eight small pieces or four large ones, depending upon its shape, then arrange in square or oblong baking dish. Place a wedge of cabbage on each serving of beef. Pour the ketchup butter sauce over the cabbage, having it run down on the meat. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) about 15 minutes, or until heated through and sauce bubbles.

Savory Muffins

One of the most appreciated combinations for summer meals is a cold, cold salad with piping hot muffins. You have a goodly variety of either from which to choose—so they can always play the role of mealtime surprise as well.

Once in awhile you'll want a muffin that has a bit of savoriness about its flavor to go with some of your choice meat, fish and cheese salads. Such a one is made with the recipe below, which uses canned tomato juice for a tangy, refreshing accent and little snippets of crisp bacon for the delicate smoky touch. The two together are delicious when combined as in this recipe:

Tomato Bacon Muffins

Sift together—
2 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
1 tablespoon sugar.
Combine—
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup tomato juice
2 tablespoons bacon drippings
2 strips bacon, cut in ¼-inch pieces and fried.

Pour liquid mixture into dry ingredients, then stir just enough to moisten. Bake in greased muffin tins in a moderate oven (375° F.) 25 minutes. Serve hot with crisp salad or omelet. Makes 1 dozen muffins.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

A CALL IN THE NIGHT

We heard the children romping in their playroom upstairs—then suddenly, a scream!

We both rushed up and found our young son had fallen and apparently broken his arm. We immediately phoned our family physician, who verified our worst fears.

In time, the arm was carefully set, but other difficulties arose that called for an unusual prescription.

I looked at the clock—where could we get it filled at this late hour? We spoke to the doctor, who then picked up the phone and called "that man" out of bed—again "that man" (our neighborhood druggist) did not fail us.

Our neighborhood druggist never fails us! Should you, like most women, suffer discomforts during the menstrual period, just phone your druggist—he usually advises women to try Vatona Tablets—this may be just what you need!

PETER ENCOURAGES SUFFERING CHRISTIANS

LESSON TEXT—I Peter 4:12-19; 5:6-11.

GOLDEN TEXT—If any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God on this behalf. —I Peter 4:16.

"Sweet are the uses of adversity"—so says the poet, and it is true that God is able to make even the sufferings of man a source of blessing and an occasion for joy, "if a man suffer as a Christian" (I Pet. 4:16). In a world where sorrow and suffering have been heaped high by man's inhumanity to man, it is indeed appropriate that we think of the encouragement which God's Word gives to those who are in distress.

There are many helpful Scripture passages on this point, those before us today being from the writings of Peter to the Jews of the dispersion. Scattered abroad and no more under the guiding and protecting hand of Paul, Luke and the others, they were undergoing severe persecution for Christ's sake. Some were apparently disturbed by their trials, and Peter tells them that persecution should bring

I. No Surprise (4:12).

We ought to expect trials in this world; yes, severe fiery trials. Such things are common to all mankind, and the Christian should not expect to escape. To them, such trials are real tests of their faith, an opportunity to show to the unbelieving world that God is able to deliver those who put their trust in Him!

To be forewarned is to be forearmed. "Think it not strange concerning the fiery trial."

II. No Shame (4:13-16).

There are two senses in which the Christian is to be unashamed in the midst of suffering. In the first instance, he is not to be ashamed of the trial itself if he bears it for Christ's sake, for he is thus sharing Christ's sufferings. We cannot share in his substitutionary and sacrificial suffering on Calvary, but we can stand with Him who was indeed "a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief" (Isa. 53:3). In the second place, he is not to do anything which would justify others in making him suffer. It is a disgrace, a shame which injures the cause of Christ, when a believer has to suffer because he has broken the law, or because he is "a busybody (R. V. "meddler") in other men's matters." If you pry into others' affairs, expect to have your fingers stepped on, and don't expect God to deliver you out of it or honor you in that kind of suffering.

III. No Escape (4:17-19).

If the righteous find the difficulties and temptations in their way to be like fiery trials, if those who have the blessed presence of Christ to cheer and to guide them find it difficult at times to make their way through sorrow and sadness, what will the unbeliever do? Does he think that he shall escape? Surely not—and there is yet that day ahead when the believer shall enter into eternal peace, where sorrow and suffering shall be no more. Where will the unbeliever be in that day?

IV. No Worry (5:6, 7).

"Put care into Christ's bag," said George Herbert. "Treat your cares as you treat your sins. Hand them over to Jesus one by one as they occur, commit them to Him" (F. B. Meyer). He really cares about you—believe it and act upon it.

The cure for all worry is right there, but even as it is true that the meek shall "inherit the earth" (Matt. 5:5), so it is true that only the humble are ready to cast their cares on the Lord. "God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble . . . Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up" (James 4:6, 10).

V. No Wavering (5:8-11).

"Steady, perfected and established in Christ, strengthened by His grace, sure of the eternal call, and with the eye of faith on the glory to come, such is the man who is able and ready to successfully meet the devil when, like a roaring lion, he seeks to disturb and devour God's people.

Satan is busy in our day. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith says: "It is admitted everywhere by outstanding Christian leaders, in every sphere of life today, that there has never been a time, at least in our generation, when the temptations of Satan have been so fierce, so frequent, so constant, as just now. What Satan wants to do is to destroy the testimony of God's people, to take them out of places of power and influence for the gospel, to rob them of that joy, and victory, and power, by which, through their labors, others will be brought to confess the Lord Jesus Christ. Christian people today who are conscious of being fiercely assailed by evil ought not to be alarmed, but should realize that this experience of theirs is general, everywhere, of true believers, and that there is sufficient grace for every need in such dreadful times as these."

On the March!

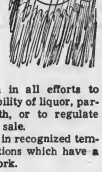
The handwriting on the wall records the eventual banishment of the liquor traffic—through action by common, every day citizens aroused by liquor abuses and fired with indignation.

This opinion was expressed by Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, president of National W.C.T.U., as she noted re-entry of the great Protestant churches in the active temperance field and credited them with the "tremendous upsurge of dry sentiment which the wets have acknowledged publicly."

"Onward Christian Soldiers"

"The terrible conditions prevailing as results of legalized liquor are beginning to stir Christian leaders to action. An awakening from a distressing apathy seems apparent," she added.

Sound public education on the liquor question is the most pressing, immediate need, Mrs. Smith declared, outlining for church and temperance workers a dual program of education and constructive action.



"The educational program is of vital need," she said. "When the truth about alcohol is understood by the citizens of this country, a public sentiment will be created which will make possible constructive action."

She listed five program steps:

1. Sound, factual education in "What Alcohol Is and What It Does."

2. Bringing back social disapproval of the drinker and the effects of liquor.

3. Protest radio and motion picture emphasis on liquor.

4. Participation in all efforts to reduce the availability of liquor, particularly for youth, or to regulate and to abolish its sale.

5. Participation in recognized temperance organizations which have a definite plan of work.

FARMERS' PART IN NATIONAL DEFENSE PROGRAM

Strong agriculture is vital to a strong national defense. The National Farm Program is being carried out by millions of American farmers throughout the Nation. The broad objective of this farm program—a more productive soil, adequate reserves safely stored, and economic equality for agriculture.

The Farm Program offers farmers the opportunity to contribute their share to the national defense while they work for the welfare of agriculture itself.

PARTICIPATE IN THE 1942 CONSERVATION PROGRAM

Farmers can participate in the Agricultural Conservation program this fall by carrying out the following practices. Each farm that makes out a farm plan can participate in the Conservation program and can earn the SOIL BUILDING ALLOWANCE established for the farm.

Educational Meetings in Various Communities

Educational meetings will be held at Crescent Springs, Independence, Oak Island, Bracht, and Fiskburg during August to explain the 1942 Conservation Program. Farmers interested in improving their soil resources should attend the meetings and make farm plans for the 1942 program.

Large number of farm practices can be used for the 1942 program. Farmers should acquaint themselves with the many practices and plan to use those that fit into your program best.

Approved Farm Practices for 1942 Conservation Program

Superphosphate. To be used on hay, grass, pasture and land (non depleting crops); 100 pounds triple superphosphate, one Unit; 240 pounds of 20 percent superphosphate, one Unit.

Potash. Application of 150 pounds to 50 percent muriate of potash or its equivalent, one Unit; (used on hay, grass, and pasture land).

Ground Limestone. 2,000 (one ton), one Unit.

Seeding Legumes

Alfalfa. Seeding approved varieties, one Unit for each acre, (on properly prepared land).

Winter Legumes. Crimson Clover, or vetch, one Unit per acre.

Timothy and Redtop, one fourth Unit per acre seeded.

Annual Lespedeza. Seeded in a perennial grass mixture, one half Unit per acre.

Other Legumes and Grasses. One half Unit per acre.

Winter Cover and Green Manure Crops. One Unit per acre.

Contour Stripcropping, Contour Furrowing, Terracing.

Dams in Gullies. See your county Committee about this practice. It can be used to advantage on many farms.

Forest Tree Planting. Three Units may be earned under this practice.

HOME GARDEN

Under the 1942 program Phosphate may be used on the "Farm Gardens for Home Use." Ground limestone and phosphate are needed in addition to manure on the home garden. Begin this fall to use limestone and phosphate on your home garden and earn your soil building allowance while you build up the fertility of your home garden. To have a good home garden in 1942 you need to begin this fall. Build up the fertility and use cover crops.

VITAMINS IN YOUR HOME GARDEN

If you want the vegetable in your garden to have the needed vitamins for health, be sure to use ground limestone, phosphate, manure or organic matter on your garden.

Lime and Phosphate Essential to Health

If you apply the necessary amounts of ground limestone and phosphate to your garden soils, the plants and vegetables grown in the garden will have lime and phosphate elements in such form that the body can use it to improve your health.

Garden soils which are deficient in lime material and phosphate elements cannot produce the healthy vegetables needed for the family table.

EVERY FARM NEEDS A PRODUCTIVE HOME GARDEN

In the 1942 conservation program farmers have an opportunity to use phosphate and ground limestone to improve their garden soils for home use.

Plans should be made to order your phosphate and ground limestone this fall so that it can be worked into the garden soil with a fall cover crop of some kind.

For most gardens of the yellow ridge soil types, two to three tons of ground limestone will be enough for one acre of home garden. Phosphate can be used at the rate of 400 to 600 pounds of 20 percent and 200 to 250 of triple superphosphate per acre of home garden. Disk or work it into the soil this fall with a cover crop.

MORGANSVILLE

"God is our refuge and strength," His sustaining grace upholds us as we pass through deep waters and fiery trials when we submit to His guidance.

"When the skies are overcast,
And the rain is falling fast,
Know the sun will shine again,
Earth be brighter for the rain.
If you find your days are blue,
Full of vexing problems, do
As others do when they are gay,
Then you will scatter clouds of gray."

M. J. CROSS PASSES

The shock of the sudden death of Mr. Michael Joseph Cross of Morning View, has brought deep sorrow to his household and wide circle of friends.

Despite blood transfusions, and every possible effort to prolong his stay, he sank into that dreamless slumber with the calm and sweet repose of eternal rest upon his brow.

Besides his devoted companion, Mrs. Irene Elliott Cross, to whom he was married April 29, 1917, he is survived by one son, Mr. Michael Charles Cross of Ludlow; and two daughters, Mrs. Neva Catherine Marsh of Verona, and Miss Norma Jo Cross, Morning View; one granddaughter, Little Miss Nancy Jean Cross; two sisters, Mrs. Henry Parr and Mrs. Estella Fisk and three brothers Charles, Leo and Albert Cross. Deepest sympathy is extended in the sad bereavement that has befallen them.

Following the last rites at St. Mary's church, Morning View, Monday morning, August 4, amid many lovely floral tributes, burial took place in the silent city of the dead, Independence cemetery.

"Not until the loom is silent and the shuttle ceases to fly,
Shall God unroll the canvas and explain the reason why
The dark threads are just as needful in the weaver's skillful hand,
As the threads of gold and silver in the pattern He has planned."

FRIENDLY NEIGHBORS

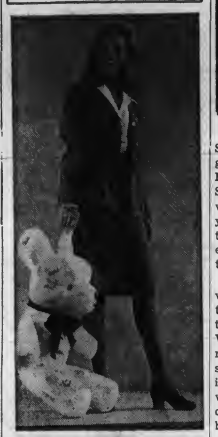
CHARLES EVANS HUGHES, former chief justice of the United States Supreme Court, chats with the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada, on the porch of Mr. Hughes' private cabin at Jasper Park Lodge in Jasper National Park, Canadian Rockies. The Canadian prime minister stopped over in Jasper to renew a friendship of many years' standing. The two last met 16 years ago when Mr. Hughes was secretary of state at Washington. "This is my fourth season in Jasper and I just love it," the former chief justice told the prime minister, who expressed his keen pleasure on the large number of American visitors in Jasper and other points in Canada this year.

What They Said One War Ago

(From August Good Housekeeping Magazine)

We are fighting for a worthy purpose, and shall not lay down our arms until that purpose has been achieved—King George V.

We must let ourselves be killed on the spot rather than retreat—General Joffre.



Remember that the German people are the chosen of God—Kaiser Wilhelm II.

We have room for but one language here, and that is the English language—Theodore Roosevelt.

They shall not pass—Marshal Petain.

We are handicapped by fair play. Principle hampers our strength. We fight with ideals dragging at our arms—Herbert Kaufman.

★ FASHION PREVIEW ★

As a backbone for your college wardrobe, this two-piece suit of gray men's wear flannel is just what you'll need. The August Good Housekeeping points to its long, loose jacket with mammoth pockets, its short skirt and fly front.

College Girls Create New Beauty Styles

FEW will dispute the fact that in setting vogues, college girls are important. A fad that pops out on one campus is soon adopted elsewhere and before long it's a nation-wide craze.

After questioning 10,000 college girls, the Good Housekeeping Beauty Clinic found that they give more thought to their hair, than to any other detail of appearance. And since they roll their own, says Ruth Murrin in the August issue of the magazine, they are experts with curlers, bobby pins and combs. They are veering away from the simple long bob, are wearing their hair in ruffled halos or up in front and down in back. They like pompadours and bangs; are mad about braids. When their hair is out of curl, they wear tight, little-girl pigtails; when they want to look glamorous, they deck soft braids with ribbons or flowers.

According to Miss Murrin, they don't like to look made-up, but they don't disdain any cosmetic that will give them the natural-but-beautiful effect they crave. They leave their eyes as they are for the campus but touch them up for dates.

Nail polish is their paint, Miss Murrin has found. On their nails it is the modest medium tint; but with gaudier shades they paint the rims of their glasses, their shoes, their bobby pins, the junk jewelry they concoct fantastically from such unpromising items as safety pins, nail files and paper clips.

Rising prices make it necessary that civilian consumers choose garments and accessories wisely, and that they accept new fabrics and new mixtures of fabrics created to take the place of staple fabrics required for the use by Army or Navy. Thus "What We Can Do for National Defense in the Clothing Field," was incorporated in the discussions.

The sermon topic for the morning service at the Methodist church, is in the form of a very important question: "Do We Know Christ?" Everyone without a single exception, must answer this question at one time or another. The more quickly we find the satisfactory answer, the better it will be for us and those we influence.

The Church school is at 9:45. The public is invited to this and all other services of the church. Every person should be in some church's activities. The need of the church is as great as ever before and it is anxious to help all who will come under its influence.

Interesting Program at Unveiling of Plaque at Verona, Saturday

A happy thought found fruition, when, on the afternoon of August 16, approximately 75 alumni met to honor the memory of Miss N. E. Hamilton, who so freely gave herself in the service of teaching, a bronze plaque was placed in the Verona school building, with this fitting inscription: "In loving memory of Nancy Elizabeth Hamilton, a pioneer in education, a gifted teacher who lives in the hearts of her pupils—an outstanding citizen—promotor of community betterment—tenure of teaching—1858-1923."

Former students, grateful for having been privileged to drink at the fountain of knowledge under her tutelage, and glad to enjoy a few hours of fellowship with old schoolmates, gathered from several states for this occasion.

An appropriate program, over which Miss Irene Hudson graciously presided, was presented. Mrs. Alice Chapman and Mrs. Pattie Waller acted on the reception committee.

The program opened with group singing of "America," led by Lee Myers of Cincinnati, and was followed by the repeating of the 23rd Psalm; Mrs. G. C. Ransom and Mrs. J. L. Hamilton then favored the gathering with a lovely piano duet.

John L. Vest, in giving one of the main talks of the afternoon, in a reminiscent mood, recalled some incidents of "ye olden" school days. Mrs. James W. Huey then played a much-enjoyed piano solo.

This Week In Defense

President Roosevelt and Britain's Prime Minister Churchill held a series of secret conferences at sea and jointly issued a declaration of national policies calling for:

No territorial "aggrandizement," no territorial changes not in accord with the will of the people concerned, right of all peoples to choose their form of government, equal access to the raw materials of the world needed for prosperi nternational cooperation for improved living standards, safety to all nations within their own borders from fear and want, freedom of the seas, disarmament and other measures to lighten "the crushing burden" of armaments.

Assistant Secretary of State Berle, speaking in Washington, said "it is the plan of this Government, when the tides of barbarity shall be rolled back, to turn the full measure of its economic strength to bringing help, relief and sustenance to the . . . many countries . . . now cold (and) hungry.

Production

OPM Director Knudsen, speaking in New York, said that by next July defense production will be at its peak and "after that America can write its own ticket on war material and it can be twice anybody else's ticket." To do this, however, small communities and manufacturers must be willing to bend together to seek defense work, he said.

William Batt, deputy production director, speaking in New York, said the Government and large corporations are more anxious to give work to small contractors now than a few months ago because of the great pressure of work today.

Agriculture

Agriculture Secretary Wickard announced there is no prospect of food rationing "in the foreseeable future" although the nation may have to depend more on some foods than others. He said there are 17 percent more cattle on feed for market in the 11 cornbelt States than a year ago and the corn crop will exceed last year's by nearly 150,000,000 bushels.

In a letter to Mr. Wickard, the President said "increases in the production of vital foods and feeds is reassuring (because) food is a weapon against Hitlerism just as much as munitions . . ."

The CCC agreed to furlough enrollees so they might help harvest where labor shortages exist. The work would be voluntary and the enrollees would receive the prevailing wage. Congress passed a measure forbidding the Government to dispose of any cotton or wheat now in its bins except for domestic and foreign relief, export or lease-lend aid. The bill also permits farmers to use excess wheat for feed or food without penalty and extends 85 percent parity loans to peanut growers.

Air

The OPM announced 1,460 military planes were produced in July. War Under Secretary Patterson, dedicating a new plane factory, said the monthly output of combat planes increased 114 percent in the last nine months and production of other military planes increased 105 percent. Speaking at the same ceremonies, Chief of Army Air Corps Brett said that American planes abroad have had "great success."

Army

Congress approved an 18-month extension of service for selectees, reserve officers and National Guardsmen and voted to increase by $10 the monthly basic pay of all except officers after the first year of service.

The Senate committee investigating the defense program issued a report stating that costs of the Army a $1,400,000,000 camp construction program were "unduly and unnecessarily high" because of lack of planning. War Under Secretary Patterson replied that delays, cold weather, labor and material shortages and other "almost insurmountable difficulties" the camps were ready before the time set for troop arrival and the American Army "is now the best housed Army in the world."

Economic Defense

The Economic Defense Board, composed of Vice-President Wallace and ranking Cabinet officers, met for the first time and outlined two undisclosed projects to coordinate and strengthen the nation's economic defense. The National Resources Planning Board issued a booklet, "After Defense — What?," calling upon public and private agencies to start immediate planning to prevent chaos after the emergency. The Board stated that if adequate post-defense employment plans were not ready and another depression allowed to set in, the nation could lose everything it is now striving to defend.

Labor

A WPA survey showed unemployment declined 300,000 in July to 5,600,000—nearly 4,000,000 less than last July. The Bureau of Employment Security reported job placements of persons under 21 years increased 78 percent in the past year. The Bureau also reported placements of Negroes are 47 percent higher than six months ago. The Committee on Fair Employment Practice announced Army, Navy and Maritime Commission contracts now contain clauses prohibiting hiring discrimination because of race, creed, color or national origin.

The War Department announced defense strikes increased from 24 involving 14,000 workers last week, to 28 strikes involving 21,700 men as of August 15. The U. S. Conciliation Service settled 26 disputes. Acting Navy Secretary Bard said the strike at the Federal Shipbuilding Company, Kearny, N. J., causes a daily loss of more than 200,000 man-hours of work on vitally needed combat ships.

The President suspended the eight-hour day for mechanics and laborers of the air Department working on airfields, troop housing and similar projects in order to rush completion.

Price and Priorities

The OPACS set ceiling prices three and one-half cents a pound on raw sugar, duty paid at New York, three-tenths of a cent under August 11 prices, and advised consumers not to pay more than present retail prices under any circumstances. Ceiling prices on rayon will be set shortly, the agency said.

OPM placed steel under full priority control, asked all pig-iron producers to set aside two percent of September output, and prohibited further manufacture of white auto tires to conserve rubber and zinc.

Inflation Control

The President gave the Governors of the Federal Reserve System control over installment buying to prevent a volume of easy credit to consumers so large it would cause inflation by increasing the demand for goods at a time the supply is growing less. The Governors announced regulations regarding down-payments, length of loans and types of credit would restrict installment buying of autos, refrigerators, washing machines, vacuum cleaners and other durable goods but would not affect charge accounts at grocery and department stores.

Oil

Defense Petroleum Coordinator Ickes said the first full week of the 7-to-7 "curfew" for 100,000 East coast gas stations showed virtually 100 percent cooperation with little employment loss but sales in the Eastern States were 13 percent higher than this time last year. He said "rigid steps" will have to be taken to restrict sales.

License Plate Metal

The OPACS requested State motor vehicle officials to require motorists to hand in their 1941 license plates when they get 1942 tags. The OPACS arranged for metal for the new tags because time was too short to seek substitutes but stated no sheet steel will be available for 1943 tags.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Inflation is the "little man upon the stair" in Washington these days. Some observers say that he is already clearly visible; others argue that he isn't there right now, but that he soon will be. But whatever they may think about the immediate picture, most Washingtonians agree that the subject of inflation is probably the biggest one at the capital at the present time.

Demonstration of this belief is the fact that hearings on the Henderson price control bill have been the best summer box office attraction in Washington. It is unusual for members of Congress to attend any hearing but those of committees upon which they serve, but in this instance two rows of seats were reserved up front in the hearings room for the solons who desired to attend—and those chairs were filled regularly.

In addition to Congressmen, virtually every department or agency of the government had its own official observer. The implications of inflation, or of price control efforts aimed at halting it, are so broad that they are likely to affect nearly every branch of government activity.

Leon Henderson, sponsor of the original measure on which hearings were opened, made it clear in his testimony that he thought Congress would enact wage control (or wage ceiling) legislation within the year. But he did not advocate this as part of his own price control bill, apparently feeling that wages should be regulated by some other government agency than the one which he himself heads. In other words, he contends that wage control and price control are two different problems.

This approach is reminiscent of the old story about the man who kicked his companion in the leg and then asked, "Why does your mouth cry out when it's your shin that's been hurt?" Economists are pointing out in connection with the price hearings a fact that ought to be clear even to laymen: that wages are a factor in determining prices, and that if wages rise considerably, prices will rise also.

From this point of view, facts on wages are being studied here with extreme care. Thus, for example, the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported that average wage increases for the first six months of 1941 ranged from 4.9 per cent to 9.6 per cent, affecting more than 2¼ million workers in more than five thousand manufacturing establishments. About one point there can be little disagreement: these rises will inevitably have a very direct effect upon prices in the industries concerned. You can't put a jack under an automobile, start raising the pack, and expect the car to stay at exactly the same height.

No one really concerned with the inflation danger wants to see these points passed over lightly in the testimony. There is a feeling that it would be easier politically to put a ceiling on prices than to put one on the factors that go into making up prices. The only trouble is that in doing so, an economic law would be so badly violated that no workable result would have been achieved.

The President himself has said virtually the last word on this difficult subject of prices. Here's Mr. Roosevelt's analysis:

"There cannot be price stability if labor costs rise abnormally—Labor has far more to gain from price stability than from abnormal wage increases, for these are likely to be illusary and quickly overtaken by sharp rises in living cost. . . .

"Labor as a whole, fares best from a labor policy which recognizes that wages in the defense industries should not substantially exceed the prevailing wage rates in comparable non-defense industries where fair labor practices have been maintained."

Facing facts like those would be a good start towards handling the "little man upon the stair"—the danger of inflation.

Red clover threshed in Madison county far exceeds last year's supply, it is estimated.

Money Talks

By Frederick Stamm, Economist Director of Adult Education UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

The improved condition of the farmers in this country is reflected by a recent report on the farm real estate market issued by the Department of Agriculture. This report shows that the Federal Land Banks now hold less than $100,000,000 worth of farms which is a low record since 1934.

Tenant farmers constituted nearly one-half of all the buyers the first six months of this year as compared with only 16% last year. Better prices for farm products have made it possible for tenants to acquire the farms on which they have been working.

Another indication of greatly improved agricultural conditions is the fact that during the first six months of this year the Federal Land Banks foreclosed on only 3,044 mortgages which marks a decrease of 40% from the foreclosures of the first six months of 1940.

Agricultural prices have moved up to a point where farmers can make some money. With wheat selling around $1.10; soy beans, $1.40; hogs, $11.50 to $12.00; veal calves, $14.50, etc., farmers should make an effort to pay a little more on their mortgages or put some money in the bank. Prices are not always going to stay on this war time level, and I believe this is the time to sacrifice a little to get out of debt.

The last world war should be a lesson to us. Farm prices rose to the highest levels we have ever seen but many farmers bought more land at high prices and mortgaged it to the hilt. Then during 1921 and 1922 when farm prices collapsed, mortgages were foreclosed and farmers lost. If farmers use this high-price period to get their "financial home" in order, rather than to speculate in land, they should be in excellent shape to withstand a post war fall in prices. "To make hay while the sun shines" holds good just as much in money affairs as out in the hay or wheat fields. Pay off that mortgage while prices are high and free yourself of many financial worries later on.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

BY Gordon Wilson, Ph.D. WESTERN KENTUCKY TEACHERS COLLEGE BOWLING GREEN, KY.

THE EXHIBITION

Many old terms are losing their former associations, none more than "exhibition," which used to mean the grand finale of the school term. It has been years since I even heard the word with this connotation. But a half century or less ago this was the sense always intended.

Friday afternoons were, as I have already said in this column, the time for extra-curricular activities, especially the speaking of pieces. Most of the middle-aged lawyers and preachers of our time got their start in public speaking by learning and saying poems or orations at the old country school. Almost anything would do for a Friday-afternoon "speech," but there must be something special for the exhibition. The teacher took a hand and taught the children declamations and poems and dialogues. For several days before the school ended, we spent a good part of our time practicing, for we knew the general public, represented by some parents and grown-up young people would come in to see us perform and to participate in the treat that would be given by the teacher. Some of the children assumed that the best way to make a speech is to hurry through it as fast as words can be pronounced; these were the ones the teacher practiced most, but usually with poor results. My special delight was to talk very loudly and very fast; few could drown me out or keep up with me. I am sorry that the teacher had little effect on me in my eagerness to be heard and also to get through.

Not alone in the country school was this love for the exhibition prominent. In private schools that called themselves colleges the same eagerness to orate was evident. My own alma mater in the earlier days of my association with it required of each student who graduated some two or three "term finals" a year, speeches prepared, memorized, and delivered before the student body. Sometimes, I find from my old diary, I listened to thirty of these in a single week-end, most of them dreary in the extreme. I gave several myself, passing on some of the misery I had felt. Before my time it was customary in many schools to require each graduate to deliver an oration on graduation day. This custom persisted down until only a few years ago in many high schools. I recall that I, the commencement speaker at a certain Kentucky high school, did not get started on my speech until ten o'clock, for the nine graduates had to make speeches, not to mention the various musical numbers. The night was very warm, and so was I; I made a full-hour address in revenge. Some of this animus was due to the memory of the long hours that I had suffered in "term final" days.

Schools have grown so large in our time that the speaking of pieces by all the graduates would make the program last all night. The custom now, a very good one, is to limit the speeches, in most high schools but not all any longer, to the two students who had the highest scores on their four years of academic work. Sometimes I have been pleasantly surprised by the freshness and originality of some of these, but I also recall that I have heard some saultatory speech three times in a single season. Just how the budding orators of today will get the training once offered by the exhibition I do not know. Evidently there have been plenty of chances somewhere, for I notice that the political candidates of today have much of the old-time frenzy we had when we said our pieces just before the candy and apples and oranges were passed around.

DOZING BY THE RIVER

MANY slow rivers empty their red freight from the Piedmont into the Gulf. Not many people have ever heard of the Piedmont. They don't know that this area between the mountains and the coastal plain marks the boundary between enterprise and sloth.

Both black and white just sit on squalid porches and talk.

Nowhere is one so reminded of this as a. Apalachicola. It is a small town on the banks of a river, both named from the Indians who once lived there. Today the village seems asleep, lives in the past, and in spite of pamphlets issued by the Chamber of Commerce, it seems doomed to gradual stagnation.

The inhabitants of this Florida hamlet talk of the glories of the place as a port, of the only two famous men who ever lived there, but many of their neighbors, both black and white, just sit on squalid porches and talk.

Slowly the red river flows past them, almost as stagnant as the mental outlook of the people. It has risen hundreds of miles northward, flowed through prosperous cotton farms and thriving industrial cities. But the blight of the coastal plain seems to be reflected in the slow meandering of the stream. That blight is malaria.

The disease is the curse of the South, especially along rivers like the Apalachicola, which in spring freshets flood thousands of acres of flat land. Mosquitoes and malaria are inevitable, and figures issued by the Florida State Board of Health show that this corner of the state is one of the worst in America.

Quinine, of course, would control this condition, but not enough people know it, know the correct dosage, nor that it is a cheap and safe remedy for this plague. And some are too poor to buy the little that is needed, which seems tragic considering how little it is. Malaria experts have many times pointed out that 20 grains of quinine per day for 5-7 days is all that is needed. The total requirements of Apalachicola would not amount to a fraction of what is lost annually both here and throughout the South because malaria saps ambition and kills initiative.

ISN'T IT A RELIEF — by "Elec"

IT'S A FACT! The cost of food and other essentials is going up, due to circumstances beyond the control of your local merchants, but there's one item in the cost of living—electricity—that not only defies this trend but actually costs less today than ever before. Year by year, the unit cost of electricity has come down until today the average customer of this company receives 53% more electricity for his money than he did in 1931. The dollars you spend for food, clothing and other necessities are steadily shrinking in value, but your electric dollar buys more today than it ever did.

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man": (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

NAGGING BACKACHE

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Don't Neglect It!

Modern life with its ceaseless hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion whatnot, keeps doctors busy, hospitals crowded. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and oftentimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.

After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.

Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbance sometimes are burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. They have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Be sure to get Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

INTERESTING PROGRAM—

esting excerpts from letters, which were received from Mrs. Stella O'Neal Hubble, Somerset, Ky.; Miss Madeline Pfeiffer, St. Joseph, Mo., a former teacher with Miss Hamilton; Miss Eunice Hudson, Tolleson, Ariz.; and Mrs. Mollie Cleek, Walton, Ky.

Brief talks were given by Mrs. Mary Ransom Aldeman, Bristol, Tenn.; Mrs. Nora Wolfe Bush, Flemingburg, Ky.; Mrs. Ella Turner Dugan, Vevay, Ind.; Mrs. Martha May Hamilton, Covington, Ky.; Mr. John Weisenberg, Covington, Ky.; and Rev. John E. Roberts, Walton, Ky.

Rev. A. K. Johnson delivered the principal address, dedicating the plaque.

The audience filed into the lower hall for the unveiling of the plaque.

The program closed with the united singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

It was a pleasant coincidence that there was in attendance, one who had been a pupil in "Miss Nannie's" first school, having attended in 1874 and 1875, in the old store building at Verona. This was Mrs. Mollie Cleek, of Walton, who had the honor of being the oldest pupil present.

G. C. Ransom, treasurer of the Memorial fund, reported that contributions for the fund had been received from 130 former pupils now residing in 14 different states, as well as numerous letters paying tribute to Mis Nannie.

Refreshments of punch and cake were served by the committee, which was composed of Mrs. Barnet Franks, Mrs. Bess Conrad and Miss Louise Conrad.

And now may the plaque, the outcome of a pleasant inspiriation, be as a sentinal, and an inspiritation, not only to the pupils who will constantly see it, but moreso the teachers who must pass it each day, to give of their best to those whose lives they have such a large part in moulding, just as Miss Hamilton gave so unstintingly of her's.

SHEEPMEN TO MEET—

Friday, August 29th, at 1:00 p. m., to approve claims for all sheep losses incurred during the year by members.

The County Association on September 1st will have completed its third successful year of operation. Sheep losses from dogs have been remarkably low compared with former years. The greatest benefit from the Association is greater confidence in sheep production in the county. The result has been many new sheep raisers and an increase in the size of flocks owned by members.

The Association offers its services to all sheepmen of the county. Membership fees are low and at the same time the Association has built up a strong reserve. Those desiring membership should join by the September meeting as the cost of protection is the same whether it is for one month or the full twelve months period from September 1st to the next September 1st.

WALTON 4-H CLUB NEWS

On Wednesday, August 6th, Mr. Franklin Frazier, our new assistant county agent, Mrs. Mary Scott Moore, the substitute home demonstration agent, Mrs. Walter W. King, community club leader, and five members, Mildred King, Mary Louise McCubbin, Beverly Jean Pruett, Clara Evelyn Haney and Jean Pennington met at 9:00 a. m. at the Walton schoolhouse.

We visited the home of every member viewing his projects. At noon we ate a lunch consisting of sandwiches, pickles, fruits, lemonade and cookies on the lawn of Mrs. King's home.

After lunch we played various games and then we held our business meeting.

Twelve members were dropped from the club.

After making plans to attend the county fair and exhibit their products, the club members repeated the 4-H pledge and adjourned.

On our tour we were sorry to learn that two of our girls, Bessie Jean Ford and Lillian Burdine, and Miss Gillaspie were ill, and our club wishes them all a speedy recovery.

Mary Louise McCubbin, Reporter

Mrs. Walter W. King, Walton Community Club leader, was elected as a 4-H Council member by the Walton 4-H Club members on Wednesday, August 6.

We are sure Mrs. King will represent our club to the best of her ability as she has always been an active leader in our club and we appreciate all of her efforts to make us good club members.

SPECIAL EVENTS AT FAIR—

and according to Mrs. Moore, substitute Home Demonstration Agent, it will be necessary to close the entry books promptly so that judging can be done on schedule. Early entries will be given prominent display positions. All who plan to show in this department, will please get entries in early. A splendid crew of committee members are appointed to assist in this Department.

4-H Club Show

Cash and merchandise premiums for entries in each of the Home Economics departments are offered. The clothing project work will be featured in division by unit along with the record books of this work. A Style Revue Saturday afternoon will climax this show.

Foods Units will exhibit biscuit, cake, candy, rolls, gift boxes and scrap books along with records of their work. The canning will be a separate display and will feature fruits, vegetables, jelly and juices along with records on this work.

There will also be opportunity for the girls to enter their room improvement booklets and record books.

Every club member should be encouraged to exhibit project work under every division where eligible.

Utopia Club

The Utopia Club girls will compete in Room Improvement, canning, and landscaping divisions.

This show should be interesting and large. Nice project work has been done by these girls and they are anxious to display it. There are 6 rings in the canning exhibit including fruit, vegetables, meat, jelly and pickles. Some entries for the State Fair will be chosen from the display.

The flower show for these young folks will be interesting too. They will exhibit cut flowers and dining table arrangements.

Homemakers Exhibits

The feature of the Homemakers' department at the Fair will be the exhibit of rugs and mats made by the members during the past year through their Major Project study. Many of the articles seen in the recent rug show will again be shown along with newer ones. Every Homemaker is urged to participate in this exhibit. Premiums and ribbons are available in each division.

The new garden vegetables will be arrayed to compete for ribbons and a table lamp. This is the Homemaker's chance to show her neighbor how she has added variety to her menu as well as her garden plan.

The canning exhibit of fruits and vegetables should be one of the largest in fair history. County and club demonstrations have increased interest in beautiful canned products. The "Live at Home" program has encouraged the use of canning budgets so many more foods have been canned this year. The premiums and ribbons offered in this show are desirable.

Open Class

Attention is here called to the open class exhibits which may be entered by anyone. Premiums are attractive in this division also. Everyone is urged to get out the quilts and select the best cotton patchwork and cotton applique and bring to the fair. This display will really be a large sample of painstaking Boone county handiwork.

A summer flower show at the fair will call to mind the successful tulip show held last spring. There are many colorful flowers blooming now, both of the garden and field varieties. Bring them in. Arrange artistically and compete for these ribbons and premiums. There is also an open class entry for largest variety of garden vegetables. Even through the hot weather many things have survived. Bring what you have and "swell" the show and you may "swell" your purse too.

Remember this is your fair and county picnic. Let's all render our full support and be there. Help make the 1941 event the best on record. Come, bring your dinner, or eat on the grounds—rub shoulders with old friends—meet new ones.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for August 24

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE WRITER OF HEBREWS EXPLAINS THE NEW COVENANT

LESSON TEXT—Hebrews 9:11-22.

GOLDEN TEXT—Being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him.—Hebrews 5:9.

The infinite superiority of the Lord Jesus Christ, in both person and work, is a theme which the writer of Hebrews presented to encourage Hebrew Christians who were suffering much for their faith (Heb. 10:32) and were being tempted to turn back to Judaism (Heb. 2:1; 3:12). His purpose was not only to stem the tide of unbelief and discouragement, but to urge them to go on to better things (6:1-3) because of the better covenant under which they had come as believers in Christ.

The portion of the chapter before us deals with the heart of the matter in presenting the sacrifice of Christ as being superior to all the sacrifices of the Old Testament. The verses are somewhat difficult to outline, but the following, adapted in a measure from Dr. W. H. Griffith Thomas, will be helpful.

I. The Ministry of Christ—a Better Ministry (vv. 11-14).

Every act of worship calls for a sanctuary and a worshiper. Under the old covenant the Jews were familiar with the tabernacle into which their priests went daily, and the holy of holies into which the high priest went once a year with the blood of goats and bulls; but now under the new covenant they had

1. A Better Priest and Sanctuary (v. 11).

No longer do we need the mediating priesthood of a fellow man set apart for that office, for Christ Himself has become a High Priest and is the "one mediator between God and men" (I Tim. 2:5), yet He is not one "who cannot be touched with the feelings of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin" (Heb. 4:15).

2. A Better Sacrifice and Blessing (v 12).

The blood of Christ, the perfect and final sacrifice for sin, resulted in a once-for-all solution of the sin problem and provided the blessing of eternal redemption.

3. A Better Result (vv. 13, 14).

The sacrifices of the Mosaic ritual had an outward result. They "removed ceremonial disabilities, they restored the unclean to fellowship, they kept the chosen people in covenant relation with God." They "did sanctify and cleanse the flesh; how much more the blood of Christ" (Moorehead). His sacrifice gave spiritual cleansing, the cleansing of the "conscience from dead works to serve the living God" (v. 14).

II. The Ministry of Christ—an Efficacious Ministry (vv. 15-22).

This ministry of our High Priest, Christ, is well characterized by the word "efficacious," which means "having the effective energy to produce an effect." He came into the world "to save sinners" (I Tim. 1:15), and He did it. We note

1. The Power of the New Ministry (v. 15).

The surrender of Christ even unto death gives validity and efficacy to the new covenant. "All the transgressions of the old covenant had been treasured up; the death of Christ gave satisfaction to all that that covenant could claim, and brought release. So the Mediator of the new covenant begins an entirely new economy, with sin put away by the sacrifice of Himself, and an open path to the beginning of a new life in the favor and power of God" (Andrew Murray).

2. The Guarantee of the New Ministry (vv. 16, 17).

Speaking of our redemption as an eternal inheritance (v. 15) naturally leads to the thought that a testament or will does not become effective until the death of the testator. God has "blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ: according as he hath chosen us in him before the foundation of the world" (Eph. 1:3, 4). He has bequeathed all that to us, and the bequest is made certain by His death. That means that not only our salvation, but "everything we have had, even our temporal mercies, are a part of those purchased and bequeathed blessings; everything is sanctified by the precious death of our Lord Jesus Christ.

3. The Confirmation of the New Ministry (vv. 18-22).

The shedding of blood on Calvary's tree for the remission of sin was not a new or strange thing. The proof for that is given by referring to all of the old covenant procedure for the cleansing of the sinner. How was it brought about? Through blood. In that Old Testament covenant it was the blood of goats and bulls, not sufficient to perfectly cleanse the spirit of man nor give him once-for-all remission, but nonetheless a type of the better sacrifice of the Lamb of God.

Then "let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering (for he is faithful that promised.)" (Heb. 10:23).

In Conclusion

If he has the facts, the average American citizen will decide any major problem on a basis of what is most beneficial to his home, his community, and his nation. But, he must have all the facts.

The great temperance forces, which include most of the Protestant churches, know that by themselves they can not solve the nation's liquor problem. They serve by presenting the facts.

This series of temperance articles, sponsored by the 500,000 members of W.C.T.U., and presented in co-operation with this and other newspapers, has been an effort to present these basic facts.

Given those facts, the action taken rests with the people. But, temperance leaders believe that when Mr. and Mrs. Citizen have the straight facts they will know how to deal with alcohol, just like they have dealt with other social menaces such as white slavery, opium, and marijuana.

The Worried Wets.

Repeal Associates, headed by Pierre S. du Pont, is generally recognized as the group which brought back beer, wine and whisky with an amazing 1919 to 1933 propaganda campaign. Fletcher Dobyns, a veteran lawyer-writer, analyzed the Associates' most effective methods as sponsoring public disregard for the nation's laws.

"Wets' Big Guns"

The wet organization is again fighting temperance, recently announcing a "nationwide drive against the trend toward prohibition," according to Newsweek.

Noting this revival, President Ida B. Wise Smith of National W.C.T.U declared: "The wets are bringing up their big guns; they must be worried."

AUGUST AND SEPTEMBER GREENS'-SOWING TIME

According to John S. Gardner, August and September are greens'-sowing time, also the time to start getting the garden ready for the winter, by sowing cover crops.

As beans, sweetcorn and many of the other earlier vegetables are harvested, the space should be cleared of the weeds and crabgrass, and sowings of Seven Top, Siberian kale, Essex rape and King of Denmark spinach made. As a "new" green, Tendergreen or "mustard-spinach" might be tried. It is quicker than ordinary mustard and of much higher quality.

Also, table turnips, Purple Top Globe or Purple Top Strapleaved, and the yellow "Swede" turnips, Golden Neckless Rutabaga, should be started.

Each may be sown alone or in a mixture including all. Thus, and sowing continuously, as space offers, one should "hit" somewhere along the line. The seed may be broadcast, but drilling is better as offering more opportunity to spray for any insect pests that may come.

The extra greens serve as a cover crop, to some extent, but after it is thought that enough greens have been sown, small grain may be used instead. In fact, sowing down all vacated spaces with barley, wheat or rye, and with it a half-sowing of greens, will assure enough greens and a dependable winter cover. See "August" and "September," Kentucky Extension Circular 343.

The importance of a COVER CROP for the garden cannot be over-emphasized, as saving topsoil and plantfood, and as abating the weed nuisance in 1942.

Doings of The REDS

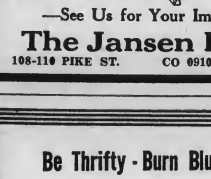
After their home series against the Chicago Cubs, which started with single games Friday and Saturday, and concluded with a doubleheader Sunday, the Reds headed for the road. They will visit all four of the eastern cities before returning to their own ball yard to meet the St. Louis Cardinals in single games Saturday and Sunday, August 30 and 31, then will make for the road again for visits to Chicago, Pittsburgh, and St. Louis.

This eastern trip is starting off with a bang. They're scheduled for three straight doubleheaders at Philadelphia, which will give them four in succession, as two games were listed against the Cubs on the final day of their home stand. Following this siege of twin bills, the Reds will move into the cooling confines of Boston's National League Park to battle the Braves in three single games.

A doubleheader in New York is due for Sunday, August 24, then two more single games on the following Monday and Tuasdey, before the Reds move into Brooklyn for a night game on Wednesday, August 27. Thursday, August 28, an exhibition game will be played off day, and on August 30 and 31 at Syracuse, August 29 will be an the Cards will oppose the Reds at Crosley Field.

An event of importance during the past week was the signing of a new two year contract by Manager Bill McKechnie. The new document will run through the 1943 season. In announcing the signing, General Manager Warren C. Giles said, "When Mr. Crosley authorized me to offer Bill another two year contract, he asked me to say for him that he was very happy to have Bill with us and hoped he would be here for a long time. Renewal of contracts of managers are in effect a reward for past achievements and expressions of confidence for future service. These both apply in the case of Bill. He has done a great job and I'm sure he will continue to do so."

McKechnie certainly has done a magnificent job in Cincinnati. He took over a last place club in 1937, raised it to fourth in his first yaer, 1938, won the National League pennant in 1939 and the pennant and world's championship in 1940. This year his team has been third and fourth most of the year. They pay off on results in baseball, and McKechnie has produced them.



Last month Todd county farmers had 1,200 feet of terraces laid out, and work on them has begun.

Twenty-one Graves county farmers, who have newly-built farm reservoirs, are stocking them with fish.

MORGANSVILLE

"As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about His people from henceforth even forever." He ever encompasses us by His love. At times, however, when life brings us many difficulties and we are bowed under heavy clouds He may seem far away and His face hidden, but someday when the clouds disperse, we can see the beauty of His radiant smile and know the fullness of His unchanging love.

Rev. I. E. Enlow of Dry Ridge will assist the pastor, Rev. Osborne, in a series of evangelistic meetings at Oak Island Baptist church, beginning August 16. A cordial welcome awaits all. May many realize that eternal destiny is trembling in the balance of decision, and turn to the path which is crimsoned by the blood of Him who gave Himself for them.

Much to the gratification of many friends, Dr. E. F. Wolfe, of Edgewood, is improving, after his recent illness.

Mrs. Wright and Miss Alberta Davis of near Atwood, paid a pleasant call Tuesday afternoon. Gratefully appreciated was the beautiful bed-side prayer and lovely quart of grape jelly.

Appreciated cards were received from Mr. John Riggs and Mr. and Mrs. John Klein, who recently enjoyed a delightful motor tour through Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Kansas.

On Tuesday evening a lovely miscellaneous "shower" was given at the residence of Mrs. Inez Bonar, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoffman, jr., Delightful refreshments were served, and the rooms were aglow with happiness and good cheer. Most heartily do we thank the hostess for delicious cake.

Enjoying the festivities were: Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Morgan and Charles, Jackie and Bessie Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent L. Stephenson and Donald, Mr. and Mrs. James Davis, Mr. Harold Bonar, Mrs. Arthur Steely and daughter, Mr. Ellis Callen, Miss Lula Callen, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Hoffman, grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Pruett, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Moffett and children and others whose names we failed to learn.

GUARDS ARE QUESTION-MARKS ON U. K. FOOTBALL TEAM FOR COMING SEASON

Kentucky is weaker on paper this fall, but football games aren't played on paper.

That's what Ab Kirwan, classical ringmaster of Kentucky's Wildcats says of his team's chanses for the 1941 season.

Speaking more specifically, the youthful coach has a three-fold problem; ends, guards and blocking backs.

"I've got a dozen kids to fill these positions but they are all untried. They have the natural ability, but I don't know how they will operate under varsity bombardment."

In his forthright manner, Kirwan frankly admits his team has possibilities for a good season. "Maybe they'll do as well as the '39 team which won six games, lost two, and tied one.

"Our ends are new and plenty green, but I believe they have the ability. The guards, like the ends, are green and not very big. This is probably our weakest spot. In the backfield we're fine except for the blocking quarterback — and here again we have the boys who have the ability but are untried.

"We're strong in the middle of the line with Sam "Preacher" Hulette and Charley Bill Walker alternating at the center post."

Kentucky appears to be stronger at the tackle slot than at any other spot. The South's best sophomore tackle, Clark Wood, a 210-pound Huntington, W. Va., product returns as a junior this fall. Clyde "Big Stoop" Johnson, the South's largest footballer with his six-feet six-inch frame will operate from the other side of the line.

"The guards are our question marks," Coach Kirwan points out. Lee Preston, a Louisville sophomore, and Jack Casner, from Ft. Thomas, will probably be the starting guards.

HIS ARMS FELL OFF
Or They Felt Like It—From Steering Wheel Shake of Unbalanced Front Wheels.
Hard and tiresome driving is [illegible] in many cases by front wheels [illegible] out of balance. Not only that but [illegible] unsafe to drive at reasonably high speeds with unbalanced wheels.

Unbalanced Wheels have been known to throw the car out of control to such an extent that it would leave the road or a collision would result.
Unbalanced wheels hammer the bearings of the front end assembly and wear them out prematurely.
Unbalanced wheels are caused by shimming tires—uneven wear of tread—addition of patches—improper mounting of tires—loss of balance weights. YOUR WHEELS SHOULD BE CHECKED REGULARLY.
Prepare your car for safer and more pleasant driving by coming into our Wheel Balancing Department and having your wheels checked and balanced. It can be done in a short time and the cost is small.

Learning HOW for Defense Work

Prof. Barnwell of Stevens Institute Praises Youngsters' Enthusiasm—Experts Helping Thousands to Learn Machine Tool Procedure.

At Stevens Institute of Technology, George W. Barnwell, Professor of Production Practice, has been instructing and turning out some very fine young engineers for a number of years. Some of them today are occupying important positions in the National Defense program. Just ahead of him is perhaps an even more important task — aiding thousands of men of all ages who heretofore have been unable to obtain instruction, to acquire a sufficient knowledge of machine shop practice to make themselves of real value to Defense industries.

Professor Barnwell has compiled and edited a book that fills a great present industrial need—the New Encyclopedia of Machine Shop Practice — a 576 page volume, in practical, understandable, non-technical English, with nearly 1000 illustrations and covering 2800 separate items. It is within the reach of everyone, for it will cost less than two dollars.

"It has been my experience that many young men are better off and happier with a combined use of their hands and their heads, rather than merely using their heads alone to earn a living," remarked Professor Barnwell. "Throughout the country, youngsters today are enthusiastic about getting into Defense industries and are showing a splendid patriotic spirit.

"In the past, one of the greatest handicaps to ambitious, mechanically-inclined boys was that books on the subject they needed most were too costly. Within the next ten days this new book will be published and many who live in places where elementary training is not available, will be able to learn a surprising amount from it — knowledge that will enable them to advance much more rapidly when they obtain jobs in industry. There is an appalling shortage of machinists and trained men. Wages are high. Many companies welcome applicants who have some basic knowledge and desire further practical training."

The book to which a score of practical experts have contributed, and which is published by Wm. H. Wise & Co., 50 West 47th St., New York, opens with what is in effect a complete home-study course in one chapter on the use of hand tools. It then covers the whole area of metal working by modern machinery—machine tool operations, turret and automatic lathes, thread-cutting, milling, planing, shaping, gear cutting, jigs and fixtures, punch press operations, forging, welding, cutting, brazing and foundry practice and the use of precision instruments in the shop.

Young Men Offered Good Training by Navy

At the suggestion of Secretary of Navy Knox, Malcolm Simpson of the Walton Advertiser, has been made Navy Editor, to help the Navy in giving ambitious local young men information about the opportunities the "Two-Ocean Navy" offers them for technical training and advancement as they serve their country in its emergency.

According to an announcement made public in Washington, a limited number of additional men between the ages of 17 and 50 will be given a chance, by enlistment in the Navy or Naval Reserve, to get to the top, with big pay, in jobs which by their aptitude and as a result of examination they show themselves fitted, from among nearly 50 different trades and vocations. These include such callings as aviation machinist, dental technician, photographer, diesel engineer, radio technicians, electrician, welder, storekeeper and baker. Enlisted men may also qualify for commissions as officers.

Beginning this week, the Navy plans for a limited time to accept new qualified men for training. These men will be sent to one of four Naval Training Stations and may have a chance to go to a Navy Trade School even before assignment to the fleet. During this period they will be given regular Navy pay and the Navy's free schooling is valued at hundreds of dollars.

"Never in the history of the United States has there been greater opportunity for loyal young Americans to serve their country and build their futures than right now," said Secretary Knox.

THIEVES ENTER DRY RIDGE HOME

Thieves took advantage of the absence of the owners, when they ransacked the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson of Dry Ridge, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson with Harry Reed and Harold Wilson of Crittenden had spent Saturday and Saturday night at the Dearborn Fair at Lawrenceburg, Indiana, and upon returning home, discovered their house in great disorder.

Harley Jones, a neighbor of the Wilsons', saw three "tramps" at the Wilson place Saturday afternoon, became suspicious, and notified the authorities at Williamstown. The three men slipped out of the Wilson home, through a field bordering the highway and caught a ride to Sherman. Here they caught another ride with Jimmie Gibson, to Walton, where they were apprehended by the Grant county authorities and the State Police.

The three "boys" who were reported to be Ludlow youths, had in their possesion a gold class ring and a gold band wedding ring belonging to Mrs. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Jones identified the suspects and they confessed.

Mrs. Wilson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Johnson of Walton.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Although the dramatic Roosevelt-Churchill sea meeting was tended to throw domestic news into the background, it has at the same time focused attention more strongly than before on American defense efforts. In the light of the statement by Lord Beaverbrook, British Supply Minister, that Britain needs "more and more of everything," officials here say that our defense program will be expanded from beginning to end. The fact that it will probably exceed all previous estimates brings up again the problem of "bottleneck-busting."

One of the bottlenecks that is coming in for more consideration is that of discrimination against workers who want to work and who have the necessary skills but who, either because they don't belong to a union or because they can't join one, are barred from employment.

Already there is a serious shortage of skilled labor in many sections of the country, and the increasing demands of defense production are making it more imperative than ever that everyone who can work should be allowed to do so. Because of strikes and racial discrimination many people at the present time are not given that right. It is pointed out here that Negroes, for example, often face an insurmountable barrier in this connection. While the President has barred such discrimination in defense jobs, the path that leads to such employment is still not entirely open to them.

The discrimination that is leveled against them by labor unions like many of those affiliated with the American Federation of Labor is one of the primary causes of this condition, according to informed sources. The A. F. of L. still permits its member trade unions to write clauses in their constitutions barring Negroes from membership in them and specifically setting forth a definite racial characteristic as a requirement for membership. Phrases like "any white person" . . . "applicants for membership must be white" . . . "any moral person of the white race" occur again and again. The phraseology differs slightly, but the idea stays the same.

On closed shop jobs Negroes are thus effectively barred from work, regardless of how badly their contribution may be needed by the industries involved. When Congress looks into racial discrimination against Negroes, observers are wondering what will be the reaction of the A. F. of L. now that William Green, its preseident has been named a member of the Fair Practices committee, organized to enforce the edict against racial discrimination in defense.

The problem is admittedly a complicated one, and while its existence may be traced to several factors, those familiar with the facts point out that the industries involved are not to blame. Industry has taken the position that the "right to work is one of the most sacred rights of every individual" and should not be denied.

A statement issued by Walter D. Fuller, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, says that "such union restrictions and the least tangible but realistic prejudices of fellow workers are far more important factors than any arbitrary discrimination on the part of employers. Generally speaking, employers seek efficient workers and are glad to employ those who can contribute to production. . . ."

Now that the subject is out in the open, observers are wondering what the Government will do about the existence of official discrimination in its own ranks. The Army's policy that Negroes shall be enrolled and trained in segregated units has often been mentioned in this connection, but there are many other instances that could be cited.

Opinion in informed quarters is suggesting that some officials have sought to concentrate the heat engendered in this issue on industry, whereas the fact seems to be that both the Government and labor might well put their own houses in order.

Money Talks

By Frederick Stamm, Economist Director of Adult Education
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

Installment buying must be restricted, we are told. Americans have been buying too much on a "shoestring", and this must be stopped. The Federal Government is determined to curtail the use of consumers' goods so it will have more to pour into defense industries. It also believes this is a good way to put a curb on inflation. If we are going to buy automobiles, radios, washing machines, etc., from now on we must have more money in our pockets for down payments.

Just how large a down payment must be make according to present plans? In the case of new and used automobiles we must pay one-third down and the remainder in eighteen months. The down payment on radios, household refrigerators, washing machines, and vcauum cleaners will be twenty per cent and the balance in eighteen months. If you buy a furnace or a stoker, or put in plumbing and sanitary fixtures, you must pay fifteen per cent down. It looks like the dollar-down-and-a-dollar-a-week era is gone.

How will the business man be affected? Under the proposed plan retailers as well as banks, finance, and loan companies will be subject to strict regulations.

Retailers will probably be given blanket licenses good until December 31, 1941, but thereafter they will probably have to apply for licenses. It will be well for all retailers doing installment sales business to contact their trade association, if they belong to one, or to have their Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce write to Washington in order that they may know the latest developments.

Extension of installment credit will greatly increase the paper work of retailers. All installment transactions will have to be evidenced by a written record including such items as a description of the article, price, down payment, balance and terms of payment. All this will undoubtedly add to the cost of doing business.

In Mercer county, 8,637 sheep had been dipped by the end of last month.

Whitley county farmers shipped 110 tons of potatoes to city markets, cooperatively, as well as selling small amounts locally.

ROSE-COLORED SPECTACLES

"And were all the experiences of other days delightful?" some people ask me. No, very frankly, life was not even so pleasant for us then as now, in spite of the rosy hues that are often cast over things that are already receding into the distance. Many of the things we did were almost pure joy; others had about an equal portion of the good and the bad; but there were decidedly too many that caused sorrow and fear. Viewed years later, some of these seem very silly, but they were real enough to children and to many an older person.

Fear was our worst enemy. We feared our parents, rather mild people they seem now. Always there was the tradition that one's parents had power over us; the church and the school never let us forget that we were subjects and not masters. We feared the government: a summons to appear before court made brave men turn pale, though the court was made up of people we knew and respected. I can recall when everything connected with a church had a fear attached; however crude the building was, I could never regard it as just another building. Many of my neighbors were afraid to pass a church at night, almost as afraid as when they passed a cemetery. None of the churches in my immediate neighborhood had a graveyard attached; hence the fear could not have been founded on this. We feared thunderstorms and sought a featherbed when the lightning got too bright. And the woods were full of things, visible and invisible, that we knew would eat us up, though most of the wild animals were no larger and fiercer than cottontails and raccoons. But there were left over the wild stories of panthers and other varmints, stories that I believed as implicitly as I believed the Bible. Nearly every section had its haunted house, the cause of many a chilly backbone. We lived in a world of fear and often had to resort to big talk or loud whitsling to keep our courage up.

Death was all around us. The necessary killing of farm animals never became a matter of course to some of us. I have seen grown men turn pale when a hog was struck or a mule bled for blind staggers. Snakes and hawks were made especially to kill, we seemed to think; there was a fiendish delight in taking life. Since so little was known about sanitation and the germ theory of disease, we saw people die unnecessarily and shivered with fear that we would be next. The only time in recent years that I have seen a fear of death comparable with that which we lived under long ago was the period of the first influenza attack in 1918, when the best doctors did not know what to do and when strong, large men died like stricken animals. Sensationists in our time, and there were plenty of them, lost no opportunity to hold death before us as something horrible, even when they were telling us of the joys of the hereafter.

Injustice hurt then as now. We learned piously that the good is always rewarded, and we saw, often, the worst people getting the best rewards. Taught to fear a lie as one might fear fire and brimstone, we saw liars get by earthly punishment and laugh at the rest of us who refused to lie to save our skins. Children then as now could not always get a long-headed view of things; thus they cried themselves to sleep because of the injustice of the great puzzling world.

No, it was not all rosy. Our joys seemed at best stolen. We were constantly reminded by bearded wisdom that we had better laugh while we could, for we would be incapable of laughter later in life. No one stood as a model of how to face life and enjoy it; the emphasis was on defeatism. To have survived this philosophy makes most of us a bit older than our chronological age.

"Not dead—just born beyond the shadows
Into the full, clear light
Forever done with mist and clouds and tempest,
Where all is calm and bright.
Not dead—but past all fear of dying
And with all suffering o'er,
Say not that she is dead
When she has been called to live forevermore."

A shadow was cast upon a wide circle of relatives and friends when Mrs. Mary Belle Schnabel (nee Elliott) left the earth for the eternal hills, August 11, 1941.

She was the daughter of Wm. Thomas and Louisa Elliott, born August 28, 1862, and passed on at St. Elizabeth hospital, at the advanced age of almost 79 years.

On November 28, 1883 she was united in marriage to the late Mr. Henry Schnabel, who preceded her in death December 7, 1939.

In early life she became a follower of Christ, uniting with the Goshen Christian church.

From the residence of her beloved niece, Mrs. Carrie Frost Dorsey at Fiskburg, the remains were followed to the Goshen church, where the last rites were conducted by Rev. Stewart Mills, followed by interment in the churchyard cemetery, where she sweetly slumbers in the quietude of the hills amid beautiful floral tributes.

Deepest sympathy is extended to John Seewald, who for more than 40 years had made his home with her, and to all who tread the lonely path of sorrow. They wish to express their appreciation to friends and neighbors for the kindness shown them in their hour of sorrow.

"They are not dead who live in hearts they leave behind, In those whom they have blest, they live a life again."

Kentucky's $20,000,000 legalized beer industry is proud of the good name enjoyed by beer, the wholesome beverage of moderation. Hence, we do not want the patronage of Kentucky's few law-breaking retail beer outlets.

Will Ignorance Cure Malaria?

AMERICAN health officers were as amused as those in the Transvaal by newspaper announcements of two new "cures" for malaria—one from South Carolina.

From South Carolina, where the malaria rate is much too high, an old southern negro announces his

Some have their own "cures."

"cure." It consists in boring a hole into an oak tree, blowing into the hole, and then plugging it with a wooden peg!

If this does not seem so good neither does that from the Transvaal, which is now in the midst of its "winter." It seems that to prevent malaria the adherents of the South African "cure" bundle up in heavy overcoats, with woolen gloves and mufflers for good measure.

Both "cures" go back to magic—the bad old days when any nonsense passed for medicine if only it was announced solemnly enough. The older and more ignorant the author the bette —his "cure" must come from som. inner or mystical vision denied to most of us.

The amazing thing is that these "cures" ever get into print and that people even more credulous than their inventors still believe such stuff. But these two are recent, in spite of the fact that for many years it has been well known that mosquitoes cause malaria, and quinine will cure it.

It is now over forty years since Sir Ronald Ross absolutely demonstrated that only through the bite of an infected mosquito could one get malaria. And quinine was discovered in 1820, since when it has been the world wide remedy for malaria.

So true is that that the United States Public Health Service has issued a recommendation as to the dosage of quinine. Neither the South Carolina negro, nor the becoated natives of the Transvaal will ever read it. But their respective Health Departments have been telling them that as a cure of malaria, 20 grains of quinine for 5-7 days is just a little better than boring holes in trees or wearing overcoats in tropical regions.

This Week In Defense

In a radio address to the Army on the reasons for extension of selective service, War Secretary Stimson said the Government realized the personal sacrifice of additional service, but was also conscious of the danger to the U. S. He said, "some of the most significant symptoms . . . which invariably forecast the coming of a new Axis attack . . . are occurring in South America, . . . the most dangerous avenue of attack against us."

The War Department announced that unless the international situation becomes more serious it intends to release by December 10 approximately 150,000 National Guardsmen inducted last fall, 20,000 selectees inducted last November and December, and 10,000 Reserve Officers. The releases will be made upon application in accordance with the following priorities: dependency and hardship, age of more than 28 on July 1, 1941, and marriage for those who have served 12 months. Men completing enlistments will also be released on request.

Aid to Britain, Russia, China

The President announced aircraft ferry and air transport services to West Africa and the Middle-Eastern war zone to provide direct and speedy delivery to "a critical point in the front against aggression. . ." The route will be so arranged that it will not pass through the zone of actual warfare, Mr. Roosevelt said.

The President told his press conference Russian needs fall into two categories: (1) materials immediately available to help them in their summer campaign; (2) materials which will be available for the spring campaign next year. Russia will not get lend-lease aid, the President said, because the Soviets have the necessary cash for materials.

The Public Health Service announced a 16-member U. S. medical commission will go to China to direct health measures for 250,000 Chinese building the 1,700 mile railroad along the Burma road.

Production

President Roosevelt told his press conference that on the average defense production is up to estimates and in some cases actually exceeds estimates. He said, however, he still is not satisfied with armament production. He said several hundred tanks manufactured this year have gone to the British; the quota of 61 anti-aircraft guns monthly is being more than met; 160 37-mm. anti-tank guns will be delivered in August, 260 in September and 320 in October; 340 81-mm. mortars will be made in August.

OPM Director Knudsen told a press conference the rate of defense progress is sufficient to provide adequate equipment for the Army within six or seven months. He predicted again the U. S. can out-produce any other nation but said that the nation is still not showing the correct spirit. Production rather than shipping, he said, is the greatest bottleneck in U. S. aid to Britain.

War Under Secretary Patterson, speaking at Syracuse, said the Army will not have to resort to broomsticks instead of weapons for training because "America is at last pushing toward peak production. . . . Tooling up will soon be over. Guns, tanks and planes are coming in daily increasing numbers." He cited production increases in the past six months: tanks, 800 percent; other vehicles, 600 percent; machine guns, 225 percent; anti-aircraft guns, 400 percent; smokeless powder, 400 percent.

Civilian Supply

OPM and the Office of Price Administration ordered auto production for the 1942 model year cut to 817,000 cars during the four months beginning August 1, compared with 1,560,000 during the four months ended July 31. General Motors, Chrysler and Ford were asked to make a 27.6 percent cut from last year's levels; Studebaker, Hudson, Nash, Packard, Willys and Crosley 20.2.

OPM Associate Director Hillman said unemployment in the industry would be headed off by transfer of workers to defense plants and other defense industries and the conversion of auto production machinery to defense work along the same lines as similar moves in the silk industry.

Defense Contracting

The OPM announced changes in Army and Navy purchasing policies to combat unemployment in plants and communities threatened with shortages of materials because of priority action and to utilize more of the nation's productive capacities through subcontracting. The Government can negotiate contracts at prices up to 15 percent above current quotations, deal with joint groups of small contractors, eliminate bids and performance bonds when necessary, inspect products at the plant to facilitate prompt payment and call for bids to be broken down into optional units to permit smaller firms to bid.

Agriculture

Price Administrator Henderson set ceiling prices of burlap, used in the packaging of feed fertilizer and agricultural products at approximately 20 percent below recent New York quotations.

OPM announced 35 to 40 new egg-drying plants will be built by private interests at a cost of from $50,000 to $100,000 each in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana; Kansas, Minnesota, New York, Tennessee, Wisconsin, and Ohio, increasing capacity from 12,000,000 to more than 10,000,000 pounds annually to provide dried eggs to Britain. Similar projects are under consideration to expand milk drying, cheese and other concentrated food production for American and British requirements.

Civilian Defense

Civilian Defense Director LaGuardia arranged for the first State-wide "blackout" to be held the night of September 12 in New Mexico. Twelve towns will be "bombed," fires will be started in vacant lots and other emergencies will be rehearsed.

Mr. LaGuardia also announced a traveling program for 100,000 volunteer nurses' aides with the collaboration of the Red Cross and local hospitals. The Public Health Service called for 50,000 young women to begin professional nursing training this fall to meet a future shortage. At present, the Service said, there are 10,000 vacant positions for registered nurses in the nation's hospitals.

Credit Control

The Federal Reserve Board issued tentative regulations which it said will probably be placed in effect in September to increase the required size of down payments on installment buying (they will be from 15 to 33 percent) and to shorten to 18 months the time for payments on autos, airplanes, power boats, motorcycles, refrigerators, washing machines, stoves, air-conditionesr, radio sets and similar household appliances.

Oil

Deputy Petroleum Coordinator Davies reported only a 10-day supply of gasoline reserves on the Atlantic seaboard and Price Administrator Henderson ordered a 10 percent cut in deliveries to filling stations in East coast States. Filling station operators were told to reduce gas sales to their customers "equitably" but to allow necessary fuel to commercial, public and health vehicles.

Ships

Maritime Commission Chairman Land, speaking in California, said the immediate goal in ship production is more than 1200 merchant ships by the end of 1943 and the U. S. would be producing an average of two ships a day until then.

The Navy launched the sixth submarine since January 1 and announced that during the first half of August two minesweepers, two torpedo boats and two district craft were launched and 18 keels laid.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist. YOUNG MEN OFFERED GOOD TRAINING BY NAVY

tages offered by enlistment in the United States Navy, Mr. Simpson, Navy Editor of the Advertiser said, "It is possible for a bright young man to increase his pay seven times during his first enlistment and he can earn as much as $126 a month. This monthly figure is actually worth much more when it is remembered that the man has few living expenses and is provided with the finest of medical and dental care.

"You have all your food and lodging, and also your original outfit of clothing provided by Uncle Sam free," Mr. Simpson continued. "In addition there are free sports and entertainment—even to the latest Hollywood pictures. On top of this you get free travel and adventure in colorful places—a thing few civilians can afford.

"When you consider the size of this country and the fact that the Navy will select only 15,000 applicants a month from many times that number throughout the United States, the quotation, 'Many are called but few are chosen," will apply to local young men interested.

"Navy men are a 'hand-picked lot. Candidates must be men of more than average intelligence acter and must have the written and ambition, of fine moral char-recommendation of at least two local townspeople."

As Navy Editor, Mr. Simpson has just received from Washington a supply of free illustrated booklets for all men interested and, in addition, will welcome inquiries from young men who wish to look into the new and greater opportunities the Navy now offers for training for future civilian careers as they serve their country now in its emergency.

Farmers Urged to Act Immediately

Boone county farmers should act immediately to carry out 100% of their 1941-42 AAA soil building practice allowances, according to County Agent H. R. Forkner. Failure to earn 100% of the allowance means failure to make most profitable use of soil improvement possibilities in farming.

Preliminary reports indicate that farmers earned less of their 1940-41 allowance for the year closing July 1st than they did in the two previous years. Failure to reach previous accomplishments was due first to the seasonal effect of the ten month year in changing the year from August 31st to August 31st to this year from August 31st to June 30th. Second, failure of farmers to check up on their allowance earnings and third to take fuller advantages of grant-of-aid materials such as limestone and phosphate.

This year farmers have a golden opportunity to earn most of their allowances during the early fall. Farmers can secure Grant of Aid delivery of limestone, phosphate and vetch seed. Both phosphate and vetch are available at much lower rates than they can be purchased. Farmers may pile their own rock and have them crushed in many instances cheaper than the ground stone is supplied as Grant of Aid. In any instance the farmer can secure between 80 and 100% of his soil building allowance in the form of limestone, phosphate or vetch in lieu of cash payments when the practices are carried out.

Farmers are urged to act now. Now is an ideal time to seed vetch, apply limestone or phosphate. These materials may all be much harder to get next year.

SHEEP ASSOCIATION DIRECTORS TO MEET

The Boone County Sheep Protective Association directors will meet at Burlington on Friday, August 29th, at 1:00 p. m. to approve Association claims and losses for 1940-41 year ending August 31st, according to H. BUY FERTILIZER NOW TO BE CERTAIN OF NEEDS, FARMERS TOLD Transportation Systems Face Highest Traffic Peak.

CHICAGO.—With rising defense demands confronting the railroads and truck lines with the heaviest traffic volume in years, farmers were urged to purchase their fertilizers earlier than usual this year to help ease the strain on the nation's transportation systems.

"By so doing," says a statement by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, "they can avoid the possibility of delays in delivery later on and assure themselves of adequate supplies of fertilizer at planting time.

Car Construction Lags.

"The ability of the rail and truck lines to handle the constantly growing volume of freight depends as much on the cooperation of farmers as it does on industrial shippers. Every car and truck load moved now will help relieve the carriers of extra burdens when traffic reaches its peak a few weeks hence."

The transportation problem is complicated by the fact that new freight car construction is lagging behind schedule, according to the transportation commissioner of the Council of National Defense.

Victory or defeat of America's defense program, the statement concludes, depends as much on transportation and farm production as it does on the output of guns and planes.

Farmers Can Help.

"The transportation systems need all the help they can get in meeting their problems. Farmers can cooperate by placing orders for fertilizer and other supplies running into tonnage now instead of waiting until later on. They can reinforce their own food producing efforts as well.

"In the vital job of growing abundant crops for defense needs, the productivity of the soil is of No. 1 importance. By combining sound farming practices with the use of fertilizers containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, farmers can increase the per acre yield of their crops and improve the all-around fertility level of their soil."

DEFENSE EFFORT TESTS METTLE OF RAILS AND TRUCKS

CHICAGO. — All-out defense efforts, plus more civilian jobs and fatter pay envelopes, resulted in a 17.3 per cent increase in freight car loadings handled by American railroads in the first six months of 1941, compared with the corresponding period of 1940.

With peak traffic periods still ahead, the increase for the entire year of 1941 over 1940 is expected by some authorities to total at least 5,000,000 carloads.

"Threats of a possible shortage of freight cars later on," says an agricultural bulletin, "make it advisable for farmers to place their orders as soon as possible for supplies such as fertilizers, machinery, etc., that run into tonnage. It should be emphasized that not only railroads, but trucks, as well, are being called on to carry an increasingly heavy traffic load.

"Agriculture is being called on to produce food in larger quantities as part of the defense program. Farmers can accomplish this effectively if their soil is given the benefit of fertility-building plant foods. By ordering such supplies now they can reduce the strain on the nation's transportation system and assure themselves of adequate quantities later on."

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for August 31

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

JOHN URGES CHRISTIAN LOVE

LESSON TEXT—I John 3:13-18; 4:7-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth.—I John 3:18.

Love is a word so abused in modern speech that one almost hesitates to use it, and yet it stands for the very finest in all human relationships, and presents to us the very essence of the nature of God. We do well to redefine the meaning of love in our Sunday school classes this next Sunday. Love is not that sentimental, "wishy-washy" feeling which prompts the writing of emotional ballads, which are (like the supposed love of which they speak) "here today and gone tomorrow." Nor is it that lustful thing which now parades itself shamelessly as love when it is nothing but animal passion. Nor is it that weak thing which totalitarian dictators make it out to be when they declare that to attain, a people must hate, not love.

"Love is a desire for and delight in the welfare of another." It reaches out to all mankind, coming from God and being manifested in the gift of His Son as our Saviour. It is stronger than any earthly bonds. It is able to bear unbelievable burdens; yes, because He loved us Christ bore the sins of the whole world on Calvary. It expresses itself in courtesy, in high standards of life, and in sacrifice. Love is, as Henry Drummond put it, "the greatest thing in the world." Read I Corinthians 13 for Paul's exalted description of love.

Our lesson reveals two important facts about love—

I. Love Is an Evidence of Regeneration (I John 3:13-18).

There are two groups of people, the saved and the unsaved. The unsaved in Scripture are designated as "the world," meaning, not the physical world, but the world of unregenerate men who are against our God and His Christ. The saved are those who have come to God in Christ, who love Him and are in the center of His love. That love is, according to John, an evidence that we know God. There is an interesting contrast here.

1. The World Hates and Kills (vv. 13-15).

Today the wicked heart of man apart from Christ is revealed in the tragic events which have embroiled the whole world in conflict.

The point is that we as Christians should not be surprised if that kind of a world hates us. In fact, we should be troubled if it does not hate us, for if our Christianity means anything, it must be utterly distasteful to a world driven by hatred and the lust for blood.

2. The Christian Loves and Gives (vv. 14, 16-18).

The mark of a Christian is love for God and love for the brethren. That love demonstrates its genuineness by giving freely to meet the need of a brother, just as God freely gave His Son for our redemption. (cf. James 2:14-17).

The background of such an attitude is a proper understanding of our relationship to God, and an appreciation of His nature.

II. The Very Nature of God Is Love (I John 4:7-21).

God not only loves, but He is love.

1. God Is Love (vv. 7, 8).

"Love is the very essence of His moral nature. He is the source of all love" (R. A. Torrey). Only the one who knows God as love knows Him at all.

There is much thoughtless and meaningless talk about the love of God, as though it meant that He is careless about enforcing His divine law, that somehow He will overlook and excuse careless and wicked living. The fact is that the love of God has no real meaning unless it is understood in the light of the cross, for

2. God's Love Is Manifested in Christ (vv. 9-16).

He was sent as the giver of eternal life, the propitiation for our sins, our Saviour, and thus as the highest and deepest expression of God's love. Faith in Christ (v. 15) puts the believer in the very center of the love of God. Precious hiding place!

3. Love Casts Out Fear (vv. 17-19).

Fellowship is impossible in an atmosphere of fear, but love rules fear out. In Christ we realize that God first loved us, and then our hearts go out to Him in a warmth of devotion which brings us so close to Him that all fear is gone. The result of such fellowship with God follows, for

4. He Who Loves God Loves His Brother (vv. 20, 21).

If a man loves God, he will obey Him, and His command, which to the Christian is, "Love your brother." That is "the first and great commandment" (Matt. 22:36-40; Deut. 6:5; Luke 10:25-28). There is no use in our talking about loving God if we have no love for the brethren, for in doing so we make God testify against us that we are liars (v. 20).

Drunk Mothers

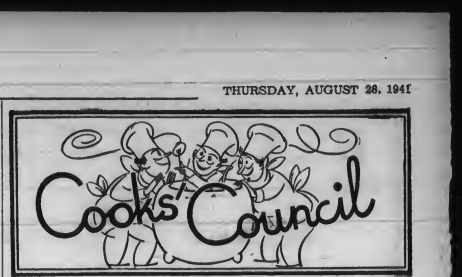
A serious national problem, peculiar to this post-repeal age, is that of drinking mothers, wives, and daughters.

Alcoholism among women was never a problem in former days. Throughout American history—until 1933—women were more like the followers of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union; they abstained themselves and they tried by persuasion, religion, and legislation to keep alcohol away from their menfolk.

"Yesterday's Wife"

Even today, the W. C. T. U., the great women's organizations, the churches are proof that most women still are not drinkers.

Yet, these groups are concerned over the increase in women drinkers, such as that reported in a Chicago newspaper in mid-1941.



The secretary of the Illinois Humane Society reported more drinking among women than for 40 years. The director said: "We've more trouble than we ever had with women neglecting their families."

This one society reported seven out of 15 court cases where mothers preferred drinking to looking after their families, four were alcoholics and were placed in institutions.

Another report, from a widely-known alcoholism institute, says that addiction is more prevalent among housewives and mothers than among career women. The average age of the feminine alcoholic was given as a little over forty years.

The report reads: "The women in business or a profession can not afford to drink to excess . . . Sooner or later their economic loss results. On the other hand the family of the married woman who drinks usually conspire to conceal her weakness from the outside world. At first her alcoholic habits are not apparent, as she drinks during the day when her husband is at work, her children at school. Eventually, as she is no longer able to hide the after effect of intoxication behind her plea of headache or illness, her family is ashamed and guards her secret more closely than ever."

Sauces for Savor

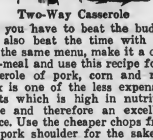
The special function of a sauce for meat is to enhance its flavor—to draw attention to the deliciousness of the meat without in any way overshadowing it. Both the less expensive cuts and those that are more tender and juicy are the more appreciated for a cleverly chosen sauce.

In general, sauces add either piquancy of flavor or richness to the meat, depending upon which the particular cut needs. Tomato ketchup may be used on all meats because it gives a combination of both qualities without either of them being outstanding. It also makes a good base for different kinds of hot or cold sauces to be used on different types of meats.

In the recipe below its spiciness is heightened with pure cider vinegar and Worcestershire sauce to make it into a delicious barbecue sauce. The recipe following it is a simpler one combining the ketchup with mustard for something different to serve with hamburgers. Canned home-style consommé provides the main ingredient for the third recipe below and makes a sweet pickle sauce that gives a flavor fillip to grilled ham slices.

Barbecued Steak

Combine—
1 pound ground round steak
1 teaspoon salt.
Form to resemble a steak one-inch thick.
Brown on both sides in—
2 tablespoons fat.
Combine—
½ cup tomato ketchup
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon pure cider vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar.
Mix and pour over steak, then cover and simmer very slowly 10 to 15 minutes, or until sauce is thick enough to cling to steak. Serve hot with the sauce.



Sharp Sauce for Hamburgers

Combine equal portions of tomato ketchup and prepared yellow mustard. Mix thoroughly and heat if desired.

Sweet Pickle Sauce

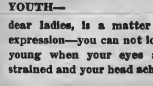
Melt—
2 tablespoons butter.
Add, blending well—
2 tablespoons flour.
Cook until bubbling, then add—
1 cup prepared home-style consommé.
Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened.
Add—
2 tablespoons India relish
Dash pepper.
Hold over low heat long enough to allow pickle flavor to permeate sauce (about 5 minutes). Serve hot with grilled ham slices. Serves four.

Two-Way Casserole

If you have to beat the budget and also beat the time with one and the same menu, make it a one-dish-meal and use this recipe for a casserole of pork, corn and rice. Pork is one of the less expensive meats which is high in nutritive value and therefore an excellent choice. Use the cheaper chops from the pork shoulder for the sake of economy and serve with a crisp green salad, completing the meal with stewed or canned fruit for dessert.

Though a time and money saver, this dish is one of the best for flavor. That is another point in economy, for foods which taste good give your family their full measure of enjoyment. Thus prepared home-style cream of mushroom soup is added to the casserole just before baking—its creamy richness bakes into the rice and chops as they cook.

Pork and Corn with Rice



Have prepared—
3 cups cooked rice, buttered.
Brown until well cooked—
6 medium pork shoulder chops.
Place half of rice in baking pan and top with pork chops.
Spread with—
1 cup whole kernel corn.
Pour over corn part of—
1 small (10-oz.) can home-style cream of mushroom soup.
Then top with remaining rice and soup. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 30 minutes. Serves six.

SEEDING RATES FOR 1942 AAA PROGRAM

Minimum seeding rates for legumes and grasses adopted by the Kentucky AAA cimmittee for all farmers in the State qualifying for soil-building payments in the 1942 Agricultural Conservation Program have been announced by the State AAA office.

These rates are as follows: Alfalfa, 12 pounds per acre; red clover, 8 pounds, alsike clover, 6 pounds; sweet clover, (hulled) 10 pounds; sweet clover, (unhulled) 20 pounds; crimson clover, 12 pounds; vetch, 15 pounds with a small grain cover crop; sericea, 15 pounds; bluegrass, 12 pounds, orchard grass, 10 pounds; redtop, 5 pounds; timothy 8 pounds; reed canary grass, 10 pounds; rye grass, 15 pounds; and meadow fescue, 12 pounds.

No credit will be allowed for seeding lespedeza except when the lespedeza is part of a mixture or when it is seeded in perennial grasses. When it is seeded alone in perennial grasses the minimum rate for credit is 12 pounds per acre.

When most of the approved legumes and grasses are seeded as a mixture, the minimum amount of each type of seed is governed by the number of kinds of seeds in the mixture. If two types of seeds are used the minimum rate for each is one-half the rate for that seed alone. If three types of seeds are used, the minimum for each is one-third of the rate for that seed when sown alone; etc. These rates for mixtures do not apply to crimson clover and vetch, however. These legumes must be seeded at the full minimum rate whether they are seeded alone or in mixtures.

Inoculation is required for seedings of vetch for credit as a soil-building practice, and agronomists of the Kentucky College of Agriculture recommend innoculation for alfalfa and sweet clover.

AAA officials point out that these minimum rates may not be sufficient under certain conditions to insure a good stand. Where good farming practices indicates a need, they advise a heavier seeding.

Vetch seed can be obtained as a grant of aid at the county office Independence Bank Building.

Vetch should be seeded not later than September 10 to 15 to get a maximum growth before winter sets in.

ADMINISTRATOR OUTLINES DEFENSE WORK

The Agricultural defence effort will be concerned primarily with production and with adjustments in production, R. M. Evans, AAA Administrator, stated recently in outlining the job of AAA county chairmen who head County Agricultural Defense Boards of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"We are living in a time of swift change and we must be prepared to adapt our thinking and our action to the times," the administrator urged.

The defense board task will be two-fold, Evans said. First will be specific defense projects of the department and second will be coordination of agricultural defense with agencies outside the department.

Crops Need Well Rounded Diet Same as Do Livestock

CHICAGO. — Placing plant food within handy reach of growing crops is as important to farm profits as setting feed within easy reach of hungry livestock, according to a statement issued here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Crops need a well-rounded ration the same as cattle," the statement points out. "A farmer's responsibility does not end merely in supplying his soil with fertilizer. His job is effectively done only if he places that fertilizer where it will do the most good."

Well Fed Soil Produces Bumper Corn Crop.

The practical value of correct fertilizer placement has been demonstrated by thousands of corn growers throughout the Middle West.

"Ten years ago many corn growers applied all the fertilizer broadcast or part in row and part broadcast. But the rapid improvement in equipment for applying fertilizer near the row or hill and the higher yields resulting from this method, have encouraged farmers to adopt this system of placement."

CHRISTIAN PASTOR ANNOUNCES SUBJECT FOR SUN.

"Those Who Vex the Church" will be the subject of the message next Sunday morning at the First Christian church. The pastor urges every member of the congregation to be present for this service, which will be the beginning of our Fall program of advance.

The Official Board will meet at 6:30. The Bible school meets at 9:45. The evening service will be adjourned because of the revival meeting in progress at the Baptist church.

Walton May Get New School Bldg.

According to W. F. Coop, superintendent of Walton and Verona schools, there will be a meeting of the local board of education on Monday night of next week to discuss ways and means of erecting a new school building in Walton. Architects will meet with the board at this time, and an effort will be made to procure WPA funds for the proposed project.

Walton sorely needs a new school, the present one having been outmoded years ago, and we sincerely hope the Board will receive the wholehearted support of everyone in this school district in bringing the culmination of this proposed venture.

All good things must come to an end, and thus it was with summer vacation, when the local school opened at 8:45 Tuesday morning for the 1941-42 term.

Assembly was held in the auditorium, with Rev. D. E. Bedinger in charge of the devotional. He was assisted by Rev. C. J. Alford of the Walton Baptist church, and Rev. O. J. Steger of Covington. However, one familiar personage was missing at this school opening, and it was none other than John L. Vest. This was the first time in 28 years that Mr. Vest had missed a school opening—another tradition broken.

An unusually large number of parents were present, something faculty members are always glad to see.

We were unable to learn the total enrollment in the lower grades, but 130 registered in the High school.

BAPTIST REVIVAL ATTRACTING LARGE CROWDS

The revival campaign, under the leadership of O. J. Steger of Southside Baptist church of Covington, Kentucky, now in progress at the local Baptist church, is attracting large crowds. The services are held at 10:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

Mr. Steger is a forceful speaker and is bringing timely and urgent messages, and added to the sermons there is special music. The public generally is invited to join in these fellowship meetings each day.

Homemakers To Study Meal Planning

"Improve your health 10% during the coming year" is the challenge Dr. Statie Erikson, State Nutrition Committee Chairman, has made to each Kentuckian. Boone county Homemakers accept her challenge and will study a major project in meal planning and nutrition in an effort to reach this goal. A project planning meeting was held with Mrs. Pearl Haak, specialist from University of Kentucky, at the office of the home demonstration agent Thursday morning.

Six lessons were planned. These will be presented at county training school meetings and repeated by leaders to their local Homemaker clubs. Lessons will be presented in club meetings in the following order:

October—Meal planning.
November—Table service and family meal hour.
December—Meals for special occasions.
April—Meals for convalescent and semi-invalid.
May—Community meals.
June—Meal planning.

Mrs. Haak called attention to the fact that 50% of Boone county selectees have been rejected. More than half this number suffer from trouble due to food deficiencies. The problems for study are facts about food and how to improve eating habits.

10th Anniversary Of New Haven School

In the fall of 1931 clay soil lay exposed, plaster had the fresh smell of lime, carved initials were not yet on the desk heads when New Haven opened its doors to welcome its citizens of tomorrow. Today these children are the citizens; tomorrow is ahead for future Americans. Thus the years go hand in hand with all as the ten mile post is reached in the life of New Haven.

During the next few months New Haven wishes that all of her children would come back and renew old friends and memories. She is proud of her graduates; proud of what fine men and women they have grown to be and she well recognizes that they are still on the threshold of their lives and that more honors and great things are ahead for them in the time to come.

The past years with their graduates are:

Many friends and relatives of this family live in this community and extend sympathy to the son and daughter at this time.

Several from here attended the services at the cemetery.

Livingston county farmers have increased their poultry production approximately 25 percent, in response to defense needs.

Dove Season Shortened In Ky.

The open season on mourning doves has been shortened for Kentucky hunters, beginning September 16 and closing October 27; according to information received by S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, from Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

The shortened season, said Secretary Ickes, was necessary because the status of the mourning dove, sometimes called turtle dove, was last winter found to be worse than anticipated. The severe storm that killed many woodcocks in January 1940 also played havoc with the mourning dove population in the southeastern states, and the winter studies indicated that the bird's numbers are still "decidedly unsatisfactory."

"The mourning dove is a prolific breeder and will undoubtedly come back if given a proper chance," Secretary Ickes said.

The open season on doves opened September 1 and ended October 31 last year.

The bag limit on doves remains unchanged from last year with 12 per day or 12 in possession at any one time.

No changes have been made in the length of the woodcock hunting season since last year. It opens on December 1 and ends December 15 with 4 birds per day or 8 in possession.

SIX SELECTEES TO REPORT SEPT. 8

Courtney G. Kelly, Clerk of the Local Draft Board, announces that the Board has selected the following men, who will report to the Local Board at the Courthouse at Burlington, at 9:00 a. m., EST. on September 8, whereupon they shall be sent to an induction station at Fort Thomas: Albert Russell Smith, George William Popp, Ralph Stanley Sprague, Harold Cook White, Lloyd Kelly Jones, and Kenneth Earl Blaacker.

When 140 miles of proposed lines are constructed, 90 percent of the rural areas in Pike county will have electricity.

WIN PREMIUMS AT OHIO STATE FAIR

The "Ewbank Farms" again came away with honors, when they exhibited representatives of their Registered Southdown Sheep flocks at the Ohio State Fair last week, at what is advertised as being the world's largest sheep show. A total of 19 Registered Southdown flocks, from a number of other states, were exhibited.

"Ewbanks Farms" took eight premiums in the "Open to the World" Southdown classes, at this outstanding Sheep Show.

The Ewbanks have gained almost national fame through their raising of fine sheep, and each year win many honors with their exhibits at the various fairs, both county and state.

They will exhibit their Southdowns at the Indiana State Fair, this week, and at Kentucky State Fair next week.

CREDIT ASSOCIATION OPENS NEW OFFICE

The Northern Kentucky Production Credit Association with headquarters at Williamstown has established a full time field office at Owenton. A. T. Mills, who has been secretary-treasurer of the Association for the past five years will go to Owenton to take over the field office there.

The Association has had a steady growth of business under the management of Mr. Mills, and is now one of the largest Association in the State, in members—rendering service to some 700 farmers at present.

The association is constantly seeking to give better service to the members, and the Owenton office will enable them to give better service in that area.

Leonard C. Taylor comes to Williamstown to take charge of the home office as Secretary-Treasurer. He has been Superintendent of the Livermore Schools for the past five years, has an A. B. and an A. M. degree from the University of Kentucky. Mr. Taylor was reared on a farm in Western Kentucky, has a very pleasing personality, and no doubt will render good service to the Credit Association. He is a brother of Dean Taylor of the College of Education of the University of Kentucky.

This Week In Defense

The President created by Executive Order a seven-member Supply , Priorities and Allocation Board with Vice President Wallace as Chairman and Donald M. Nelson, formerly OPM Purchases Director, as Executive Director. The Board will fix priorities and allocate supply of materials, fuel, power, and other commodities of all kinds to meet the demands of the Army and Navy, the defense-aid program, the policies of economic warfare and the needs of the civilian population. Members of the Board are OPM Directors Knudsen and Hillman, War and Navy Secretaries Stimson and Knox, Price Administrator Henderson, and Lend-Lease Supervisor Hopkins.

Under the Order, the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply becomes the Office of Price Administration and a Civilian Supply Division is created in the OPM to protect the interests of consumers. Both will be headed by Leon Henderson, who was OPACS Administrator. The Order also transferred Edward R. Stettinius from his post as OPM Priorities Director to that of Lend-Lease Administrator and appointed Mr. Nelson as Priorities Director.

Aid to Britain, China, Russia

The President announced a military mission will go to China to study the need of China for equipment and materials and expediate lend-lease aid. State Secretary Hull stated the U. S. will maintain the policy of freedom of the seas in shipping supplies to Russia via the Pacific. The President told his press conference an organized campaign of rumors, distortions, half-truths and falsehoods regarding misuses of lend-lease funds had been launched to sabotage the program of aid to opponents of the Axis.

Agriculture

OPM gave priority to deliveries of materials necessary for the production of parts for the repair and maintenance of existing farm equipment and manufacture of new farm equipment. The President vetoed a bill to withhold from the normal channels of trade Government-owned cotton and wheat, because "in times such as these no one can forsee how soon these stocks may be needed."

Army

The War Department announced creation of a third parachute battalion and a fifth armored division. The Army also amended its regulations to permit discharge of enlisted men to accept Navy commissions when the Navy so desires.

Air

Artemus L. Gates of New York, World War Navy flier, was appointed Assistant Secretary of Navy for Aeronautics. Twenty-eight new Army Air Corps units were formed, including 26 school squadrons of 200 men each. The Army Air Forces began tests of the P-40F, latest of a series "giving excellent performances aboard," and sent Maj. Gen. Brett, Chief of Air, to Africa and the Mediterranean area with a mission to study planes in action and needs of the British.

Civilian Defense

The Army announced it will test the air defense and air warning system of the northeastern U. S. in maneuvers October 9 to 16. Approximately 43,000 volunteers civilians in the system will participate. A preliminary report of the mission sent to England by the Office of Civilian Defense recommended fingerprinting of every U. S. citizen for identification of casualties and thatnecessary civilian defense personnel, including police and firemen, be exempt from military service.

OCD Director LaGuardia reported incomplete returns on the aluminum collection campaign showed 14,000,000 pounds of scrap, yielding 10,500,000 pounds of aluminum or enough for 2,800 fighting planes, has been collected.

Prices

Associate Price Administrator Elliott suggested women can help check price rises by writing the Price Administration's consumer division in Washington of unreasonable advances in costs of living; by consulting city and county officials to see whether increases are justified; buying this winter's coal now; reporting rapid rises in rents to state and local housing agencies; buying defense bonds instead of new cars, refrigerators, washing machines or other household appliances. The Office of Price Administration set ceiling prices on animal hair used in mattresses, rayon grey goods, dimities, voile and combed broadcloth—thus covering almost all textiles required for women's dresses, men's shirts, underwear, coat and suitlinings, handkerchiefs, sheeting and other items of cotton and rayon.

Conservation of Materials

OPM requested bicycle and furniture manufacturers to conserve materials by simplifying models and designs, eliminating brass, chrome, nickel, copper and metallic finishes, white side-wall tires, and using reclaimed instead of raw rubber. The Division of Consumer Supply asked consumers to take special care of their cars, cut down on consumption of tires, gas and oil and offered a check-list to aid in conservation. WPA inaugurated a program to salvage steel from abandoned publicly-owned street car rails. The War Department reported it had found recapped and retreaded auto tires gave 80 percent of the service of new tires and cost 60 percent less.

Doctors, Dentists, Nurses

Federal Security Administrator McNutt annouhced an agency will be set up to mobilize physicians and dentists to meet special demands for medical care arising from the defense program. Plans will take into account distribution of doctors and dentists in relation to population, training and experience and their availability for service. Red Cross Headquarters and the OCD announced plans to train 100,000 volunteers as nurses' aides with the help of local hospitals. Volunteers must be between 18 and 50, graduates of high school, physically able; they will be selected by local public health and nursing groups and serve as assistants to graduate nurses in hospitals without pay after 80 hours of intensive training over a seven-week period.

Selective Service

Headquarters directed local draft boards to speed arrangements for aiding in the reemployment of soldiers the Army is planning to release beginning September 1 by getting in touch with former employers or finding other jobs for the soldiers. In the first case of its kind, a discharged selectee from New York was returned to his former job after the local U. S. attorney requested his firm to take him back for at least one year although the firm said his job had been abolished while he was gone.

Oil, Gasoline

President Roosevelt told his press conference the launching of many oil tankers already on the ways and the operation of two pipelines from the Southwest to the Eastern seaboard will materially relieve the gasoline shortage in the East by next srping. Price Administrator Henderson issued a table of fair maximum retail prices for "regular" gasoline in 40 major cities, and the Senate began an investigation of the shortage. Acting Oil Coordinator Davies said "sinister and planned" sabotage may lie behind the "multiplicity of misinformation" that there is really no shortage.

New Plants and Facilities

The Government contracted for the following new plants: pig iron, Cleveland, Youngstown, Warren, Ohio, and Birmingham, Ala., $58,312,000; ordnance facilities, Chattanooga, Tenn., and St. Louis, Mo., $35,969,999; airplanes and spare parts, Buffalo, N. Y., $75,218,384.

PLAYHOUSES

One of my younger friends today reminded me that I should write an essay about playhouses. Frankly, I had supposed that children still played much as they did long ago, but he assures me that his own children, very normal boys, have never heard of such a thing as a playhouse. I am sure that there are still many playhouses that would have passed full inspection in my childhood. Occasionally I find children playing in them, just as their ancestors did.

Of course, there are and have been special houses built for play, but I am not thinking of these, however much fun they may have been. Children of long ago had to use their imagination when they played, for they had few things that even remotely reminded any adult of things about a house. The best playhouse is made in the woods. When woods could be reached by most of us with little effort, that made building of playhouses an easy tack. Just find a good big tree with a level space beneath it, one that is out of the reach of cattle or other stock. Clean off the leaves with huckleberry bushes as a broom and fence in your space, too, if you like, with these same twisted, gnarled bushes. From moss beds remove carefully oblong sections for beds, adding some extra narrow pieces for bolsters. Similar directions are good for making chairs and tables. You can have acorn cups for dishes, and leaves make good ones, too. Bright pebbles have often served for vegetables and fruits. You need not sit in your house, but I have seen plenty of them that were large enough for a real tea party.

Besides "play-like" eating, a standard bit of work for people in woods playhouses is making leaf hats and other clothes. Hickory and pawpaw leaves make the best material for hats. There are some weeds that grow in upland woods that, when dried, make excellent pins for fastening the leaves together. I should have learned the name of this plant, but in my long years of roving the woods I have known it only as the one we used to employ in hat-making.

Not all playhouses need be in the wood. Just anywhere will do. An outside corner of a big, old-fashioned chimney is good enough, and, too, there are two rooms just far enough apart to make "going to see attractive. Bits of broken pottery can be dishes, just as acorn cups and leaves served in the woods. Mud pies are ex officio a part of the playhouse when it is in the yard. I should like to collect recipes for mud pies; I am sure many an oldster could remember all sorts of fancy pies that were manufactured upwards of a half century ago.

The attic is a good playhouse, slightly musty and cob-webby, but otherwise attractive. Cast-off clothes hanging on nails or laid away in chests form another attractive means of entertainment. Rainy days in the attic bring out dramatic talents on the part of those who can don some of the clothing of parents or other members of the family. Outdoor playhouses lend themselves better to cooking and serving meals. But wherever there is a playhouse, it is not necessary or sensible to feel sorry for the child who is so lacking in things to play with. You and I, in our grown-up stupidity, are pitying the wrong people, for I have never yet seen children who could not find enough to entertain themelves with, though the materials seemed meager.

Unemployment from Shortages

OPM Labor Division began surveys of 20 communities in 10 States in which consumer-goods plants are threatened with curtailment of supplies because of defense needs. Defense contracts will be awarded where necessary to alleviate labor dislocations. The first such contract was awarded to a Manitowoc, Wis., company, with 4,000 employees facing shutdown because of aluminum priorities.

Money Talks

By
Frederick Stamm, Economist
Director of Adult Education
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

Several weeks ago I said that small business men would soon find it hard to secure all the merchandise they wanted.

Since then it has been increasingly evident that all industries which are not manufacturing war material will find it more difficult to get goods for civilian consumption. This past week I visited nearly one hundred merchants and manufacturers in and around Louisville, and everyone, without exception, is having trouble getting material.

Right now the Government's first concern is getting goods to Britain and her allies and building up our defenses. To do this more raw material must be allocated to war industries and less to civilian industries. Consequently, material shortages may soon shut down many plants in civilian goods fields. Unemployment will develop in communities which have not been favored with war material factories. When you consider that it takes two or three men to sell and service what it takes one man to make, you can readily see that the unemployment problem may reach into every village and crossroads.

When the present stock of supplies on the merchants' shelves is gone, that will be the end. This means that ultimately the consumer will have to do without many articles to which he has long been accustomed. Few of us realize that, even though we are not in a shooting war, we can still be in an economic war which calls for curtailment of civilian buying.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

As consumers throughout the country are beginning to feel the pinch of shortages in many of the products they were formerly accustomed to buy freely, increased attention is being given here to the problem of substitutes.

It is a complex and considerably confused problem at present. To some observers at least it seems needlessly so. Recent actions of a few of the officials now working on it suggest that they are attempting to solve it somewhat 'n the manner of the man who jumped on a horse and galloped off in all directions.

Those holding this view point to the fact that three months ago government officials were urging all manufacturers to use less zinc and more copper. But now copper is scarcer than zinc, and the trade has been asked to turn around again and use more zinc than copper—if they can get it at all.

Even with this admitted scarcity, however, the copper industry has experienced no rush of business to cause it to step up production. Observers are wondering why, in view of the need for the metal, so few orders are being placed that the industry is still operating on a five day week.

The aluminum shortage furnishes another example that is causing those familiar with the situation to wonder whether the time has not arrived for a great deal more efficiency in handling the whole shortage problem. Despite efforts to conserve aluminum for aircraft construction, it has been revealed that the Army recently ordered 50,000 aluminum pots, 5,000 aluminum coffee filters, 50,000 aluminum water pitchers, 100000 aluminum syruo pitchers, 3,900 aluminum plates and an undisclosed number of aluminum cooking utensils valued at $203,000. This happened at a time when American housewives were contributing their pots and pans to increase the supply of aluminum available for airplane construction.

To take care of part of the metals shortage many officials here are casting their eyes on the Treasury's hoard of about 42,000 tons of non-monetized silver and are wondering if that could not be used as a substitute for scarcer metals. While manufacturers have greatly expanded their use of silver in recent years—particularly those in the electrical, chemical and metallurgical fields—it is estimated that they used only about 10 per cent of the available silver last year, the remaining 90 per cent having been stacked in the Treasury's vaults. Experiments conducted by manufacturers have proved that cans for packing food can be coated with silver as well as tine, and that the use of silvered cans would add only about ½% per can to the cost. Tin is one of the strategic raw materials.

Subcontracting is also coming in for more attention here as a way of dealing with unemployment and factory shutdowns in industries outside the defense program. Recent changes in Army-Navy purchasing procedure indicate that the practice of farming out work to small plants will be used in the future on a steadily increasing scale.

Although the new purchasing policy is not regarded here as anything like a complete solution of the problems of small business and industries not engaged in defense work, nevertheless, opinion seems to be that it makes a good start in the right direction.

Observers point out, however, that subcontracting is an intricate procedure and one that presents many problems of the industries involved. In their non-defense jobs many manufacturers, it is true, have had considerable experience with the practice of letting out part of their work to other companies. But even when that has been the case, they often face new difficulties now because of the fact that their previous experience has not been with armaments. For other companies, subcontracting is entirely new.

In view of the difficulties in either case, it is generally agreed that the whole problem has been handled in an extremely efficient manned to date by the industries affected by it.

Observers here are also commenting on the restatement of the status of many weekly and semi-weekly newspapers under the Wage and Hour Law that has been announced by General Philip B. Fleming, of the Department of Labor.

As a general rule, newspapers with a circulation of less than 3,000, the major part of which is within the county where the paper is printed, are exempted from the wage and hour provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, but there are important exceptions. If a paper's circulation does not place it under the Act, the volume of its job printing might. According to the interpretation, any employee who spends 50 per cent or more of his time on job printing that is intended for use outside the state, comes under the provisions of the Act for the time that he spends on such work.

Nature's Recipe for Bumper Crop

Plenty of Plant Food Helps Soil in Food Producing Job.

CHICAGO.—Soils that grow sick crops will respond to the right treatment, once the ailment is diagnosed and the correct prescription selected, according to a statement of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Nature, itself, provides most of the clues in making a diagnosis," says the statement. "Soil fertility is dependent on an adequate supply of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash. When any of these three is absent, tell-tale signs manifest themselves in the physical appearance of growing crops.

Tell-Tale Signs.

"A lack of nitrogen results in stunted growth. The young seedling will exhaust its food supply from the seed soon after germination. Then, having removed what little it can from the soil, it ceases to grow. Leaves become thick and brittle. A low yield of poor quality at harvest completes the story.

"Phosphorus deficiency shows itself in slow growth and lateness of maturity, in stunted plants, discolored leaves and poorly formed kernels or fruit.

"When potash—the balance wheel of plant foods—is missing, growing plants are an easy prey to disease, parasites and extreme variations of temperature. A complete lack of potash may result in a 'blight' sweeping over an entire crop.

"Plant food deficiencies, in many cases, can be corrected during the growing season by side-dressing the plants with fertilizer. The most certain help, however, is to have soil tests made which will reveal what plant food elements are lacking. Then fertilizer analyses can be selected that will meet the nutritional requirements of growing crops."

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist. OF INTEREST TO THE HOMEMAKER

"We must plant a million trees on Kentucky farms each year for coming years to assure a farm wood supply ten years from now" was the startling state ment made by Mr. N. R. Elliott, landscaping specialist from the University of Kentucky, at a meeting of leaders from local homemakers' clubs held at the Court House in Burlington Tuesday afternoon. He urged the care and feeding of established plantings and challenged the Boone county farm people to join in carrying the slogan to accomplish the goal "check on your farm and see how many trees you will have standing 10 or 15 years from now."

The purpose of this class was to outline the work to be done with the landscaping program during the next three months. Details of this lesson will be repeated by the leaders at local Homemakers meetings. Representation from Constance, Burlington, New Haven, Petersburg and Florence were present.

"All lawns should be seeded before Sept. 15th. Blue Grass should be of that quality which weighs 21 pounds per bushel and if sod is fair should be sowed 2 pounds or 3 pounds per 1,000 sq. ft. of surface. The seed is cheaper now than for last 3 or 4 years and may be purchased for 16c per pound. Anyone interested should call the Home Demonstration Agent to ask further particulars. Combined orders may be madeto keep costs at minimum.

Blue grass will grow in sun or shade and on frequently used surfaces if properly sowed and cared for.

Urges State Fair Exhibits

Mr. Elliott urged Boone county Homemakers to participate in the State Fair Homemaker flower show. He praised work done with shows in this county and stated that the State Fair offered further opportunity for displaying the flowers in the Grand Stand Building. The show will be held on Wednesday, September 10. Exhibitors will be given free admission at the Virginia Avenue entrance. All entries must be in by 12:00. Besides individual entries there is a handsome premium for a club basket. For further particulars, call Mrs. Mary Scott Moore, substitute home demonstration agent.

Following the class discussion, the group went to see recent plantings made at the Burlington school. This work was done by the P.-T. A., through the work of a committee headed by Mr. A. D. Yelton, following a plan suggested by Mr. Elliott. It was pointed out that a few changes might be made to make plantings more effective and that certain plants would revive if fed and treated this fall even though the hot, dry weather had been hard on them. Mr. Elliott called attention to those hardier varieties of plants which have thrived under adverse conditions.

Those who attended the meeting were: Mrs. George Kottmyer, Mrs. Peeno, Mrs. Sam Sleet, Mrs. J. O. Layne, Mrs. Garnet Tolin, Mrs. Courtney Kelly, Mrs. Jake Cleek, Miss Mary Rector, A. D. Yelton and Mary Scott Moore.

Lawn Demonstrations

New landscaping demonstrations were planned for the homes of Mrs. George Morith and Dr. N. A. Jett, Florence, by Mr. Elliott. The public was invited to attend these helpful meetings on Wednesday morning. Advice was given on selection and arrangement of shrubs, trees, flower beds and borders. These demonstrations are two of a long list of plans made by Mr. Elliott for Boone county Homemakers. Frequent tours to these demonstrations bring approved practices to the attention of other club members and nonmembers — another method of helping to make Kentucky homes more attractive and livable.

County Committee Meet

Mrs. Garnett Tolin called a meeting of the County Landscaping committee to discuss program plans with Mr. Elliott. The committee has sponsored flower shows, assisted with the tea given by the Citizenhip committee, ordered and disributed bulbs, held classes for landscaping leaders—but one other goal was set for the county homemakers. It was in regard to the desire for county-wide roadside beautification that the committee met with Mr. Elliott. Plans were made for contacting the State Highway and other possible cooperators and arranging for carrying on such a program as can be planned. Members of the committee are Mrs. Jake Cleek, Mrs. Anna Engle, Mrs. J. C. Layne, Mrs. John L. Vest.

The deceased was the son of the late John M. and Eupice Perry, and was born in Grant county on August 1st, 1855.

On December 18, 1895 he was united in marriage to Susie A. Hearne, who survives him.

The body was removed to the Coates & Stewart Funeral Home for preparation, where it lay in state until Tuesday afternoon, when services were held at the Jonesville Methodist church, Rev. J. W. Gilbert officiating. Burial was in the Old Mason burial ground at Jonesville.

Mr. Perry was well known not only in his own county, but in surrounding counties, and was beloved by all who knew him. He was an active member of the Jonesville Baptist church until his health no longer permitted him to attend services.

Besides the widow he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Floyd Piercefield, Mrs. Sylvia Battey of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Luttie Montgomery of Emminence, Ky.; three sons, Roy of Goshen, Ohio, Attila and Ralph of Cincinnati; 12 grandchildren, and a host of friends.

HOMEMAKERS TO RESUME MEETINGS IN SEPTEMBER

Homemaker clubs will resume their regular meetings this month. After two months of educational tours and picnics, these organizations will get down to business. Officers for the coming year will be selected, standing committees will be appointed, reports of accomplishments compiled and preparation for the annual meeting will be made.

These meetings will feature the current "Style Trends" during their project period and consideration will be given suggestions made by Mr. Elliott for fall landscaping work.

Every Boone county Homemaker should make it a point to attend her local meeting this month.

Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie, home demonstration agent, is still confined at Christ hospital in Cincinnati. Her condition is reported to be improved. Mrs. Moore, who is working in the county as substitute agent, has been appointed to serve during September and October.

GOLDEN RULE CONVENTION IN LOUISVILLE, SEPT. 5-6

Mrs. Dena Shelby Diehl of Danville, Ky., American Mother for 1941, this week issued a call for a state-wide Golden Rule convention to be held held in Louisville at the Brown Hotel, Sept. 5th and 6th.

With delegates from all the counties in Kentucky expected, Mrs. Diehl plans to discuss at the convention five points—(1) assistance for the underprivileged of Kentucky and for the needy overseas; (2) organization of Golden Rule Committees in every town and county in Kentucky; (3) formation of a State Committee; (4) selection of a Kentucky Mother for Mothers' Day. 1942; and (5) observance of International Golden Rule Week in December, 1941.

Endorsing Mrs. Diehl's plans, Governor Keen Johnson has just sent a letter to all Kentucky newspaper editors asking that they cooperate in the selection of delegates to the state convention.

Governor Johnson states that "Because we in Kentucky are proud of the distinction that has come to our state in the selection of Mrs. Diehl as the American Mother for 1941, and because she is donating her time and services to a most worthy cause. . . ," he is requesting the editors to form committees in their communities which will secure competent, public-spirited citizens as delegates to the convention.

Govenor Johnson believes the plan which Mrs. Diehl will present for the relief of the needy both at home and abroad will simplify the campaigns for charity in any town or city, eliminating many of the drives, and will coordinate and strenghten the work now being done by clubs and other groups for local and foreign relief.

With 47 other states to be visited as quickly as possible, Mrs. Diehl looks to the convention in Louisville to set the pattern for other state conventions so that she can introduce in each state the points outlined above.

Danville was the first city in Kentucky to form a Golden Rule committee and Danville citizens are well pleased with the results. F. M. Van Meter is chairman of the Danville committee and Mayor Henry L. Nichols, as a member of the executive board, is giving his hearty support to the program. Somerset, Paris, Cynthiana, Winchester and Frankfort also have such committees.

Boone county farmers have been alloted approximately 10,000 pounds of vetch to be used as grant-of-aid in fall seedings.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REVELATION: A MESSAGE TO PERSECUTED CHURCHES

LESSON TEXT—Revelation 1-3.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.—Revelation 2:10.

The Revelation is so little known that we need part of our first lesson for an introduction to the book. The fact that this is a "revelation" which God gave to Jesus Christ, "to show unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass" (1:1), should make us all eager to study it. But it is significant that there is a promise of special blessing to those who do read (1:3), and a solemn warning against tampering with the book (22:18, 19). Quite evidently God places great importance on the reading and study of this book. Can we do less?

The book is not easy to interpret, and men have differed greatly as to its meaning. There are four general schools of interpretation: (1) The preterist, which puts it all in the past. Since many of its predictions have not yet taken place, this view seems untenable. (2) The idealist, which regards the book as being entirely symbolical of spiritual principles. There is truth to this view, but it does not cover the historical events mentioned in the Revelation which are yet to take place in the world. (3) The historicist, which regards the book as mainly an outline of church history. This too fails to account for prophecies yet unfulfilled. a(4) The futurist (which seems to be the best view); namely, that chapters two and three, while relating to actual churches then in existence, also outline the entire history of the church, and that the remainder of the book relates to future events. This is the interpretation which is largely held by conservative Bible teachers.

A brief outline of the Revelation is found (1:19) in the book itself:

1. The things which thou hast seen" (John's vision)—chapter 1.

2. "The things which are" (the seven churches)—chapters 2 and 3.

3. "The things which shall be" (the six sevens; namely, seals, trumpets, personages, vials, dooms, and new things)—chapters 4 to 22.

Our lesson portion brings before us two of the seven churches of Asia—Ephesus and Smyrna—with their lessons for our day.

I. The Ephesus Church—Active but Cold, and Facing Judgment (2:1-7).

Following the salutation and the glorious vision of the Son of man (do not fail to read it, Rev. 1:9-18), John the apostle, who was the one to whom the vision came, is directed to write to the church at Ephesus, addressing it through "the angel" of the church. We do not know who he was, but since the word means "messenger," it may refer to a leading officer or elder.

The picture of the church at Ephesus was a very beautiful one. It was an active church, not afraid to work, patient under trial, commendably impatient with sin and worldliness. It was not afraid to exercise discipline, to discredit false apostles, and to stand against the evil works of the worldly-minded. There would seem that there could be nothing more said for a church, but there was a vital note lacking. In activity they were perfect, but they had departed from their first love.

What is meant by leaving their first love? "First love is the abandonment of all for a love that has abandoned all The church at Ephesus was still a remarkable church, but it lacked the element of that enthusiasm, which in the eyes of the calculating worldling, is imprudent. There are some people who imagine that this lack of enthusiasm is an advantage. May God have mercy on such. I pray the day may never come when the heroisms and enthusiasms of first love shall cease" (G. Campbell Morgan).

Repentance was called for, or God said He would extinguish the light of that church. The lesson for us is that cold orthodoxy will kill a church.

II. The Smyrna Church—Poor but Faithful, and Facing Persecution (2:8-11).

This is one of the two churches of the seven for which there is no word of rebuke, Philadelphia being the other. It was a poverty-stricken church humanly speaking, but rich in the sight of God. Such a church may be more useful to God and more precious to Him than a large church which is cold and indifferent.

What does He have to promise this church? Persecution. We who follow Him upon whom men spat, who was so buffeted and despised, yes, even crucified—shall we be surprised if a hostile world persecutes us?

Note that the Lord knew all about their sufferings, both present and future. He was with them and would continue to be with them, so they had no occasion to fear. Then at the end of their suffering there would be the crown of life.

Here's the Cure!

The liquor traffic is a national headache, and there is only one real cure: abolition of liquor making, of liquor selling, and of liquor drinking!

That W.C.T.U. diagnosis is backed by common citizen and studious leader, by a deluge of newspaper stories telling of liquor's connection with rotten politics, with vice, with adult and juvenile crime, with the spread of disease, with wrecked homes, with insanity.

The "cup that cheers" strangely enough leaves only unhappiness in its wake.

Yes, the liquor traffic causes splitting pains in the nation's head.

The cure is backed by hundreds of years of mankind's efforts to solve the liquor problem. It's like the Woman's Christian Temperance Union says: "You can't cure cancer with soft soap; you have to cut it out!" Social workers, temperance groups, many of the biggest Protestant churches have recently reaffirmed their belief that temperance education plus prohibitory legislation are the only effective solutions.

The ideal solution, temperance leaders say, would be for all people to "swear off" drinking alcohol. Temperance education and the sound common sense of the majority will eventually achieve abstinence of the "thinking individual," they believe.

BUT, they declare, as long as the multi-million-dollar liquor traffic is in existence it "makes addicts out of the weak and unthinking, and particularly out of inexperienced youth; it will continue to gain victims because it is a narcotic and because it is easily available."

"Cut It Out"

That is why, from the viewpoint of a common sense appraisal of history, they say that complete prohibition is the only eventual solution.

Every sign indicates, they continue, that a rapidly growing number of voters agree with them. Not today, not tomorrow, but eventually—they are confident—the padlock of abolition will stop the headache!

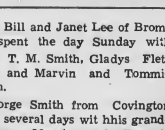
Crisp and Crunchy

If you like sugar cookies that are covered all over with a crunchy brownness, you will be glad for the recipe given below. Crisp rice flakes—that delicious breakfast cereal that has all the healthful food nutrients we value in whole grain cereals—provides the golden-brown toastiness.

Crisp Sugar Cookies



Sift together—
3¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt.
Cream—
½ cup butter.
Add gradually, creaming thoroughly—
1¼ cups sugar.
Add—
1 egg.
Beat mixture until fluffy.
Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with—
¾ cup milk
beating until smooth after each addition.

If time permits, chill dough for an hour or so in coldest part of refrigerator, as it makes the dough easier to roll. Roll to ⅛-inch in thickness and cut into desired shapes. Place on greased cooky sheet and sprinkle cookies with the Rice Flakes and Sugar Mixture (below). Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) 8 to 10 minutes, or until browned lightly.

Rice Flakes and Sugar Mixture

Crush very fine—
1 cup rice flakes.
Combine with—
¾ cup sugar.

Use for sprinkling over sugar cookies just before baking. Gives nice brown coating.

Delicious Top-Stove Quickie

Just what you've ordered for summertime serving—a speedy top-stove main dish that gives you plenty of good flavor without breaking the budget. To prepare it, ground steak is browned and dressed up in a sauce that has all the fine subtlety of flavor found in prepared cream of mushroom soup—and all because that is what it is made of.

Creamed Mushrooms and Beef

Brown—
¾ pound round steak, coarsely ground in—
1 tablespoon cooking fat.
Season with—
¾ teaspoon salt.
Sprinkle meat with—
4 teaspoons flour.
Mix well.
Add—
1 medium can (2 cups) cream of mushroom soup.

Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Serve over hot biscuits, toast or mashed potatoes. Serves 6.

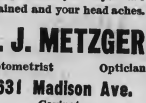
Mm! Tomato Juice

Along about the middle of a hot July afternoon, a glass of cold, cold tomato juice, scarlet and full of the rich flavor that only sun-and-vine-ripening can give, is a real temptation. So if you would be the perfect summer hostess, make it a point to keep several cans of tomato juice in the refrigerator ready to offer anyone who might drop in.

Tomato juice pressed from pedigreed tomatoes at the peak of their goodness is delicious as it comes from the can. However, you will want to be serving tomato juice so often that a few variations of flavor are not amiss. Try these simple ones:

Southern Tomato Juice Cocktail

Combine 1 12-oz. can tomato juice, 2 tablespoons finely chopped mint, and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Let stand in the refrigerator several hours, then strain and serve cold.



Vegetable Cocktail

Combine 2 cups tomato juice, ½ cup grated cucumber, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ teaspoon evaporated horseradish which has been soaked for 10 minutes in 1 teaspoon cold water. Mix thoroughly and chill. Stir well before serving. Pour into small serving glasses and serve as an appetizer accompanied by crisp crackers, canapés, or hors d'oeuvres.

Doings of The REDS

It' sback to the road wars for the Cincinnati Reds this week, but there are two silver linings behind that cloud. One is that the Reds have been at their best on the road this year, and the second is that following this trip, the club will settle down to its last home stand of the season. This home stand, of eighteen games duration, will start with a single game against the Boston Braves next Tuesday. September 9. The Braves will be the Reds' opponents for a ladies' day contest the following day, then the New York Giants will enter the arena for three single games Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, September 11, 12, and 13.

High spot of the home stand will be the three-game series against the Brooklyn Dodgers on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, September 14, 15, and 16. Philadelphia will follow the Dodgers to Crosley Field for successive doule- headers on Wednesday and Thursday, September 17 and 18. September 18 will be a ladies' day. An off day will follow this series, then another doubleheader against the Pittsburgh Pirates is due for Saturday, September 20. A single game is listed against the Corsairs on Sunday, September 21.

Three single games against the Chicago Cubs Tuesday, Wednesday, 24, and 25, will wind up the home day, and Thursday, September 23, season. September 24 will be the final ladies' day. After this Chicago series the Reds will move to Pittsburgh for the last three days of the season.

Tickets for all of the Reds' remaining home games are now on sale at the Reds' ticket office at 307 Vine Street. Mail orders receive prompt attention.

Bill McKechnie, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has decided to have several of the players recently purchased report to the club this year, instead of waiting until next spring to give them their first trials.

Originally, the plan was to have only Les Hinckle, hurler from Syracuse, join the club this season, but after getting a few of the reports of his scouts, McKechnie decided to take a 1941 look at First Baseman Hank Sauer and Catcher Ray Lamanno from Birmingham; Pitcher Ray Starr from Indianapolis; and Pitcher George Burpo, who has been playing at Tucson, on option form the Birmingham Club.

Hinckle and Starr were ordered to join the club at Pittsburgh Thursday, while Sauer, Lamanno, and Burpo were told to join the Reds at Cincinnati Tuesday, September 9, when a long home stand will be opened.

Sauer, though a first baseman, will be converted into an outfielder by Bil lMcKechnie, He has terrific long distance batting power and is an ideal type of hitter for Crosley Field, where left is the short field. He is a right-hand hitter and thrower. He is fast, has a good arm, and likes to play ball, and McKechnie sees no reason why a fellow with these qualifications cannot be made into an outfielder.

Starr, 34 years old, winner of 20 games at Indianapolis, will see some pitching service this year, and it is likely that Hinckle, who has a very good curve ball, will be used in a relief capacity.

Burpo ,who is said to have as much stuff as VanderMeer, is an 18-year-old southpaw. He needs plenty of experience, and McKechnie ordered him in for the express purpose of working with him before the ball game. That work should help him master his control. Scouts who have seen him say he needs plenty of polishing before making the major league grade, but that he is a cinch to make it in time.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. Be kidneys sometimes lag in their work—d not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

KENTUCKY FARMERS CAN HELP RAILWAYS AVOID TRAFFIC JAM

CHICAGO. — Whether American railroads can handle the biggest freight hauling job of the decade this year depends on two factors, authorities believe:

1—The cooperation of shippers in speeding the loading and unloading of cars; in keeping freight equipment in circulation and making each unit do a more efficient job.

2—A speeding up of the new car construction program now seriously hampered by shortages of steel and delays due to strikes.

"To these two might be added a third—the cooperation of agriculture," says a bulletin issued here "Right now this cooperation can consist of avoiding delays in ordering supplies that run into tonnage

"For instance, if such essential commodities as fertilizer are bought immediately and shipped to the farmer before peak traffic clogs the tracks, this will help take some of the strain off the transportation system later on. This applies not only to rail shipments but to trucks, also, for with the greatly increased rail movement trucks have been pressed into extra service all over the country.

"Moreover, such a procedure can help in the defense program, too, for the farmer's ability to produce bumper crops depends on the productivity of the soil. And this soil productivity, in turn, is dependent on whether the land receives a sufficient supply of necessary nitrogen, phosphorus and potash. By ordering his fertilizer now the farmer can be assured of an adequate supply later on which will help him make the slogan 'Food Will Win the War' a reality."

MORGANSVILLE

"The Lord is a shield and a fortress." May He help us to look beyond our present trials and see the shadowed places of life emerge into the radiant light of day.

On Sunday afternoon Mrs. J. A. Keeney and attractive daughter, Miss Ruth of Staffordsburg, were pleasant callers. Deeply appreciated was a lovely box of luscious grapes.

H. F. Pelley Passes Away

"Passing away are these friends of old,
We watch them as one by one they go,
His toils are over, his race is run
May we all rest calmly
When our work on earth is done."

The recent death of Mr. Horace F. Pelley of near Morning View, cast a shadow of sorrow over a wide circle of relatives and friends.

Following a brief illness, he passed on at the residence if his daughter, Mrs. Stanley Fedders and Mr. Fedders, August 20, 1941.

In his youthful days he affiliated with the Kenton church, and was active in fraternal circles. He was a life long resident of Kenton county, walking life's road for three score years and ten, and has gone to the grave in a full age like "a sheaf of grain cometh in its season."

For 20 years he was a member of the Kenton county Board of Education. His geniality gained for him a host of friends, and like the afterglow of the sunset the warmth and radiance of his pleasing personality shall long linger in many hearts. Numerous floral tributes of rare beauty adorned his casket, attesting the high esteem in which he was held.

Besides his son Prof. Lee Pelley, highly efficient faculty member of Holmes High school. Covington, he is survived by two other sons, Edgar and Fillmore Pelley, five daughters. Mrs. Stanley Fedders, Mrs. Nick Parr, Mrs. Foster Works, Mrs. Herman Rust, and Mrs. Sam Colston; 11 grandchildren; two sisters, Mattje Brown of Indianapolis, and Mrs. John Baker of Hamilton, Ohio; and one brother, Mr. J. O. Pelley of Covington, to whom deepest sympathy is extended. Rev. Cates officiated at the final rites at the Goshen Christian church, which was taxed to its utmost capacity, many being unable to gain entrance, followed by interment in the beauty of the hills in Independence cemetery.

Serving as pallbearers were: C. Otis Morgan, Judge A. M. Caldwell, Myron V. Stephens, Jasper Dickson, Frank Baker and brother.

"There is no death—they only truly live who pass into the life beyond and see this world is but a school preparative for larger ministry."

DAIRY HERD IMPROVEMENT

By James Browder, Tester

The months of July and August have brought about a decrease in milk production. Pastures were bad in July but worse in August. Only those herds being fed grass silage or some succulent roughage held up in production as should.

High herd of the months of July and August was that of Mr. John Corlir of Brooksville, Kentucky. His Jersey herd averaged 860 pounds of milk and 41.1 pounds fat in July, and in August 734 pounds of milk with 34.3 pounds of fat. He feeds a grain ration at the rate of 1 to 6 and has good Korean Clover pasture.

Most improvement in the Association in the past month has been along the line of sires. Dr. R. C. Garrison of Burlington will quite soon have the papers on his proven sire. For a bull to be proved, he must have five daughters that have milked 305 days. This has all been completed and the result will soon be published.

Dr. Garrison will be the first member of the Northern Kentucky Association to accomplish this.

Mr. Harold Crigler of Burlington has recently taken steps to improve his herd by the purchase of a Registered Sire. This male is from a proven sire. This is only the beginning of such work and we hope to carry it much further in the future.

Northern Kentucky Association also took on a new member in July. Mr. Walter King of Verona entered the Association. He has a herd of Jersey cows and is interested in getting in new blood and doing improvement work.

Four-H club members of Nelson county were active in the aluminum for defense drive.

KY. INCOME TAX DRIVING INDUSTRY AND CAPITAL OUT OF STATE

The Kentucky income tax is driving industry and capital out of our state and tending to keep out many new industries badly needed here to increase wages and payrolls of our wage earners, expand the markets of our farmers, and increase land values generally, it was declared today by George T. Holmes, executive secretary of the Kentucky Tax Research Association.

Holmes called attention to a comparative study of taxes and industrial development in Kentucky and her neighboring states recently completed by the research staff of the Association.

"The facts show," he said, "that our state has all the natural resources and advantages needed to make a great industrial state. Yet we stand at the bottom of the list of all the states touching our borders, with respect to industrial development.

"These facts have been obtained from official records of the Bureau of the Census at Washington, and we hope to present them fully to the people of our state before the next General Assembly meets, in an effort to create public sentiment that will result in the repeal of the state income tax. This tax, we feel, is a primary cause of our backward industrial development, in comparison with other states in competition with us for the location of industrial plants."

Other facts revealed in the Association study show that three of Kentucky's neighboring states, Ohio, Illinois, and Tennessee impose no tax at all on individual earned incomes, and that West Virginia, Ohio, and Illinois impose no income tax at all on corporations. In the other neighboring states, Indiana, Virginia, and Missouri, the income tax is considerably less than it is in Kentucky.

Many McLean county farmers have bought 15 to 20 western ewes to augment flocks.

HIS ARMS FELL OFF

Or They Felt Like It—From Steering Wheel Shake of Unbalanced Front Wheels.

Hard and tiresome driving is caused in many cases by front wheels being out of balance. Not only that but it is unsafe to drive at reasonably high speeds with unbalanced wheels.

Unbalanced Wheels have been known to throw the car out of control to such an extent that it would leave the road or a collision would result.

Unbalanced wheels hammer the bearings of the front end assembly and wear them out prematurely.

Unbalanced wheels are caused by changing tires—uneven wear of tread—addition of patches—improper mounting of tires—loss of balance weights. YOUR WHEELS SHOULD BE CHECKED REGULARLY.

Prepare your car for safer and more pleasant driving by coming into our Wheel Balancing Department and having your wheels checked and balanced. It can be done in a short time and the cost is small.

Life-Long Walton Resident Dies Tues.

Mrs. Art Stamler passed away at 8:45 Tuesday morning, Sept. 9 at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington, after a six weeks' illness, having spent the last week in the hospital. She had been in poor health for a number of years.

Mrs. Stamler, a life-long resident of Walton, and was well known in this section. She was the wife of the late John Stamler, and the mother of the late R. D. Stamler, founder of this newspaper. She was a member of the Walton Christian church and the Walton chapter O. E. S. Until poor health prevented, she had been quite active in the O. E. S. work, and was a former Worthy Matron of the local order.

The deceased is survived by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edna Stamler, with whom she resided; one sister, Mrs. Harry (Missouri) Warren of Arcadia, Calif.; one niece, Mrs. Gertrude Weizel of St. Petersburg, Fla.; and one nephew, J. M. VanLouven of Ft. Thomas.

The Walton O. E. S. held special services at the Chambers & Grubbs funeral home Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, where the body lay in state. These rites were conducted with John L. Vest and Mrs. Emma Menefee, Past Grand Worthy Patron and Matron, respectively, in charge. Several Past Matrons and Patrons, as well as members attended this service to pay their last respects to their departed sister.

Funeral services are to be conducted this (Thursday) afternoon at 1 o'clock from the funeral home, in charge of Rev. R. F. DeMoisey, assisted by Rev. T. H. Alderson. Following these services, the remains will be taken to Cincinnati, where they will be cremated.

The many beautiful floral offerings attested to the esteem in which Mrs. Stamler was held.

Everything possible was done to relieve Mrs. Stamler's suffering, Mrs. Edna Stamler devoting herself almost entirely to her care, spending much of her time with her at the hospital. She was the only relative with the deceased when the end came, happy to be able to comfort her to the last.

Chambers & Grubbs were in charge of arrangements.

Seven Marion county farmers grew 16 acres of coriander seed.

Sheep Association Begins 4th Year

The Boone County Sheep Protective Association started on its fourth successful year Saturday, September 6th, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

The secretary's report showed that 105 sheepmen had included 4,355 sheep in their membership. Forty-four sheep were killed on 25 different occasions. Tobacco Specialist Assists In Tour

Russell Hunt, tobacco specialist, College of Agriculture, assisted Wednesday, September 3rd, in a county tobacco tour, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

Experiment Station No. 33, Fusarium Wilt resistant variety was seen on the farm of L. W. Rogers. This variety is of special value to farmers in the river bottom sections where wilt is bad. Mr Roger's tobacco, both in the field and in the barn, was found to be of excellent quality. Mr. Rogers will have several ounces of seed of this variety for sale in 1942.

Farmers attending the afternoon meeting at Sam Sleet's, Beaver, saw several intersting fertilizer demonstrations. Mr. Hunt, addressing farmers attending this meeting, urged that they use good management practices with their tobacco. He expressed opinion that tobacco would bring a fair to good price this year and that the Burley Tobacco Pool and Government loan operations should prove a strong support to the market.

The first fair test of Experiment Station No. 48, Mosiac and Root Rot resistant variety tobacco was seen on the farm of Sam Pennington of Walton - Verona Raod. This tobacco was of fine quality, heavy yielding and disease resistant.

Successful Revival At Goshen Church

Revitalize the Rural Church, seems to be the slogan of the members of the Goshen Christian Church, as they have taken on new life—not a spasm—but a real grip on things spiritual.

They are conscious of two things: (1) In the history of the nation the leaders, in great many instances, have come from the rural church; (2) the rural church has become the front line of the nation's spiritual defense.

Goshen believes it has the answer to the stereotyped question of many of our church conventions: "What's Wrong with the Rural Church?" and are overcoming the inertia typical of many larger churches.

Recently the pastor, Rev. John Stuart Mill, conducted a two-weeks' evangelistic campaign, acting as evangelist and song leader, with his wife officiating at the piano.

As a result, there were 17 additions, and two more on the following Sunday. On the last night of the series of meetings there was a larger crowd in attendance than Goshen had seen for years.

There is substantial evidence that a revival of religious earnestness has taken hold of the Goshen Christians, and their enthusiasm seems to be of the quality that will carry them along on a higher plane of spirituality than has been apparent for years.

Those who have struggled so faithfully to keep the light burning again see Goshen coming into its own—a revival of the "good old days" that used to be, when Goshen had a strong grip on the hearts of the people of the community as it served them faithfully and acceptably.

Last Sunday afternoon 15 converts were baptized in the Christian Church at Crittenden, the congregation there kindly consenting to the use of their bapistry, as Goshen is not thus equipped. Goshen thanks them for their kindness.

Religious services are held at Goshen every alternate Sunday. The pastor, Rev. John Stuart Mill, who is in his third year with these people, is also Assistant Purchasing Agent of the Union Central Life Insurance Company of Cincinnati.

This Week In Defense

The President established in the OPM a Division of Contract Distribution with Floyd Odlum of New York as Director to "face the responsibility of alleviating the hardships which have resulted from the defense program and . . . to marshal our productive capacities to the objective that no plant or tool which can be used for defense shall be allowed to remain idle." The order was issued, the President said, "infurtherance of a determined move . . . to help the smaller business units of the country obtain a fair share of the defense orders and to prevent, as far as possible, dislocation of industry and unemployment of workers in plants where production has been curtailed by priorities and material shortages.

The Division will set up branch offices throughout the nation where there will be availabel: procurement representatives of Federal contracting agencies to negotiate contracts and subcontracts, technical engineering advice on conversion of plants to defense work, representatives of the OPM Labor Division to plan reemployment or training of workers in plants involved, and financial facilities of the RFC and other Federal agencies which may be necessary to finance plant conversion.

To spread defense work "among as great a number of firms and in as many localities as possible," the Division will revise Federal procurement practice in favor of the smaller production units—"as yet largely unused"—and promote organization of pools of small manufacturers to undertake defense work jointly. The Division will also establish exhibits showing parts of defense articles needed, their number, the tools necessary to make them and all other information so that machine shop owners and manufacturers can determine "then and there" what they can do and arrange to do it.

Production

OPM announced military aircraft manufacturers delivered 1,854 planes during August, a record and 394 planes more than in July. OPM reported 2,420 defense plants have been built or expanded since the beginning of the defense program.

The President told his press conference armament production will be accelerated by greater expenditures. The new Supply Priorities and Allocation Board, stating it will stimulate and reorganize defense production "to the limit of the nation's resources," said its general policy demands curtailment of less-essential industries which use materials and facilities necessary to a "realistic defense program."

Navy Ships

The Navy reported that during the first eight months of 1941 a total of 213 Naval vessels were completed—including one battleship, one cruiser, eight submarines and eight destroyers— and keels were laid for 436 ships, including two battleships, 13 cruisers, 18 submarines, two aircraft carriers and 57 destroyers.

Merchant Ships

Maritime Commission Chairman Land announced the Commission's building program will place in operation 1,153 new ships of approximately 12,410,000 deadweight tons between July 1, 1941 and the end of 1943. He said production is running 25 percent ahead of estimates made in May, and that from 130 to 134 new vessels will be completed this year instead of the 105 estimated in May. Admirar Land said an additional 90 vessels will be delivered in the first three months of 1942, 146 in the second quarter, 154 in the third quarter, and 184 in the fourth quarter. By the beginning of 1943, the program will yield in three months more than the 1,380,000 deadweight tons of ships constructed in the entire war year of 1918.

Army

The Second and Third Armies and 1,000 planes of the Second and Third task force, including Navy and Marine air units, began moving into the Louisana maneuver area for combat practice September 15 to 30. The War Department said it expects to work out under actual conditions of a major battle the role of combat aviation in support of mechanized and armored ground forces.

To improve the efficiency and stamina of the Army, the Department set age limits for field officers ranging from 30 years for Second Lieutenants to 62 years for Major Generals. Officers over age will be given desk duty.

Air Raid Defense

The Army announced that it will conduct exercises during October to test the alertness and effectiveness of Eastern seaboard defenses against hostile aircraft throughout areas 125 to 150 miles inland. Approximately 45,000 civilians will act as spotters.

Aid to Russia

A Russian mission to study procurement of planes for the Russian armies arrived in the United States. President Roosevelt named W. Averell Harriman to head the U. S. mission to confer in Moscow with the Soviet Government and a British mission regarding supplies to Russia.

The Maritime Commission announced the first American tanker carrying aviation gasoline to Russia had arrived safely at Vladivostok. State Secretary Hull issued four export licenses to permit movement of British and Latin American shipments to the Soviets through the U. S.

Aid to Poland

The President authorized Lend-Lease aid to the refugee Polish Government in the form of weapons and other supplies for the Polish Legion training in Canada for overseas action.

Prices

Labor Secretary Perkins reported widespread increases in retail prices of 18 staple foods in 18 large cities in the last two weeks of August. The Department of Agriculture reported prices are now 131 percent of the 1909-14 parity average, highest level in 11 years. OCD Director LaGuardia, acting as President of the U. S. Conference of Mayors, recommended revocation of municipal licenses of retailers in cases of persistent violation of Federal price ceilings fixed by Price Adminstrator Henderson.

Oil, Gas

Acting Oil Coordinator Davies announced all commercial, agriculture and emergency gasoline needs will be met in full during September but there will be a 10 percent cut in deliveries on the Atlantic coast States under July. Mr. Davies also announced he had asked for and received commitments from 11 principal East coast oil companies to utilize all available railroad tank cars in transportation of petroleum products to alleviate the Eastern States shortage.

President Roosevelt authorized the Southern Pipe Line Co. to use the power of eminent domain to obtain right-of-way for an oil pipeline from Port St. Joe, Fla., to Chattanooga, Tenn., for "national defense purposes." J. Howard Marshall, Counsel for the Petroleum Coordinator's Office, said the OPM has authority to enforce the civilian allocation program of OPACS and also to enforce a consumer rationing program on the Atlantic coast should it become necessary.

Reemployment of Soldiers

Selective Service Headquarters announced local boards will assist regulars of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps as well as selectees and Guardsmen to find employment when they leave service. The War Department sent a letter to each soldier advising of the program for reemployment.

The Army announced it will observe the following order in release of 200,000 Guardsmen, selectees and regulars during the rest of 1941: dependency and hardship cases; men who complete enlistments of either one or three years; selectees and Guardsmen who reached 28 before last July 1; married selectees who have completed one year; selectees who have completed their normal term of service.

In determining the number of men to be released from each unit, the Army will consider the state of training of the unit, its location, its mission. The Army said it will also release reserve officers, except those in the air forces, after one year of service in order to provide training opportunities for others not on duty. The air force is expanding at such a rate all air officers are needed.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

BY
Gordon Wilson, Ph.D.

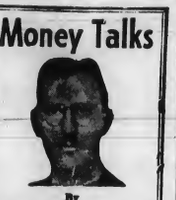
BOWLING GREEN, KY.

JUNK



It has become such a habit of ours to change the physical phases of our civilization that we soon laugh at what was just the thing a few days or years ago, feeling vastly superior in this attitude to those who cherish old things. We move to the lumber room or the basement or the attic what we not so long ago paid our good money for and forthwith install some new things, hoping thereby to keep our social notch and remain the envy of people slightly less fortunate than we. In their place of hiding the old discarded things furnish apartment houses for dirt-daubers, and rats, waiting, meanwhile, for a change of taste that will search all places of deposit for fine old things that Mother and Grandmother used to own. For a period of months or years this valuable stuff is merely junk. What is left of it after a period of neglect may be worth unbelievable sums.

This reminds me of one of my schoolmates of years ago. He was left in charge of a fine old home while its occupants, a learned man and his wife, went to Europe. During the year a baby was born. There was no cradle among all the fine furniture in the big house, but there was a child's bed just the right size. The caretaker was a pretty fair carpenter, and so cut the legs of the bed down a bit, fastened on some home-made rockers, and all was well, until the owner returned and found that the family treasure, the rosewood bed, had been mutilated. That same young man, now middle-aged, would give a big part of his earnings for that fine old bed; in the years since his unthoughted act he has learned that some things are not junk, though they may have been relegated to the storeroom.

We folklorists, with no notion of delaying progress, are forever trying to get people to see values before they pass, to seize upon some things that have no business every being out of date, to promote a sane appraisal of things while they are plentiful and not exposed for sale at staggering prices. Some institutions have passed because their day is over, definitely. Others have passed merely because fads have come in to displace them. It is these latter things that we ought to hold on to, though all the neighbors should regard us as painfully behind the times.

If I were moralizing, I could turn some of this same doctrine to account. Undoubtedly, many customs died a natural death, and no amount of resuscitation would restore them. Others have been chloroformed unnecessarily. It is laughable how one generation often undoes what was proclaimed as the final chapter in human excellence in a preceding generation. I am one who praises the sensible dress of the modern girl; what I am afraid of is that, after years of freedom of breath as well as freedom of speech, fashion will decree some silly return to clothes that are hampering and unhygienic. Wouldn't it be laughable if we should see the wild, free children of our time trussed up once more in hoopskirts, and feet that have had a freedom denied to most feet since shoes were invented crowded again into moulds to suit some whim of style? As much as we appreciate sensible changes, we cannot deny that there is always a danger that common sense will go down in defeat when it crosses swords with the style of the moment.

Money Talks

The buying panic, which started with the silk stocking scare, has now spread to many other items. Women stormed into the nation's stores looking for stockings, but before they got out, their jitters usually led them to stock up on sheets, pillow cases and towels, or make a down payment on a refrigerator or a radio.

Higher prices and scarcity has made the average American conscious that the purchasing power of his dollar is going down— and going down rapidly. To protect himself, he is just doing a little forward buying while prices are not unreasonable. You can hardly blame him when you realize that food costs in most of our communities have gone up from 12 to 30 per cent since the war began. And it looks very much as if food prices are going to reach much higher levels before the end of the year.

Two of the largest manufacturers of men's clothing have announced price advances of 10 per cent and 11 per cent respectively Last week my neighbor paid 25 cents a ton more for the same type of coal than I did a month before. It is needless for me to recount how prices have risen, for you are buying food, clothing, and other necessities every day.

It is important to remember that Congress is reluctant to pass a price control law. Until it does, you are going to see all prices on the increase. My advice is to buy what you can profitably use. Your dollar is shrinking in value, and the best way you, the average citizen, can protect himself against inflation is to buy goods. You can get much more for your money now than you will be able to get six months hence.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

The recent shake-up in the government defense agencies is a leading topic of cloakroom conversations here, and a great deal of comment centers on the widespread confusion that led to the reorganization. Those familiar with the situation agree that in the past the entire defense picture has been needlessly muddled. To substantiate their story they point to numerous examples.

The manner in which various government agencies compete with each other for available supplies of raw materials furnishes them with a case in point. While they admit that proof is hard to obtain, they have a strong suspicion that some departments are buying larger quantities of strategic materials like copper and steel than they can actually use. This does them little immediate good, and it frequently works a hardship on many private industries who are unable to obtain enough of these materials to meet their needs.

At the present time these departments get all the supplies they ask for, without having to prove that they actually need them for immediate use. If such proof were required, their allotments might be cut and the plight of numerous private firms now suffering from lack of such materials might be somewhat improved.

Whether or not the new defense set-up will be able to cut through the confusion surrounding that and similar problems remains to be seen. Even though most observers are inclined to adopt a "wait-see" policy regarding the reorganization, doubt is expressed in some quarters that the new board will be able to function with the efficiency required for maximum defense effort. That can only be achieved, they insist, by one man control of the entire defense production set-up. The new board divides authority, and for that reason, they are inclined to see in it one more instance of the President's reluctance to delegate responsibility. Many of those who hold this view have frequently declared—often for publication—that the biggest defense bottleneck of all is right on the President's desk.

Although the current gasoline shortage affects only the eastern states, Secretary Ickes is on record as having said that the rest of the country might have to conserve gasoline, too—more or less as a disciplinary measure of the belt-tightening kind, in the view of some observers. While no one professes to know whether any attempt will be made to follow up those words with deeds, many persons on the sidelines here are seizing on the statement as another example of the confusion that characterizes the whole gasoline shortage issue.

Conflicting rumors and contradictory statements have appeared in such a steady stream that no one at the momemt seems to be entirely sure of what the truth really is. In some quarters there is a strong suspicion that the entire gas scarcity issue is being played up to dramatize the war. However that may be—and it, too is only a rumor—the fact remains that official Washington has been extremely reluctant to let the public in on the facts of the situation.

At present ways of alleviating the shortage seem to exist, but whether they will turn out to be the answers to the problem, observers here are not yet willing to say. They do point out, however, that the situation was allowed to become acute before anything was done about it, and as an example, they cite the fact that a pipe line to carry petroleum to East Coast refineries was proposed 13 months before any action was taken on it.

Whatever criticism they may have for government agencies in connection with the gas shortage, those familiar with the situation unite in praising the oil industry for the efficiency with which it has tackled its end of the problem. Accelerated tanker construction, maximum use of tankers now in operation, use of pipe lines, barges and trucks—these and other measures are already being taken by the companies involved. While the situation is admittedly complex and no one seems to know answers to all the problems involved, observers here believe that government officials can contribute greatly to a solution by abandoning their "scold and scare" tactics and concentrating on the facts of the case.

Farmers Construct Farm Reservoirs

George Baker, Beaver; Dr. J. D. Northcutt, Richard Northcutt, Shelby Beemon and George Griffith are among the farmers that have had good sized farm reservoirs or ponds constructed during the past few weeks, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

The ponds were built by Grover Robertson, who specializes in pond building. Mr. Robertson reports that he has received approximately 80 requests for pond building work and that he is going to contact all parties as fast as he can get to them. He is working two large outfits full time at the present.

The general plan is to contact interested farmers as the machinery is moved from one location to the next. This makes moves less expensive and saves time. Farmers who can conveniently do so are advised to contact Mr. Robertson in person.

Extensive testing of dairy cattle for Bang's disease has been done in Campbell county.

Pictured above are new Navy recruits receiving electrical training at one of the modernly equipped Navy Trade Schools. The Navy offers training to young men in nearly 50 different trades and vocations.

Opportunities for advancement, to learn skilled trades, for travel and adventure are identical whether a man enlists in the regular Navy or the Naval Reserve—and his pay, food, clothing, medical and dental care are the same.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

WELL KNOWN MT. ZION MAN DIES

A large concourse of friends and relatives gathered for the last rites, when services were held Saturday morning, August 23, at the Mt. Zion Baptist church, for Jess Hopkins. Rev. Bennett officiated. Interment was in the church cemetery. Coates and Stewart of Williamstown had charge of funeral arrangements.

Mr. Hopkins was the son of the late John and Sarah Hopkins, and was born January 11th, 1873, and passed away on August 20th, 1941, at the age of 68 years, 2 months and 9 days.

Clyde Franks, W. E. Schulker, W. C. Smith, R. S. Bingham, Hobart Varner and W. H. Justice were the pallbearers.

The deceased had been in ill health for some time, suffering from a heart ailment, but death came suddenly and unexpectedly, when he was stricken with a heart attack as he sat on the porch of his home at Mt. Zion.

Mr. Hopkins, a very highly respected citizen, a kind father, husband and friend, was a member of the Mt. Zion church and also a member of the D. of A. Council of Mt. Zion.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Basna Gorden Hopkins, he leaves five daughters, Mrs. Floyd Nashum, Mrs. Leonard Weghom, Mrs. Robert Bloemer and Mrs. Ora Baird of Covington, and Mrs. Jean Morey of Troy, Ohio; one son, Everett Hopkins of Crittenden, Ky., and 11 grandchildren, besides a host of other relatives and friends.

VETCH OUTSTANDING SOIL BUILDING CROP

Winter vetch has proven the outstanding winter legume, soil building green manure crop, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

Farmers, who have secured good stands and turned under this crop in the spring, report large additions of organic matter to the soil and large increase in yields of crops hat follow it.

Vetch should be seeded early, seed should be inoculated and covered from 3 to 4 inches deep. From 20 to 40 pounds per acre should be seeded with a small grain, preferably wheat.

The drouth destroyed 90 percent of the spring grass seedings in Scott county.

R. L. Beck harvested 4,000 pounds of orchard grass on his Lyon county farm.

CAMPBELL HEIRS BEING SOUGHT

We are in receipt of a letter from G. H. Nagel, 510 W. Main St., Houston, Texas, who wishes to contact descendants of Thomas Campbell, deceased.

The heirs at law of Mr. Campbell are wanted by Mr. Nagel on business matters.

STAFFORDSBURG HOMEMAKERS CLUB MEETS

The Staffordsburg Homemakers' Club held their September meeting at the home of Mrs. L. J. Rapp, after a few months of Educational tours and picnics, with Mrs. Earl Hanna in the chair.

The meeting was opened by group singing and the Lord's Prayer, after which the roll call was answered with twelve members and several visitors present.

The secretary, Mrs. Bluch Rice, gave the report of the last meeting. The business session proceeded with the nominating chairman, Mrs. Stella Richardson, presenting the following officers to be elected for the coming year. They are as follows: Mrs. Inez Beall, president; Mrs. Edna Klein, vice president and citizenship chairman; Mrs. Bluch Rich, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. John Shaw, beautification; Mrs. Earl Hanna, publicity chairman; Mrs. J. A. Keeney, English; Mrs. L. J. Rapp and Mrs. Denver Binder, clothing; Mrs. Mabel Valandingham and Mrs. J. A. Keeney, nutrition leaders; Mrs. Lee Faulkner and Mrs. Stella Richardson, style trend leaders.

We were then invited into the dining room by the hostess, where a very nice luncheon was waiting us and was erjoyed by all. After the noon hour, the meeting proceeded with Mrs. Stella Richardson presenting the shrubbery lesson on how and when to plant fall bulbs, after which Mrs. J. A. Keeney gave the report on the style trend lesson, which was very interesting.

The meeting adjourned by announcing the next meeting at Mrs. Edna Klein's on Thursday, October 2nd at 10:30 a. m.

WHILE chopping and storing the hay, the new Letz mill with grain separator sacks the beans. Saving high priced beans soon pays for a Letz—the surest money maker for any livestock farm.

Says Letz user, Lee Chatham, Danville, Indiana, "We chopped and blew into the mow 72 acres of soybean hay. We sacked 1,000 bushels of Manchu beans, keeping some for seed, recleaning and selling the rest for $1.25 per bushel. These beans brought us in over $1000.00."

Come in and investigate this wonderful machine. For most farmers feeding beef or dairy cattle, lambs or hogs, the Letz mill saves its cost and more the first season used. Let us demonstrate one for you.

The first meeting of the year of the Ryland Homemakers' Club was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. Damon, at Visalia, Tuesday, September 3.

Mrs. Wm. Dickman, club president, presided over the business meeting, which consisted mainly of the election of officers for the coming year.

Officers elected were: Mrs. Harry Rubbe, president; Mrs. Wm. Dickman, vice president; Mrs. Oliver Gee, sec'y-treasurer; Mrs. Harry Rubbe, publicity chairman; Mrs. J. C. Brown, assistant publicity chairman; Mrs. Wm. Mendenhall and Mrs. Clarence Armstrong, recreation; Mrs. John Murchison, music; Mrs. J. C. The club will have quite a full program, due to the National Defense Program, and each member was asked to give her full cooperation. The goals for 1941-42 are to be reviewed each month to keep in mind the work to be done.

Plans were made for members to take a bus trip to Blue Lick, Ky., October 14th.

Mrs. Alfred Rich very capably gave the lesson on fall style trends as given by Miss Davenport to the leaders recently. The styles are definitely "all American" this fall.

The club will meet at Visalia with Mrs. Mary Threlkeld in October.

The following persons enjoyed the day: Mrs. Wm. Dickman, Mrs. Wm. Mendenhall, Mrs. Wm. Damon, Mrs. Alfred Rich, Mrs. G. W. Pruitt, Mrs. Clarence Armstrong, Mrs. Oliver Gee, Mrs. Mary Threlkeld, Mrs. G. E. Miller, Mrs. John Belew, Mrs. Edward Hauser, Mrs. J. C. Brown, Mrs. John Murchison, Mrs. J. A. Frakes, Mrs. C. L. LAWRENCE REUNION

The different branches of the Lawrence family will stage a family reunion on Sunday, September 14, at Eagle Camp, Scott county, on Dixie Highway No. 25, south of Williamstown and north of Georgetown, Ky.

This is the first reunion of the Lawrences. There are a great number of people who are connected with this well known family, and who are scattered over the entire United States who should attend his reunion. So, we ask your presence on this day. Come early and stay late with friends you know, and meet those you don't know. A hearty invitation is extended to neighbors and friends not connected with the family.

This is not a private reunion of just one family, but all the different branches of the Lawrence families.

Eagle Camp is an ideal spot for such a gathering, for besides a lovely picnic ground with plenty of tables, and many shade trees, it has a nice swimming pool for those who wish to swim—and its all free of charge.

The morning will be devoted to meeting old and new friends—and games for the children. At noon a basket dinner will be spread in picnic fashion, and at 1:00 p. m., a very interesting program will start. At this program several very noted speakers will be heard; history of the family will be read; special music, both instrumental and vocal will be given and there will many other things to which you many look forward with much anticipation.

So gather together your families, your food, —and your swim suit, and meet the Lawrence family next Sunday at Eagle's Creek. See you there?

IS YOUR CHILD READY?

Are your child's eyes ready for the strain of school work?

Your child cannot be so happy and proficient in school if his or her eyes are strained.

Good vision is imperative. Proper glasses now may save considerable trouble and expense in later years. Bring your child here for genuine eye comfort.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 14

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE ETERNAL GOD, THE SOURCE OF HELP

LESSON TEXT—Revelation 7:9-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come.—Revelation 4:8.

A look into the future is something that would interest most of us, and we have it in this lesson. We agree with Dr. Wilbur Smith that "this is an excellent opportunity to bring to the hearts of our pupils some of these divinely revealed truths which the world, in its mad rush today, so easily and tragically puts aside."

The portion of Revelation, chapter seven, which is before us comes immediately after a section dealing with Israel. The Church is not mentioned. The ones spoken of have come out of "the great tribulation" (as the Revised Version rightly transiates it) and are evidently Gentiles who have come to believe in Christ during that time of unparalleled tribulation described in later chapters of this book.

Our lesson therefore deals with a specific time and a certain people in connection with an event yet to take place. But we find in this passage the description of the experiences of those who, like Christians of our day, triumphed through their saving faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. We may therefore here learn something of the future blessedness of the redeemed.

I. Saved Forever and Ever (vv. 9-12).

Salvation is a reality, and we are never going to be more certain of it than when we, like this multitude, stand in God's presence to praise Him for what He has done in our lives. It is real. Praise God!

Notice that there was an unnumbered multitude from all nations. The good tidings at the time of Christ's birth were for all people (Luke 2:10), and some from all nations respond. Note too that the hosts of the Lord are greater than we might at first suppose.

These redeemed ones had immediate access to God's throne, offering their praise direct. They were clad in the white robes of God's own purity and bore in their hands the palms of victory. They, with the angels, the elders (possibly representing the Church already caught up into heaven), and the living creatures (not "beasts", as in A.V. They are divine beings of highest character), ascribed a seven-fold praise to God "forever and ever. Amen." It is a glorious picture of completed redemption.

II. Serving Day and Night (vv. 13-15a).

It should be observed that even those who came through the great tribulation did not look to their own deeds or faithfulness to save them. Their white robes of righteousness were washed in "the blood of the Lamb" (v. 14).

Now that they had reached eternity through peril, toil and pain, they would (according to many folks' idea of heaven) sit down for an eternal rest and retirement. Not at all—they found their joy in serving their blessed Lord "night and day"; that is, without any weakness or exhaustion, without any failures or defeat.

III. Satisfied Throughout Eternity (vv. 15b-17).

To be covered by the "tabernacle" of God (whatever it may mean) surely betokens the perfect and constant protection of His own presence. Everything destructive and disturbing will be gone. There will be no lack of any good thing needed to satisfy every desire. There will be no thirst unquenched and no hunger unsatisfied (see similar descriptive passage in Rev. 21:3, 4).

The redeemed are said to be under the tender care of the Good Shepherd Himself; the Lamb (our Redeemer) who is in the midst of God's throne shall lead them, not beside "the still waters" of the Twenty-third Psalm, but "unto living fountains of water." Thus in the beauty of figurative speech, we are assured that God's provision for His children, the redeemed in Christ Jesus, will perfectly satisfy every need of soul and spirit. There is no such satisfaction this side of eternity, but we shall find it there.

Then too, there is to be no sorrow. God Himself is the guarantee that there shall be nothing in that blessed land to cause anyone to shed a tear. Think what that means! Think of the weeping of boys and girls, men and women, who in this world of hatred, sin and suffering, shed bitter tears of pain or sorrow. Well, it were almost enough to know that heaven is a place where there shall be no tears.

Remember that the promises of joyous completed redemption for these, the Gentile believers of the great tribulation, will be for all God's children, for us who believe in Christ. Reader, will you not join us today if you are still an unbeliever? Take Christ now as your Saviour.

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ—

Q. Why should Americans buy Defense Bonds and Stamps now?

A. Among the reasons are: (1) It is the quickest way in which every citizen can both serve his country and conserve his earnings, and (2) the purchase of the Bonds and Stamps helps not only to finance National Defense but also to prevent high prices and increased cost of living.

Q. Can I pledge a Defense Bond as collateral for a bank loan?

A. No. Bonds are registered and not transferable. They are payable only to the persons named on the Bond.

Note: To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C., for a mailorder form.

It is claimed that few pieces of home-made equipment give so big return for so little cost as the electric pig brooder.

It took a ton truck to hold the aluminum collected for defense by Green county 4-H'ers, Scouts, American Legion, etc.

HOMEMAKERS AT STYLE TREND MEET

Boone county Homemakers were represented by 16 clothing leaders at the District Style Trends meeting held by Miss Iris Davenport, specialist, University of Kentucky, at Coppin's in Covington on Tuesday, August 19.

This lesson will be reviewed for local organizations at the regular September meetings. Every Homemaker will want to attend these sessions and many non-members will be welcome to the clubs. The fall style trends are interesting especially in the face of increasing prices on clothing and limited materials because of defense industries. Miss Davenport recommends short cuts to remodeling of the clothing on hand. Simple lines and plainer designs make the bringing "up-to-date" a matter of a little thought and effort. Miss Davenport brings style trends to the Homemakers in early spring and fall as a practical help in their clothing program.

Last month county and local nutrition committees were organized. There are a part of the National All-Out-Defense program and will work to make America strong through various activities.

One goal of each local committee was to improve the school lunch program. The first real step in this direction was taken when the lunch room committees and nutrition chairmen met with Mrs. Pearl Haack, nutrition specialist from University of Kentucky, in the Florence school cafeteria at 1:30 Thursday afternoon. Lunches especially for underfed children coming into schools, were discussed. Mrs. Jane Utz and Mrs. Josephine Thompson, representing the W. P. A. Commodity distribution were present and informed the group of the foods available from this source.

Mrs. Leo Flynn, persident of the new Nutrition Program organization in Walton, Mrs. Lula Huey and Mrs. A. T. Stone attended the meeting from here. The next meeting will be at the New Haven school the latter part of September or first of October when planning of menus will be discussed.

COLORED HOMEMAKERS MEET AT BAPTIST CHURCH

The Colored Homemakers Club held an interesting meeting at the Colored Baptist church on Wednesday, August 20, Mrs. Moore meeting with us as Miss Gillaspie is ill.

Mrs. Estell Sleet, the president conducted the meeting. The lesson was "Home Canning." Mrs. Moore gave the instructions on canning by the hot water bath method.

After the meeting cake and lemonade were served.

The members present were: Mrs. Estill Sleet, Mrs. Walter Sleet, Mrs. James Riddell, Mrs. Lucy Johnson, Mrs. James Ingram, Mrs. Joe Howlett, Mrs. R. P. Hughes, Mrs. W. W. Rouse, Mrs. Moore, Miss Sarah Sleet, Mrs. Kirtley Steele, a visitor and the hostess, Mrs. George Crutcherfield.

On Thursday, August 28 the Colored Homemakers went to Cincinnati on a tour.

The first stop was the Zoological Gardens, which are always interesting to old and young alike. From there we went to the Coca Cola Bottling Co., where they were shown the actual process of making and bottling the drink so many are fond of. Each member was served Coca Cola.

The next and last place was Kroger's Foundation, which was very educational. While there they were served cake and soft drinks.

Defense Needs Boost Profits on Kentucky Farms

CHICAGO. — With defense demands boosting meat and dairy prices, Kentucky pasture land looms as one of the most profitable sources of 1941 farm income, according to a statement issued here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"For years farm leaders have preached the gospel of pasture improvement as a means of conserving the soil, controlling erosion and increasing fertility," says the statement. "Now the wisdom of that advice is evident.

Need Fertilizer.

"Pasture is the cheapest source of feed for livestock. But it is not an inexhaustible farm resource. Every pound of meat and every quart of milk removes valuable plant food from the soil.

"For example, an average cow will eat the equivalent of two tons of dry pasture grass during a grazing season. That much feed removes from the soil 115 pounds of nitrogen, 26 pounds of phosphorus and 93 pounds of potash. Even if the manure is conserved, only a portion of this plant food will be returned to the soil.

"Steady conservation of pasture land, obviously, lies in good farm management which includes the application of commercial fertilizer. Such a program not only produces grasses richer in essential minerals but promotes more rapid and luxuriant growth. It provides a diet essential to the most effective growth of livestock, helps build up the soil and adds to the farm's long range value."

Pasture Improvement Means More Meat and Dairy Products.

POULTRY POINTERS FOR SEPTEMBER

1. Make any needed repairs to the laying house. Stop the leaks, replace broken glass and cover openings which permit drafts.

2. Give the house a thorough cleaning; then cover the floor with straw, hay, shavings or any suitable litter.

3. Provide one nest for each four hens. Hay is good nesting material.

4. Backward pullets are not profitable winter layers, sell them now.

5. Look over the pullets carefully to see if they have lice, if so treat the flock.

6. Keep a good laying mash, oats and whole yellow corn before the flock in separate self-feeders.

7. Confine the pullets to the laying house and sow a cover crop on the land around the house.

8. Select a laying mash which you intend to use thruout the winter, to avoid a change in feed during the fall and winter.

9. Keep ground limestone or oyster shell before the flock at all times.

10. The remaining old hens, except the late molters, should be sold.

PROFITS FROM YOUR HOME GARDEN

The farmer who makes a success with his home garden is making plans now for the coming year. Important practices can be used this fall to help insure a good garden in 1942.

Winter Cover Crop in Garden

By seeding a winter cover crop such as wheat or rye, and adding a legume crop like winter vetch you can prevent soil erosion, add organic matter and build up the nitrogen supply in the soil. (If winter vetch is seeded, be sure to inoculate seed). If vetch is seeded later than the 20th of September it is not likely to make enough growth to carry it thru the winter. If you cannot use cover crop on all of your garden, apply them on a part. Every little bit helps.

Government Phosphate on Farm Garden for Home Use

According to instructions issued for the 1942 Agricultural Conservation Program, superphosphate obtained under the grant of aid can be used on farm gardens when vegetables are grown for home use. (It cannot be used on commercial vegetables produced for sale or market.)

Limestone and Phosphate on Fall Garden

On most of the yellow ridge soils of Kenton county there is a need for ground limestone and phosphate in addition to manure or organic matter. Good results are obtained if one to two tons of ground limestone and 400 to 600 pounds of 20% phosphate per acre is applied and disked into the soil in the fall when the small grain cover crop is seeded. (It takes 240 pounds of 20% phosphate to equal 100 pounds of 47% superphosphate.)

Suggestions for Late Fall Garden

It is still time to seed Siberian kale for fall and winter greens. Turnips: (seed at the rate of one pound per acre). The seedlings should be thinned to at least 6 inches apart to make turnips instead of tops. Lettuce, winter radishes; white or Rose Chinese. Good time to plant rhubarb if you have enough moisture.

Mustard, kale, rape can be used as a cover crop in addition to providing greens for the table and for poultry. Plan to let some kale and mustard go to seed for your home needs. Kale seed is advancing in price. Grow some of your own seed for the home garden to be sure of having a supply next year.

Save Your Stable Manure

Manure is a valuable plant food and organic matter. Save it and reduce your fertilizer cost in 1942.

One of the best treatments for lice on chickens is to cover the perches with a 40 percent solution of nicotine sulfate. Apply with a small brush or oil can a half-hour before the birds go to roost.

SERVICE THAT SATISFIES

Doings of The REDS

There will be some interesting developments as the Reds battle down the stretch in their duel with the Pittsburgh Pirates for third place in the National League. In their battle for third, the Reds will have an advantage of eigtheen straight contests on their home field, a stay that started Tuesday against the Boston Braves. Secondly, after their pennant blow delivered at the Cardinals in St. Louis Saturday and Sunday, the Reds will be in position to hand out some damage to the loading Brooklyn Dodgers, who play the Reds at Crosley Field Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday.

Between the games against the Dodgers and those against the Braves Tuesday and Wednesday, which opened the home stand, the Reds were scheduled to meet the New York Giants in single encounters Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Added interest in the Reds' eighteen home games is certain to come from the trial Bill McKechnie will give some of the young men who have graduated from the Reds' farm clubs. These young men are only those who have indicated immediate possibilities of making the grade, such as Hank Sauer, the long distance thumper from Birmingham. Scouts all say this fellow has the power. They say he can hit the ball into the next county when he gets his pitch. A fellow with these potentialities is certainly worth a thorough trial, which is just what McKechnie intends to give him.

At Birmingham Sauer played first base, but McKechnie plans to convert him into an outfielder, as this is the greatest need of the Reds. In addition to his power, he can run and throw. Bill thinks any player who can do those things should be able to learn his way around a new position.

Sauer will be one of four outstanding minor leaguers with the Reds during his home stay. Benny Zientara, who is regarded as a great second base prospect, will be with the Reds, and so will Ray Lamanno, a catcher, who performed heroics for Birmingham. Ray Starr, from Indianapolis, has been with the Reds a week.

A fellow with great sock naturally draws most of the attention, which is probably the reason why most eyes are focused on Sauer.

MORGANSVILLE

"Let us not love in word, neither in tongue, but in deed and truth."

Life to many is a rocky uphill road, and on the way up get blows, bruises, disappointments and tears, so let us strive to brighten lives where seldom has been.

The series of evangelistic meetings recently closed at Oak Island church.

On Friday evening Rev. I. E. Enlow and youthful son paid a pleasant call. Deeply appreciated was his beautiful bedside prayer.

A host of friends deeply deplore the tragic death of Rev. G. C. Mullins. More than 3.000 were in attendance at the last rites, requiring one hour and a half to view the remains. May the Great Comforter soothe and sustain in this dark hour of trial.

Charles, Jackie and Bessie Morgan, three interesting children of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Morgan, most warmly welcomed their grandmother, Mrs. Bessie Trapp of Tiffin, Ohio, who is here vacationing with relatives. Complimenting her on Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Grizzle of Kenton entertained with a lovely fried chicken dinner, and on Wednesday pleasant calls were paid to her by Mrs. Vincent L. Stephenson, Mrs. J. L. Pickett, Mrs. Margaret Settle and Miss Dorothy Settle.

Sadness came into many hearts at the announcement of the death of Mr. John William Lawson, 79, Sunday, August 31, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Clay Workman near Atwood. Long had he walked life's road and he has gone to the grave in a full age, like "a sheaf of grain cometh in its season." Death is of divine appointment and is the path that all must tread if we would pass home to God.

Besides his children, he is survived by his grandson, Mr. Amos Lawson and great grandsons Junior and Howard Lawson of this place.

Deepest sympathy is extended to all who tread the lonely path of sorrow.

"God calls our loved ones,
But we lose not wholly what He has given.
They live on earth in thought and deed,
As truly as in heaven."

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accorded as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. I would like to provide a regular income for myself when I retire. Can this be done by buying Defense Savings Bonds?

A. Yes. If you purchase a Bond for $37.50 each month, each Bond will mature in exactly 10 years. Thus at the end of 10 years you will have $50 payable each month as each of your Bonds reaches maturity.

Q. But I will need more than $50 a month.

A. Then you would invest a larger amount each month. Every $75 you put into Defense Bonds will pay you $100 ten years from now. Meanwhile, your money serves your Government during this period of national emergency.

Note: To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

Continuous Enrollment For CCC Now In Effect

Young men between the ages of seventeen and twenty-three and one-half may now enroll in the Civilian Conservation Corps at the nearest CCC camp, at any time, as a part of a revamped enrollment program set up to provide additional opportunities to enable them to obtain training of national defense value offered in the camps.

Under the new set-up, all CCC Cooperating Agencies and Personnel will supplement the selection activities of the various state welfare agencies in direct selection of young men for the Corps.

The State Agencies which have been selecting enrollees ever since the CCC was started will in no way be eliminated from this work. The CCC Agencies will function in close cooperation with them in its choosing of prospective enrollees.

Main features of the new plan include:

(1) Continuous selection and enrollment instead of periodic enrollment.

(2) Selecting Agents may send applicants to nearby camps at any time for enrollment by CCC officials.

(3) Application in metropolitan areas far removed from camps will be enrolled by officials who will visit cities at least once a month.

(4) Applicants selected by CCC personnel do not have to be passed on by State Selection Agencies prior to enrollment.

(5) New enrollees will not be sent outside the Corps Area of residence. Special enrollments for serving away from home state will be conducted in the camps each three (3) months for enrollees volunteering for such service.

(6) Local State Employment Officers are authorized to refer applicants to nearby camps for enrollment at any time.

(7) Interviews of applicants by the CCC personnel will be limited to the establishment of essential facts. This is to permit applicants being informed of their acceptability in the shortest time after their application for selection.

There will be no change in the selection and enrollment of war veteran enrollees, except that they will be enrolled at any time, instead of each three (3) months.

Anyone is eligible for selection as a junior enrollee if:

(1) He is a male citizen of the United States.

(2) Unmarried.

(3) Not less than 17 nor more than 23¼ years of age at time of

(4) Unemployed and in need enrollment.

of employment which covers "unmarried junior applicants otherwise qualified by age, citizenship, fitness and character, not in attendance at school nor on temporary vacation therefrom, not possessing full-time employment, and who need the employment, the job training, the educational and other opportunities available in the CCC."

(5) Willing to allot $15.00 each month of his cash allowance to dependents or, if he has no dependents, to deposit $22.00 each month which will be returned to him in a lump sum at the end of his enrollment.

(6) In good physical condition.

(7) Possessing good character.

(8) He had not been an enrolled member of the CCC for the three (3) months immediately

P.-T. A. TO MEET FRIDAY

Mrs. Mabel Webster, new president of the P.-T. A., reminds all parents and teachers that the organization will open the 1941-42 season with its initial meeting on Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock at the school auditorium.

This is an opportunity for the parents to bring in closer contact, the home and the school—an opportunity which no parent can afford to treat lightly. There can be progress and success in schools only when there is unity and cooperation between teachers and parents. So, parents, come out and express your opinions—and take an active part in the organization which was created to help YOUR child.

The officers, too, need the support of all the parents. This year can and should be one of great advancement and growth in the P.-T. A. To accomplish this those interested should be present at the meeting Friday.

R. Forkner, county agent.

Mr. Welch has had wide experience in farm reservoir construction. All farmers who can conveniently do so are urged to attend the meeting. The meeting will be in the form of a tour of ponds recently constructed and at location where a new pond is being started.

This Week In Defense

Defense Planning

The Supply Priorities and Allocation Board ordered its executive director, Donald M. Nelson, to compile an over-all list of U. S. and lend-lease defense needs as part of a detailed master plan for the defense effort. The SPAB ruled that no materials will be allowed for new plants for civilian goods if the materials were needed for military purposes.

Aid to Britain

British Foreign Minister Eden informed the United States all materials received by Great Britain under the Lend-Lease Act were used exclusively for war purposes and that none is being diverted to private channels. Secretary of State Hull said there had been some misunderstanding about British exports and the message explained what the two Governments are undertaking to do cooperatively.

Federal Security Administrator McNutt said the U. S. Employment Service plans to seek several thousand American specialists between 18 and 50 for employment by the British Civilian Technical Corps as radio and automobile mechanics, electrical wiremen, instrument repairers, metal workers and other technical tradesmen, for service in England repairing vital equipment used by the British armed forces. Mr. McNutt said men needed for national defense jobs in this country will not be accepted but selective service headquarters have authorized local draft boards to grant deferment in Class IIB for men joining the C. T. C.

The Commodity Credit Corporation made available for Lend-Lease operations in the past two weeks 100.130 bales of cotton and 1.345,000 bushels of corn. The Red Cross announced it will send a delegation to Russia to study and report on most urgent needs in that country and how to meet them.

Ships Built

The Maritime Commission announced the largest mass launching of ships since the World War will take place September 27 when 12 ships slide down the ways. Four other new merchant ships in the 500-ship long-range program are being delivered to operators between September 11 and September 19, making a total of 110 vessels completed under the program. The Navy Department announced launchings of two cruisers and one minesweeper. The Maritime Commission said to meet increased demand for officers in the merchant marine it has opened competitive examinations for cadet appointments. Applications must be submitted to the Commission before November 8.

Ships Attacked

The Maritime Commission announced the U. S. freighter "Steel Seafarer" was sunk in the Gluf of Suez. The State Department reported the "Sessa," operated by an American firm, was sunk near Iceland with 24 men lost, and the "Montana," an American owned ship was torpedoed on the way to Iceland with a cargo of lumber.

Army Safety

The War Department estimated that, despite rigors of field maneuvers this fall, there will be a considerably lower accident and death rate for the 752.000 troops participating than for a corresponding number of civilians. The estimate predicted 236 deaths and 40,000 admissions to hospitals for disease and injury.

Air

Assistant War Secretary for Air Lovett told the press Army war games will provide a preview of the "world's finest" military aircraft but "in point of quantity . . we still have a long way to go" although production is now beginning to roll and . . . should enable us to equip combat units . . . one squadron every other day."

The Air Corps announced it is testing a new four-engine flying fortress which is bigger and has more fire power than models now in use by the U. S. and Great Britain.

Oil, Gasoline

The Special Senate Committee investigating the oil situation said the only shortage of petroleum products or of transportation facilities "is a 'shortage' in a large surplus which is desired." Acting Oil Coordinator Davies issued a statement saying, "the admittedly low condition of petroleum stocks on the East coast continues to mean shortage . . . (and) the necessity for public cooperation continues." SPAB refused to grant priorities on steel plates for construction of a 1,500-mile petroleum pipeline from Texas to New York. Mr. Davies said the Southeastern pipeline between Port St Joe, Fla., and Chattanooga, Tenn., will deliver 1,260.000 gallons of gasoline and other petroleum products daily to Georgia and Tennessee within 60 days.

Prices, Inflation Control

The Labor Department announced retail food prices are at the highest level in 10 years—12.3 percent higher than a year ago. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, speaking in Boston, said "Inflation is no longer distant . . . We are facing it and . . . if we are selfish and shortsighted . . . the consequences may haunt us and our children for years, but if we look at the problem with firm resolve we can beat this thing."

Mr. Morgenthau said control of consumer installment credit, purchase of defense bonds and stamps and tax-anticipation notes are not enough to prevent consumer purchasing power from forcing prices up. He suggested extension and increase of social security benefits, an unemployment compensation "wage" for the workers and reduction in non-essential expenditures in Federal, State and local governments. He also suggested release of Government held surplus stocks of food to hold down food prices.

Priorities

Priorities Director Nelson made mandatory all priority ratings, issued ratings to assure civil air lines continued operation at high efficiency and to give assistance to 20 essential industries in obtaining repair materials.

Priority Unemployment

The Bureau of Employment Security and representatives of the OPM Contract Distribution Division and Labor Division began a nation-wide survey to find jobs for workers laid off because of production curtailment due to shortages and diversion of materials to defense.

New Plants

The Defense Plant Corporation and the War Department authorized and awarded contracts for construction of six aluminum, magnesium and ordnance plants, totaling $94.579,000. OPM recommended to the War Department construction of an aluminum plant at Troutdale, Ore., to produce 90,000,000 pounds annually.

Farming Out

Acting Navy Secretary Forrestal announced creation of the Naval Contracts Distribution Division to cooperate with the OPM in speeding up production by using facilities of small plants and employees whose industries are threatened by shutdown or dislocation because of priorities. Under-secretary of War Patterson directed the Army's 815 purchasing offices to bring more of the nation's industrial facilities into the defense program "to eliminate distress caused by loss of business" because of defense priorities.

Defense Housing

The Defense Housing Coordinator distributed to all Federal Reserve Banks and branches application forms for special credit for the repair and remodeling of homes in defense areas.

Agriculture

Agriculture Secretary Wickard announced the 1942 farm program, calling for all-time record production—especially of hogs, eggs, evaporated milk, dry skim milk, cheese and chickens—to improve nutrition in this country and to aid other nations.

Railroad Labor Board

President Roosevelt set up a five-man board to investigate the disputes between unions and railways and to report its findings with 30 days. Wayne Lyman Morse, dean of the University of Oregon Law School, heads the Board.

FORENSICS

A few numbers back I discussed "Exhibitions," the speaking of pieces at the end of the school; today I want to introduce you to a similar thing in more advanced schools. For a generation or more there appeared in college catalogues in Kentucky the term "Forensics." which meant primarily public speaking of some sort in a "literary society." All of us who got our education along about 1910 had a full exposure to forensics, whether we suffered or made to suffer. When I think of all the speeches I have heard, I almost resolve to swear off making any more.

Merely speaking was not enough. We had got a bit too old to give declamations as such, though we often borrowed some oratorical phrases from favorite pieces. We were supposed to be original in our speaking and to speak only from notes, or, better still, without a scrap of paper to guide us. We could discuss, if we liked, but the great feature of forensics was debating. We were told again and again by our elders that we developed great powers of thinking by debating, and debate was the thing. Those of us who did not like to debate had to anyway. Personally It was always a poor debater, for I found myself quite as often on the other fellow's side as on my own. I so liked to make a point, any point, that the temptation was too great; few liked to have me as a colleague for this very reason. There were always judges and also the usual tactics of the law court. An outsider would have thought that we were all intending to be lawyers.

Thanks to my old diary, I know what many of these great subjects for debate were. Oddly enough, there was seldom a subject that remotely suggested the political and economic problems of the time. One famous debate that I attended asked whether millionaires were a help or a hindrance to mankind. My diary says the affirmative (that is, the helpers) won. Then there were the time-honored poet-and-inventor subject, with the dishrag and the broom thrown in for levity. Debating had proved attractive to the older generation; hence we had to like it anyway. Though this was years ago, I still feel somewhat nauseated when the very word "debate" is mentioned, for I hated it so bitterly.

Another feature of forensics was a journal. Before the highly-paid commentators were ever heard of, we reviewed in a nutshell the doings of the big world, dismissing events of major importance with a brief paragraph. We hastened on to give the latest wise cracks that we could find or to pass along many an old one that we hoped the others had not heard. Unlike the debate, the journal could be read. I used to do rather well in this, for I unfortunately remembered most of the jokes I had heard; with a little doctoring and substituting, some of the risque jokes could be rendered harmless except to the fellows who had heard the originals.

Still another feature was the critic. Each time we had our society some one of our own number was appointed critic. He sat in the back of the room and wrote down some of the obvious faults, never any virtues, of the various speakers. His criticism included corrections of atrocious grammar, remarks on posture and intonation, and flaws in argument. Sometimes the critic actually did a little good and was not merely a perfunctory part of the program.

All of this sounds dry, and it often was. But we had few means of entertainment, we were mature people with starved minds, and we wanted to be somebody spelled with a capital. Forensics, we had been told, would go far to make us somebody; hence our persistence. It seems funny enough now, but it used to be a serious part of the education of a boy who was going away to school.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

During the past week the strike situation furnished observers here with ample opportunities for speculation, and comment was generally of the "where-do-we-go-from-here" variety. Although few people are talking for publication, there is considerable discussion as to whether or not the recent rise in strikes will revive Congressional demands for restrictive legislation.

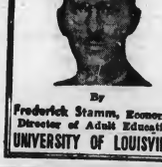
In this connection it is recalled that the Vinson bill, which provides for a 25-day cooling off period, among other things, was reported out of the House Naval Affairs Committee on April 21, but no action was ever taken on it. Although it is too early to forecast accurately whether this will be revived, the fact is noted here with growing concern that strikes have increased five-fold within a year and are now 44 per cent above the average for the five-year period from 1935 through 1939.

Coupled with this speculation is the feeling in many quarters that the government may have set an unfortunate precedent in seizing the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company at Kearny, N. J. Behind closed doors many of those familiar with the situation declare that the Mediation Board went too far in asking for a contract that called for union membership maintenance. The suggestion is even advanced that the Board itself realizes this and may soon issue a statement to keep other unions from using the Kearny settlement as an argument in demanding universal enforcement of the closed shop principle.

Recent reports from abroad that British armament needs will be increased, together with the fact that American defense requirements are also growing, have kept the entire defense production situation squarely in the limelight this week.

In some quarters the usual charges are being made that American industrial output has bogged down. Actually that is not the case, and those who are really in the know are the first to admit that, far from having decreased, production has steadily risen. That it falls short of meeting current demands is due to the fact that those demands have been raised again and again. Original estimates were extremely low in comparison with production in other countries that could have served as a model for us, and, while they have been increased from time to time, each increase has made necessary a revision of production schedules. Had the original estimates been the correct ones, observers here insist that one of the main causes of production delays would never have occurred.

When discussing delays, informed persons on the sidelines point to the growing shortage of available raw materials. Indications now are that the country will soon be asked to support more drives like that for collecting aluminum. Iron and steel scrap, wool and cotton rags and scrap rubber are among the products that are already receiving consideration in this connection.



According to some sources, the scrap supply of the steel industry is barely enough for existing production, to say nothing of the projected addition to it occasioned by increased defense needs. Present figures indicate that a possible shortage of 6,000,000 tons of scrap will have to be made up somehow if the steel industry is to meet a production goal of 102,000,000 tons this year.

Although no official drive has yet been launched for scrap collection, reports here indicate that many industrial firms throughout the country are taking the initiative and are already inaugurating collection programs of their own. A case in point is furnished by one large steel company which recently bought 8.400 tons of iron that were gathered during a three-day campaign which the company sponsored.

One of the current measures to preserve Army morale that is viewed with a great deal of interest here centers around efforts that numerous companies throughout the country are making to keep in touch with their employees who have entered the Service. Company newspapers are devoting considerable space to news of the boys in the armed forces, and company officials often endeavor to maintain personal contact through letters.

While it is impossible for companies to give iron-clad guaranties that employees will be rehired, since their volume of business may decrease under the impact of the defense program, such efforts to maintain employer-employee relationships evidence the good faith with which industry is tackling one phase of the current morale-building campaign.

Money Talks

Is your community getting its share of defense business? This is a question of great importance to many business men in small communities all over this country. With "business as usual" a thing of the past and with raw materials more difficult to secure, many small manufacturers are faced with one of two alternatives: first, to secure defense contracts, or second, to curtail production.

Big producers such as United States Steel and General Motors are securing all the defense orders they can handle. But smaller manufacturers are finding it more difficult to secure defense contracts because of their lack of plant capacity.

How can small manufacturers in small towns secure defense orders? You may recall that about a year ago I wrote how the small manufacturers at York, Pennsylvania, formed an association and pooled their plants and equipment so that each could work on the part of the contract for which it was best fitted. As a result of this cooperation, these small plants have been busy on defense contracts, and instead of idle plants and idle men this town has prospered. The idea spread and new cooperative ventures were organized. In Harrisonburg, Virginia, the Shenándoah Valley Defense Cooperative, Inc., was set up to secure defense orders and then pool them to small manufacturers in that area.

There are many small plants in many towns facing the loss of business. It seems to me that this is a grand opportunity for the Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce in your town to do something constructive. If your city is not getting defense orders, York, Pennsylvania, plan and see it might pay to investigate the what can be done for your community. It might pay big dividends for your labor, your industries, and your community in general.

MOVIE STAR JOINS U.S. NAVY

Ensign Wayne Morris Seeks Wings

Wayne Morris, recent star of "I Wanted Wings," became a member of Uncle Sam's Navy in May, 1941, when he was appointed to the rank of Ensign.

When asked what he thought of the United States Navy, Morris said, "I think every man who is considering joining a military service should look into the 'chance of a lifetime' which the Navy and Naval Reserve offer to get into the big-pay field of the future—aviation. In the Navy you can attend the finest flight training schools in the world, and receive instruction from Navy pilots who introduced dive bombing, aircraft carriers and catapult take-offs to the rest of the world. Also, there are opportunities in Naval Aviation for men who don't want to fly. They can be trained as aviation machinists, metalsmiths, photographers, observers, or they can receive instruction in many other trades. It's a great life in the Navy."

Ensign Wayne Morris is pictured here in his line of duty as a member of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board at the Long Beach Naval Reserve Air Base.

"The Breaks of Big Sandy"

One of the Scenic Spots of Kentucky

By Tom Holland

Looking into the gorge from the lower mountain top. Elevation here is about 2,000 feet. Note tracks of the Clinchfield Railroad Company, which follow the river through the mountains.

This picture was taken at a point where the river tumbles out of the gorge. Fishing is exceptionally good several miles down stream.

Eastern Kentucky's greatest contribution to the scenic beauty of the state is the magnificent "Breaks of the Big Sandy," located 30 miles from Pikeville into the Cumberland mountains on the Virginia border.

Recently added to Jefferson National Forest, "the Breaks" as the spot is known to East Kentuckians, is rapidly becoming an object of widespread tourist interest.

The federal government is planning an improvement program in the area which will include picnic and recreation sites. At the moment, the road leading to the top of the mountain is rather narrow, but Kentucky and Virginia have highway projects under advisement which will make the spot easily accessible.

Described simply, the Breaks is a huge gorge formed by the Russell Fork of the Big Sandy River's Levisa Fork. The river breaks through the mountain, literally. Hence the name.

Elevation at the point is about 2,800 feet. Ruggedness of the country is evidenced by the fact that Pikeville, 30 miles away, has an elevation of only 700 feet.

The Breaks is located on State Route 80, which branches off U. S. Route 33 at Shelbiana, in Pike county. Large roadsigns, erected by the Pike County Fish and Game Protective Association, easily direct visitors to the spot.

Probably the most interesting view of the gorge is from a huge rock, located at the very top of the mountain. With little danger of falling over the cliff, a person can look straight down to the river, hundreds of feet below.

It is at this point that the government will probably establish most of the picnic and recreational sites.

By 1942, if plans progress as expected, the Breaks will be a full fledged tourist mecca.

Visitors will be amply rewarded for their trip even before they reach the mountain top. The rugged country is virtually untouched, affording a primitive beauty characteristic of the Cumberland mountains. It was in this same area that John Fox, Jr., laid the setting of his famous story of the mountains, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

Historically, the Breaks is interesting for the part it played in a Civil War episode. It was through the Breaks that a Confederate regiment, organized on the lower Licking, passed into Virginia, having retreated up the Licking watershed and over into the Big Sandy valley, recruiting as it went, and as has often been said "leaving a string of Democratic counties in its wake."

Near the Breaks is a vast game preserve and fish rearing ponds.

Eastern Kentuckians have visions, based on sound reasoning and plenty of work, of a huge garden spot for tourists, hunters and fishermen in years to come.

The "Call of the Cumberlands," they say, will be made much more inviting in the Breaks area during 1942.

Financial Independence

THE desire to possess a dependable income, adequate to provide for one's needs and to meet one's human obligations, is indeed legitimate. The difficulties encountered in trying to accumulate and to safeguard material possessions have taught many that security is not to be found in matter, and that the practical way to financial independence is the spiritual way. . . .

In "Miscellaneous Writings" Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, writes (p. 307), "God gives you His spiritual ideas, and in turn, they give you daily supplies."

"But," one may say, "food and clothing and houses are material, and yet essential to one's comfort and existence. How can spiritual ideas furnish these supplies?" In answer, let us ask another question. Have we not known of cases in which integrity, dependability, gentleness, love, faith, and other similar qualities have brought very tangible returns in the form of position, improved business, or direct monetary income? Such qualities are always in demand, and their exercise often brings unexpected rewards. They indicate the presence of God, divine Love, infinite Mind, the source of true health, strength, wisdom, opportunity. In contrast, a complaining disposition, self-pity, fear, envy, resentment, and worry bring no income of good, but have, rather, a minus value. They must be discarded for Godlike qualities if we are to see God, good, expressed in our daily experience.

As we strive to understand God and to recognize man as made in His image and likeness, manifesting Him, we become conscious of a valuable fund of right thoughts with which to correct every erroneous condition. It is no mere theory which proclaims that one who is expressing divine qualities cannot remain in physical need, for it is a demonstrable fact that the mental state determines the outward circumstances. When one's mental home is clean and pure, filled with Christlike thoughts, one cannot remain in squalid physical surroundings; or, when one's consciousness is overflowing with loving, uncritical thoughts for all who cross his path, he cannot long experience lack; and when one is working diligently at his real business of reflecting God, who is Love, he need have no fear of lack of business opportunities.

To reach a state wherein we felt that we no longer needed to trust God for our daily supplies would be poverty indeed; while the greatest wealth we can gain is the establishment of a fund of absolute faith in our heavenly Father's power and willingness to provide adequately for all His children. Recognizing Him as the only creator, as divine Principle, supporting the universe He has created, we learn to drop the worry and heavy weight of personal responsibility that often lead to sickness and human inefficiency; and we gain a sense of permanent peace and security. We should ask for nothing which might retard our efforts to gain a better understanding of God or lessen our reliance upon Him. The wise writer of the Proverbs said (Proverbs 30:8), "Give me neither poverty nor riches."

Christ Jesus proved on many occasions that temporary needs are supplied through spiritual power. The two instances recorded in the Gospels of the feeding of the multitudes offer valuable lessons for all humanity. The Master having given thanks for what was at hand, dispensed it in a wise and orderly manner; and after demonstrating that more than enough was available, he allowed not even the surplus to be wasted.

Christian Science does not advocate an irresponsible attitude toward our financial obligations; rather does it demand economy, wisdom, and strict adherence to the Biblical command (Romans 13:8), "Owe no man any thing, but to love one another." Instead of encouraging idleness, it enables one to accomplish more because of his reliance upon God. . . .

There are needs in the experience of all mankind that no amount of money can supply, and those who are leaning upon God know that these needs, too, are met by divine Love. That which satisfies the deep yearnings of the heart is the understanding of man's inseparability from God, good, a divinely bestowed inheritance not subject to loss or affected by a fluctuating market.

Good is inexhaustible. As God's provision for man's needs is unfolded to us, we gain dominion over the belief that material possessions can either produce or rob us of happiness. We become financially independent when we see that we cannot be governed by the love of money or fear of its lack.

That anything of value can be taken from us is a suggestion of error. If the loss of earthly things has given us a better understanding of God, it is gain, not loss. So let us not grieve over the yesterdays, nor fear the tomorrows, for in divine Mind there is only the eternal now, rich in manifestations of Life, Truth, and Love.—The Christian Science Monitor.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist. DEFENSE BOND QUIZ—

Q. Can Defense Savings Stamps be redeemed?

A. Yes; they can be redeemed for cash at face value or exchanged for Defense Savings Bonds. For example, 75 of the 25-cent Stamps—total cash value $18.75—may be exchanged for a Defense Savings Bond which in 10 years will be worth $25.

Q. How long have Defense Savings Stamps been on sale at retail stores?

A. Sale of Stamps at retail stores originated in the State of Michigan on July 10. The idea met with such success that it is spreading rapidly, and soon Stamps will be sold in most retail stores on a Nation-wide basis.

Note: To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

Coaltar is considered the best material to use on a tree wound caused by pruning or injury. Heat slightly so it can be put on with a brush, using care not to get tar on the bark around the wound.

"NAVY INTELLIGENCE"

Is it necessary to be a high school graduate in order to enlist in the Navy?

No. Navy enlistees need not be high school graduates. All applicants will be given an examination containing approximately 100 questions. A grade of 50 per cent or better on this examination is sufficiently high to pass the Navy educational standards. However, a high school education will be valuable to the seaman during his Navy enlistment.

If I enlist in the Navy or Naval Reserve, will I be sent to a Navy Trade School?

All new recruits are sent to one of four Naval Training Stations and after a training period they may take examinations for entrance into Navy Trade Schools. Those recruits who pass their examinations with sufficiently high grades are sent to Navy Trade Schools before assignment to the fleet. While attending these schools, they will receive regular Navy pay and free schooling valued at $1500.

What is the greatest possible pay I can expect to earn during my first term of enlistment?

It is possible to earn as much as $126 a month by the end of your first term of enlistment, and remember that your clothing, lodging, medical and dental care are all supplied free.

After I have served my term of enlistment, what benefits do I get for re-enlistment?

Depending on your rate and length of service, you can get a cash bonus up to $300 plus 30 days leave with pay.

What does the term "ash can" mean in the Navy?

An "ash can" is a slang term applied to the depth charge used to combat submarines. The average "ash can" is a container filled with approximately 300 pounds of T.N.T. and can be dropped overboard from a ship and so controlled as to explode at depths ranging from 36 to 300 feet. These are generally carried by the fast ships in the fleet, as a boat dropping a charge regulated to explode at 70 feet depth must move away from the explosion area at a speed of 25 knots or more. These "ash cans" are either rolled off the stern or shot from "y-guns" which hurl one right and one left simultaneously.

MORGANSVILLE

The writer of the 90th Psalm saw that all things change and pass away. Not one thing that we can touch will last always. He saw the hills flowing into shadows, the sea melting into mist, and the generations of humans swept by a flood of years. They are as asleep, as frail as the grass of the field, and as fleeting. They flourish for a day, but at eventide withers.

Deeply appreciated was the beautiful bedside prayer of Rev. W. A. Wolfe of Weston, Ohio, on his recent call.

"There is no death—they only truly live who pass into the life beyond and see this world is but a school preparative for larger ministry."

DR. E. F. WOLFE PASSES

The call to "Come up Higher," came to Dr. E. F. Wolfe of Edgewood, near Erlanger, Saturday, Sept. 6, 1941, and there passed from the earth a noble christian character. When death stilled his heart, Kenton county lost an outstanding citizen. He was a valued member of Erlanger Baptist church and served in the capacity of deacon. Since the death of his beloved wife, July 1st, he has been in ill health, and a wide circle were shocked and saddened by his passing.

During his illness he was blest with gentle ministrations and nothing was left undone for his comfort.

It is the radiance of the Easter dawn pouring into an empty tomb the echo of His voice sweet strong and reassuring that has comforted heavy hearts. For more than 40 years, he was a practicing physician prominently known throughout the county. His pastor, Rev. R. D. Martin, assisted by Rev. Elmer Lucas and Rev. C. B. Coots officiated at the final rites at the Allison & Rose Funeral Home in Covington, Monday afternoon, which were largely attended. Miss Milda Stephens very beautifully rendered appropriate selections and Mr. Charles H. Myer, jr., softly sang.

Besides his brother, Rev. Will A. Wolfe of Weston, Ohio, he is survived by several nephews and nieces, his beloved cousin Miss Anna Lee Wolfe and other relatives to whom many hearts go out in sympathy.

Following funeral services the flower laden casket was gently borne to lovely Forest Lawn Park and there in the shady quiet was consigned to the realm of silent repose.

Serving as pallbearers were: Rev. Elmer Lucas, Broadus Lucas, J. C. Mills, C. Blankenbercher, Stanley Lucas and Albert Lucas.

"Passing away are these friends of old
We watch them as one by one they go,
His toils are over, his race is run,
God grant that we may rest as calmly
When our work on earth is done."

The Lutheran church has been redecorated and will soon be ready for services.

Rev. and Mrs. Forest Taylor moved to Georgetown Monday. This community regrets losing them.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 21

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

OVERCOMING THE ADVERSARY

LESSON TEXT—Revelation 12:7-12; 15:2-4.

GOLDEN TEXT—And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their lives unto the death.—Revelation 12:11.

War! What a familiar word! Men are saying we should put an end to war. We wish it were possible, but as long as sin rules in the hearts of men, there will be wars; in fact, our lesson tells us of a greater war which is to take place in the heavens. The devil is busy not only on earth, but in the heavenly places, and wherever he is there is war. Only when Christ, the Prince of Peace, comes to reign will peace come to all the earth.

Our lesson presents three scenes: Conflict in heaven, rejoicing over victory there, and a victory on earth which brought joy in heaven.

I. War in Heaven (12:7-9).

A clear, succinct, and helpful word on these verses is quoted from Dr. John R. Bradbury:

"The dispensational interpretation of this passage is that during the period of tribulation, which follows the rapture of the saints, as described in I Thessalonians 4:15-18; I Corinthians 15:51-52, and other passages, there will be a war in heaven between Michael and his angels and the devil and his. Satan is not in hell now. It is wrong to teach that he is there. He is the prince of the power of the air. He rules the darkness of this world. He inspires wickedness in his domain and on earth. Against these conditions the Christian is solemnly warned to prepare (Eph. 6:10-18). When we say that Satan is in heaven, we do not mean the heaven of the immediate presence of God. The Bible speaks of different heavens and there is even a 'heaven of heavens' (I Kings 8:27).

"From whence come all the crosscurrents of wickedness now sweeping over the world—many of them contrary to the wishes of the vast majority of the people? That there is a malevolent genius directing sinister operations to hinder and baffle God and to destroy mankind is easy to understand. Many people ask, 'Why does not God destroy him?' The answer to that is in this lesson. His hour is coming. He will be expelled from his domain by Michael and his angels. Then, because the people of this world have co-operated with Satan so willingly, he will be allowed to take refuge in the earth. He will come down (v. 12) in great wrath, 'because he knoweth that he hath but a short time.'"

II. Rejoicing in Heaven (12:10-12).

If we accept what seems to be the correct view; namely, that the woman of Revelation 12:1-5 is Israel, the nation in which the child (v. 5), who is Christ, was born, then it would appear that those who here rejoice in the victory over the dragon (Satan) would be the Jewish believers who will have come through great tribulation. At the same time it is quite appropriate to apply the truth of the passage to us who now find ourselves in conflict with Satanic powers.

The accuser does not hesitate to appear even in the presence of God to bring charges against us (see Job 1:6-12). But we need not fear him, for he is already judged (I John 16:11) and will (as we see in our lesson) one day be cast down to earth, and (as other Scripture reveals) will ultimately be cast into the lake of fire (Rev. 20:10).

But he is here now, a supernatural (but not divine) being, plaguing us, tempting us, accusing us. What shall we do about it? As to his accusation, we know we have a just and loving God and also have an Advocate to plead our causes before Him (I John 2:2). For his present attacks, our lesson gives the secret of spiritual victory in verse 11.

III. Victory on Earth (Rev. 15: 2-4).

The scene of victorious rejoicing which we see here is evidently in heaven, but it is because of victory on earth. Here are those that have come through the horrible conditions described in Revelation 13, and have been victorious over the beast, in spite of his great powers.

They sing; that is the token of real victory, of a heart victory. Whatever loss they may have suffered, and whatever trials they may have gone through, they have "gotten the victory" (v. 2). They sing the song of Moses and the Lamb (cf. Exod. 15:1-21 and Rev. 5:9-14).

It is right that the redeemed of the Lord should sing, glorifying the name of God (v. 4) and magnifying His great and marvelous works (v. 3). Let us remind ourselves again that if we are Christians, we are on the victorious side. The glimpse into the heavens which we find in our lesson should give us the right perspective with which to view the troublesome experiences of life. God has a plan, and He will bring it to complete and victorious fruition in His own time and His own way.

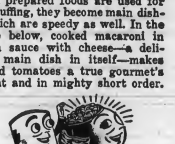
SCHOOL LUNCH IDEAS

September—and school lunches rear their challenging heads. So here are some ideas to help you get started giving your children the most healthful and tempting lunches they ever carried with them.

How about a hot soup in each school lunch? You have 23 different kinds of completely prepared ones from which to select and so there's no possibility of a child's tiring of having soup for lunch. There is something unusually tantalizing about a well-seasoned soup that helps make any meal all the more enjoyable. This quality is appreciated particularly by the one who eats a carry-along lunch which is of necessity composed mostly of sandwiches.

Main dish salads are another plus idea for school lunches. Pack them in paper cups and fasten waxed covers on them with rubber bands. Naturally, a salad used for this purpose should not be a moist one. The kidney bean salad given below is excellent for carrying along for school lunches. Make the complete recipe and serve some for lunch at home. When one includes a main dish salad such as this, of course, plain bread and butter sandwiches are served with it.

Menu 1
Hot Home-Style Vegetable Beef Soup
Peanut Butter and Grape Jelly Sandwiches
Celery Sticks Carrot Slices
Fresh Pears Chocolate Cake
Milk



Menu 2
Hot Home-Style Cream of Tomato Soup
*Kidney Bean Salad
Plain Whole Wheat Sandwiches
Whole Fresh Peaches Cookies
Milk

*Kidney Bean Salad

Fry until crisp—
3 strips bacon.
Break into small pieces and combine with—
¼ cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped apple
½ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup diced American cheese
1 medium (17½-oz.) can oven-baked red kidney beans.

Add salt to taste, then mix thoroughly. Chill and serve in crisp lettuce cups, garnishing with mayonnaise. To serve in carry-along lunch, place a generous serving of the salad in a crisp lettuce cup and place in paper cup. Cover with waxed paper and fasten with rubber band. Serves 4.

You will want to serve stuffed tomatoes frequently during this season while they are so plentiful. Stuffed tomatoes help use up leftovers in a most enjoyable way. When prepared foods are used for the stuffing, they become main dishes which are speedy as well. In the recipe below, cooked macaroni in cream sauce with cheese—a delicious main dish in itself—makes stuffed tomatoes a true gourmet's delight and in mighty short order.

Baked Macaroni Tomatoes

Prepared by scalding, peeling and hollowing out—
6 medium tomatoes.
Invert to drain for 10 minutes. Sprinkle them on the inside with salt, then fill in with alternate layers of—
1 medium (17-oz.) can cooked macaroni in cream sauce with cheese
1 cup diced cooked ham.
Prepare—
6 strips bacon
¼ cup rice flakes, crushed.
Wrap a strip of bacon around each tomato and fasten with a toothpick. Sprinkle rice flakes crumbs over top. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 15 minutes or until bacon is thoroughly cooked and filling is heated through. Serves 6.

Surveys have been made for building 120 miles of electric lines in Breathitt county.

Doings of The REDS

Third place in the National League is the immediate goal of the Cincinnati Reds. They are convinced that this battle for third is going to continue right down to the bitter end, for six of the games the club has left to play are against the Pittsburgh Pirates, with whom the Reds are locked in their struggle for the third position.

Two of these games will be played as a doubleheader at Crosley Field Saturday afternoon. A single game is scheduled against the Pirates the following day, Sunday, whereupon the Reds will rest Monday, then take on the Chicago Cubs in three single games at Crosley Field. While the Reds and Cubs are battling here, the Pirates will be entertaining the St. Louis Cardinals in a four-game series at Pittsburgh. Then, the Reds and Corsairs will close the season with a three-game series at Pittsburgh Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, September 26, 27, and 28.

Before entering the skirmishes with the Pirates, the Reds were due for a bit of serious action on their home front. They opened a three-game series against the Brooklyn Dodgers Sunday. They also were listed for single games against this same Flatbush Flock Monday and Tuesday.

Wednesday and Thursday are very busy days for the Reds. They are listed for a doubleheader each day against the Philadelphia Phillies. The Phils will come here well rested, and in shape for the twin bills, as they have two off days immediately preceding the start of their series here.

Wednesday will be a ladies' day. Ladies who do not obtain their tickets in advance may get them at the park the day of the game.

Two youngsters who joined the Cincinnati Reds during the late stages of this 1941 National League schedule, made a very decided impression upon Manager Bill McKechnie. Reference is made to Hank Sauer and Benny Zientara, both of whom have a great opportunity to stay with the Reds in 1942.

Sauer, who played first base for the Birmingham Barons of the Southern League, is being converted into an outfielder by McKechnie. It's going to take him some time to master his new position, but McKechnie believes he can do it. "If that boy has any determination, and I think he has, he should make it," said Bill after Sauer played his first couple of games in leftfield. "He's going to make plenty of mistakes. But he can throw, run, and has a good pair of hands. We've just got to be tolerant of the mistakes he's certain to make until he plays a season or two in the outfield.

"I believe the fellow can hit. He's got tremendous power, and he has aggressiveness at the plate. He should get better. It might take some time for him to really find himself as a hitter. But he's going to get there ultimately."

Zientara is a flashy fielding second baseman who performed plenty of heroics for Indianapolis of the American Association. Second base is a well fortified position with the Reds, and there is not the emergency that exists in the outfield. However, McKechnie has definite plans for Zientara, for the boy looks good enough to step into the lineup at any time without weakening the team.

Lonny Frey, the Reds' regular second baseman, is a good ball player. He was good enough to be selected to play in this year's all star game. Lonny, however, is not a very big fellow, and McKechnie believes that a good replacement will make it possible for Lonny to take periodic rests. These rests should increase the efficiency of Frey greatly, and, with a man like Zientara around, the club can afford to give Lonny these rests without suffering while he is out of the lineup.

Sauer is 22 years of age, and Zientara only 21.

There is a dark horse in the running for a 1942 Redleg outfield post. It is Frank Secory, who was about to be recalled from Syracuse early in the season, when he suffered a broken leg. He recovered and finished the season with the Chiefs, batting .329.

U. K. GRID SUCCESS DEPENDS ON SOPHOMORES

Success this fall for the University of Kentucky Wildcats rests largely in the hands of thirty men—thirty erratic sophomores.

And as Ab Kirwan, ringmaster of the 'Cats said, "It is hard to tell what a sophomore is going to do on a football field—or for that matter, anywhere."

"Some of the boys have the stuff to stand the pressure of varsity competition while others simply blow up. I've got a dozen sophomores who will make excellent material this season if they can stand the pressure.

"Six of my ends are sophomores—untried for varsity work. The other two ends are juniors and only one has played enough to earn a letter. Say, that puts a coach on a spot. You never know what a sophomore might do in a game.

"Now at the tackle position I have only two experienced players—Clyde Johnson, 230-pound Ashland boy, and Clark Wood, the South's best sophomore tackle last season. When these two boys are ready to come out of a game, the only thing I can do is substitute a sophomore. Just think, two juniors and four sophomores working at tackle.

"Take the guards for instance—here again' its a fifty-fifty proposition. Four juniors and four sophomores. I've got five centers and four of them are sophomores—all green. The fullback position is the only backfield post where I have more juniors and seniors than sophomores. I have two juniors, a senior, and two sophomores. The halfbacks are even—five sophomores, four seniors and a junior. At the quarterback post the two-year men are one up—three to two.

"If they come through everything might be okay, but if they don't!!!"

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

BELOVED PASTOR PASSES

Deeply mourned is the recent passing of our bloved pastor, Rev. Gabriel C. Mullins. In his going, a beautiful life, nobly lived, was brought to a close. At the eventide of lives one remembers with moistened eyes what the world calles little things scattered all along the years, the deeds of kindness, and the beauty of service cheerfully rendered. His place will be hard to fill, not only in a few places but many. His genial personality endeared him to a host of friends, who sincerely mourn his going. No better evidence of his popularity could be found than the thousands of friends who gathered to pay the last tribute to his memory.

We bow in submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well. We cannot understand His way, but we believe the future will disclose His wisdom. Bro. Mullins has been the pastor of the Jonesville Baptist church for the past 20 years. We resolve to live more closely to our Lord because of his having been our pastor and pledge a new allegiance to His work.

Though a multitude of lives have been made sad by his going, Heaven has been made dearer by his entrance. He has responded to the call of his Heavenly Father who hath said, "It is enough, thy task is done. Come thou from earth away." He has passed from the fullness of fifty-five fruitful years into that larger life and greater service which lies beyond. Bro. Mullins had held many other prominent pastorates in Northern Kentucky and has also been the pastor of Clarks Creek church for the past 14 years. He had devoted himself to the Baptist cause with untiring zeal, with fervent prayers, and a life of unselfish service. His beautiful Christian life has been a radiant reflection of the sunshine of God's love. Having spent such an active service here, he was splendidly prepared to meet the Heavenly Father.

The esteem in which he was held by his brethren in the ministry, who knew in a personal way this radiant soul, was attested by their presence at the last sad rites, conducted at the Dry Ridge Baptist church, on August 21, by Rev. J. S. Ransdell in the presence of several thousand people, followed by interment in Hillcrest cemetery to await a dawn without a sunset. Blossoms of rarest beauty banked in wondrous profusion around his bier, attested to his popularity, among which we would place a wreath of fragrant flowers that bloom in the garden of memory.

Many hearts go out to the bereaved wife, who has passed through the deep waters and surrendered her loved one by the hand of death. We mingle our tears with her's, with those of their son, Lester, and the other members of his family and ask consolation from Him who alone can soothe hearts thus bereft. We shall wait and hope to meet again on the beautiful shore where he shall be waiting to greet his dear ones.

Our Father in Heaven, we look to Thee now
And unto Thy dictates in silence
we bow;
Since Thou in Thy wisdom hath taken this one,
We say not our will, Lord, but
Thy will be done.

Preparing for Pure Food Show —Courtesy Ky. Times-Star

The Third Annual Pure Food Exposition sponsored by the Northern Kentucky Independent Food Dealers Association will be held again this year at the Covington Tobacco Warehouse, 2nd & Scott Streets, from October 12th to 19th, inclusive.

In the above picture is disclosed a huge sign announcing the date of the food show. On the left is Sylvester Joseph Wagner, publicity director, and on the right, Ben Kees, one of the officials of the Food Dealers' Association.

From all indications this year's show will be the biggest ever staged up to the present time. Approximately twenty-five new exhibitors have contracted for booths in the food show besides the eighty-five exhibitors who were in the show in previous years.

A new feature of this year's show will be the awarding of $1500.00 of major prizes to those attending the exposition. As in previous shows there will be a cooking school early in the afternoon conducted by Marsha Wheeler, home economics expert from WLW. Later in the afternoon a free Social will be given with additional awards to all who participate.

Throughout the day many famous radio celebrities will originate their programs direct from the broadcasting booth in the show. These stars can be seen in person at these times.

Mr. Ben Kees, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, has been making elaborate plans to bring an outstanding vaudeville show to the Tobacco Warehouse each night, featuring well known Radio and Screen stars and top notch vaudeville acts from all over the country.

Mr. Larry Hiltz, President of the Northern Kentucky Pure Food Exposition, says that the show each year is given primarily to create a friendly feeling between the independent grocer and their customers. All manufacturers and wholesolers will give away or sell coupons at the show which will be redeemable at any independent grocers store. Mr. Hiltz says that all grocers should cooperate with the manufacturers and wholesalers who are in the show by tying in with the food show advertising and publicity, and also display merchandise that is featured at the show.

Mr. Ollie Bracke, Chairman of the prize committee, announce that increased prizes would be given away daily at each and every program featured throughout the day. Mr. Bracke says, that the 10:30 drawing each evening should prove most popular as many valuable prizes have been added to this drawing.

Larry Baumbach, General Chairman, says that many new improvements have been added to the warehouse for the convenience of the visitors to the show. New lighting has been installed in the warehouse and with these improvements it will be the most brilliantly lighted building in all Northern Kentucky. New decorations with flags from all southern countries will be on display. The color scheme of the drapes and decorations will be different in color than any used in previous shows.

Due to the new Defense Taxes which have been levied by Congress the admission price will be raised from ten cents to fifteen cents. Four cents of this increased sum will have to be paid to the federal and state governments.

Mr. Barney Malloy, chairman of the booth rental for the show, said that booths for the show have nearly all been taken and he is most pleased at the large representation of local businesses from Kenton and Campbell counties that have reserved space in the show.

Arrangements are being made to distribute 300,000 food show tickets which may be secured through the local independent grocers in both counties.

This Week In Defense

The President asked Congress for nearly six billion dollars more for lend-lease materials. Lend-Lease Administrator Stettinius was given power to approve aid requests; this with other changes is expected to cut from 30 to 15 days the period between receipt of a request and actual authorization for assistance.

Mr. Roosevelt told Congress that of the original seven billion appropriated six months ago, all but $720,000,000 is "now moving through the successive stages or allocation, obligation, production and delivery." He said $246,400,000 in materials and $78,170,000 in services has been given the anti-Axis nations.

The Defense Supplies Corporation, an RFC subsidiary, contracted with Amtorg Trading Corporation, a U. S. corporation owned by Russia, for the purchase of $100,000,000 of manganese, chromite, asbestos and platinum. The supplies agency arranged to pay Amtorg half of the amount in advance so Russia could use the money to buy war materials here. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau similarly advanced the Soviet Union $10,000,000 on future gold deliveries to the United States.

Navy Protecting Ships

Navy Secretary Knox told the American Legion convention the Navy is using all methods, including convoys, to protect vessels of all flags carrying aid to Britain. He said the Navy has orders to capture or destroy, by every means at their disposal, Axis-controlled submarines or surface raiders in the waters between the U. S. and Iceland.

Neutrality Act Interpretation

The State Department announced that as a result of an interpretation by the Attorney General that the "United Kingdom" is only England, Wales, Scotland and North Ireland, American ships may henceforth carry war supplies and passengers to parts of the British Empire not designated by the President to be in combat areas. Under this interpretation American ships are still barred from going to France, Poland, India, the United Kingdom, Australia, Canada, New Zealand and the Union of South Africa.

Navy Expansion Progress

The Navy reported it has contracted for 2,931 ships, including 332 fighting vessels—every ship authorized under the seven billion dollar program to create "the greatest array of fighting ships under one flag the world has ever seen"; 32 battleships, 18 aircraft carriers, 91 cruisers, 364 destroyers and 186 submarines, a total fighting fleet of 691 ships.

Ships

The Navy announced development of a 1,900-ton cargo vessel, the Sea Otter, so "light in weight, simple in construction, relatively cheap in both original cost and upkeep . . . (it) will challenge the submarine and provide a new bridge to the free nations of the world." The vessel is so small it can be built in inland yard in two months. It will carry an anti-aircraft battery, be manned by only a few men, make 12 knots, and be capable of a 5,000 mile voyage.

The Maritime Commission took over ships of the Alcoa line after striking sailors refused to arbitrate their dispute. The ships will be operated by the Commission on their regular runs. The Commission announced that on September 1, 104 ships had been completed of a total 788 being built for all purposes under the Commission's auspices. The announcement said 14 ships will be launched September 27 in joint ceremonies on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts.

Production

OPM Director Knudsen, speaking on the radio, said "I would like to see every American decide to give . . . an extra hour or an extra half hour or even an extra fifteen minutes to his job from now on . . . If we get the work we'll get the guns. . . " The War Department reported all 10 machine-gun plants required for present estimated needs are now in operation and machine-gun production has increased 460 percent since August, 1940.

Army Morale

Army Chief of Staff Marshall told the American Legion national convention at Milwaukee there is a difference between "free discussion" and "destructive measures to promote discontent and destroy confidence in the Army." He said "I submit . . . the impossibility of developing an efficient army if decisions which are purely military in nature are continuously subjected to investigation, cross-examination, debate, ridicule and public discussion by pressure groups, or by individuals with only a superficial knowledge of military matters, or of the actual facts in the particular case . . . Don't tear down what you are striving so hard to build up . . . this country must have the best Army in the world."

Defense Housing Priorities

OPM Priorities Director Nelson announced several hundred building materials such as steel, iron, nails, bolts, electrical fixtures, ranges, etc., have been placed on a "defense housing critical list." Priorities on them will be given to builders constructing 200,000 privately-financed housing units in 275 defense areas of the U. S. and territories. Mr. Nelson said the plan will apply to financed homes selling for up to 6,000 or renting for not more than $50 a month. First preference will be given to homes under construction on September 1 and for remodeling and rehabilitation work, and then for new homes for rent and new homes to be sold.

Oil, Gasoline

Defense Oil Coordinator Ickes said gasoline restrictions will not be lifted. Mr. Ickes said in the face of a 12½ percent drop in gasoline stocks compared to this time last year, there is a demand of 11 percent more than last year. Deliveries to East coast filling stations were 11.4 percent lower last week than the week before, and will have to be cut more, he said, unless the pipeline is built from Texas to New Jersey.

30-Day Mine Truce

Defense Mediation Board Chairman Davis announced an agreement with the United Mine Workers of America to reopen strike-bound "captive" mines for a period of 30 days beginning September 22. The agreement requires a three-day written notice by either side before operations can be halted. Negotiations on the union shop demand which led to the strike will be resumed September 24. The U. S. Conciliation Service announced settlement of 37 labor disputes.

Priority Unemployment

OPM Associate Director Hillman announced employers in Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., have agreed to hire 1,335 power-machine operators and 200 assistants from among the 3,500 workers forced out of employment in those two areas by the silk shortage. Mr. Hillman also announced a broad "model" program of State and local cooperation with OPM to alleviate unemployment in the silk, automobile and rubber industries in New Jersey.

Prices

A. C. Hoffman of the OPA Food Section, speaking in Philadelphia, said farm prices have risen more than 49 percent since the outbreak of the war and stand now at 97 percent of parity in terms of things farmers buy. Labor Secretary Perkins said living costs at August 15 this year were 7.5 percent more than two years ago.

Nurses

Surgeon General Magee announced more than 10,000 nurses are needed for the Army Nurse Corps, including 4,000 Reserve nurses to care for men still to be inducted this year and an equal number to replace the estimated 40 percent who will request discharge at the end of their one year enlistments. Information can be obtained from the War Department or the Red Cross, Washington, D. C.

Taxation

Congress passed and sent to the White House the $3,533,400,000 tax bill for 1941, increasing the number of taxpayers by an estimated 2,275,000 persons. The bill increases corporation surtaxes and lowers present individual exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married persons and from $800 to $750 for single taxpayers.

SOME'N D'EAT

Some months ago I discussed "Victuals, Grub, and Food" in this column, merely mentioning another type of eating, "some'n d'eat," or in the lingo of the educated, "something to eat." I feel that this should be a little more elaborated for the sake of the old-timers who read this column.

To begin with, the term refers to food served between meals to hungry youngsters home from play or school or just home. All the things taken to school in a basket or bucket were swallowed whole long before we got home, sometimes before noon recess. After games of wolf over the river and dare base and hare and hounds at every recess and tag all the way home, we could have eaten a raw sheep or any other unthinkable thing. The safe in the kitchen was raided as a matter of course, and cold left-overs from noon disappeared about as rapidly as their companion foods had done at noon itself, while the poor starved child was away at scohol. Just how we could hold so much is a mystery now, but by supper time we were ready to go again. In order to make your mouths water, let me name some of the things that made good food to eat after school. Baked sweet potatoes, the kind that Mother used to cook in an oven before the fire, were among the best things to stave off starvation for another hour or two. Almost as good is baked potato pumpkin, cut in large sections and done to a queen's taste. Cold biscuits are a standby for any time of year, as is also jam, chiefly blackberry in my neighborhood. I have seen the time when I wanted nothing better than a cold biscuit made into a sandwich, the filler being green tomato catchup, fresh from our own garden. And cucumber pickles, big or little, may not have much food value, but they give a great taste to other things. We used to have ginger cakes, not the small, dainty things now called cookies, but great big fellows, cut out in long strips and cooked by the panful. A daintier and sweeter relative of ginger cakes is the teacake, though it took many of them to fill the aching void. Besides, teacakes were the food ordinarily taken to church to keep the children quiet and were hardly strong enough for the boy who had to refresh himself after a running game of tag all the way home from school and before a trip to the cornfield to cut corn for the horses. Apples hardly counted, for nobody regarded them as food. Neither did milk, any more than water itself. Stowing away a cubic yard or two of this mid-afternoon lunch required only a few minutes, and then we were off to the chores.

Another type of eating was called a "handout." This was a diplomatic movement on the part of our parents to keep us from rioting and spoiling the company dinner. We slipped around to the back kitchen door and begged for "some'n d'eat" while Mother and Big Ssiter were putting the last touches to the grand spread. The children, even our parents knew, would have to wait until the second table; all of the choicest things would be consumed by the equally ravenous but socially preferred people who graced the first table. Chicken legs and wings, hot from the skillet, and squeezed between parts of a biscuit, will do pretty well for a handout, as will also a few teacakes torn in removing them from the pan. I liked for cakes to "fall," that is, settle down to a thick, gooey substance; these pieces, "sad," our parents called them, made good handouts, for no one would ever have thought of serving them to the quality folks of the first table. The humiliation of having to watch the locusts from Egypt devour all the delicacies was almost more than we could stand, even with the handouts. But just around the corner would come second table and perfect freedom. Personally, I would like to have a handout or "some'n d'eat" again, just to see whether the flavor was actual or purely a matter of our being young.

The U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics has released some figures on the cost of living which should interest everyone. The yardstick which is used to measure these costs is called "the market basket." This "market basket" contains food items which are purchased weekly by the average American housewife and is made up of: three pounds of round steak; two pounds of bacon; one quart of milk; one pound of butter; one pound of lard; one dozen eggs; one loaf of bread; one peck of potatoes; three pounds of cabbage; one dozen oranges; one can each of corn, peas, and tomatoes; five pounds of sugar; and one pound of coffee.

It is interesting to note how the cost of this "market basket" has fluctuated. In 1929 it cost $6.21 to buy these articles. In 1933 prices were at their lowest level, and you could have purchased all these items for $3.26. On August 12 of this year it would have cost Mrs. Average American $4.85 to fill the basket. Since that date, prices have risen more, and it would cost around $4.90. It should be interesting to see what this "market basket" would cost your grocer and butcher and check it with the national average.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

You can expect to be reading and hearing in the months to come about something called the "Boren-Disney Bill." Boren and Disney stand for Congressmen Lyle H. Boren and Wesley E. Disney of Oklahoma. Their bill actually was born in Buffalo, New York, at the annual convention of Railroad Yardmasters of North America, Inc. This railroad labor union was worried about the effects of the rash of strikes in defense industries on the future of unionism. It drafted and unanimously adopted a resolution aimed at improving the caliber of union leadership and at freeing the labor movement from unscrupulous individuals who have reaped richly under the protection afforded by the Wagner Act.

These railroad workers said that they believed the union labor movement to be "a permanent foundation to the workers' rights," and they felt, "as unionists, we must not allow this foundation to be weakened by a minority group who would destroy it to gain their mercenary ends." They designed their resolution, not to destroy any of labor's prerogatives under the Wagner Act, but to protect these rights by providing an added measure of responsibility.

Here are the six objectives of the union's resolution, as incorporated in the Boren-Disney Bill:

1. Aliens are prohibited from holding any labor union office.
2. Union leaders must have had three years of experience in the trade represented by the union.
3. All officials of the union handling funds of the organization must be bonded.
4. A financial statement must be issued to each member at least once a year.
5. Stoppages of work because of jurisdictional disputes is forbidden, and jurisdiction ascertained by certified proof of representation.
6. A sixty-day "cooling off" arbitration period is provided, with settlements to be retroactive.

The actual bill isn't much more complicated than that. Maybe that's another reason it's attracting more than a few cursory Congressional glances. But the main reason is this: when a union gets busy and proposes a constructive plan for getting racketeers out of the union business, it's news.

Every once in a while Mr. Johnny Q. Public does something that has Mr. Average Congressman, his ear glued to the coming election, completely confused. You will recall the amazement when Mr. Public said he wanted to be taxed and taxed plenty to pay for defense. Mr. Public was apparently pretty well informed on the dangers of growing deficits, staggering debt carrying charges and inflation.

Now Mr. Public, as reported by the American Institute of Public Opinion poll, is willing to have his wage or salary frozen at the present level if the cost of living can be prevented from climbing any higher. Sixty-two per cent of the wage and salary earners said they'd be agreeable to such a move. Asked if they considered they were now being paid a fair wage or salary, some sixty-four per cent said they were. Yet Mr. Average Congressman still can't believe it. So Congress is still looking for the magician's formula that permits prices to be frozen while labor costs continue to rise.

The "planned economy" boys are hard at work again. For some months they've been digging around in the reports the professors prepared for the Monopoly (T. N. E. C.) Committee, building up outlines for government-controlled cartels to cover all basic American industries.

They have quietly formulated plans calling for cartelization of industries like automobiles and auto parts, iron and steel, transportation equipment, hardware, building and construction materials, foodstuffs, textiles, beverages, tobacco, and many others. The plan provides for the Government controlling and supervising each cartel consisting of the private concerns within each of these major industries. As a corollary of the scheme, the New Dealers would establish "yardsticks" for each industry—a system of industrial TVA's.

The springboard for the plan is the argument that regardless of when the war ends and regardless of who wins, the cartel system under Government control will be essential to the operation of any successful trade relations with the foreign nations. Without any public pronouncement on the work, the planners have completed the overall studies for the control of more than fifteen industries.

SOCIAL SECURITY BRIEFS—

Attention, everybody who has been receiving retirement insurance benefits under the Social Security Act. Suppose you have a chance to take a defense job. In that case, do you know what you must do if you earn as much as $15 a month (that is, more than $14.99) in a job covered by the Social Security Act? You must notify the Social Security Board that you have gone back to work—or you may lose some later benefits when you retire again. If you are in doubt as to whether this applies to your case, ask the Covington Social Security Board field office for more information.

Are you receiving retirement insurance benefits under the Social Security Act? And if so do you expect to go back to work—on a defense job, perhaps? Here is a reminder that if you earn as much as $15 a month (that is, more than $14.99) on a job covered by the Social Security Act, your social security insurance benefits must stop while you are on that job—therefore, you must notify the Social Security Board when you go to work. Write to the Social Security Board in Covington. If a benefit check comes after you have started to work, don't cash it. Return it to the United States Treasury in Washington.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist. NAGGING BACKACHE

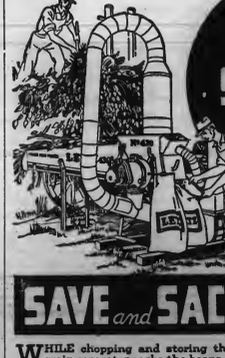
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Don't Neglect It!

Modern life with its ceaseless hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion whatnot, keeps doctors busy, hospitals crowded. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and oftentimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.

After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.



Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbances sometimes are burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. They have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Be sure to get Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

THE REASON DOAN'S ARE FAMOUS

All over the country grateful people tell others: "Doan's have helped me; I recommend them to you." That is why we say, Ask your neighbor!

SAVE and SACK the BEANS

WHILE chopping and storing the hay, the new Letz mill with grain separator sacks the beans. Saving high priced beans soon pays for a Letz—the surest money maker for any livestock farm.

Says Letz user, Lee Chatham, Danville, Indiana, "We chopped and blew into the mow 72 acres of soybean hay. We sacked 1,000 bushels of Manchu beans, keeping some for seed, recleaning and selling the rest for $1.25 per bushel. These beans brought us in over $1000.00."

Come in and investigate this wonderful machine. For most farmers feeding beef or dairy cattle, lambs or hogs, the Letz mill saves its cost and more the first season used. Let us demonstrate one for you.

SPECIALIST ADVISES FARMERS ON POND BUILDING

Mr. Earl G. Welch, Extension Agricultural Engineer of the College, will address Boone county farmers in a meeting on Thursday, September 25th, on methods of pond construction and principles in making leaking ponds hold water. The meeting on farm water supply will be in the form of a tour in which a number of recently constructed ponds will be inspected.

This meeting will be of special interest to practically all farmers, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Droughts of recent years and the drying up of many of the best springs has created a major livestock production problem. Large farm ponds and lakes are proving the practical solution of this problem with many farmers.

Mr. Welch has had considerable experience in successful pond building. He will be present when the tour starts from the county agent's office in Burlington at 9:00 a. m. Thursday, and will lead the discussions at the visits to the farms of Ernest Allen, L. W. Gulley, George Griffith, Chester L. Tanner, Joe Northcutt and Richard Northcutt, where new ponds and lakes have recently been constructed. Those attending the meeting will meet back at the county agent's office at 1:00 p. m. and go to a farm where the construction of a new pond is just starting. A general meeting will be held at this stop.

All farmers and everyone interested in the farm water supply is urged to attend.

"Telling Kentuckians of Kentucky"

GEORGE ROGERS CLARK IN KENTUCKY
By Hambleton Tapp,
General Chairman, George Rogers Clark Memorial Movement
George Rogers Clark, perhaps to as great an extent as any famous Kentuckian, belongs to the entire state and not just to one community. This fact is being realized more and more as the campaign for funds—September 15 to November 19—for an adequate memorial to him gains momentum. Any spot throughout the state is an appropriate site for a memorial to him.
Clark as an eager young pioneer made more than one trip back to Virginia over the Wilderness Trail to transact political and military business vital to the safety and even the life of Kentucky. He traversed by flat boat the entire course of the beautiful Ohio, blazing the trail of American freedom and carrying the torch of American civilization. While residing at Harrodstown, in 1776 and 1777, he conceived and planned the bold move into the Northwest, to save Kentucky from annihilation. Near the site of our state's capital he, in 1778, helped establish a settlement, Leestown. The great expedition into the Northwest was launched in 1778 from Corn Island at the Falls of the Ohio—the expedition which saved Kentucky and conquered an empire for the new nation He founded Louisville. He spent some time in western Kentucky at Fort Jefferson, on the Mississippi River. He lies buried in Cave Hill Cemetery, in Louisville. Surely George Rogers Clark belongs to all Kentucky.
When Clark, in 1775, as a bold, handsome, young man of twenty-three years stood on the high lands overlooking the Kentucky River, he beheld a land more beautiful and lovely than any yet seen. He gazed thrilled and enthralled; it was as gorgeous as a new Eden. He determined to live in it, at all hazards, and make it a safe place for others. From that happy time until the bleak day, as the end approached, when he sat in a wheel chair at Locust Grove, decrepit and old, one leg gone, the other paralyzed, helpless, poverty-stricken, wracked with pain, neglected by his government, almost forgotten by the people, he never ceased to love Kentucky. He had practically given his life, and lost his health, his fortune and all hope of comfort and happiness, for Kentucky.
For his courageous services and his noble sacrifices, Kentucky has done little to show her gratitude. Now she has the opportunity.
The plan to raise funds for a memorial to him is very simple: No person is asked to make a large contribution, as the individual gifts range mostly from five pennies to a dollar. Every Kentuckian has the opportunity to have a part.
Each school child is asked to give five pennies, each teacher twenty-five and each member of a club or society one dollar. The schools, particularly the high schools—senior and junior—and the graded and consolidated schools are asked to present by November 19 (Clark's birthday) some form of entertainment—play, pageant, movie, carnival, bazaar, athletic contest—asking the public to attend, and to donate the money made therefrom to the Clark Memorial Fund. In addition, special gifts will be solicited from a list of interested persons, particularly in and around Louisville. It is hoped that in these ways $100,000 will be raised.
Many states owing Clark far less than does Kentucky—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Virginia, Missouri—have erected magnificent memorials to his memory, Indiana's memorial at Vincennes costing more than $2,000,000.
It is hoped that every Kentuckian will take an active part in making possible this memorial which, for more than a century, Kentucky has failed to raise. The Filson Club, Louisville, is general headquarters for the Clark Memorial Movement.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 28

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE FULFILLMENT OF HISTORY: THE NEW JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Revelation 21:1-7, 10-12, 22-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son.—Revelation 21:7.

A happy ending may not suit the fancy of modern writers of fiction, but it does suit God. He "who worketh all things after the counsel of his own will" (Eph. 1:11) will see to it that redeemed man shall "be to the praise of his glory" (Eph. 1:12). The eternal, omnipotent God will bring the history of His dealings with mankind to a glorious ending. The last book of the Bible comes to its last pages where, after dealing with the final struggle of man with his enemy Satan (which has gone on since the entrance of sin into the world in the Garden of Eden), we find the glorious, God-given revelation of the "divine, final restoration of the universe, a picture of the home where we who love the Lord Jesus will forever dwell."

I. "The Tabernacle of God is with Men" (vv. 1-7).

Our God is always with His people, but there is a promise of the time when He shall "pitch His tent" (for thus we might translate the word "tabernacle") in their very midst and "be with them" in full and unhindered fellowship. This He once did for a time when "the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us" (John 1:14), or literally "tabernacled among us." In the day of which our lesson speaks He will come to live permanently with His people.

The blessings of His divine presence are beautifully described in verses 4 to 6. There will be no more tears, because every occasion for them is gone. There will be no death, pain or sorrow, for the one who sits upon the throne will have made everything new.

Christianity does not evade the question of sorrow and suffering, but it does point to a glorious day when they will be done forever. What a precious promise!

II. "The Holy City . . . Having the Glory of God" (vv. 10-12).

The description of the holy city is differently interpreted, but perhaps the best one is that it will be in the form of a pyramid on a square base 1,500 miles in width and length (12,000 furlongs)—v. 16), rising in terraces, and 1,500 miles high at the top.

The description of the city is glorious beyond words (read 21:1 through 22:7), but the crowning fact of all is that it has "the glory of God." His presence means more than all the glories of precious stones and of "pure gold, like unto clear glass." He is more than His gifts, and His presence is more glorious than all His mighty works.

III. God the Almighty and the Lamb Are the Temple (vv. 22).

As long as we live under the present conditions of life, we cannot do without a place to meet to worship God and to receive spiritual help and strength—a temple. But when the redeemed are gathered in the Holy City they will have no need for a temple. The place of meeting with God "which now has to be delimited from the world, and set apart for God—yes, and held with determination and force of will against invading hosts—has there expanded to cover the whole area of human experience and activity. God's presence has no longer to be sought; it is known; it is felt, universal and all-pervading as the light of day" (C. Anderson Scott).

IV. No Need of the Sun—the Glory of God Did Light It (vv. 23, 24).

The great need of man in this world is light. He rejoices in the sun as it sheds its lifegiving rays upon the earth. He does his work and finds his healthful recreation in the day. When darkness comes, he must have illumination, that he may read, study, work, or fellowship with others. From the flickering pine knot man went on to the candle, to the lamp; and now in most places he floods his city and its homes with the light of electricity. But even so there is too much darkness in the world, and the men who love darkness rather than light (see John 3:19) are able to practice their evil deeds.

In the New Jerusalem all will be light, for the One who is light (I John 1:5) and the source of all light, permits His glory to shine forth and "lighten it." Jesus, the Lamb, who is the light of the world (John 8:12), is the never failing lamp of the city.

In such light not only the nations of the earth, but their kings as well, will want to walk, doing honor with all their glory to the One who is all-glorious. The verses which follow our lesson tell us that the gates of the city shall never be closed, but only that which is good and honorable shall enter in. Nothing sinful, vile, or false shall come within its blessed portals.

Woman Sculptor Builds 100,000 Dollar Business

THE old adage "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing" has had an unexpected chance to be proven recently in New York. A $100,000 a year business has been built up in the past four years by a young woman who knew nothing about business. If she had had even a faint idea, the chances are that she would never have summoned the courage to plunge into the work that has made her famous.

Four years ago, Robert and Jan Norriss suddenly found that their comfortable, prosperous living had been removed through no fault of their own. In the October issue of Cosmopolitan, Robert Wilder relates the saga of a typical New York case of a young man, well established in business who suddenly loses that business and can't find another job in a hurry. When that happened to the Norrisses, things looked black. During an attack of influenza, Jan Norriss took the last dime out of her purse, sent for ten cents of plaster of paris and modelled little medallions just to keep her mind off disturbing items such as rent, food, gas, electricity.

Jan Norriss with one of Medallions

Here enters the lack of knowledge angle. Had Mrs. Norriss realized how many sculptors and artists are starving romantically right in New York she would probably never have taken her medallions to the Grand Central Art Galleries. But she did and the head of the galleries liked them. So did the gentleman in charge of a display at a Municipal Art Project exhibition. He liked them so much he did something about it. Before she returned home she had a commission for some small figures.

From then on the story has been hard work and a large amount of ingenuity. As the business stands today, Jan Norriss has a registered material called "Life-Ply," a composition which skilled scientists have tried to perfect for years; a flourishing business and the Jan Norriss Clinic which runs at a loss but she doesn't care. The Clinic was born when she experimented with "Life-Ply" in covering a disfiguring mastoid scar for a friend. Surgeons now send cases to her and her satisfaction is deep at being able to hide birthmarks and scars that have psychologically handicapped men and women. She even fashions hands for people with malformed hands. The British Government wants to lease her patent for use in surgical replacements and scar coverings and she would like to give it to the United States but, so far, she says, no one will listen to her.

A storage house was obtained to store the phosphate used by Harlan county farmers in the agricultural conservation program.

Doings of The REDS

Ray Blades, whose St. Louis Cardinals battled the Reds right down to the pennant wire in 1939, and who managed the New Orleans team of the Southern Association last season after having been supplanted as the St. Louis pilot by Billy Southworth in mid 1940, has been named as a 1942 coach of the Reds.

Blades will succeed Jewels Ens who goes to Syracuse of the International League as manager. Syracuse is the Red's new AA farm club. Ens became a Redleg coach last winter, succeeding Jimmy Wilson when the latter went to the Chicago Cubs as manager.

Blades has long been regarded as one of the best tacticians in the game, and one of the best judges of ball players' ability. He always has been a hard working, conscientious man, and the type Bill McKechnie likes to have associated with him as coach. When the Ens developments turned up, McKechnie asked for Blades, and arrangements then were completed.

Although they were rivals in the National League in 1939 and 1940, McKechnie and Blades have worked together before. Blades played under McKechnie at St. Louis in 1928, and again at Rochester in 1929. Also, Blades was a Cardinal player when McKechnie was coach of that club in 1927.

Blades' teaching ability, a prime requisite of a coach, is best shown by what he did when serving as manager of the Columbus team of the American Association in 1933, 1934, and 1935, and as manager of the Rochester club of the International League in 1936, 1937, and 1938.

At Columbus, he helped develop players like Bill Delancey, Bill Lee, Paul Dean, Stew Martin, Bob Klinger, Don Padgett, Morton Cooper, Buddy Hassett, Lew Riggs, Terry Moore, Jack Rothrock, etc. At Rochester, he helped in the development of Jimmy Brown, Johnny Mize, Martin Marion, Johnny Hopp, Howard Krist, ets.

One of his most successful moves was the making of a switch hitter of Jimmy Brown in 1936. Brown, at that time, was a weak hitting right-hand batter with Rochester. Blades encouraged Jimmy to become a switch hitter, and the change was attempted. The results made an outstanding major leaguer out of Brown, who is now playing third base for the Cardinals.

As a ball player, Blades was a great outfielder with the Cardinals. His major league career was cut short by a serious knee injury, sustained when he crashed into a wall chasing a fly ball. He is 45 years old and married. His home is at McLeansboro, Ill.

The Reds have four games remaining on their schedule. They play the Chicago Cubs at Crosley Field today, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday the Reds will be at Pittsburgh to close the season.

NOTICE

Referendum Under the Tobacco Inspection Act

Burley Tobacco Growers will have the right to vote on the establishing of government grading service on the Burley tobacco markets in Kentucky and other states during the period ending October 4, 1941.

Growers to Rec've Ballots by Mail

The following information is given on the cards to be mailed to tobacco growers in the various counties:

Agricultural Marketing Service

Burley tobacco growers may vote on free and mandatory inspection for all Burley tobacco markets not previously designated for this service. "If you sold Burley tobacco during the last marketing season at any of the auction markets listed on the ballot form and have not previously voted in a tobacco inspection referendum for Burley tobacco, you are eligible to vote. This is a tobacco grading referendum and should not be confused with referenda held on marketing quotas."

"Official Government grades were used as a basis for making Government loans on the 1940 crop of Burley, and will be used as a basis for making loans on the 1941 crop. If two-thirds of the growers voting approve tobacco inspection, all tobacco sold on the Burley markets will be graded at no cost to the grower."

"For your vote to be counted, your ballot must be postmarked not later than October 4, so please mark, sign, and return the ballot form at once. If you know of any grower who is eligible to vote and who has not received a ballot, inform him that a ballot may be obtained from his local county agent."

Votes Must be Cast by Oct. 4

Burley tobacco growers who sold tobacco during the past season should obtain their ballot and vote by October 4, 1941. Your ballot must be postmarked NOT LATER THAN OCTOBER 4, 1941.

If you have not received a ballot you may obtain one from your local county agent.

SEED YOUR COVER CROP EARLY

"Sow and Save" for National Defense.

One way that farmers can help in the National Defense program is to sow cover crops on all land that was in cultivated crops during the 1941 crop season.

SOW—Small grain—Rye, winter oats, barley, wheat, alone or in mixtures. Winter legumes, vetch.

SAVE—

Feed—Hay, grain and commercial feed.

Money—Lower cost of production means money saved.

Soil—Cover crops protect soil from winter erosion.

Plant Food—Much plant food is leached out of soil unprotected by covercrops.

Seed—For next year's needs.

Good cover crops provide pasture in fall, winter, and spring—at the time when permanent pastures are not especially productive. Such pastures reduce feed cost, improve the health and production of the animals, and protects the soil from erosion and leaching.

Cover crops may be harvested for hay, for seed or grain; or they may be left on the land or turned under for green manure.

Does your child SQUINT?

When you find your child squinting and groaning over his homework, maybe the best thing you can give him is better light. You may not realize that the lighting in your home is unsafe for young eyes. Yet science has discovered that one out of every five school children suffers from defective vision. A child can "see to read"—and yet be risking a serious case of eyestrain.

TWO WAYS TO PROTECT YOUNG EYES

Put an I.E.S. study lamp on the table where the children do their homework. Or use a pin-to-wall lamp if the study table is against a wall. Both are scientifically designed to give enough light and the right kind of light for safe seeing.

Why Blame Beer?

Occasionally, beer is blamed for unwholesome conditions, anti-social practices or other abuses in a handful of law-breaking taverns.

Such blame is entirely unwarranted. Prominent authorities—physicians, psychiatrists, dieticians and others—have definitely said that beer is a wholesome and healthful beverage, a true beverage of moderation.

Kentucky's legalized beer industry is determined to protect beer's good name—determined, therefore, that beer should be sold in Kentucky only under clean, wholesome conditions in law-abiding places.

You can help us, if you will, by patronizing only reputable beer retailers; and by reporting any disorderly outlets to this committee.

JONESVILLE

"Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might," Ecc. 9:10.

Our community was again brought to deep grief and suffered a terrible shock at the tragic death of Harold Caldwell, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Caldwell, who was burned to death Saturday afternoon when his motorcycle, on which he was riding, exploded. The accident happened at Stewartsville, where he had just purchased some gas. He was rushed to the hospital, where he lived a few hours and was conscious until the end came.

Harold attended school at Long Ridge for several years, and was now a sophomore in the New Liberty High school. He will be sadly missed by all his young friends for he had a lovable disposition and was loved by both young and old.

Funeral services were held at the Lond Ridge Baptist church Monday, by Rev. L. E. Alridge, in the presence of a multitude of friends and loved ones. Many of his schoolmates attended from various communities. Burial was in the cemetery at Owenton by Watson & Orr. Besides his grief-stricken parents, Harold leaves two sisters, Allie Mae and Peggy Lou, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hutton, uncles, aunts and a host of other relatives and friends.

Something Doing Every Minute At The Food Show

Food Show Publicity Director

Sylvester J. Wagner

"There will be something Doing Every Minute."

That was the word Friday, from Larry Baumbach, General Chairman of the Northern Kentucky Independent Food Dealers Pure Food Show to be staged at the Covington Tobacco Warehouse, 2nd & Scott Sts., October 12 to 19, inclusive, as final plans for the affair were completed.

He said the Food Show architect has made arrangements whereby all booths will be prominently located to allow complete display of their contents. The floor plan is designed in the shape of a huge horseshoe, with an additional line of booths through the center of the horseshoe making the design resemble a large "E."

Manufacturers, wholesalers and local merchants will sponsor booths at the show. Many of the manufacturers are contributing quantities of food and prizes to a general depot and Ollie Bracke, Prize Committee Chairman said it is expected that more than 100 half bushel baskets will be filled to award to the patrons of the Food Show.

The warehouse will be decorated in keeping with the theme of the show and plans are being completed to add additional lighting so as to make the warehouse the most brilliantly lighted exposition in this part of the country. A small admission price will be made with tickets obtainable from Independent neighborhood grocery stores at less than half the listed price.

Their many friends join in wishing them all the health, happiness and success that this "Old World" can give them.

LOCAL BOY EMPLOYED BY TREE EXPERT CO.

Having finished a short training period at the Davey tree school in Kent, Coyle was sent to Hazardville, Connecticut. He expects to see a large part of the eastern half of the United States before cold weather sets in. It is probable that during the winter he will be sent into the Southern states where the Davey Company has an extensive business.

Ben Kees, Chairman of the entertainment committee announced that the vodvil show will be changed nightly and a variety of entertainment of professional performers has been obtained.

Mr. Paul Ogden has been named chairman of the parade committee again this year and he says that people generally like a parade and he will make arrangements for a parade that promises to be on a par with the best of its kind in the country.

Bob Goderwis, Chairman of the Contest Committee says that many interesting Contests have been arranged and on the first Sunday of the Show opening an amateur contest will be held. Should this contest prove successful it will be repeated again the last Sunday of the Show.

Farmers Request Soil Conservation District

Members of the Boone County Extension Association Committee and leading farmers met with Soil Conservation Service Officials in a meeting at Walton on last Wednesday and voted unanimously to file a petition for a Soil Conservation District, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

The services of the CCC-Camp and the Soil Conservation Service will not be available to Boone county farmers unless a district is formed, according to Mr. Ward Darnell, Superintendent of the Camp. Mr. Darnell pointed out further that the Government would supply certain heavy equipment to the district for soil and water conservation work if a district is formed.

A temporary organization committee composed of C. Liston Hempfling, chairman; Jesse Wilson, vice chairman; Vest Gaines, secretary; Harold Crigler, H. E. White and J. C. Bedinger, was formed. This committee will be in charge of securing 25 or more farmer's names necessary to petition a hearing as to whether or not a referendum should be offered farmers. A hearing date will be set and if sufficient interest among farmers is shown a referendum will be offered. A majority of more than fifty percent of landowners voting is required before a district will be formed. The district, after being formed, will operate for a period of five years after which time farmers may petition its dissolution if they are not satisfied with the work.

Dairymen Must Have Herds Tested

Dairymen in Walton and vicinity will be interested in knowing that the Town of Walton will supply them with applications for having their herds tested for Bangs disease. Applications for this free test are on hand now, and may be had by contacting R. E. Brugh, Town Marshall.

According to R. C. Brakefield, a Town Trustee, this body is to pass an ordinance at their next regular meeting, making it compulsory for dairymen to have a certificate showing that their herd is free of this disease, in order to sell milk in Walton. This ordinance, when passed, will be effective as soon as is possible. So dairymen are urged to get their applications at once, and their herds will be tested free of charge.

The fever contracted from using milk from cows having Bangs disease is most serious. Some in this section have become thus infected, and it is the desire of our Town Board to prevent any further outbreak of this malady.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet Friday, October 3rd (tomorrow) at 2:30 p. m., with Mrs. J. C. Bedinger. This fine organization gives Christian women an opportunity to work as a unit regardless of church affiliation. Locally it is growing in numbers, interest and influence. It offers a challenge to all the women of the community who want to work together to the end that our youth may be saved from demon alcohol and its kindred evils. A most cordial invitation is extended to all who care to attend the meeting Friday.

WORLD COMMUNION SUNDAY, OCT. 5th

Sunday, Oct. 5 will be observed as World Communion Sunday. The two principal purposes are: First, to be reminded of the unbroken fellowship in Christ in contrast to our broken and disorganized world. Second, to rally the forces of the Church early in the autumn and to begin the new advance on our knees at the Lord's Table. The plan is that each local congregation should seek to have EVERY member, so far as possible, present at this significant sacramental service in his own Church.

The Methodist church has the Church school at 9:45 a. m. A consecration service for the officers and teachers will come at the close of the hour. The morning worship will be at 11:00 a. m. The sermon topic will be, "Fellowship at the Lord's Table." The young people will meet at 6:15 p. m., and the evening worship at 7:00. You are cordially invited to all of these services.

NEW GROUP INVITED TO OPEN HOUSE

The Walton Christian has realized for several months, the crying need of reaching the young people of the 18 to 24 age group.

In line with this realization, a new Sunday school class is being organized with W. Cloyd Johnson as the teacher.

The class will meet once each month for a friendly "get together," and many interesting activities are being planned.

A philanthropic program will be inaugurated, to be decided upon when the class is more thoroughly organized.

In order that Mr. Johnson may become better acquainted with those who plan to be in his Sunday school class, Rev. and Mrs. Alderson are holding open house at the parsonage, Saturday evening from 7 to 9.

It is hoped that all young people from the age of 17 to 24, who are interested, will find time to call between the designated hours.

They are especially urged to attend Sunday school each Lord's Day at 9:45, and watch this new group go forward.

OLD FRIENDS ENJOY FIRST VISIT IN 35 YEARS

Mrs. Berg started her trip from Hawaii, bringing her automobile, and was on her way to Norfolk, Va., where she will visit her husband who is with the U. S. Navy. They have had a very delightful trip across the States.

Miss Thelma Howe was the guest of Mrs. J. C. Stone of High Street, Sunday.

A Message To Methodists

The Methodist church must always be found vigilant, abreast of the times, marching in the army of the Lord. A clarion call has gone forth, urging all ministers and laymen, not only to seek after more intimate fellowship with God, but to win a million new members for Christ.

Sunday, October 5th, is to be observed over the nation as Communion Sunday. Eight million Methodists will share in this Holy Sacrament. May you earnestly seek full preparation for this intimate feast with your Lord, and encourage your friends and neighbors to join you in this noble quest.

This message is not a call for evangelistic zeal for a brief period of time, but a prayer that such zeal may increase in your hearts from year to year until your Master calls you higher. That these Christian ideals become realities, every church worker, school worker, boardmember, all church members are being asked to rally to the call of the Minister and make necessary preparation for the undertaking. The Committees on Membership and Evangelism are the logical ones to prepare lists of Inactive Members and persons on the Constituency Roll, including the entire parish. After this has been done, the best fitted Christian workers in the church, should become a band of trained workers to keep constantly in touch with Inactive Members and New Prospects. Through prayer, visitation, phone calls and correspondence, they can encourage and inspire many to surrender their lives to Christ—Pub. Com. Walon Methodist Church.

This Week In Defense

Navy, Ships

Fourteen new ships were launched in "Liberty Fleet Day" ceremonies held at shipyards on Saturday, September 27, at Baltimore, Md., Los Angeles, Calif., Richmond Calif., Portland, Ore., Quincy, Mass., Chester, Pa., Kearney, N. J., Pascagoula, Miss., Seattle, Wash., and Wilmington, Del. The Navy announced launching of the battleship "Massachusetts," three minesweepers— "Summitt," "Guide," and the submarine chaser PC515.

Aid to Britain, Russia

The Navy Department announced 15 British and Free French warships currently in United States ports, and said 12 others already have left U. S. ports where they had put in for repairs or supplies. The War department said 59 officers and enlisted men of the British armored corps are studying American methods at the Army Armored Force School at Fort Knox, Ky. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau announced the Soviet Government has already repaid in gold "a little more than half" of the $10,000,000 advanced by the U. S. Treasury to Russia in August.

Production

Assistant Attorney General Arnold, speaking at Yosemite, Calif., said, "there is not an organized basic industry in the U. S. which has not been restricting production . . . to avoid what they fear may be ruinous overproduction after the war . . .They have concealed shortages by over-optimistic predictions about supplies."

Mr. Arnold also said "a few strategically located labor unions" were costing the American consumer one billion dollars a year through labor restrictions on production by strikes and boycotts for illegitimate purposes, price-fixing, restricting labor-saving devices, elimination of small competitors and owner operators and "tying up huge industries in the struggle to determine which of two unions shall dominate the field."

Small Business

Director Odlum of the OPM Contract Distribution Division announced between 100 and 200 offices to help small shops and businessmen get defense work will be opened soon. Already scheduled are offices in Hartford, Conn., Providence, R. I., Youngstown, Dayton and Columbus, O., Indianapolis, Ind., Rochester and Albany, N. Y., Portland, Me., Springfield, Ill., Springfield, Mass., Trenton, N. J., Wichita, Kan., and Spokane, Wash. Existing offices at Harrisburg, Wilkes-Barre and Allentown, Pa., will be enlarged and the present 39 offices of the abolished Defense Contract Service will continue to operate, he said.

Mr. Odlum asked 56 major defense contractors to appoint "farming out" directors to cooperate in spreading defense work among smaller firms. He also announced defense contracts with five aluminum war companies forced to abandon civilian production by shortages and priorities. Contracts such as these to avoid community hardship can be negotiated up to 15 percent above minimum prices, performance bonds can be waived and bid splits allowed to enable pools of small firms to obtain contracts for "bits and pieces."

Army Preparedness Status

Assistant War Secretary McCloy, speaking in Jackson, Mich., said the U. S. has an army and an air force "in the sense that one is in process of production. . . Some of its elements are prepared to meet any foe . . . Yet that army is just becoming an army. . ."

He said the army has its full amount of the fundamental weapons—rifles, bayonets, machine guns, artillery, grenades—but does not have its full equipment of light and medium tanks, anti-tank and anti-aircraft weapons. He said there is sufficient equipment for training but heavy production will not come until this winter or next spring. He said the Army has much to learn about the tank-plane and anti-tank-plane combination and "we still have a long way to go in our coordination between air and the ground but we are beginning in earnest in Louisana now."

He said plane production "at this time is still not satisfactory as a result of shortages in manufacturing facilities and essential raw materials but it is coming up." He said several U. S. planes far exceed any others in the world.

Priorities

Priorities Director Nelson limited production of spare parts for passenger automobiles and light trucks for the period September 15—December 31, 1941 to 60 percent of the number sold during the first six months this year. SPAB said it will extend to American industry assistance in obtaining repair parts.

Anti-Axis 'Black List'

The State Department added 300 South American firms and individuals to the original Anti-Axis "Black List" of 1800 names and deleted 65 names where corrective action had been taken since July 17. The new addition included "Air France" and "Lati," a French and an Italian airline, and the German news agency "Transocean." Firms placed on the blacklist are automatically deprived of American oil and gasoline and other supplies from this country.

Agriculture

Agriculture Secretary Wickard told Northeastern farm leaders and agricultural workers Britain will need between now and June 30, 1942, chees, evaporated milk and dried skim milk that will require processing of more than 4½ billion pounds of milk; a billion and a half pounds of pork and lard; about 500 million dozen eggs; 18 million pounds of poultry meat, and quantities of tobacco, vitamin-rich fruits and vegetables. He said the British need a minimum of $1,000,000,000 in food between now and February 28, 1942.

SPAB announced special attention will be given provision of equipment necessary for expanding dairy production to meet domestic and British requirements. The Agricultural Department said total income from farm marketings will reach $10,000,000,000 in 1941.

Prices

Labor Secretary Perkins said food prices continued to rise during the first half of September with biggest increases in pork crops, lard, eggs, and milk. Price Administrator Henderson said exiction proceedings had been begun by "unscrupulous" landlords in various parts of the country against tenants who complained of rent increases to their local Rent Committee.

Inflation, Control, Taxation

The Federal Reserve Board increased reserve cash requirements for member banks by about one-seventh, to the present lawful limit. The Board said the action will not prevent credit for defense needs and all legitimate requirements.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau announced his staff has started work on legislation to limit corporation profits to six percent of invested capital for the duration of the emergency. He said the profit motive in war ought to be eliminated entirely. He said the move would also head off the inflationary trend.

Farm credit Administration Governor Black asked a Washington meeting of leading farm lenders to prevent a speculative boom in farm real estate such as brought bankruptcy to thousands of farmers after the World War. He suggested:

(1) Basing all appraisals in connection with loans on normal values; (2) impressing present borrowers with the wisdom of using higher income available now to payment of existing debts; (3) encouraging savings to meet future debts; (4) avoiding fostering speculative increases in production without discouraging necessary shifts and increases.

Women and Army Morale

Mrs. William P. Hobby, Chief of the Women's Section of the War Department, speaking in New York, said "Let us stop talking about the hard lot of the enlisted men. Every possible provision for the welfare of our soldiers is being made as quickly as is humanly possible. Let us also stop the 'Oh, you poor thing, so you're in the Army away from your family and friends?' . . . Keep your handkerchief in your pocket. Instead, invite him home to meet your sons and daughters."

Selective Service

Selective Service Headquarters asked local boards to assure college students who are not expected to be called for service before the middle of the college semester they will be granted postponement until they finish the semester. Students preparing for essential defense occupations, Headquarters said, should be deferred.

PUTTING ON DOG

Since most of our actions and even our thoughts have become standardized, it is pretty hard to do something new and strange and erybody knows all of our tricks "shock the natives." Almost ev- and can play them as well as we. Few have had more experience and few have had less experience than we; hence we cannot take our neighbors by surprise any more. It was not like this in old Fidelity for our range was so narrow that we could be shown a thing or two by the merest novice.

Most of our putting on dog came about when we went into a strange neighborhood, up the creek or out in the flatwoods. We could attract attention by our rubber-tired buggies and prancing steeds (often with trace-chain rubs on their sides). As far away as we were at Fidelity, there were places still farther from the center of population; into those places we could go and "strut our stuff." Though a church service was likely to be the occasion that took us into strange and remote places ten miles or more away from our sleepy little village, we were often quite un-Christian in our trying to make others break the tenth commandment by wishing for our snappy clothes and our horse and buggy. If we had a girl in that strange neighborhood, we ran the risk of stirring up some fierce local jealousies among the swains less favored than we. I have known of buggy fixin's pretty badly cut up by jealous rivals when we went to the church away up the creek, where I took my first date.

All things even up pretty well, in the metropolis or at Fidelity. We suffered from our own showing off by having lordly young squirts from other neighborhoods come in with finer buggies than we could afford and with louder clothes and redder oxblood shoes and attract the attention of the staid Fidelity girls. After some such humiliation, we sat and listened rather well to the preacher, who lamented the tendency to worldliness among his congregation. Humble though we may have been at church, we wished devoutly that the outsiders would come to grief and that our neighborhood girls would learn that Fidelity boys were always the best and safest.

Occasionally real city fellows came into our remote neighborhood and amused us greatly. We could hardly be jealous, for they felt above our girls quite as much as above us. One such city fellow came to conduct the singing during the protracted meeting at our little Methodist church. He had the sophistication of the typical small-town dude, but we thought him to be exquisite. He could speak without breaking all the rules of grammar, he had pressed trousers, and he had a way with the ladies, even the mothers and old maids. He had polish, I suppose. Some of us fell for him and felt that life would be tragic for us if we never attained to his urbanity and polish. Some others sneered at his affectations and heartily wished that he would fall down in the mud around the church and spoil his fine clothes. It was hard for us to see that we might have cut a figure somewhat similar when we went far back into the sticks with our outfit and our rubber-tired buggy.

Mark Twain once said that in all of his travels he had never seen any one as a new type; in his earlier life along the Mississippi he had known every conceivable sort of person. I have been tempted to say that I have never yet, in the thirty-four years I have been away from Fidelity, seen a new person. Somehow, tucked away among the hills, there lived in the last years of the nineteenth and the first few years of the twentieth century within a ten-mile radius, with Fidelity as the center, every known variety of the genus homo, "as big as life and twice as natural."

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

The greatest tax bill in history is law and this is all-American gloom week for the U. S. Taxpayer. Income taxes for most people will be tripled or quadrupled this year. Two and a quarter million persons will be paying income taxes for the first time in their lives. Buy an electric light bulb, you pay a five percent tax. Go to the movies, and it's ten percent. Play bridge and it's 13 cents on a pack of cards, or play pool and it's part of the annual $10 tax on pool tables. You can breathe without taxes hitting you directly on indirectly, but that's about all. Eat your breakfast, drive your car to work, buy a present for your wife, make a telephone call, there's no escaping the new taxes. And then once you've digested this tax bill, and decided that security and national defense are well worth paying for, there's still something else to take; most experts say this is a mere nothing as compared to the taxes to come next year and the year after that.

Believe it or not, there's a mild sort of silver lining even to this gloom. It goes by the name of Title VI, Section 601 of the new tax bill. Credit for this strange-named silver lining goes to Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia who pushed through an amendment to the record-smashing bill that calls for appointment of a joint committee to recommend cuts in non-defense spending.

This committee to investigate "non-essential Federal expenditures" will consist of three members each from the House Ways and Means and Appropriations Committees, three each from the Senate Finance and appropriations Committees, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Director of the Bureau of the Budget. The Committee is authorized to conduct an investigation and recommend as soon as possible eliminations or reductions of non-essential spending.

High hopes are held for this committee. It marks the first time in some twenty-two years that Congress has approved something like Congressional budgetary control. And many believe it may save us as much as a billion dollars a year—which even in these days of tossing billions around can come in pretty handy.

Right up near the top of the current Washington worries is the growing danger that thousands of manufacturers will not survive these days of stringent defense material rationing, and that hundreds of thousands of workers will be thrown out of work.

It has been estimated that some 75 per cent of more than 100,000 plants making non-defense goods could be kept going by small allotments of materials, which if not made available would mean—especially in the cases of the small manufacturer — death to many of the plants and local ghost towns or depression areas. Under the present priorities setup non-defense industries unequipped to do defense work are out in the cold, no matter how little they need of aluminum, rubber, or some other strategic material. So the "talking-of-revising" stage has been reached on the priorities setup, with a view to allocating small amounts of materials to plants where that is necessary to keep firms alive, towns from drying up, and labor employed.

To assist the government in saving as many jobs and as many firms as possible, the National Association of Manufacturers, through member state and local associations affiliated with the National Industrial Council, has launched a survey of "Priorities Unemployment."

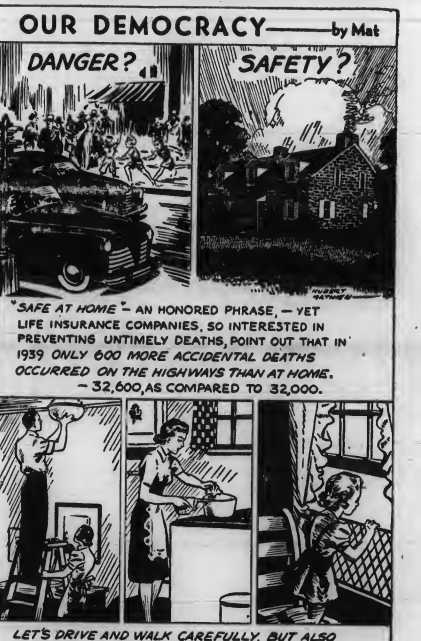
Industries all over the country will be asked: "Do you anticipate that within the next 90 days you will be forced to decrease production, either because of priorities and the raw material allocation system, or the inability to get defense contracts or subcontracts?" If the manufacturer answers in the affirmative, he is asked to tell how many workers have been laid off, the reduction in wages as the result, and what success he has had in his attempt to gain defene work.

Such detailed information will be invaluable to the Washington authorities in directing materials flow, in trying to avert shutdowns, and in transferring workers where dislocations are an inevitable concomitant of defense production.

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ—

Q. Do the retail stores receive any fee or percentage for the sale of Stamps?

A. No. The retail stores are offering their facilities as a patriotic service, just as banks, savings and loan associations, and others are giving their help in the sale of Defense Bonds.



Q. How can I form the thrift habit necessary for me to buy many Defense Bonds now, to help the Government?

A. The easiest way is to instruct your employer or banker to hold back a small fraction of your salary or other income. Even 10 cents a day and a dollar on your birthday will mount up in one year to $37.50, the purchase price of a $50 Defense Bond. Bigger savings buy bigger bonds.

Note: To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps now are on sale at retail stores.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist. "MENU PLANNING" MAJOR PROJECT

"Menu Planning" was the subject studied at the first Major Project training school, held for local leaders of Boone county Homemakers' Clubs, on Thursday, September 25th, at Burlington school. Mrs. Pearl J. Haak, foods specialist, from the University of Kentucky, conducted the class which was called at 10:00 a. m. and closed at 3:00 p. m.

Representatives from clubs at Burlington, Bullittsville, Constance, Florence, Grant, Hebron, New Haven, Petersburg, Taylorsport, Walton and Verona, attended. These leaders will arrange for the presentation of the lesson before their groups in October.

The objective of the Major Project in "Meal Planning" is to help Boone county women plan meals which will improve the health of their people during the coming year. 50% of Boone county boys called under the Selective Service Act have been rejected.

These rejections were due to physical weaknesses, most of them traceable to food deficiencies. Boone county women accept the challenge to be informed about food needs and to strive to improve health through a practice of this knowledge.

Every Boone county woman is invited, urged to affiliate herself with the local Homemakers' group, and avail herself of this opportunity for valuable helps. Call Mrs. Mary Scott Moore, Home Demonstration Agent, for further information.

NYA TO AID TWELVE YOUTH

National Youth Administration jobs will enable approximately 12 youth in Boone county to continue their education during the 1941-42 school year, Robert K. Salyers, State Youth Administrator, announced.

An allotment of $54 per month, to be distributed among five schools, has been granted this county. A school official, appointed by Mr. Salyers as a non-compensated official of the Federal Government, will administer the NYA program in each of the schools. This official will choose the youth to be given jobs and outline the work to be done. To earn their money, youth might cook or help in the lunch room, repair books, chairs, desks, help with construction or landscaping on the school grounds, do clerical work in a school office, serve as recreational leaders, or they might do a number of other kinds of work beneficial to the school they are attending. Youth between the ages of 16 and 24 who could not continue in school without financial assistance are eligible for NYA work.

In this county, the schools granted NYA funds and the officials in charge of the program are:

Burlington High school, Edwin Walton; Florence High school, F. D. Caton; Hebron High school, Chester Goodridge; New Haven High school, John Masters; Walton-Verona High school, H. P. Baker.

The total NYA allotment for schools in the state is $234,716. This will provide work for about 5,200 youth.

A Fleming county farmer made two tobacco primings: one for dried leaves, and the other for those starting to fire up.

★ FASHION PREVIEW ★

Plump, popular young girls need no longer fret about being unable to get young becoming and smart clothes they crave. Good Housekeeping for October proves it by dressing this teen-ager in an attractive suit of cherry-red and gray checked wool with a rayon lining.

Fair Grounds To Be Purchased

Boone county, in the future, will have a permanent county fair and picnic grounds, owned by the people so that it can be handed down from generation to generation, if plans of public-spirited and interested citizens are completed. Thirty-five hundred dollars will be raised by public donation to pay for and partly equip the grounds. Each community in the county will be called upon to contribute.

The need for a permanent fair and picnic grounds has been felt for several years. People take pride in the improvement and development of their county. Deep feeling of loss was felt when the Old Northern Kentucky Fair Grounds at Florence and Beautiful Harvest Home Fair Grounds became too valuable as real estate investments and went into private ownership.

This deep feeling of loss inspired public-spirited citizens to take the lead toward securing a permanent grounds, publicly owned, that could not be sold in the future as a real estate development but would go on in development and improvement on down through time.

Interested citizens, cooperating with the county 4-H and Utopia Club Council, have assisted for several months in making a thorough survey of the county. Many places were looked over. Suitable location for grounds was found most difficult. Smith's woods of near Burlington was found by far the most desirable location. An option was secured on the grounds. A meeting was called and every possible method of financing was discussed.

Public donations to pay for and partly equip the grounds was decided as the most desirable plan. A large lake will be built to further enhance the beauty and value of the grounds.

Funds to pay for the grounds are to be raised by November 1st.

The county committee in charge of raising the funds is composed of: Charles W. Riley, chairman; A. B. Renaker, John Conner, A. E. Stephens and H. R. Forkner.

Community committeemen are: Constance, Geo. Kottmyer; Taylorsport, C. Liston Hempfling; Hebron, James Huey, Hubert Conner and Jameson Aylor; Bullittsville, Lucy Lee Grant; Petersburg, John Klopp and Al Stephens; Grant, W. B. Rogers and Lillard Scott; Burlington, Mrs. Lois McBee, Courtney Kelly and Luthur Smith; Florence, Mrs. Al Hue, Frances Berkshire and Ira Tanner; Union, Alma Riley and Joe Huey; Rabbit Hash, Hugh Stephens; Hamilton, John Jones, jr.; Beaver, George Baker and Jake Cleek; Verona, G. C. Ransom and Walter King; Walton, Clinton Cleek and Powers Conrad; Idlewild, Bill Hill and Bernard Gaines; Limaburg, Chester Tanner and J. P. Brothers; Pt. Pleasant, John W. Dolwick; and presidents of each community Homemakers' Club.

A meeting of all committeemen will be held at Burlington Courthouse on Tuesday evening, October 7th. All committeemen and others who are interested in a permanent fair, county picnic and annual get-together grounds for all Boone county people and their friends, are urged to be present.

PRIVATE DENTON NOW ARMY MECHANIC

Private Albert Denton, whose home is on R-2, Walton, is now the proud possessor of a diploma as a skilled army automotive mechanic. Announcement of his graduation from the Sixth Corps Area Quartermaster Motor Transport School for Mechanics at Fort Sheridan, Ill., after eight weeks of special training was made today by Maj. Gen. J. M. Cummins, commanding the Sixth Corps Area.

The swift and efficient movement of troops, their supplies and equipment in mobile units is all essential to meet present day military characteristics, General Cummins said, and it is to provide skilled manpower for this task that the Quartermaster Corps is engaged in a motor transport program on a scale never before approached in the nation's history.

As an example of the high peak of efficiency attained under the Quartermaster's training procedure, General Cummins cited the fact that in the recent Second Army maneuvers in Tennessee no mechanical equipment or vehicles were out of operation for want of repairs or spare parts.

Now that he has been graduated from the Fort Sheridan school, a vital link in the nation-wide chain of Quartermaster Corps instruction centers, Private Denton is qualified for promotion and appointment as instructor or foreman of a particular group of soldier-mechanics. He is assigned to the 103rd Coast Artillery.

EXCELLENT PONDS SEEN ON TOUR

Excellent ponds and farm lakes were seen on a county tour held last Thursday, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. There were all new lakes and showed marked improvement in sources of farm water supply.

Fifty or more new lakes have been constructed the past two and one-half months by J. G. Robertson and Sons, Wheatcraft Construction Company, and Exterkamp Construction Company.

Lakes constructed by J. G. Robertson and Sons were visited on the tour. Good and bad points of the lakes visited were pointed out at each visit by Earl Welch, Agricultural Engineer, College of Agriculture.

Mr. Welch pointed out that farmers can get lakes constructed cheaper with power equipment today than ever before. Important things for a farmer to do before having a lake built is to read recommendations on Construction given in Extension Circular No. 3177. Be sure that in the construction of the dam a core trench is dug to impervious or clay soil and refilled with tight soil to cut off seepage through the earth dam fill and to be sure that a spillway or overflow of proper size based on the drainage area is constructed.

Investment in a good lake for farms ordinarily short of water seems to be one of the most profitable undertakings a farmer can make. Farmers who plan to have lakes constructed, are urged to do so while the contractors owning power equipment are now wrking in the county.

Tobacco Growers Should Vote

Every tobacco grower selling tobacco last year on a not regular graded market should, and is urged to, vote before Saturday in the referendum on Government Grading for Covington, Carrollton and Lexington markets, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Government grading on the warehouse floor is free to the grower and places his crop in a position to secure a Government loan in case his crop does not bring a fair market price.

Tobacco growers pooling all or part of their crops on markets using emergency graders last season were not in every instance satisfied with the emergency grading. The emergency graders supplied on the ungraded markets last season could not be expected to have the local experience and the facilities to give maximum service.

Tobacco growers over Boone and adjoining counties have requested government grading on local markets. This is the first opportunity they have had to vote on this issue. Every tobacco grower and every warehouse is wanting the service this year. Sixty-six and two thirds percent of the growers must vote requesting this service or it will not be available.

The government grading and marketing news service is not a part of the AAA Marketing Quotas program but is a distinct service in itself. Tobacco growers selling last year on Covington, Carrollton or Lexington, Kentucky, and Madison, Indiana, markets were mailed ballots from the County Office, the first part of the week. Growers not receiving ballots may secure them at the County Agent's Office in Burlington. All ballots to be counted must be mailed before this Saturday, October 4th.

Magoffin county farmers have seeded approximately 40,000 pounds of vetch supplied as a grant-of-aid.

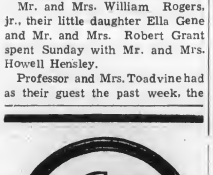
EASTERN-MURRAY TO MEET AT RICHMOND, SATURDAY



After an 11-year armistice, the Maroons from Eastern Teachers' College and the Thorobreds from Murray Teachers' College will resume football competition when the two teams meet on the Maroon gridiron, Stateland Field, here Saturday, October 4.

Both teams have improved considerably in the last 11 years. The game Saturday will be view with a great deal of interest by all who are interested in the athletic programs of the two schools. The Murray line averages 200 pounds while the men in the Maroon line tip the scales at 183. Coaches "Turkey" Hughes and Tom Samuels of the Maroons scouted the opener at Murray on September 22: In their opinion the Thorobred team is one of the best college outfits that the Eastern team will have to face this season. Murray won the opener from Culver-Stockton 48 to 7. The Eastern boys will be out for their 11th consecutive win. They were undefeated and untied last season and have won their first two games this season.

When asked for a comment on the Murray-Eastern game, Coach Rome Rankin of the Maroons said, "We have not had the privileges of football competition with Murray since I have been coach at Eastern, so I am looking forward to the associations which we shall have with Coach Jim Moore and his boys from Murray."

This is the first season in which all four Kentucky teachers' colleges have engaged in football competition. The athletic directors of the four schools hope to make this an annual affair from now on. Eastern will play Western at Bowling Green on October 25 and Morehead on November 15.

GOD OUR HEAVENLY FATHER

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 1:26-28; Matthew 6:24-33

GOLDEN TEXT—Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name.—Matthew 6:9.

Without God man has no hope in this world. This is the teaching of Scripture, which is confirmed by experience and admitted by the philosophies of men. "Having no hope and without God in the world," says Paul (Eph. 2:12), and every godless philosophy paints the same dark picture. Says one, "It cannot be doubted that the theistic belief is a comfort to those that hold it and that the loss of it is a very painful loss. We have seen the spring sun shine out of an empty heaven to light up a soulless earth; we have felt with utter loneliness that the Great Companion is dead" (Clifford).

That desolate and despairing conclusion need not be the lot of any man, for we have in God's own Word a clear revelation of Himself as our Creator and our loving Father. Why not accept it?

I. God Our Creator (Gen. 1:26-28).

Both of our Scripture passages tell us much about man, but in doing so they reveal God.

1. How He Made Man (vv. 26, 27). "God created man in his own image" (v. 27). This does not refer to any physical likeness, although it is abundantly evident that man's body is far above the animal level and perfectly adapted to be the dwelling place of the soul and the instrument of its activity in a physical world. Even the Son of God took upon Himself the body of a man and, in its glorified state, still bears that body in heaven. This means that man's body is worthy of honor and considerate care and use.

The real image of God in man is a moral and spiritual likeness. Man is a moral being, knowing the difference between right and wrong. He has all the characteristics of personality, self-consciousness, intelligence, feeling and will. That image has been marred and defaced by sin, but it is still there. Even in the lowest man or woman it is capable of being reached and transformed by the grace of God.

2. How He Blessed Man (v. 28). He gave man "a help meet for him" (Gen. 2:18); that is, a completely suitable companion and helper. He gave him dominion over the entire earth, and his restless, pioneering spirit still presses toward the complete realization of that promise. He provided for every need of man, not only physical and social, but also spiritual, for we read that He walked with him "in the cool of the day" (Gen. 3:8), until man by his own sin broke that fellowship. God's love toward His creation is shown by His provision for man's complete joy and full usefulness.

II. God Our Heavenly Father (Matt. 6:24-33).

Two things harass the mind and heart of man—anxiety for today and fear for tomorrow. He must have what he and his family needs for today, and it is a constant struggle for most men to meet that need. Then, as though that were not enough, there is always the morrow's new and possibly greater needs. Even those who have all they need today live in dread (and well they may if they do not trust God) that tomorrow or next week or next year they too may be in need. Our text meets both problems, for it tells us

1. Why We Need Not Be Anxious Today (vv. 24-31). The answer is simple—look at the birds. They cannot work, they are not even able to pray, yet God feeds them. Consider the glory of the flowers. Even a king cannot dress in such beauty—God provided it for them. "Are ye not much better than they?" (v. 26).

No bird ever worried because it did not have a meal laid by for tomorrow, and no flower has fretted itself lest its blossom failed to come forth in its accustomed beauty. Why should we be anxious?

Intelligent forethought is good and proper, but anxiety about our daily needs is always dishonoring to God. He is ready and able to meet our daily need.

2. Why We Need Not Fear Tomorrow (vv. 32, 33). "Your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need" (v. 32). Does not that settle the whole future? It is in God's hands, and even if it were in our hands, what could we do about it? Tomorrow with its joys and sorrows is not yet here, and when it does come God will be here as a loving Father to graciously provide for every moment of it.

What then shall we do? Verse 33 tells us, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness." Give God first place in your life and He will see that all "these things" are added. Simple, isn't it? and blessedly true. Let's trust Him!

BOSTON BEANS

A real Boston bean casserole would taste mighty good one of these fresh fall days. With the genuine oven-baked beans that come in tins, you can very quickly prepare one that brings back memories of the genuine long-baked kind Mother used to bake in her own oven. Just heat them in the oven as they are. Or sometimes for variety prepare them other ways. The following recipe will lead you to think of other quick combinations with oven-baked beans.

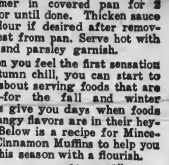
Boston Bean Casserole with Pineapple and Link Sausages

Using—
2 medium (18-oz.) cans oven-baked beans, Boston-style.

Turn one can of the beans into casserole. Pour over it—
1 cup canned pineapple chunks, drained.

Pour over this the remaining can of beans and top with—
1 dozen link sausages which have been partially cooked.

Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) 30 minutes or until thoroughly heated and sausages are cooked.



Short ribs of beef are always cooked by braising or stewing, since they are a not-so-tender cut of meat. That means you use either water or a sauce for moist cooking. Spicy, flavor-rich tomato ketchup makes a grand braising sauce for this inexpensive meat. Use it as in the following recipe:

Braised Short Ribs of Beef

Have—
3½ pounds short ribs of beef.
Slit meat slightly between bones for quicker cooking, then brown. Add—
¼ cup tomato ketchup
¼ cup pure cider vinegar
1½ cups water
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 cup chopped celery.

Simmer in covered pan for 2 hours or until done. Thicken sauce with flour if desired after removing meat from pan. Serve hot with sauce and parsley garnish.

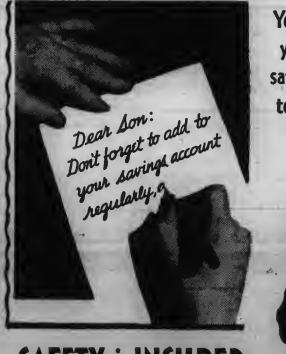
When you feel the first sensation of Autumn chill, you can start to think about serving foods that are spicy—for the fall and winter months give you days when foods with tangy flavors are in their heyday. Below is a recipe for Mincemeat Cinnamon Muffins to help you start this season with a flourish.

Mincemeat Cinnamon Muffins

Prepare muffin tins by placing in each of 12—
⅓ teaspoon butter
⅓ tablespoon brown sugar
1 tablespoon prepared mincemeat.

Sift together three times—
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
⅓ teaspoon salt.

Combine—
1 beaten egg
1 cup milk
4 tablespoons butter, melted
¼ cup brown sugar.



Add this mixture to the dry ingredients all at once and stir quickly until the dry and liquid ingredients are just mixed and have a lumpy appearance. Then quickly pour into muffin tins filling two-thirds full. Bake in a hot oven (425° F.) 20 minutes.

Blackleg Disease in Cattle

According to U. S. D. A. Farmers Bulletin No.-1355 Blackleg (known also as anthrax, black quarter, etc.) is an acute infectious disease which attacks principally young cattle. It is characterized by swellings or tumors beneath the skin, due to gas forming in the tissues, usually accompanied with high fever. It follows a rapid course and nearly always results in death of the animal. The disease is more or less restricted to definite localities (such as pastures), where the soil is infected with the blackleg organism and where outbreaks may occur year after year unless prevented by vaccination.

Susceptibility of Animals

Every stock owner who lives in a district where blackleg occurs knows that it is the young cattle, especially those between the ages of six and eighteen months, which are most liable to become affected. From a number of infected districts, however, it has been reported that calves frequently begin to die at the age of 4 to 5 months and in some cases even younger animals. It is unusual for cattle past two years to become affected.

Protect by Vaccination

According to the Farmers Bulletin, "The only effective and reliable means known for protecting animals against blackleg is vaccination, which has been thoroughly tried and proved to be effective.

Report blackleg cases to your local county veterinarian and protect your young cattle by timely vaccination before the disease appears.

UNCLE SAM'S SAILORS ON HORSEBACK SEE PANAMA FROM THE SADDLE

No, the U. S. Navy doesn't have a cavalry unit, but many a sailor straddled leather before giving up his bucking broncho or plow horse for the bounding main.

The sailors in whites above are seamen in the U. S. Naval Reserve on shore leave in Panama. No distinction is made between sailors in the Naval Reserve and those in the regular Navy. Enlistment in the U. S. Naval Reserve is for four years, but all men enlisting in the Naval Reserve will be released to inactive duty as soon after the national emergency as their services can be spared, regardless of the length of time remaining in their enlistment. If the emergency ends within a period of several months, those enrolled in the Naval Reserve will not be required to complete their 4 year term in active service.

Opportunities for advancement, to learn skilled trades, for travel and adventure are identical whether a man enlists in the regular Navy or the Naval Reserve, and his pay, food, clothing, medical and dental care are the same.

Navy Questions And Answers ---

What is meant by "Happy-Hour" in the U. S. Navy? This is the name given to the sessions of relaxation aboard ship, when duties are forgotten and replaced by boxing and wrestling matches, movies, swimming and entertainment by various members of the crew.

How many fleets are there in the United States Navy? There are three fleets in the Navy at the present time, the Atlantic Fleet, the Pacific Fleet, and the Asiatic Fleet.

When once in the U. S. Navy, how does one learn to specialize in one specific field of work? There are three ways a sailor may attain perfection in the specialized work of his own choosing: by study in Navy Schools, by practical experience aboard ship, by spare time study aided by correspondence courses conducted by the Navy.

When are you paid in the Navy? Twice a month, on the 5th and the 20th.

Is there any way of saving money aboard ship? Yes, men may deposit money with the Disbursing Officer, who will keep it in a safe. Each depositor is furnished with a "bank book" and receives from the Government four percent per annum interest on all money deposited.

What are the "ports" on a ship? They are openings in the ship's sides which serve various uses. Air ports are for the admission of air and light. Gun ports are openings through which the guns are pointed and fired. Merchant ships also have cargo ports.

What is meant by "liberty?" Liberty means authorized absence from duty for less than 48 hours.

Do sailors get an opportunity to see every port visited? Usually. Shore-liberty, which may last 12 days, is generally granted everybody.

How many days can a sailor have in a year? Leaves totaling 30 days, exclusive of travel time, are granted every year to enlisted men whose services can be spared.

Are there any good, up-to-date books on the Navy? Yes, among the newest are "The Navy in Review," by Curtis Erickson; "The Fleet Today," by Kendall Banning; "The Navy" by Hanson Baldwin; and many others.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

the RAILROADS SERVE KENTUCKY and the NATION

Railroads Spent $71,322,897 in Kentucky in 1940

For fuel, materials and supplies the railroads last year paid $18,646,339 in 377 Kentucky cities and towns. In wages they paid $47,376,558 to 28,694 Kentucky citizens. And in taxes they paid more than $5,300,000 to the State, counties, cities and school districts. Thus, their total contribution to Kentucky's economic welfare in 1940 amounted to $71,322,897. Similar payments were made in all other states.

Efficient Mass Transportation is Essential

Still more important, the railroads at all times support the nation's economic welfare by providing highly efficient mass transportation. Preparation for national defense largely depends on mass transportation by railroad. The emergency and magnitude of the defense program impose a stupendous burden on the railroads. The railroads are doing the job. They will continue to do it because they have the plant, the manpower, the skill, the tradition of service that such a task requires.

The Twofold Contribution to National Welfare

The railroads carry over their own roadways the bulk of the national transportation load in peace and in war. Most of the $4,297,000,000 which the public paid for railroad services last year was turned back to the public in wages of employees, purchases of materials and supplies, and direct tax support of the schools and of city, county, State and Federal governments. Less than 1% on the investment in railroad property was paid to the stockholders who own the railroads and furnish the service.

WAGE EARNERS MAY CORRECT WAGE RECORD

Wage earners, whose wages for 1937 were not correctly reported to the Social Security Board, have only three months remaining in which to request a change in their wage record for 1937, Frank B. Decker, jr., manager of the social security office in Covington, pointed out today. He explained that the law allows a period of four years after the year wages in question were received, during which an individual can obtain a correction of an error that may occur in his wage record.

In reminding employees of this feature of the law while there is still time to have the first year's record cleared up, Mr. Decker said workers may obtain a statement of their wage records on request to the Social Security Board. His office will furnish post cards for use in making the request. The cards are free and require only a one-cent stamp. To secure the wage statement the individual worker must personally sign the request.

Mr. Decker explained further that the Board's records of employees' wages are taken from employers' reports and that in some instances these reports may be incomplete or incorrect due to misspelling of a name, a mistake in copying the social security account number, or omitting a number entirely. Any worker who has reason to believe that his wages have not been correctly reported should check with the Social Security Board at once, since these wage records are used in determining the amount of Federal old-age and survivors insurance to which a worker and his family may be eligible.

SHEEPMEN FAIL TO INSURE FLOCKS

A number of sheepmen in the Boone County Sheep Protective Association last year, have failed to pay their dues by October 1st, the last day of grace, and as a resule have lost their insurance, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Failure to renew in practically every case is strictly an oversight on the part of the farmer.

The new Association year started September 1st with 30 days of grace allowed for paying the next year's dues. Sheepmen, who did not renew by October 1st, are not protected under the Constitution and By-laws, and if they should suffer losses would not be eligible to renew until 60 days after the last losses occurred. They should pay their dues to their local committeemen at once.

More than one-third of all sheep in the county were insured last year. Mr. H. E. White, president, and J. W. Conley, secretary and treasurer, of this organization, report there has been a large increase since September 1st in new members. Losses from dogs have always been a serious worry to the sheepmen. The Association, a cooperative, non-profit organization of sheepmen, offers mutual assistance for losses incurred by members.

Mrs. Rod Hughes and Mrs. Lillard Scott had arranged very interesting displays of the work done during the past year by the Rug Making project and the Live at Home project. Mrs. Hughes had on display approximately 50 crocheted, hooked, braided and knitted rugs and mats which were in the process of being made or had been finished by the Boone county women during the last year. Mrs. Scott had arranged the jars of vegetables and fruit and the baskets of food which should be canned an stored, to carry one person through the time when those foods are not in season. Also on display were a few of the leathercraft articles that were made last year.

Eastern Time vs. Central Time

The Town Board of Walton will hold an open meeting for residents of the town on Friday evening, Oct. 10, at 8 o'clock in the Town Hall, for the purpose of deciding whether Walton should continue on Eastern Standard Time or return to Central Standard Time. If you are interested, be sure to attend this meeting and express yourself.

This question of time has been discussed quite often of late, as well as at intervals ever since Cincinnati adopted Eastern time, and we think it is time this question was settled, once and for all.

Personally, we favor the permanent adoption of Eastern Standard Time. It seems to us it would prove more satisfactory to the greater number of residents in this section than Central time.

Of course, if a person lives in Walton, works in Walton, and has no outside interests, Central time would probably be the most satisfactory, because we're all accustomed to this time.

But considering the many who work in fast-time areas and our close association with Northern Kentucky cities and Cincinnati, in both a business and social way, we say EST.

And too, according to reports, Burlington, our county seat, is to remain on Eastern time. Why isolate ourselves in this part of the county with slow time? At present we have Eastern time to our North and East. Why not adopt fast time, and make Kentucky's three most northern counties uniform in time.

Let's have Eastern time!—Ed.

INJURIES FATAL TO MELVIN WHALEY

A sad and untimely death was that of Melvin Marshall Whaley, 24, who died at the residence between Walton and Bracht, Wednesday, Oct. 1, of injuries received in a peculiar accident at the Floyd Chapman farm, south of Verona.

Mr. Whaley was employed by Ernest and Joe Dance, and was attempting to remove a belt from pulleys of a rock crusher and tractor, when he somehow became entangled in the belt, being pulled into the pulley, fracturing his skull, and causing other painful injuries. The accident occurred about 5:30 as the men were quitting for the day.

The deceased was born at Bracht Station, Kentucky.

Funeral services were held Saturday, October 3, from the Goshen Christian church, Rev. J. Russell Cross, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial was in Goshen cemetery at Piner.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Whaley, four brothers, Charles Whaley of Ft. Leonard Wood, Newbury, Mo., Floyd Whaley, George Whaley and William Whaley all of Bracht; one sister, Jessie of Bracht; his grandfather, Luther Whaley; and a niece, Bonnie.

Jesse L. Hamilton & Son, Funeral Directors, had charge of arrangements.

Report Favorable To Fair Grounds Purchase

Community committeemen attending the first county-wide meeting reported Boone county should have a permanent Fair and County Picnic grounds. The $3,500.00 necessary for the purchase of the grounds should and could be raised by donations from public-spirited citizens during the next two weeks.

Charles Riley, chairman of the county committee, stated that after a thorough study of some plan whereby the people of Boone county could have a permanent fair and county picnic grounds, the plan found most desirable was decided upon. The plan is for public-spirited citizens to buy the grounds, deed it to the county so that it cannot be sold and will give the 4-H and Utopia Club Council a perpetual lease to develop a county fair and picnic grounds. The grounds, in turn, would become a permanent county park in which the people could be justly proud. Mr. Riley stated that despite the fact that only a few contacts had been made, more than $1,300.00 had already been raised.

H. R. Forkner, county agent, stated that the county is without a fair and picnic grounds at the present time. Our people are fair minded and need a permanent grounds they can call their own. The Annual get-together of our people at a fair or picnic ground is builds a stronger county spirit of unity and of agricultural and home economics and public improvement. The proposed plan was developed by people deeply interested in the training of our young folks. The plan, which developed rather suddenly and unexpectedly, comes as a great encouragement to our 4-H and Utopia Clubs. Future Farmers and other young peoples' organizations.

The program also offers Boone county an opportunity to build one of the greatest county fairs in the State. All people of the county are urged to support the program to the fullest extent. The 1942 and the 1943 fairs will be dedicated to the unselfish public spirited citizens, who are so nobly making it possible for a fair, not only next year, but an annual get-together of our people for years to come.

Ward T. Darnell, Superintendent of the Walton CCC Camp, reported the Camp would be able to assist in carrying out extensive improvement on the proposed project.

The Agricultural Conservation Program has furnished Whitley county farmers 450 bushels of Balbo rye and 15,000 pounds of rye-grass.

VERONA HOME-MAKERS MEET

The Verona Homemakers held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Raymond Stephenson Friday, October 3.

At the morning session, the leaders, Mrs. Renaker and Mrs. McCormick, presented the lesson on meal planning. Mrs. Moore gave an illustrated talk on the importance of proper nutrition, and as did the leaders, stressed the great need that homemakers know foods and their relationship to the body. It was pointed out that the certain elements required by the body each day must be supplied as improper and unwise food habits tend to break down body defenses rather than build up as is the ultimate aim of eating. We should "eat to live, not live to eat."

Quite a bit of interest was shown in the distribution of books which our women can now borrow so easily from the Homemakers' library.

At the noon hour a luncheon was served, which had been prepared in accordance with directions which the leaders brought from the training school. It was a simple but satisfying menu that won much praise.

In the afternoon our newly elected president, Mrs. J. B. Lamn very graciously accepted her office, and to her, the retiring president, Mrs. Renaker, relinquished the reins of government. There was the usual routine business and committee reports, followed by adjournment, after which some Red Cross sewing was distributed.

Those answering roll call were: Mesdames John Boyer, Jerdy Harris, J. T. Roberts, W. T. Renaker, W. B. McCormick, Gilbert Stewart, J. J. Myers, J. B. Lamn, Raymond Stephenson, Arch Noel and Relda Powers. Mrs. Will Waller and Mrs. Gilbert Brewster were guests.

Aid to Britain, Russia

Lend-Lease Expediter Harriman and Lord Beaverbrook, heads of the U. S. and British missions to Moscow announced in a joint statement the United States and Great Britain have "decided to place at the disposal of the Soviet Government practically every requirement for which the Soviet military and civil authorities have asked." The President told his press conference his rule of thumb of 50-50 allocation of war material production between this country and anti-Axis foreign powers is still in effect on the average.

Agriculture Secretary Wickard, speaking in Memphis, Tenn., said this country has shipped or bought for England about half a billion dollars worth of food, and "within the next year we expect to ship or buy at least another billion dollars worth." Federal Loan Administrator Jones announced the third disbursement of $75,000,000 on the $425,000,000 loan to Britain. He also announced a second disbursement of $20,000,000 of the $100,000,000 authorized for the Amtorg Trading Corporation, a U. S. corporation owned by Russian interests.

Freedom of Religion in Russia

President Roosevelt told his press conference that W. Averell Harriman, chief of the American Mission to Moscow, has been specifically instructed to take up with the Russian Government the question of religious freedom in the Soviet Union. Earlier he issued a statement that "it is hoped . . . an entering wedge for the practice of complete freedom of religion is definitely on its way" in Russia.

Post-War Intern'l Cooperation

Supreme Court Justice Jackson told the annual convention of the American Bar Association that "at the end of this war we must either throw the full weight of American influence to the support of an international order based on law, or we must outstrip the world in naval and air and perhaps in military force. The tragedy and irony of the present position of the United States, he said, is that this country which would not join a League of Nations which advocated economic sanctions, is "now imposing those very sanctions against half the world in an effort to turn the fortunes of war."

Inflation Control

Price Administrator Henderson, speaking in New York, said that the country is now experiencing the "jagged, irregular price advances" with which inflation starts. Unless inflation is restricted, he said, it will prevent arming and undermine the priorities system because "the getting of materials will depend not on the buyer's need but the seller's greed."

He said a doubling of prices means a reduction in value by 50 percent of every insurance policy, annuity, savings account, pension or other form of savings.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, speaking in Chicago, said the Treasury is anxious to divert stamps and bonds spending produced by pay increases and bonuses. He suggested every Christmas bonus be paid in defense bonds or stamps.

Partially to combat inflation, the President plans to ask Congress to extend the Social Security program to 80,000,000 persons—double the number now covered. Increased payroll taxes under the program would remove additional funds from circulation.

Taxation

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, in his Chicago speech, also said defense expenditures are "inadequate" and the 1941 tax bill was "a good start" but not large enough to raise the necessary revenue, check inflation or take the profit out of war. He said the U. S. is trying to be the arsenal of democracy by devoting only 20 percent of factory and mining output to defense, only 30 percent of durable goods produced, only 16 percent of national income.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue announced it will prosecute dealers attempting to make large profits by misrepresenting the new Federal taxes as larger than they are or by pretending to absorb the taxes themselves when actually passing them on to the consumer.

Farming Out

OPM Contract Distribution Division Director Odlum called on smaller manufacturers to "drum up a subcontract on your own, if possible," and asked large manufacturers to pass on their backlog of work to small concerns facing shutdown for lack of civilian materials or defense orders. Bradley D. Nash, of the Financial Section of OPM's Contract Distribution Division, told the American Bankers Association in Chicago the Division field offices will be prepared to consult and advise prime or subcontracting groups and their financial representatives to inform them of availability of properly equipped subcontractors, location of machinery and other equipment which may be required. Mr. Odlum has said as many as 200 offices might be opened.

Under Secretary of Navy Forrestal instructed all bureaus and offices of the Navy and the Marine Corps in ways to help spread Navy defense work among smaller manufacturers.

Employ't, Labor Train'g & Supply

Labor Secretary Perkins said total non-agricultural employment of 39,542,000 last month was 3,640,000 workers more than in August, 1940, and 1,166,000 more than in August, 1929. Miss Perkins said the "unusual" demand in the canning industry is giving the country its "most extraordinary expansion of employment in history."

The OPM Labor Division reported it has given assistance to almost 1,800 defense contractors employing more than 2,500,000 workers during its first year, and has established 22 District Offices. The WPA said its in-plant defense training program, which trains workers for four weeks in plants which usually later hire them, is operated in 72 cities and 24 States. Federal Security Administrator McNutt announced shortages of qualified workers exist in 126 or 514 occupations selected as essential to defense, and are expected in an additional 38 occupations before November 1.

Ships

The Navy announced 38 keels were laid and 26 ships launched from September 1 to October 3. The Department predicted "even greater acceleration in October." The Maritime Commission chartered two ships to the Irish Free State to be under Irish flag with Irish crews, and chartered three more to carry nitrates to the U. S. from South America.

Civilian Defense

The Department of Justice announced the OCD and FBI have completed plans for "FBI Civilian Courses" in 55 U. S. cities, and territories where FBI field headquarters offices are located. The courses will train police and other officials for various law enforcement duties in emergencies. OCD Director LaGuardia said 85 hospitals have started courses in the program to train 100,000 nurses' aides and 153 Red Cross chapters have also started their courses. He announced a committee of public and parochial school administrators is preparing a manual of instructions to protect lives of elementary and high school children and school buildings in event of emergency, and the Advisory Committee on Civilian Fire Defense is studying auxiliary firefighting apparatus.

Army

Lieut. Gen. McNair, director of the Louisiana maneuvers, blamed officer leadership for "a mess of faults"—including weak discipline—revealed in the war games. He said leadership would be improved by removal of unqualified officers but this does not mean there will be a "purge." War Secretary Stimson denied rumors there is a plan to reduce the Army's man-power to free more equipment for Britain and Russia. He said "our Army has an enormous task that is no longer confined to the defense of the U. S. but has the work of manning a large line of outposts." He noted present Army strength is merely 1.4 percent of U. S. population and about the size of the quickly defeated armies of Holland and Belgium.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

HARVEY'S GRAMMAR

One of my students brought me recently a copy of Harvey's GRAMMAR, the very edition that I studied in the little one-roomed school in the woods near Fidelity. I have been amusing myself lately by turning through it and remembering the days when we studied grammar much as one might today study Chinese and cross-word puzzles. Be it said at first, the book is astonishingly useful today and could be revised to fit our needs in my own college. The thing that makes the book a piece of folklore is its having influenced so many generations in and out of school.

In our day we memorized definitions and rules as if they were charms. There were twenty-two rules in Harvey, all of which we could parrot off so glibly that people might have thought that we knew what they signified. But grammar was not a matter of using language correctly; we could parse and diagram the longest summer's day and memorize paradigms galore, without every stopping to correct a single glaring error in our speech. We said, very rapidly and with the superior feeling that comes from perfect memory: "A noun or pronoun used as the predicate of a proposition is in the nominative case." That was good, but we turned right around and said "This is Jim and me," very much, I fear, as many people still do, whether they were brought up on Harvey or Rigdon or some later grammar. Being able to say the rule was the thing. Basically the rules in Harvey are quite sensible, if they are explained, but whole generations have said this about the preposition: "A preposition is a word that shows relation between its object and the word upon which the latter depends," without an inkling of what "relation" and "latter" mean. If the teacher had suddenly asked us to explain this definition, which she didn't, we would have looked astonished and told her that what we gave was "in the book." In fact, our grammar was in the book but not often in our daily speech. The boy who could diagram the longest, most abstruse sentence in Harvey might still be the worst user of speech in the whole neighborhood in or out of school.

A thing that impressed me in my recent examination of Harvey was the fact that the illustrative sentences had become a part of our very lives. We took the sentences for more than their use of grammar; they became strange comments on things in general. I remember that somebody in one of the sentences had a "medico-theological exterior," something queer that we did not guess the meaning of, and the teacher did not enlighten us. Also some girls were "in tears and white muslin" in another sentence; we knew what both were but had difficulty in seeing how girls could be in both at the same time.

Over at the back of the book was a section now omitted from grammar texts, "Prosody." We liked this about as well as diagramming and parsing, for we could scan poetry and read it in a sing-song fashion. Many of the quotations there became a part of our poetical learning, for we memorized them as we memorized everything else, good and bad. One of these quotations has profoundly affected my thinking from that time till this:

"That very law that moulds a tear
And bids it trickle from its course
That law preserves the earth a sphere
And guides the planets in their course."

Emerson did not say that, but he said the same thing time and again in other words. And thus we little benighted country youngsters, hidden behind the hills and regarded by those who had ever seen us as rather hopeless, had come in our books upon a truth that pushed the hills a little farther away and opened up a big world that is yet growing wider. And all because Mr. Harvey had to find some illustrations for his grammar, now long out of date.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Soaring prices to be held down. More billions for lease-lend program. Neutrality act revision. Overhauling of priorities system. Congress and the Administration have a couple of things to attend to these days. But a good many of the key New Dealers—yes, they're still around—have nevertheless managed to eke out a little spare time for planning. This time they're planning about the industrial system and its rearrangement after the war.

Cartels for control of big industry—like automobiles, steel and the others. "Balanced abundance"—the phrase belongs to Vice President Wallace—is the keynote, and of course nobody is against that. Coated with such titles, many of the planners think industry will continue to take in big doses the regimentation which it has accepted as a necessary evil of a war economy.

Some of the planners envision the extraordinary power of the Supply Priorities and Allocation Board as a part of our permanent economy when the war emergency is history. Take a look at these powers, which are revolutionizing our industrial setup. In fact take two looks—once from the viewpoint of the present "unlimited national emergency," and again from the viewpoint of the post-emergency days to come. Acceptance of defense orders is mandatory. Simplification and standardization of industrial products are being requested. Allocation of raw materials for civilian as well as defense industries is planned, so that the government for practical purposes controls inventories of private industry.

Industry, concerned with viewpoint No. 1, has been in the foreground of those asking for centralized defense planning. But as a return for industry's wholehearted cooperation, and backbreaking effort, the planners are scheming to take full advantage of the regimentation made necessary by the emergency and accepted by industry as part of the whole series of sacrifices defense is asking.

The planned economy boys feel that the critical times have given a rebirth to over-all economic planning that they just can't afford to let go. Not so long ago their schemes were to a large extent discredited by the failure of the staggering spending programs to provide incentive for employment and new enterprise. In a year they have seen more centralization take place than they were able to obtain in eight years of constant effort. And they want to be certain the regimentation is "for keeps."

Some of the planners like to talk of what's happening in Great Britain. But if they're hoping that the British will lead the way to socialization of industry they ought to read what one of London's foremost economic journals has to say. "The Statist," speaking of "The Plague of Planners" says in part:

Once the markets of the world are open again for peaceful trading and men of business can turn their attention to their real task of feeding and clothing the crowded millions of these islands, the shackles which now bind enterprise and the plans which are to bind it in the future will alike be repudiated, because such restrictions will mean the cramping of trade at a time when the nation's recovery will depend upon the utmost trading energy. The days of laissez-faire have gone forever and the world will probably never again see an era of cut-throat competition—but the alternative to laissez-faire is not a rigidly controlled and centrally directed community. The alternative is a community enjoying the maximum of freedom in the conduct of its affairs and enduring only the irreducible minimum of control. Planning is only another name for regimentation, and regimentation means stagnation, and stagnation in its turn means death to a nation which must always depend upon a vigorous and adaptable trading system . . . The only healthy plan which can be devised at this time is a plan to end at the earliest possible moment all those restraints and interferences which the war has created. Fresh plans to increase such interferences and restraints are the last thing needed by a nation facing the most difficult period of reconstruction in its commercial history."

DAVIS REUNION HELD ON SUNDAY

The 22nd reunion of the Davis family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Parker, near Independence on Sunday, Oct. 5, while the weather was rather uncertain for awhile, Uncle Bill had prepared the driveway in the stable and the table was set inside so in case of rain, we could still gather around the festive board.

At the noon hour, as one and all gathered around the long table, Rev. Thurston of Independence returned thanks in a most able manner, calling attention to the many blessings that we enjoy as compared to the warring countries over seas, also that this large family had gone through another year, without one being called to that undiscovered country from which no one ever returns.

We noticed the names of those who registered, which are as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Schadler and daughters Ruth and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schadler, Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Parker, Betty Jo Parker, Theodore Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parker, Ben Schroeder, Bailey Hart, Frank C. Dehof, Mrs. Mary Arnold, Miss Angie Arnold, Mrs. Ida Chalfant, Mrs. Elizabeth Herron, Samuel and Betty Herron of Clearwater, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davis and children Alice and son, Douglas Parker, Charles Groger, Henry Groger, Ashel Parker, Charles Luchte,

Rev. and Mrs. Burton Thurston, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Parker, Burton Brown of Lexington, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Lytle Vanlandingham, Ruth Cummins, Mr. and Mrs. George Vanlandingham and children Ralph, Harold, Arthur, Floyd and Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Corbin, Mrs. Lillie Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Moore, Mrs. Ira Latimer, Bennett Latimer, Miss Cassini, Miss Ginney Waker, Miss Bettie Holmes, Miss Betty Jo Herron, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Armstrong, Mrs. Estella Stivers Mrs. O. K. Britten, Mr. and Mrs. Burnett Van Ness,

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson VanNess, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pryor, Mr. and Mrs. Orban Armstrong, Iva Morris, Mrs. Mae Schroeder, Mrs. Mary Morris, Mr. Fred Brower, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Davis, Eddie Ormes, Bob Swartz, Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Davis and children Eba Kaye and Daryl, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Davis, and last but not least, our host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Parker, and many, many others who failed to register.

The afternoon was spent in music and general get-together, but before departing for their homes, it was voted to put the old Davis home, part of which is still standing, in repair and to meet there, as this was where these reunions were first held.

As we left for our homes it was everyone's wish that all would be present on the first Sunday in October, 1942, and with also the hope that those absent would be able to meet with us on that date.

—H. W. DAVIS.

CAYWOOD NAMED DISTRICT CHAIRMAN

Mr. J. A. Caywood, superintendent of Kenton county schools, Independence, Ky., has accepted an invitation to become district chairman for the George Rogers Clark Memorial Movement in the Northern Kentucky District. The counties under his supervision are Carroll, Gallatin, Boone, Kenton, Campbell, Owen, Grant Pendleton and Bracken.

His duties will be largely supervisory and advisory. However, the district chairmen are helping in the selection of local chairmen in the counties of the district, to the end that the local organizations be completed as quickly as possible. They will also aid in the matter of publicizing the Movement, both by contact with the newspapermen and by helping to schedule speaking engagements with the schools and clubs.

The Clark Memorial Movement seeks to raise $100,000 for the purpose of building a memorial to General George Rogers Clark in Kentucky, a memorial expressing the gratitude of Kentuckians for the heroic services and noble sacrifices which he made that Kentucky might survive.

The plan for raising funds is a very simple one, one which it is hoped every Kentuckian will have a part. The school children by means of small gifts are expected to contribute a large amount of the fund. These, between the middle of September and Novemebr 19th, are asked to contribute five pennies; each teacher is requested to contribute twenty-five; each member of a club, such as the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lion's, Woman's, D. A. R., is asked to donate $1.00. Every school is expected to present some sort of entertainment, such as play, pageant, bazaar, social, carnival, dance or athletic contest, to which the public is invited; the funds derived therefrom are to be a part of the Memorial Movement. It is believed that through the gift of pennies $35.000 may be raised, and through the entertainments $60,000 may be raised. In addition several thousand dollars should come from the members of clubs, and heavier donations will be received from persons, particularly in and about Louisville, who are especially interested. All in all, it is believed that $100.000 will be raised.

Mr. Hambleton Tapp, of Louisville, originator of the plan, in ending an article written on the subject in the Kentucky School Journal stated: "How fitting it would be for the schools of the state to make this noble contribution! What an honor for the schools to succeed where other organizations had failed! What a privilege for an exemplification of high patriotism, keeping intact our traditions of nobility! What a glorious day for the public schools of Kentucky if the school children should erect a magnificent monument to George Rogers Clark, as the children of Virginia did in honor of Lee, and dedicate it as an emblem of Kentucky's undying love for the hero who saved Kentucky from the scalping knife and who conquered an empire for the nation!"

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Conrad left this week for a so-journ through Wisconsin and other parts of the country, contemplating a 10-day trip. Their many friends wish them a happy and successful tour.

Mrs. Clarence Riley visited in Piner last Saturday.

Miss Wanda Bales of Covington spent Sunday at home with her parents.

Wedding bells still continue to ring quite frequently in this vicinity.

Quite a gloom was cast over our community, when the sad news was received here that Melvin Whaley, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Whaley of this place had been instantly killed at Verona, where he had been working at the rock crusher. The accident occurred when Melvin was attempting to take a belt from a pulley, catching his hand in the belt. He was thrown in the crusher, mangling his body consilerably. He was killed instantly.

It was quite a shock, indeed, to his parents to have their oldest son snatched from them so suddenly without warning.

Melvin was a good boy, kind to one and all, and liked by everyone.

We are all very sorry to hear of his sad accident, but God knoweth best, He doeth all things well. We cannot realize this in our sad hours, but someday we will understand. The many friends and neighbors extend their heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved parents and remainder of the family of this young man.

"In the morning watch 'neath the lifted clouds
We shall see but the Lord alone
When He leads us on from the place of the sea,
To a land that we have not known.
And our fears shall pass as our foes have passed,
We shall be no more afraid;
We shall sing His praise in a better place
A place that His hands has made."

NEEDLEWORK GUILD SEEKS NEW MEMBERS

Because of the worth-whileness of their organization, and desiring to interest other communities in their work, and thus spread their charitable activities into areas heretofore not served, the Covington chapter of the Needlework Guild of America, at the annual meeting, held recently, decided to make an appeal for new members.

There are branches of this organization, which was established in 1885, in cities and towns from coast to coast. The annual dues are two new garments or pieces of household linen a year and you are a member in good standing; or two blankets or two pairs of socks.

The purpose of the Guild is to provide new, warm clothes and necessary linen for established charitable institutions. Each vicinity makes its own collections and distributes to its own local institutions. Our beneficiaries are the Protestant Children's Home, St. John's Orphanage, Old Ladies' Home, St. Elizabeth hospital, Booth Memorial and the Associated Charities.

Mrs. Donald Eddy of Park Hills is the president of the branch; Mrs. C. C. Chase and Mrs. John C. Hermann of Ft. Mitchell are vice-presidents; Mrs. Orie Ware, secretary; and Mrs. John B. Read of Covington, treasurer.

The collection is taking place all through October and the distribution will be made the 30th and 31st.

Mrs. Ware in Independence and Mrs. Harry Slater in Erlanger, are among the women working hard to gain new members, and to spread interest in the Guild, which so greatly benefits institutions valuable to all residents of Boone county, as well as those of Kenton.

Those in this community interested in joining the Guild, may contact any of the above named officers. It is hoped that many here will make use of this opportunity of helping others in this magnificent, cooperative manner.

SAVE and SACK the BEANS

WHILE chopping and storing the hay, the new Letz mill with grain separator sacks the beans. Saving high priced beans soon pays for a Letz—the surest money maker for any livestock farm.

Says Letz user, Lee Chatham, Danville, Indiana, "We chopped and blew into the mow 72 acres of soybean hay. We sacked 1,000 bushels of Manchu beans, keeping some for seed, recleaning and selling the rest for $1.25 per bushel. These beans brought us in over $1000.00."

Come in and investigate this wonderful machine. For most farmers feeding beef or dairy cattle, lambs or hogs, the Letz mill saves its cost and more the first season used. Let us demonstrate one for you.

EYE AID

IS YOUR CHILD READY?

Are your child's eyes ready for the strain of school work?

Your child cannot be so happy and proficient in school if his or her eyes are strained.

Good vision is imperative. Proper glasses now may save considerable trouble and expense in later years. Bring your child here for genuine eye comfort.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist. Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Lesson for October 12

CHRIST OUR SAVIOUR

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 20:25-28; Luke 19:1-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16.

"I believe in God, the Father Almighty, . . . and in Jesus Christ His only Son, our Lord . . . I believe in the Holy Ghost." How often we have solemnly repeated these words in the Apostles' Creed, and how appropriate it is that our present three month series of lessons on great Christian teachings should begin last Sunday with a study of God, the Creator and heavenly Father, and continue today with Christ the Saviour, and present next Sunday the Holy Spirit, the Comforter.

These are profound Christian truths, but at the same time they are so simple as to be grasped by the youngest child. Today we have the great privilege of presenting in our classes our Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ. He was

I. The Self-Denying Servant (Matt. 20:25-28).

Scripture clearly teaches that God's standards are not the same as the world's standards, and that His methods of operation are just the opposite of those of the world. All too often Christians and churches imitate the world both in principle and practice, with disastrous results. Consider

1. The False Greatness of the World (v. 25). "Rulers"—"greatness"—"exercise authority"—how altogether up-to-date these words sound. They are the big and swelling words of the small hearts and minds which rule after the manner of this world. They epitomize the ambitions of the great majority of mankind, but they are definitely non-Christian. We see that as we go on to consider

2. The Humility of True Greatness (vv. 26, 27). Service in the spirit of humility and self-sacrifice—this is the standard of Christ. Yes, and it is His command to His followers. To be great for Christ one must become the servant of others. This teaching appears all through Scripture (for example, see Luke 4:11; John 13:13-17; 1 Pet. 5:5, 6).

How often service in the church is rendered in a spirit of pride, self-glory, and for the commendation and reward of men. When that reward is not forthcoming or some real humbling sacrifice is required, the work is not desired or the worker becomes offended. Here is one of the roots of trouble in the church. Let us put it away as we look upon

3. Christ our Example (v. 28). He paid the price of our redemption, going to the death of Calvary for us. From the highest glory which He had with the Father (John 17:5), He graciously stooped to deepest ignominy as He became sin for us (II Cor. 5:21). Throughout both His life and His death He perfectly represented that self-denying, self-humbling service which He expects of His followers.

II. The Seeking Saviour (Luke 19:1-10).

There is much that is precious and beautiful to be said about our Lord, but perhaps nothing which brings Him so close to needy humanity as the fact that He had "come to seek and to save that which was lost" (v. 10). He was

1. Ever Interested in Sinners (vv. 1-7). Jesus was on this occasion coming up to Jerusalem for the last time. The cross was ahead. He was much taken up with His coming death and greatly straitened in spirit (see Mark 10:32 and Luke 12:50). He was passing through the great and wicked city of Jericho, yet in the midst of His deep sorrow and out of the vast multitude of that city He reached out to touch one sinner.

Zacchaeus was a man despised for his calling of tax collector, and hated for his dishonesty. He was an outcast from his own people and a stranger to God's grace, but Jesus was interested in him. Are we ready thus to go to seek and save the lost? Are we better (or busier) than our Lord?

2. Always Able to Save Sinners (vv. 8-10). Zacchaeus was a rich man, but he was a sinner. It is not easy for a rich man to be saved, but it can be done (see Matt. 19: 23-26). Read the preceding verses of that chapter (vv. 16-22) and you learn of another rich man who was not saved, the rich young ruler. He was a far better man than Zacchaeus—honest, upright, honored in his community. How was it that the wicked and despised rich man was saved and the good and respected rich man was lost?

The answer is that the former admitted that he was a sinner and thus made it possible for Christ to save him, while the latter loved himself and his gold more than Christ and shut the door against His redeeming love.

SPARTA

October 1 marked the passing of one of Gallatin county's best citizens, when the mortal spirit of Mrs. Laura Way Dawkins passed to its eternal reword. The deceased was born March 1, 1868 and passed away on October 1, 1941.

She was one of six children of Elijah Way and wife of Carroll county, Ky. On Dec. 4, 1890, she was married to Benj. Dawkins who survives.

Early in life she became a member of the Christian church of English, Ky., afterwards coming to Sparta, where she has remained a devoted member until the time of her death.

Thirty years ago she, with her husband, came to live in Sparta where she has endeared herself to everyone in the community. A woman of unassuming manner she did her noble deeds unobstrusively. An ideal wife and mother, a good neighbor and loyal follower of Christ, she at last gathered the drapery of her couch about her and laid down to pleasant dreams.

She leaves to mourn their loss, a kind and devoted husband, one daughter, Mrs. James Sanders, two granddaughters, Mrs. Ray Roland and Margarette Ruth Sanders of Sparta, and three great-granddaughters, and one sister, Mrs. Butcher of Carroll county.

The funeral was conducted Saturday at the late home by Rev. W. J. Cairke. A choir from the Sparta Christian church sang several songs after which the remains were laid to rest in Warsaw cemetery by C. L. Carlton and Son.

The family has the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

Miss Ann E. Jacobs, who underwent an operation at Good Samaritan hospital last week, is convalescing nicely. Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Jacobs, visited her Sunday.

J. C. Gullion and wife of Newport, and Wm. Weoste, wife and nephew, Kenneth Gullion of Price Hill, spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gullion.

Mr. Robert Oldham, who has been confined to his bed the past week, is somewhat improved. He has attained the advanced age of 89 years.

Miss Jean Riley left Monday to resume work at Good Samaritan hospital in Cincinnati. She was accompanied back by her brother Giles, who had been here on a week end visit.

Miss Bettie Record of Louisville spent the week end here, the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rcords.

Mrs. Emma K. Riley entertained her bridge club Saturday at Sparta Hotel. Covers were laid for 13 and splendid refreshments were served. Prizes of Thrift Stamps were given the winners.

HAMILTON

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ryle called on the latter's mother, Mrs. Ida Moore, one day the past week.

Mrs. May Pitcher's chicken house was damaged by fire last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pitcher and family moved to Big Bone Thursday, renting the house owned by Mrs. Tom Hamilton.

Mrs. Lillie Huff spent Thursday in Union as the guest of her aunts, Miss Maggie Taylor and Mrs. Mary Howlett.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Huff and daughter moved to their new home in Florence, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Moore spent Sunday with her brothers, Ben and John Huff.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Ryle of Newport spent Sunday and Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Green of Cincinnati were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Gabbard Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. Steve Gabbard taught school Monday for Mrs. Sleet, who is ill.

91 YEARS of PROGRESS

A Historical Tour of the Louisville & Nashville R.R.

HALF A CENTURY OLD AND STILL GROWING

On March 10, 1905, the L & N. secured control of the Atlanta, Knoxville and Northern Railway; the first of several steps which were to culminate in a new line between Cincinnati and Atlanta, a distance of 489 miles. On April 3, 1902, it formed the Knoxville, LaFollette and Jellico Railroad for the building of a 75-mile line between Jellico and Knoxville, Tenn., and exactly three years later the first through trains were run between Cincinnati and Atlanta. The line traversed much rugged country and its Ni-Kan-See Loop, which encircles Bald Mountain, is said to be the third longest railroad loop in the world. The subsequent construction of a "new" line from a point near what is now Etowah, Tenn., to Cartersville, Ga., in April, 1906, resulted in the birth of Etowah at the junction of the old and new lines.

To underwrite the costs involved in the creation of this trackage, the L. & N. in the early part of 1902 issued new stock in the amount of $5,000,000. As a result of a coup by certain Wall Street financiers, involving the purchase of this stock, control of the road passed to J. P. Morgan and Company, who eventually owned or controlled 306,000 of the 600,000 shares outstanding. Subsequently, in October 1902, J. P. Morgan and Company sold their holdings to the Atlantic Coast Line, giving that railroad ownership of 51 per cent of the L & N. capital stock, a condition that endures to this day.

A re-organization of the general immigration and industrial department, resulting in a more intensive effort to attract settlers to Southern Alabama, and the opening of sections of Alabama's Warrior Coal Field, highlighted 1903.

The policy of the Louisville & Nashville has never been to let traffic develop of its own accord. Rather, it has created traffic by building new lines into undeveloped sections and by a policy of generous encouragement to the settlers, farmers and industries located along its line. It thus has been chiefly responsible for the development and growth of many of the sections and communities the L. & N. serves.

Kenton Co. Farm News

FARM PROBLEMS STUDIED AT MEETING

Oak Island Farmers discussed program plans and activities for 1942, at their October meeting, held at the farmers club house at Oak Island Wednesday, October 1st.

Dairy Feeding study group was planned for this fall, C. H. Beck being the local committeeman.

The Poultry school will be held in January, W. Linville is local committeeman. In February the Livestock improvement and sheep projects will be held. Sherman Barberick is local committeeman. And in July is the Annual Formers' Picnic.

Other activities discussed at the meeting were, hybrid corn, and methods of improving the farm water supply, through construction of ponds, and better care of springs; and chemical treatment of tobacco beds this fall; demonstration of Balbo rye as cover crop, Fred Neihoff, local committeeman.

The next meeting will be held the frist Wednesday in November.

FARMERS BUSY CONSTRUCTING PONDS

Kenton county farmers are busy digging ponds by the use of buldozer outfits. Mr. Wolsing from the John G. Exterkamp company, 802 W. Eighth St., Covington, is busy operating one of the tractor outfits. Many farms are on the waiting list. By digging ponds during the dry period farmers will be ready to store water when it rains.

Farmers who plan to dig ponds should get a copy of Kentucky Extension Circular No.-317, "Earth Dams for Farm Reservoirs." It is available at your county agent's office.

The Portland Cement Co. has an illustrated folder on concrete watering trough and storage tanks.

POULTRY SUGGESTIONS FOR OCTOBER

1. Clean and repair the laying house. Get it ready for winter.

2. Put 2-inch mesh poultry netting under the roost poles, to keep hens out of droppings.

3. At least three mash hoppers four feet long and so constructed that the hens can eat from both sides should be provided for 100 hens. Allow one foot of feeder for each four hens. Two small feeders for use on the roost poles should be provided in addition to the three regular feeders.

4. Place two smaller feeders on the roost poles during the day. This gives the "whipped off" pullets a chance to get what feed they need.

5. Warm the drinking water on cold days or provide a water heater.

6. Sell all surplus males and old hens not wanted for home use.

7. Put feed into the hoppers frequently and do not overfill. Stir the dry mash in the hoppers two or three times daily.

8. Cull your pullets closely and market all slow-maturing birds.

9. Keep 4 to 6 inches of litter on the laying house floor.

10. Clean the dropping board twice each week.

11. Keep grain, mash and ground limestone or oyster shell before the flock at all times, in separate hoppers.

12. If you intend to sell hatching eggs, have your flock culled and bloodtested in the fall.

If you are interested in getting more income from your poultry flock this fall and winter, get a copy of the Kentucky Extension Poultry Calendar from your local county agent. It has excellent information on poultry management.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY AND DEFENSE

Now that we have had a good shower of rain you can sow a little Siberian kale, lettuce, radishes, Seven Top turnip for greens, winter onion sets. Be sure to seed winter cover crops on your garden. Phosphate and ground limestone will help to make a good sod to turn under in the spring.

NAVY COURTMEN PRACTICE BASKETBALL ON SHIPBOARD

Perfect physical fitness is required of sailors in the U. S. Navy and Naval Reserve. Excellent athletic facilities are provided both afloat and ashore.

Pictured above are bluejackets on the aircraft tender U.S.S. Wright holding basketball practice on shipboard. Almost every ship in the U. S. Navy has its own basketball team. Rivalry among the crews of the various crafts runs high. In addition to basketball—football, baseball, boxing, bowling, wrestling and tennis all rank high as sports with Uncle Sam's sailors. Organized intra-fleet competitions are held for most sports. Trophies and individual awards usually are presented to the championship winning teams and players.

MORGANSVILLE

"Seek ye the Lord while He may be found" Let each of us seek to attain the greatest of all awards which comes when the long day is ended, and can hear the Saviour say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou the joys of the Lord."

"Remembrance is the fairest flower in the garden of life."

Mrs. Vincent L. Stephenson was a pleasant caller Saturday afternoon.

"There are stars that go out in the darkness,
But whose silvery light shineth on
There are roses whose perfume still lingers,
When the blossoms are faded and gone."

As silently as the night glides into day, the beautiful, gentle spirit of Mrs. Jennie Stephens of Park Hills and Atwood, recently winged its flight to realms beyond. She was a woman of lofty ideals, and unobstrusively and unastentatiously always manifested deep interest in the higher things of life. Her pleasing personality endeared her to a wide circle by whom her passing is sincerely mourned. For she had been a valued member of Hickory Grove Baptist church.

Besides her devoted daughters, Mrs. Clifford Northcutt and Mrs. John Kleet, she is survived by two grandsons and other relatives to whom deepest sympathy is extended.

Following the last rites interment took place in the Independence cemetery, where she sweetly slumbers in the beauty of the hills.

"No one hears the door that opens,
As they pass beyond our call.
Soft like loosened leaves of roses,
One by one our loved ones fall."

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than one less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

"Poor Father" thinks he knows how to juggle the truth, but George, the colored servant, outdistances him and causes a peck of trouble, which involves absent-minded Dummel, who is convinced that he is a bigamist, a breezy actress, a noisy but timed cop, and all other members of Father's household. The haunted coffin almost proves George's finish.

COUNTY NUTRITION COMMITTEE MEETS

The county nutrition committee met at Burlington, October 1, for their second meeting. Rev. H. W. Hauter, first vice-chairman, conducted the session at which definite plans were made to further the nutrition program in our county.

A nutrition meeting, in the interest of school lunches, was held at New Haven September 23. Miss Florence Imlay of the University of Kentucky, was speaker of the evening. School lunch menus was the topic of the evening, and Miss Imlay presented some very instructive and interesting material on the subject.

At the September meeting the following committees were appointed:

To adopt a score card for the county school lunch rooms: Chairman, Mr. Edwin Walton, Burlington; Mrs. Lula Huey, Walton; Mr. J. F. Moore, Grant; Mr. Chester Goodridge, Hebron; Mrs. Houston, Florence; Mr. Steve Gabbard, Hamilton; Mr. R. V. Lents, and Mrs. Fugate, Canstance.

The committee urges everyone to attend the nutrition meetings in their own community. These are not only very helpful in planning meals and bettering the health of members of the family, but are very interesting, too.

Draft Board Doing Great Bit Of Work

The Boone county Selective Service Board No. 9 is doing a fine if sometimes thankless job. They give to their county much time and effort in trying to choose, without bias or prejudice, trainees for the Army.

Local Board No. 9 composed of George W. Baker, chairman, R. C. Eastman, and Albert Stevens, with Courtney Kelley as clerk, and Charles Riley as appeal agent, meets every Tuesday evening, and as often as necessary between meetings, to impartially classify the county's 1192 registrants. Considerable time and study is necessary to choose those most able and free.

Dr. S. B. Nunnelly, with Courtney Kelley as clerical assistant, devotes much time to the physical examination of the registrants.

The registrants' advisory board is composed of Judge N. E. Riddell, Walter D. Vest and Judge Sidney Gaines, who give free legal advice to registrants, concerning their rights under the Civil Service laws, and also assist in filling out questionnaires whenever necessary.

All the men on the above committee are serving without compensation or favor. They are giving their time, ability and efforts as part of the defense program.

All the appointments were made by the government of the state. The men were selected for their integrity, patriotism, and outstanding leadership in the community. For almost a year these men have given their services gratuitously, and few people realize the many personal sacrifices they have made and are making to serve their country.

Brig. Gen. Lewis H. Hershey, national director of selective service, in praising the draft board says, "I do not recall any other occasion in American history when so large a group of individuals over so long a period of time gave such unselfish, patriotic service as has been rendered by members of the local boards, medical examiners and government appeal agents.

I shall be so bold as to say that to a large extent the accomplishments of the selective service system have been brought about by the fact that the type of service given by these men is immeasurably higher than we should be able to purchase if we were buying the labor at the cost usually paid for services of this nature."

FLORENCE HOMEMAKERS TO GIVE PARTY OCT. 21

The Florence Homemakers club for its citizenship project is trying to raise enough money to purchase a hospital bed for the use of the community, and to this end is giving a party at Zimmer's Club House on Tuesday night, Oct. 21 at 8 p. m. Each member is asked to donate a gift worth 50 cents to be used as a prize. Light refreshments will be on sale. All are invited to come and help in this worthy movement.

The next regular meeting of the Florence Homemakers will be on a new date, Friday, Oct. 17 at 10:30 a. m. The new officers will be installed and the first lesson on the major project, "Meal Planning" will be given by the leaders, Mrs. Frances Berkshire and Mrs. George Kobman. Instead of each one bringing something for the lunch, it will be served by four members and a small charge will be made to cover cost of the materials. As usual, bring your cup, fork and spoon.—Mabel G. Sayre, Reporter.

Neutrality Law Modifica't'n Asked

Stating "we will not let Hitler prescribe the waters of the world on which our ships may travel . . . ," the President asked Congress to repeal Section 6 of the Neutrality Act which prohibits arming of American merchant ships and to examine other phases of the law. The President said this action "is a matter of immediate necessity and extreme urgency."

The President said conditions have so changed since enactment of the law, it is no longer truly a neutrality measure. He said "it is time for this country to stop playing into Hitler's hands and to unshackle our own." He said the U. S. should not "be forced to masquerade American-owned ships behind the flags of our sister Republics."

"Most of the vital goods authorized by the Congress are being delivered," Mr. Roosevelt said. "Yet many of them are being sunk; and as we approach full production requiring the use of more ships now being built it will be increasingly necessary to deliver American goods under the American flag."

Aid to Britain and Russia

The American Red Cross instructed the British Red Cross to forward immediately to Russia 800 tons of medical supplies. The American Red Cross will send replacement supplies to England.

Prices

Retail food prices continued to rise between mid-August and mid-September, increasing 2.6 percent to reach the highest level Department reported. Consumer since January, 1931, the Labor Commissioner Elliott reported food prices have risen 29 percent since the war began as compared to 18.4 percent in the comparable World War period and farm products have risen 43.1 percent as contrasted to 12.6 percent during the last war.

Price Administrator Henderson, speaking in support of the pending price regulating legislation, said "even more frightening than the present level of price advances is the fact that these advances have been gathering momentum since the early months of the year." He said the cost of living last August was 7½ percent higher than two years ago. Since March alone, he said, the cost of living is up 3 percent.

Priorities

The Supply Priorities and Allocation Board ruled that no new public or private construction can be started unless it is essential for defense or the health and safety of the people or does not involve use of strategic materials. The ruling applies to Federal, State and local government buildings, roads and highways, river and harbor improvements, residential building and all commercial building. Efforts will be made, however, to aid completion of construction already substantially finished.

The SPAB also voted to permit building of 228 commercial aircraft—with the reservation that Army can take them if they are needed.

Physical Rehabilita'n for Selectees

The President announced plans to "salvage" 200,000 of the 1,000,000 selective service registrants who have been rejected for health reasons. He also announced he would initiate a long-range program of Federal, State and local cooperation to remedy conditions which have resulted in 50 percent of men of army age being physically unfit for military service. The Federal Government would pay for medical and dental treatment of those men certified by local boards as subject to health improvement.

Selective Service announced that starting January 1 all registrants will be given only one physical examination — by the Army. At present registrants are examined by local board doctors and then by Army physicians and cannot tell until the final exam if they will be accepted.

Air

OPM announced 1,914 military aircraft were delivered during September—a new monthly record. The War Department announced it will allow Army aviation cadets 30 hours credit for flight training prior to enlistment —thereby cutting in half the flying time necessary in the Army to win wings. Mimic air raids began along the East coast from Boston to Savannah to test ability of civilian spotters and their communication system.

Nursing

The Red Cross announced a program to instruct 500,000 American housewives in home nursing in the next year. Courses will take six weeks of class work and practical experience. Miss Olvia Peterson, director of public health nursing for Minnesota, will conduct the program.

Employment

The President's Committee on Fair Employment Practice asked any one denied a defense job because of creed, color, race, or national origin to write the Committee at Washington so an investigation can be made and remedial steps taken. The OPM Labor Division issued new reporting forms to speed up surveys by the P. S. Employment Service local offices of situations where civilian factories are closed by material shortages and priorities. The OPM advised the War Department that 34 companies making most of the nation's washing machines can produce defense articles and asked they be given preferential treatment to avoid lay-off in workers.

Labor

The President, in a message to the AFL convention in Seattle, said the time has come when Federal mediation machinery "must be used . . . before any recourse is taken to a strike or lockout." He said organizational rivalries and jurisdictional conflicts must be discarded for the duration. Labor Secretary Perkins told the meeting "it is of extreme importance that trade-unions develop in the near future a pattern of self-imposed discipline." She said the closed shop, closed memberships and high dues should be "restudied with a view to the public welfare" and to provide for those who "are not joiners by nature."

Labor Safety

Navy Secretary Knox told the 30th National Safety Congress in Chicago a killed or injured worker is as much loss to defense as a wounded soldier because "we have no time to train replacement workers." He said time lost through injuries last year would have built 45 battleships, 75,000 fighter planes or 15,000 heavy bombers.

Production

OPM Director Knudsen, speaking in New York, said despite tremendous increases in British and American production the Nazis will continue to hold their lead in certain important war items "for a long time unless we step up our present pace." OPM Chief Statistician May said in a New York radio speech that the U. S. is devoting only 15 percent of its resources to defense while Canada and Great Britain are devoting 50 percent—close to the absolute maximum. Mr. May said to put U. S. production on a plane with Britain's means drastic diversion of materials, man-power and facilities from civilian to military uses. He said, for example, auto production would have to be cut from 50,000 to 1,000 cars a week.

Foreign Trade

President Roosevelt told the 28th National Foreign Trade Convention in New York that equality of treatment and mutual benefit to all nations could be the only basis for post-war commercial relations if peace is to be enduring. Under Secretary of State Welles told the convention that trade agreements similar to those made before the war by the U. S. would be one of the post-war economic tools. Under Secretary of Commerce Chatfield-Taylor told the group "we must not repeat the mistake of Versailles, of stressing territorial and political adjustments and asking little provision for the basis of sound trade and economic reconstruction." He said England and the U. S. must set the trade pattern because only they have the productive facilities, natural resources and capital necessary for world economic order.

Helping South America

Speaking in Boston, Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs Rockefeller said the U. S. "has practically taken up the slack left in the trade of the 20 Republics due to their loss of the continental European markets," by increasing import purchases from $450,000,000 to nearly a billion dollars a year. He said the $700,000,000 made available to South America for loans is being used by Latin countries to build up industries and agriculture "worth fighting for." He said actually only $37,000,000 is currently not repaid and that not all funds available were borrowed.

Included among the fifty-odd trade and vocational training courses open to recruits in the U. S. Navy or Naval Reserve who pass the required examination is dental technician schooling. This course, like all Navy trade and vocational courses, is free and provides an excellent groundwork for a future career in later civilian life. All recruits receive their regular Navy pay during the period they are at a Navy trade school. This training is valued at hundreds of dollars.

CABBAGE SNAKES

Along about 1900 there came a typical folk scare to Fidelity neighborhood which I have since learned swept over most of America. We were told that a small and very poisonous snake, probably no larger than a broom-straw, was to be found in cabbage heads. Our neighbors took the scare in varying moods; some let their cabbage rot in the garden rather than eat it; others paid no attention to the scare and kept right on eating and living; others gave away their year's supply of cabbage for making sauerkraut, with a knowing look that somewhat negated their kindness, as if they might have to say later "I told you so."

Now the funny thing about the whole mania was that no one ever searched for the venomous reptile, or, if he did, he failed to find one and exhibit it at the post-office-drug store in Fidelity. Not even the ones of us who scoffed at the whole idea of the critter made any investigation to convince the badly-scared populace; we just ate our cabbage as before and hoped for the best. Visitors from outside sections told us of the horrible little green snakes but failed to bring any samples.

The mania continued on through a late summer and into the winter. When the merchants at Fidelity brought on some sacks of cabbage in the depth of the winter, as they always had, some of us bought our usual amount and ate with no ill effects. One half-witted negro in our neighborhood said he bought some of the cabbage and told his wife to eat some of the first cooking and he would eat some of the next, so the children would have somebody to take care of them if anything happened. His unconscious humor helped clear the whole situation, and some of our best people, scared half to death, returned to their cabbage along with the tough ones who had never been afraid. Of all the numerous manias that I have witnessed this seems one of the oddest. I have never been able to account for it, for it could not have been a propaganda scheme on anybody's part, and it apparently did not originate in Fidelity. It represents a strange folk group-thinking that sometimes sweeps people off their feet much as any other phase of mob psychology had done and can do again.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Preparations are quietly advancing in Washington for a broad economic attack on the Axis powers. The Economic Defense Board —which was created in June—will shortly begin to open its economic "blitz."

The weapons for this attack were forged when the President set up this Board of the Vice President and seven Cabinet members to insure full use of the enormous economic power of this Government in the effort to help Great Britain in her job of defeating the Axis. Top officials of the Board will tell you they see it as having two main objectives: first, to conserve for the United States and its friends large stocks of vital materials; second, to prevent their flow to unfriendly nations.

This Economic Defense Board has a collection of not-to-be-sneered-at weapons in its arsenal —weapons of considerable striking power against the Axis nations, already showing signs of shortages of important materials, and of financial strain.

Financial pressure is one of these weapons. Washington hopes to cripple the Axis wherever possible through financial manipulations, such as the step already taken of freezing bank accounts of unfriendly powers, coupled with increased financial assistance to friendly or neutral nations, and other means of using money to obtain cooperation, materials or good will at the expense of the Axis.

Through the export licensing control, major economic weapon No. 2, the government can control shipments of materials abroad, prohibiting sales to neutral countries when government information is such as to indicate the materials may ultimately end up in one of the Axis nations.

Control of imports is another weapon in the economic warfare category. From Latin America and other foreign countries, the Government can insure our industries of supplies of native materials and make certain these startegic materials are not sold to the Axis powers first. For example, an agreement recently negotiated with Mexico and Brazil arranges for these countries to sell all their exportable surplus of certain war materials to this country exclusively.

The Economic Defense Board, in addition, is working out a system of priorities for the Latin American republics. This would not only keep trade flowing between the two Americas but would aid in strengthening the defenses of the South American countries as well.

And control of shipping allows this government to make effective defense use of what is rapidly becoming the greatest merchant fleet in world history. Allocations of ships and new bottoms as they become available will play a not unimportant part in obtaining defense cooperation from foreign nations.

—o—

From all over the country, support is being received by Senator O'Daniel of Texas for his proposed "right to work" amendment to the Constitution. Now that Congress is getting back to work this week, the chances are that this amendment will get more than cursory attention from the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The amendment reads quite simply: "No person shall be denied employment because of membership or affiliation with or resignation from a labor union, or because of refusal to join or affiliate with a labor union; nor shall any corporation or individual or association of any kind enter into any contract, written or oral, to exclude from employment members of a labor union or persons who refuse to join a labor union, or because of resignations from a labor union; nor shall any person against his will be compelled to pay dues to any labor organization as a prerequisite to or condition of employment."

Senator O'Daniel sees this amendment—it would be the first constitutional amendment since repeal of Prohibition if passed and ratified by the States—as particularly necessary in these critical times, but as important in normal times as well. "It is absolutely foolish," he says, "to talk about maintaining democracy in America if we do not maintain in America the right to work."

Democracy ends, as the Senator sees it, when citizens of a country are deprived of the right to work unless they pay tribute to some organization or agency. This is dictatorship of organized minorities, who are under the control of none except their unrestrained leaders.

Money Talks

By
Frederick Stamm, Economist
Director of Adult Education
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

Government officials are greatly disturbed about inflation, but they are doing very little to stop it. Leon Henderson, Federal Price Administrator, has put a price ceiling on many commodities, but this has been ineffectual in most instances. Congressional committees are still hearing arguments for and against the price-fixing bill. In the meantime, prices are merrily going up each day, and the public is footing the bill.

Looking over some figures, I find that domestic farm prices have gone up 65% over those of August, 1939; industrial materials are up 48%; finished goods, 20 per cent; and the cost of living, 10%—and now on the move.

Why have we failed to stop this inflationary movement when we know its results are disastrous? Very frankly, I think we can lay the blame to politics and selfishness. Congressmen from the farming states say that it's fine to control all prices but agricultural. If they are from the industrial regions, they advocate regulating farm prices, but not industrial prices. If they are from the mining states, they cry out against controlling the price of coal, copper, etc. So we have one powerful political bloc fighting another while the public sits by without uttering a protest.

Then also we have selfishness within various groups. The farmers want high farm prices but low industrial prices; workers want high wages without higher prices; and industrialists want high prices for their good but low raw material prices. It should be clear to all that to avoid drastic inflation we must accept a price and wage control bill that will be all-inclusive. Otherwise after this inflation, there will come the dreaded deflationary period with its low prices and low wages.

Price increases are just beginning to reach the retail counters. Their full force will soon be felt, and then the public may be expected to demand a price control bill. I hope it will not be too late.

SOCIAL SECURITY BRIEFS

Workers have only three months remaining in which to check the Social Security Board's records of 1937 earnings in employment covered by old-age and survivors insurance. This statement was made by Frank B. Decker, jr., manager of the Covington field office of the Social Security Board. He explained that Social Security Board wage records may be considered closed after four years have elapsed, hence request to check the 1937 reports must be received before the end of 1941. The request card which is used to obtain this report may be obtained from the Covington field office in the Post Office building.

Workers who want to be sure all their earnings have been credited to their social security accounts may now check the records of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance to make sure full credit has been given for all wages paid on jobs covered by the Social Security Act. Postcards which are used to obtain these wage statements may be obtained through the Covington field office of the Social Security Board. Frank B. Decker, jr., manager of the office, said 1937 wage records may be considered closed at the end of 1941 and that any one desiring a statement of his earnings for 1937 should make the request at once. There is no charge for the service except one cent postage on the request card.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Navy Questions And Answers ---

Must I pass any intelligence tests before I am accepted by the U .S. Navy? Yes. Among other requirements of the Navy you must take a written examination of one hundred questions and you will be permitted one hour to complete the examination. These questions are of general nature and should be readily answerable by any intelligent young man.

What does the expression "To Shoot Charlie Noble" mean in the United States Navy? It means to clean the galley smokepipe of soot and dirt by firing a pistol therein.

What does "Java" mean in the United States Navy? Java is one of the Navy's names for coffee—and the U. S. Navy uses more coffee than any other military or naval organization in the world.

How did "Aye, Aye" originate in the United States Navy? It is the old English for "Yes," taken from an expression used by sailors of the English Navy.

Can a recruit in the U. S. Navy or the Naval Reserve keep a camera on shipboard or at the Naval Training Station to which he is assigned? No. Cameras are contraband and so are jack-knives although new recruits will receive regulation Navy jack-knives shortly after their training periods begin. New recruits are requested not to bring watches, pins or rings as they are not permitted to wear jewelry during their training periods.

How many U. S. Navy Recruiting Stations are there in the county? There are 35 Main Stations distributed through 5 Recruiting Divisions, and 259 Recruiting Substations. If an applicant passes his preliminary examination at one of the Substations he is given credentials and told to report to one of the Main Stations in the large city nearest the Substation where he will be given a thorough medical examination. If an applicant is rejected at the Main Station he will be given his transportation back to the substation from which he started.

If a seaman in the U. S. Navy is eligible to take the entrance examination for the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, is he given any special preparatory training? Yes. There is a Naval Academy Preparatory School at Norfolk, Virginia, that trains eligible enlisted men for entrance examinations to Annapolis.

What would a composite picture of the average recruit in the U. S. Navy be like? The average recruit in the U. S. Navy would be an American citizen and the son of citizens. He would be nineteen and a half years of age, 5 feet 8.2 inches tall and would weigh approximately 145 pounds. The average education of all enlisted men in the Navy is three completed years of high school although a high school education is not required. The majority of enlisted men select naval aviation mechanics training as their first choice.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

A table loaded with food is not a sign of hospitality, but an indication that the housewife wishes to show her ability as a cook or outdo her neighbor. Simplicity should be the keynote in planning meals for all special occasions.

A large wastage of potash and nitrogen occurs when tobacco stalks are exposed to rain before spreading. A ton of tobacco stalks is worth $10 to $12 for the nitrogen and potash they contain, valued at commercial fertilizer prices.

The color of the egg yolk is influenced by the feed. Hens which do not receive an abundance of green feed or yellow corn lay eggs with pale yolks. Alfalfa, clover or lespedeza hay have the same effect on yolk color as green feed.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist. Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 19

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE HOLY SPIRIT OUR HELPER

LESSON TEXT—John 3:5-8; Acts 1:8; Romans 8:26-28; Galatians 5:22-26.

GOLDEN TEXT—As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God.—Romans 8:14.

Nothing could be more practical or blessed for and in the life and service of the believer than an understanding of the person and work of the Holy Spirit; yet it is a subject concerning which most Christians are woefully ignorant.

Before taking up the work of the Spirit as it appears in our lesson, we should understand that the Holy Spirit is a person, not an influence which may exert itself upon a service, or a power which a man may obtain and use. He—the Spirit—is one of the Trinity, with the attributes of a person, doing the work of a person and always referred to as a person in Scripture. (When "it" is used of the Holy Spirit in the A.V. it will be found to be corrected to "him" in the R.V.)

What then does this divine person do? The work of creation was His as one of the Godhead. He regenerates, He teaches, He comforts, He leads, He calls and qualifies Christian workers, He is the divine author of the Bible. These and many other things He does, this One who indwells the believer as the ever-present Guide and Counselor. The Christian is

I. Born of the Spirit (John 3:5-8).

The new birth is indispensable to entrance into the kingdom of God. We either enter that way or we do not enter at all. Let's be clear about that. "Ye must be born again," is not the edict of a church or the plea of a preacher; it is the plain statement of our Lord Himself (v. 5).

The Holy Spirit is indispensable to regeneration. We must be born of the Spirit. How it takes place we can no more explain than the coming or going of the wind, but just as the power of the wind is known to us by clear evidence, so the regenerating power of the Spirit, mysterious though it be in operation, is known to us by the evidences of redeeming grace in a man's life.

II. Empowered by the Spirit (Acts 1:8).

Spiritual birth calls for service for Christ. For that we must have the power of the Holy Spirit. A man may do many ordinary things in the strength of his own body and mind (although even these ought always to be under the Spirit's control), but when he comes to witnessing for Christ, teaching or preaching God's Word, he must have Holy Spirit power or he is utterly ineffective.

III. Directed by the Spirit (Rom. 8:26-28).

The guidance of the Holy Spirit, especially in the matter of prayer, is stressed in these verses, but they are a part of a longer passage dealing with the indwelling, enabling, and guiding power of the Holy Spirit (read vv. 9-14). Every detail of life in the home, at business, or in social relations should be in conscious submission to His leading.

It is in the realm of the spiritual, however, that we find ourselves peculiarly infirm (v. 26), and this shows itself especially in prayer—"we know not how to pray as we ought." Then the Spirit in the Christian makes intercession. How blessed! "The practical meaning of these profound words seems to be that the divine Spirit, by His immediate influence in the saint's soul, which becomes as it were the organ of his own address to the Father, secures the rightness of the essence of the saint's prayer. To our understandings such intercessions with groanings which cannot be uttered, take the form of desires of ours, inspired and secured by Him. In any special case of prayer, the saint may or may not use words; but anywise the root-desires that underlie the prayer, being the Holy Spirit's promptings, are unutterable to the full. In the heart the Father sees below the surface of our ignorance the sacred longings which are the expression of the Spirit's influence" (H. C. G. Moule).

IV. Walking in the Spirit (Gal. 5: 22-26).

Being born again of the Spirit, living daily by the Spirit, it is right that (as v. 25 puts it) "if we live by the Spirit, let us also walk by the Spirit." The works of the flesh, horrible in their wickedness and lust, are listed in the verses preceding (vv. 19-21), and then by striking contrast we have the fruit of the Spirit in the life of the Christian. Note the distinction: Work is something we produce; fruit is something that grows.

Walking in the Spirit the Christian finds in his life the inward graces of love, joy, and peace. These then express themselves outwardly in longsuffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, meekness, and self-control. The Spirit-filled man is not only a good man; he lives a good life.

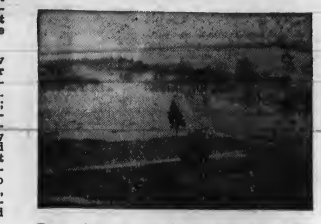
Kentucky's Columbus-Belmont Battlefield State Park Created When Civil War Fortifications Rediscovered

"—telling Kentuckians about Kentucky"

Prepared by The Hickman County Gazette.

(This is one of a series of articles sponsored by the Kentucky Press Association which in 1941 would tell Kentuckians of Kentucky as Kentucky should tell the world in 1942 — Sesqui-Centennial Year.)



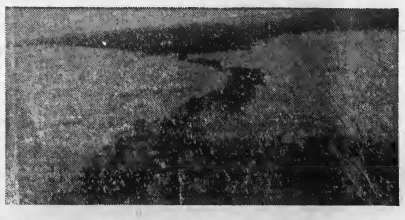
The Red Cross representative for West Kentucky was sent to Columbus in April, 1927, to handle the flood problem. Since the town was virtually wiped out and its municipal levee cut away by the boiling muddy waters, it was necessary to move the little pioneer city, the first county seat in the Jackson Purchase, up on the nearby bluff.

Upon examination of the terrain for the new town site the great trenches of the Civil War fortifications, constructed by the Bishop General Leonidas Polk, C. S. A., were rediscovered. The physical evidences of the immense works; the war equipment lying all about; the wonderful views from the 200 foot high eminences covering the majestic Mississippi, with its galaxy of accompanying oxbow lakes, marshes and woodlands, caused this group to make the effort to create a park on the site. It was clearly evident that such an undertaking could be made to dovetail into the proposed city removal plan, since the lot owner in the old town would surrender it for the selected lot in the new Red Cross city.

A park association was organized and incorporated and the collection of funds begun. It was found that over 2,500 city lots were involved in the area required. This arose from the fact that a tract of 33,000 acres was here platted by Kentucky-Virginia realtors in 1821 as a site for the capitol of the nation and the name of the settlement was at the time changed from 'Iron Banks' to 'Columbus.' The idea resulted from the Louisiana Purchase of 1803 which reached to the Pacific, thus being too large for the pre-rapid transit era and, too, had not Admiral Cockburn of the British Navy burned our Capitol in 1814 and was it not necessary that it be placed where British sea lanes ran not, thus making it more safe from America's early antagonist, the United Kingdom?

After several years of effort some 360 acres were obtained and a CCC camp was established on the area July 17, 1934. For three years these 200 men worked steadily under competent leaders to create the present splendid center, which now has a constant stream of visitors during the park season.

Parks should always reflect values in scenic, historic or recreational interests. The Columbus-Belmont Battlefield State Park bears elements of all three of these interests. No visitor comes but is immediately struck by the historic aspect touching our national life. Then, one stands in amazement on the great loess soil bluff at the sublime and far reaching views up and down America's greatest river.



Former town site of old city of Columbus, Ky., laid out in 1821 as a possible Nation's Capitol. The town was moved to the high Mississippi bluffs by the American Red Cross in 1927.

As for recreational facility the job was well done. Long, winding trails call the visitor onward. Trail-side shelters at needed points let him rest and meditate. The picnic area has a splendid large shelter house; a well arranged concessions building and rest rooms as well as a plentiful supply of seats, tables, ovens. Space and facilities for all-night camping, games and for vacationist groups are at hand in the former CCC camp site.

On the whole, Columbus Belmont Battlefield State Park serves well the some half-million people living within a radius of 150 miles from it as well as the thousands that come from afar to rest, learn and enjoy. Its solid worth and its location insure its continuous growth and its constantly increasing contribution to not only the beloved Commonwealth, but the entire Nation as well.

Kentucky's Columbus-Belmont Battlefield State Park is easily available by the great Mississippi itself; the Mobile and Ohio railroad and five modern all-weather highways that radiate from it.

Travelers in the Jackson Purchase of Kentucky, by all means, should see the park. Travel U.S. highway 51, north or south, or highway 58 to Clinton, the county seat of Hickman county, then 9 miles to Columbus on highway 88. At Clinton, ample tourist accommodations will be found, in a modern hotel and well-kept tourist homes. Camping facilities at Columbus are provided and tourist homes available.—by F. Marion Rust.

From the Columbus-Belmont Park, the Mississippi River is seen bursting over its banks into the low sub-marginal lands (between Columbus and Wickliffe.)

Heartiest congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Hoffman, Whites Tower, on the recent observance of their 58th wedding anniversary. Pruett and son Herbert Hoffman, granddaughter Mrs. Shirley Moffett, grandson Herbert Hoffman, Jr., and dear little great-grandchildren, Tommy and Joyce Moffett.

Get Set for Life
WITH NAVY TRAINING
(Ask about the Naval Reserve)

NAVY WEATHER MAN. Interested in this unique, fast-growing field? Navy training is second to none.

EXPERT METALSMITHS teach bluejackets how to operate beading machine. Soon they'll be experts, too.

OPTICAL INSTRUMENTS call for skilled repair work. You can train in the Navy for this big-pay field.

ARC WELDERS AT WORK. Some of the best electric arc welders in the country are Navy-trained. This is but one of the 45 trades you can learn. When you learn in the Navy, in later life you're always in demand.

EXPERTS IN RADIO do interesting work. In civil life the pay is high. Let the Navy teach you radio work.

DO YOU KNOW that in every trade, profession and business there are successful men—men who earn five, ten and even twenty thousand dollars a year—who will tell you that they owe their success largely to the training they received in the United States Navy?

There are three good reasons for this. First, Navy service develops the essential qualities of leadership, efficiency and accuracy which are the backbone of success in or out of the Navy.

Second, you can't beat Navy instruction. The American Navy is the finest in the world, and that means every individual—whether he is radioman, electrician, machinist or cook—must be tops in his line. Third, the Navy makes men. Healthful sports, good food, expert medical and dental care will build you up physically to the rugged health that is typical of Navy men.

EARN NAVY PAY WHILE YOU LEARN

Instruction in many fields today runs into hundreds and sometimes even thousands of dollars. The Navy not only offers you this instruction free, but will give you regular Navy pay while you are learning! And remember this:

When the Navy says you are a Diesel expert, you are a first-class Diesel expert. When you get a Navy rating as a radioman, you are as good a radioman as they come—and probably a bit better. That's why Navy men are in such big demand by civilian employers. There wouldn't be room in this paper to list the thousands of men that Navy training helped to get set for life. Remember, you have even better opportunities today!

LOOK WHAT THE U. S. NAVY AND NAVAL RESERVE OFFER YOU

FREE TRAINING worth $1500. 45 trades and vocations to choose from.

GOOD PAY with regular increases. You may earn up to $126 a month.

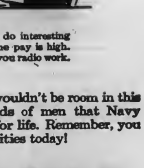
EACH YEAR you are entitled to a generous vacation period, with full pay.

GOOD FOOD and plenty of it.

FREE CLOTHING. A complete outfit of clothing when you first enlist. (Over $100 worth.)

FREE MEDICAL CARE, regular dental attention.

FINEST SPORTS and entertainment.



TRAVEL, ADVENTURE, THRILLS—You can't beat the Navy for them!

BECOME AN OFFICER. Many can work for an appointment to the Naval Academy or the Annapolis of the Air at Pensacola.

FUTURE SUCCESS. It's easy for Navy-trained men to get good-paying jobs in civil life.

LIBERAL RETIREMENT-PAY for regular Navy men.

Thirty Farmers Construct Ponds

Thirty farmers have had ponds and lakes constructed by J. G. Robertson and Sons during the past two and one-half months, according to H. R. Forkner. Approximately this many more have been constructed during the past six months by Wheatcroft Construction Co., Exterkamp Construction Co. and others.

Farmers who are planning to have farm reservoirs constructed in the near future should do so while power equipment is available. The price of machinery, repair equipment, fuel and labor have advanced to the point where several of the contractors are forced to raise their prices.

Improved farm water supply is being recognized by leading farmers as a great need in livestock production. Water supplies that fail in dry weather have caused thousands of dollars loss to farmers the past summer and for several summers past. Large farm reservoirs can be constructed cheaper today than ever before and if properly taken care of should last for years. Farmers planning to construct farm reservoirs should secure Extension Circular No. 317 at the County Agts. office and study before starting work.

AGR. DEFENSE BOARD ATTENDS MEETING

The County Agricultural National Defense Board, composed of representatives of each of the agricultural government agencies attended the first district meeting held in Cynthiana the past week, according to H. R. Forkner.

County goals for increased production of milk, eggs, spring pig farrowings and increased marketing of beef cattle are being set up. The increased production is considered necessary by the Federal Government to meet the National Emergency needs.

The county board is composed of J. F. Cleek, Chairman of the AAA; C. L. Hempfling of the Production Credit Corporation; Rev. Will Smith of the REA; Ray Wilson of the Farm Security Administration; Ward Darnell of the CCC, and H. R. Forkner of the Extension Service.

KENTUCKY TO OBSERVE NAVY DAY OCTOBER 27

Gov. Keen Johnson has asked all Kentuckians to observe Oct. 27 as Navy Day. Secretary of the Navy, Frank Knox, has requested the observance be given special emphasis this year in view of the world wide situation.

In the midst of great effort to become the unquestionable Navy Power, Naval activities will pause to makethis one of the biggest Navy Days ever. The Navy League, since 1922 sponsor of Navy Day, has chosen the slogan "The Nation Salutes the Navy."

October 27 was selected as Navy Day for two reasons. First it was on that day in 1775 the first Navy bill was introduced in the Halls of the Continental Congress, authorizing the first U. S. Navy.—12 brigs, sloops and essentials for the organization of a United States Fleet. Secondly, this is the date of the anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, who fought for a strong Navy adequate to our National need.

R. G. Kinman, Well Known Auct., Dies

Rome G. Kinman, 40, of Florence, died suddenly at Booth hospital, Covington, early Saturday. He had been suffering from high blood pressure for the past several months, but had attended to his business most of the time. On Friday he had a coughing attack and it was stated that this caused a blood vessel in his stomach to burst, which caused his death.

Mr. Kinman had been auctioneer at the Kenton Loofe Leaf Tobacco Warehouse, Covington, for several years, and had also sold tobacco on the South Carolina markets. In addition, he was also auctioneer for many public sales of large and small estates. He was widely known for his friendliness and pleasant smile, and was one who had a host of friends.

He was born in Williamstown, but for the past fifteen years had resided in Florence. His devoted wife, Mrs. Marie Brown Kinman, did everything in her power to relieve his suffering.

Besides his wife, he leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kinman, and three brothers, all of Covington, and a niece, Jo Ann Kinman, who lived with he and his wife.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon from the Florence Baptist church, of which he was a member. Burial was in Richwood cemetery.

The active pallbearers were William Steinfort, R. M. Lucas, Rel C. Wayman, Olin Keeney, T. W. Jones and C. W. Ransler.

Honorary pallbearers were all real estate men, women, and all others connected in any wty with the realtors.

Rev. R. F. DeMoisey, officiating minister, was assisted by Rev. Roy Johnson of the Burlington Baptist church, and Rev. D. E. Bedinger of the Walton Methodist church.

The male chorus of the Florence church, of which Mr. Kinman was a member, sang "Shall We Gather at the River." and Al Fields sang a solo "We Say Good Evening Here and Good Morning Over There." The boys of the Florence High school, with their superintendent, Mr. Caton, carried the numerous floral tributes.

Mr. Kinman will be greatly missed in this community.

The church was not large enough to accommodate the large crowd of friends and relatives.

MADDOX FLOCK PRODUCES 209,284 EGGS PER YEAR

Grant Maddox's poultry flock of Florence, deserves credit for producing the largest number of eggs in the county the past year, according to H. R. Forkner. His flock averaged 1,114 laying hens that produced 209,284 eggs.

The flock averaged 187.8 eggs per hen for the year and an average of 15.65 eggs per month or slightly over 50 percent production for the entire year. Boone county this next year will be asked to increase poultry production 16 percent as its part in National defense. Despite his already large flock, Mr. Grant is planning to increase his laying flock by approximately 50 percent.

National Defense And Meal Planning

Are you doing your bit for National Defense? Have you found your job in the tremendous undertaking to defend democracy? There is a job for everyone. Many will find that their part lies in doing the "everyday" task in a better way. So it has been with the farmers, homemakers and 4-H club members in Boone County. Every little bit helps.

From the office of the Home Demonstration Agent comes reports that hundreds of jars of canned goods have been filled to supplement the winter food supply in Boone homes. Figures are not available at this time, but Homemakers have reported the purchase of additional jars, and tin cans, for the canning of products which they have not stored before. New vegetables, new in the sense that the vegetables had not been included in previous garden plans, were grown by many. Fall gardens and improved storage facilities seem to be popular practices among rural homemakers.

"Planning meals for Nutrition and Health" is the new major project for Homemakers. Their goal is to include in each day's menu those foods necessary for health, and to popularize those foods which "must be" included by using them in cleverly and attractively prepared dishes. They have declared this project most desirable in view of the fact that of the 50% of the Boone County selectees examined for army service and rejected, many had defects traceable to dietary deficiencies. Each Homemaker will carry on some result demonstration in her own home to prove the value of food in health.

4-H club members have carried garden, foods and canning projects to better their own health and the health of their families. They were enrolled in the projects as follows: 42 in gardens, 76 in foods, and 25 in canning. These projects offer opportunities for increased production in farm food supply and interest in a wide variety of healthful foods.

Everyone knows the meaning of the well known expression, "Make America strong by making Americans stronger."

UTOPIANS TO MEET THURSDAY, OCT. 23rd

Boone County Utopia Club members will meet at Burlington, Thursday evening, Oct. 23rd at 8 p. m., Eastern time, according to Jo Crigler, publicity chairman. Officers for the coming year will be elected at this time.

The meeting program includes discussions "Vitamin and Minerals in the Winter Diet," Mary S. Moore; "Project Reports," Wilton Stephens.

Burlington group will be in charge of the recreational program.

All club members and others who are interested are urged to attend.

Lack of green grass, green corn green alfalfa or other green crops may cause poor eyesight in livestock. An exclusive ration of grains, cottonseed meal, corn stover and straw deprives animals of vitamin A, which is found principally in green feeds.

Land Use Planning Com. Studies Report

Members of the County Land Use Planning Committee in a meeting at Burlington last Wednesday reviewed the preliminary report of the County Land Use Planning work started last Spring. The report is the summary of the findings of committeemen in the nine community centers identified the past spring, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

The committeemen in a series of two community meetings identified four general soil areas in the county, namely: Area 1, level Ohio river and creek bottom land representing 9.4% of the total land of the county.

Area 2, the Verona, Walton, New Haven and Florence area, representing 32.1% of the total land. This land is gently rolling with short hill sides.

Area 3, the North Central portion representing 18.3% of the land. This area is characterized by level to gently rolling topography with large areas of almost flat ridge and short hill sides.

Area 4, these areas occupying the Northern and Western sides of the county represent about 40.18% of the county. They have long, steep slopes with narrow V-shape dridges and are hilly and rough.

The prepared report gives a general detail description of each area, its sub-divisions, its soil problems and recommendations for general management and improvement. The map showing these areas and a detail mimeographed report of the committees can be secured at the County Agent's office on request.

Land Use Planning work is based on the theory that many of our present major agricultural and social problems are directly related to the land itself. Each type and kind of soil has a different present day economic problem as to its method of management and to the uses that it should be made. The people living in these areas know better than anyone else what these problems are and better understand what is needed for their solution. The committee work to identify the problems and to submit recommended solutions only.

Committee members attending the Burlington meeting were Ira Tanner, Howard Kelly, Jesse Wilson, Kenneth Stephens, Mrs. Prudence Dougle, Andy Cook, Lee McNeely, Wm. Hill, Lloyd Siekman, Norman Herbstreit, J. F. Cleek, H. E. White, Franklin Frazier, Bruce Poundstone, H. R. Forkner and Ward Darnell.

Detail copies of the report are available at the County Agent's office. Copies of the enlarged maps showing neighborhood boundaries and soil areas are also on display at the County office.

The Kentucky Conference of Social Welfare will hold its 29th annual meeting October 29 thru November 1 in Louisville. All meetings will be held at the Kentucky Hotel. This year's program is unusually interesting.

This conference takes on added significance since these meetings deal largely with the problems arising out of our present defense program.

Programs or further information about this Conference may be secured from Gardiner Cook, Executive Secretary of the Conference, at the University of Louisville.

Soil Conservation District Hearing Date To Be Set

The State Soil Conservation District Committee will meet at Lexington, Oct. 31 to set a hearing date for discussion on organizing a Soil Conservation District in Boone county, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. This notice was received by C. Liston Hempfling, chairman of the County Organization committee and the County Agent's office.

The State Committee will set the date for the county hearing. All farmers and other interested are invited to attend the hearing and present their ideas for or against the district formation. If the State Committee finds at the hearing there is sufficient local interest, a referendum will be offered. Only land owners vote in the referendum. If the majority of those voting are favorable, a district will be formed. One hundred and forty-seven Boone county farmers recently petitioned the State Committee for a hearing.

WALTON COLORED HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Colored Homemakers met Monday, October 13 at the home of Mrs. James Riddell on Nicholson Pike. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Estill Sleet. Each member answered the roll call by telling how to plan her work to have more leisure time.

The lesson "Meal Planning" was given by Mrs. Moore. It was very interesting and helpful, because every cook has trouble planning a well balanced meal.

Mrs. Thomas Lewis was elected Exterior Beautification chairman; Mrs. Clint Riley was elected Clothing chairman.

An appetising luncheon, which was furnished by our leaders, Mrs. R. P. Hughes and Mrs. W. W. Rouse, was enjoyed by Mrs. J. B. Poterfield, Mrs. Earl Poterfield, Mrs. Elmer Ross, Mrs. Estill Sleet, Mrs. Walter Sleet, Mrs. Joe Howlett, Miss Lola Sleet, Mrs. Geo. Crutcherfield, Mrs. Robert Sleet, Miss Mary Sleet, Mrs. W. W. With the second annual P.-T. A. play in rehearsal at New Haven school, many dates are being made and obstacles being eliminated so that this comedy will not be missed. Mrs. Patsy Huey Slayback has the title female role and J. O. Griffith and Joe Ryan have the male leads. The story takes one back eighteen years in the past wherein many obsolete costumes will be worn. Others in the cast are Mrs. Frances Taggert, Miss Jean Tanner, Mrs. Bess Cox, Mrs. Irvin Rouse, Mrs. Shirley Ferguson, Mrs. Deith Hedges, Mrs. Marie Gschwind, Elmer Noe, J. Russell Cross and Ivan Clements.

This Week In Defense

The Navy announced the destroyed Kearney was torpedoed while on patrol duty near Iceland. The boat was able to proceed under its own power. The President told his press conference the vessel was clearly within American defensive waters.

Arming of Ships

The House passed a bill modifying the Neutrality Act to permit arming of merchant ships. Navy Secretary Nnox told his press conference the Navy is ready to put guns aboard American merchant ships as soon as Congress authorizes the action. He said there are sufficient guns for all merchantmen although not all can be used against both airplanes and submarines. He said arming merchant ships will slow down submarines and impair their markmanship because they will have to stay below the surface and use their limited supply of torpedoes instead of attacking with shellfire.

Lend-Lease Aid

Navy Secretary Knox announced two overage submarines are being transferred to Britain under the lend-lease program. The President announced lend-lease transfers during September reached a record $155,000,000 in equipment and services—about three times the monthly average of the past six months. The President said aid is going to Britain, China, South America, and the refugee Polish and Norwegian governments. Russia, he said, is paying in gold and strategic materials for supplies sent to that country.

The President reported only 5 percent of the original $7,000,000,000 for lend-lease remains unused. The House voted $5,711,000,000 for further lend-lease activities.

Production

Price Administrator Henderson speaking in Detroit, said although the U. S. is producing 35 percent more than ever before—45 percent more than in 1929—only 12 to 14 percent of national income is going into defense. He said America is giving only one hour of eight for defense work. Although OPM schedules show this will be increased to two out of 8 hours by next June, he said, Hitler is using five of every eight hours for German war efforts.

OPM Research Chief Stacy May, speaking in New York, reported spending for defense in September rose to approximately $1,347,000,000—$203,000,000 higher than August. He said Hitler could be beaten if the U. S. shifted 50 percent of its productive capacity to armaments and suggested a $50,000,000,000 a year defense program.

The War Department announced medium tank production almost doubled in September as compared with August, and light tank production showed a "good gain." Congress passed legislation authorizing a $1,500,000,000 increase in RFC borrowing and lending power to be used partially to expand steel producing facilities by 10,000,000 tons at a cost of $1,000,000,000. OPM ordered auto production for January, '42, cut "at least" 51 percent below last January levels.

The Navy instructed its officers to impress on companies behind schedule on ordance contracts the necessity of speeding deliveries even if it means working three shifts, seven days a week until caught up. The Department asked manufacturers who can increase production by resiving their contracts to start new negotiations at once.

Subcontracting

The OPM Contract Distribution Division announced large defense orders will be withheld from firms refusing to farm out a sizeable part of the work. The announcement said small business must be mobilized quickly because more than 60 percent of all industrial workers are employed by firms having less than 500 workers each.

The War Department reported a 105 mm. howitzer was successfully built from parts made by a refrigerator firm, an oil-well supplies manufacturer and a railroad car builder none of whose employees had prior cannon producing experience. The Navy reported as an example of its subcontracting policy that 75 small shops in New York are working on parts for naval gun mounts.

Priority Unemployment

The Federal Security Agency asked all employes who anticipate layoffs due to shortages to report their problems at once to the nearest State Employment office—the first step in obtaining Government action to give plan's defense orders. The Agency said State Employment officers have already surveyed 200 plants threatened with shortages and made reports which may result in placing of defense orders to prevent unemployment.

Agriculture

The Agriculture Department reported the farm labor supply at 64 percent or normal and 25 percent below last year, and said farmers have been able to keep their hired men from taking industrial jobs only by sharply increasing wage rates. The Agriculture Department announced national prospects for all crops improved about two percent during September, indicating one of the largest total farm yields on record. The Department said farmers do not need priority orders to purchase farm machinery except special classes, because ratings are assigned to manufacturers and warehousemen who supply farmers.

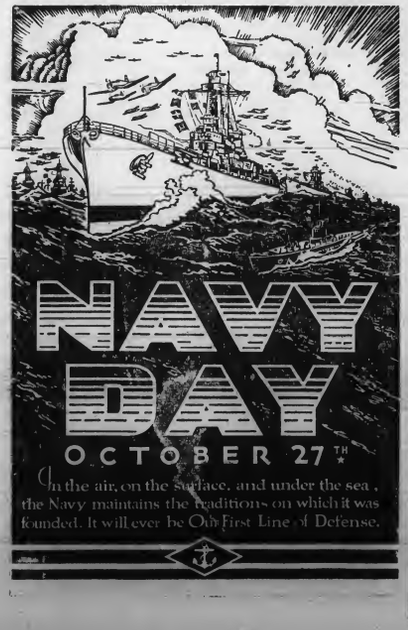
Prices

The Bureau of Labor Statistics index of 900 wholesale prices remained unchanged during the week ended October 11 although in the past year average wholesale prices have risen 17.3 percent and are the highest since early 1930. Price Administrator Henderson notified tire manufacturers he "would not object" to advances in consumer list prices on tire and tubes to not more than nine percent above June 16 levels. He also announced an investigation of crude oil prices because of suggested price increases.

Priorities

Priorities Director Nelson extended priority assistance to virtually all industrial plants needing maintenance and repair parts. The order was in line with SPAB policy of keeping all industrial machines in good running order. Mr. Nelson suspended until Mar. 31, 1942, the aluminum operations of the Central Patten and Foundry Co., Chicago, because it allegedly diverted aluminum to non-defense uses such as the manufacture of slot machines. Mr. Nelson also imposed rigid controls on certain chemicals, including some used for dry cleaning.

Ships and Oil



The Maritime Commission awarded contracts for construction of 49 tankers which it said will be part of the largest and most modern tanker fleet in the world. Including those building or ordered by the Commission and private interests, 208 new tankers of 2,196,300 gross tons will be finished by the end of 1943, bringing the total available to 568. The Commission reported launching this week of two more of these tankers and also adopted a program calling for construction of 15 reinforced concrete barges suitable for carrying oil.

Pan American Relations

Secretary of State Hull issued a statement "that the U. S. has had no connection, direct or indirect, with the recent Government changes" in Panama. The U. S. and Argentina signed their first trade treaty since 1853. The Army seized 18 planes bound for Peru from Canada because of "the increasing critical situation (and) needs of national defense."

Army

War Secretary Stimson announced the Army has adopted a new semi-automatic carbine to replace the present .45 calibre pistol. The new weapon will allow 33 percent additional firepower. Mr. Stimson also announced 2,000 junior officers of the National Guard will be transferred to the Air Force for ground duty to free flying officers for air duty. The army announced formation of four new Coast Artillery Barrage Balloon Battalions, each with 1,257 men.

Science and Superstition

The line of demarkation between science and superstition is not as obvious as most educated people might believe. In reality, many people otherwise sensible break down where science and superstition cross. It is easy to see why this is true, for the two are hopelessly mixed in the mind of the primitive people.

Weather signs are a compound of folk knowledge and folk ignorance. To look for rain when you can hear a far-away train better than usual, is not foolish. Before wet and dry thermometers were known except to the highly educated, the "coming in order" of tobacco was a sign of moist seasons, not a bad deduction for an illiterate person to make. The rhymes about evening and morning red and gray are not mere nonsense: they are founded on facts of meteorology. Dozens of other signs are basically sound.

Weather signs that have no scientific basis are learned at the same time as are these that have some sense. We used to hasten rains by killing a snake and hanging it up with its belly exposed to the sky. Whether we checked on this secret rite and recorded the rain or the absence of it I do not recall. We probably did not; if it rained within several days, our act had caused it, anyway. Always I have heard that the thickness of the breastbone of a wild goose indicates the hardness or mildness of the coming winter. Again I fail to remember any tests on this. Probably the most commonly believed superstition is that furbearing animals always have a heavy coat before exceptionally hard winters. Personally I would hate to try to convince a hunter or trapper or fur-buyer that this is senseless. I am sure that I would be laughed at as an educated upstart who refuses to accept well-known facts. The thickness of corn shucks has long been a sure test of the following winter: thick for hard winter, thin for mild winter. Just why corn shucks would know anything about it is still a mystery. Mark Twain had the last work on this, as on many other subjects: "If the husk is thicker than usual, the winter will be colder than the summer; if it is thinner than usual, summer will be warmer than winter; if it is perfectly normal in thickness, summer will be warm and winter cold."

The old theory of the hibernation of birds in winter belongs in this discussion of science and superstition. Apparently there had never been a skeptic in the world who doubted the hibernation of birds until some century and a half ago. That swallows and similar birds spent the winter in the mud at the bottom of ponds was regarded as proved "beyond the shadow of a doubt," as we used to say in clinching a point at the country-school debating society. Scientists of local and national repute taught their innocent students this so-called fact. Then came a canny Scotsman, Alexander Wilson by name, who ridiculed this foolish, time-hallowed idea and challanged the scientific world. Old-timers were horrified at the radicalism of such a young chap, who could not boast a college education and who had no prominent social or political connections. Rather oddly, if a person of any repute today were to advocate this old exploded hibernation theory, this would be sufficient warrant to lock him up until his mind cleared again. Thus what appeared to be unchallengeable fact has been relegated to the sphere of superstition.

Money Talks

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

This past week I received two interesting letters criticising my stand on the price control bill. (See last week's article.) A union member was against any control of wages, and a farmer did not favor any price ceiling placed on farm products. The union member was in favor of regulating rents, and the farmer was in favor of regulating prices of industrial products.

We have no price or wage control now what has happened and is happening is that we are in the spiral of inflation: Prices of raw materials, farm products, and finished goods go up; then wages go up; this causes production costs to rise again; prices go up again. Labor, to assure itself of the same purchasing power, demands still higher wages which further increases costs and causes higher prices. In the meantime, taxes have risen and rents have gone up, both adding in increased costs. This upward spiral of higher and higher prices keeps on until it falls of its own weight. Then depression!

In criticising the price control bill C. I. O. President Phillip Murray said it meant "government control of all industry and labor" and "the beginning of enslaved labor." Likewise several farm organizations opposed the regulation of farm prices.

In our complicated economic system we must recognize that wages, rents, taxes, and prices are all intricately interwoven in the entire price picture. It seems to me that labor would support a control of prices and wages, for it would stabilize industry and enable one to adjust his standard of living with a degree of certainty. It would help the farmer, for he would know how much he would receive for his products and what he would have to pay for the things he bought. A price control bill should bring stability to our present chaotic price structure.

Again, I recommend the passage of an all-inclusive price and wage control bill.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

It's open season in Washington again. Unlike the deer season, the duck season, or the trout season, this particular open season has no definite beginning and ending dates. It's one of these recurring things—a sort of game labelled "to be taken out and used when needed."

The game consists of a collection of hard line drives against the mythical opposition named "big business." Since attacking a mirage is pretty tough work, the Congressmen, when they have been playing the game lately, have called the opposition something more specific—"government Dollar-a-year" men.

Like the rest of us, Congressmen like to relax when they've got a lot of seemingly stupendous jobs facing them. Who wouldn't rather go fishing than stay in the plant or at the desk all day? Well, some of the Senators felt pretty tired of worrying about impending inflation and the price-fixing mess, the apparent inability of the Administration to formulate a labor policy, the fear that sources of taxation are being rapidly dried up with future billions still to be raised, and other gloomy and complex problems. So they declared the season open and immediately changed into their campaign - against- big-business clothes.

Senator Murray of Montana, who is Chairman of a Senate Small Business Committee, let go with a formal statement charging that "big business dollar-a-year men, drawing huge salaries from private corporations, have moved into control of the Defense Commission, and made it a sort of badge of honor for big business." He then asked for a million dollars for his committee.

Not to be outdone, Senator Wallgren of Washington announced that he had requested the special Senate Defense Committee headed by Senator Truman, to investigate the activities and connections of the more than 125 "dollar-a-year men" in Washington. A couple of other Senators joined in at once with similar proposals.

Just about this time the production engineers, management experts, and other business men who had resigned their jobs in the corporations they had worked to build up to do their patriotic best in this time of "terrible urgency" began to get a little dizzy. But they went on, deciding the dizziness was just the result of plain "overwork."

There are plenty of Congressmen, however, who's stuck doggedly to work, shamelessly neglecting the open season on big business. And reporters covering committee hearings have come away with the distinct impression that a new uneasiness is arising in minds of some economic-minded Senators and Representatives about the financial structure of our government. They're asking a lot of questions, for example, about where new revenue can be raised without undermining the productive system of the country, what the effects are likely to be about the piling up of Government bonds in commercial banks, and other such ponderous topics.

Truth of the matter is that the voter back home is beginning to get worried, and his worry is being translated into letters to his Congressman, and into ambitious local taxpayers programs to reduce local and state spending, and local and state taxes. Authoritative observers on Capitol Hill are giving considerable attention to the clamor coming from the distant communities for prudent government spending whether done by City Hall, the State Capitol, or the Congress.

With a national debt this year exceeding $51.000.000,000, and a deficit above $12,000,000,000, with the necessity, after passing the biggest tax bill in history, of borrowing seven or eight billions more this fiscal year, earnest Congressmen are beginning to think some serious thought should be given, and some action taken in the direction of putting a halt to the mushrooming of non-defense activities of the government, and to saving some national pennies.

Extended drouth interfered with the terracing program in Calloway county.

A table loaded with food may not be an indication of hospitality but rather an effort to show ability in cooking, or to outdo a neighbor woman. Such meals may indicate that guests are hard to please, or else eat excessively.

VACATIONISTS INTERESTED IN KY. DURING AUTUMN

That vacationists and others who travel the highways of the Nation are interested in Kentucky during autumn is evidenced by an increase thus far in October of 40 percent in number of inquiries received at the Frankfort office of the Division of Publicity over September. Leading all the states in inquiries was New York, with Illinois second and Ohio, third. Inquiries came from every state in the Union during October except Wyoming, Vermont, North Dakota, Nebraska and Nevada.

High wind blew off about 60 percent of the apples and 75 percent of the pears in Kenton county.

Navy Questions And Answers ---

What sports are provided aboard ships in the United States Navy? Practically every American sport, including football, baseball, basketball, crew racing and sailboating, as well as boxing and wrestling. The latter two are the most popular forms of recreation in the U. S. Navy.

What is the size of a destroyer in the United States Navy? The modern 1,8000-ton destroyer is from three hundred and fifty to three hundred and eighty feet long, thirty-six feet wide, and has a draft of fifteen feet.

Is there any other method for a sailor in Uncle Sam's Navy to earn money in addition to his regular salary? Yes, he receives permanent pay increases with each medal of honor he receives. If detailed as a mail clerk, he is given a raise. Drivers, messmen, sound operators and sonic repairmen also get pay increases.

What is the speed of a U. S. Navy destroyer? Many destroyers can travel as fast as thirty-five knots. (A knot is a speed of one nautical mile per hour, or about one and one-sixth land miles per hour.)

What is the "bull horn" on a United States Navy ship? It is the huge amplifier through which orders are issued to the crew.

How are ships named in the U. S. Navy? Battleships are named after various of the 48 states and submarines are named after fish and aquatic animals. Destroyers are named after naval heroes or men who have rendered service to the Navy. Light and heavy cruisers are named after cities in the United States.

What is the Fifteen Per Cent rule on United States Navy battleships? Profits from the various Ship Service Departments—the tailor shop, soda fountain, barber shop, laundry and shoemaker's—are not allowed to amount to more than 15 per cent. As the business on some ships sometimes averages in the neighborhood of $25,000 a month, it is often necessary to cut profits by having free days at the soda fountain! Needless to say, free days are the most popular on a battleship.

What happens to the 15 per cent profit allowed the Service Department of U. S. Navy ships? The profits are spent on athletic equipment, parties, dances and other social functions. Some of the ships even buy their own radios, phonographs, records and other equipment for use by the crew.

Do men who work in the various Service Departments aboard Uncle Sam's battleships get paid extra for their efforts? Yes, they manage to add to their incomes if they're trained for tailoring or cobbling or if they work as fountain clerks or attendants.

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ—

Q. Just what is inflation and how can it be minimized?

A. Inflation is a decrease in the buying power of the dollar caused by a rising cost of living. This, in turn, is brought about by a heavy public demand, resulting from a rapid increase in the national income, for things which cannot be produced in large enough quantities. Every citizen can help minimize inflation by buying Defense Bonds and Stamps.

Q. How can I get cash for my Defense Savings Stamps if I should need to redeem them?

A. Go to any post office.

NOTE—To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States Washington, D. C. Also Stamps now are on sale at most retail stores.

About 5,000 pounds of vetch will be seeded in Lewis county, where this crop was unknown before 1939.

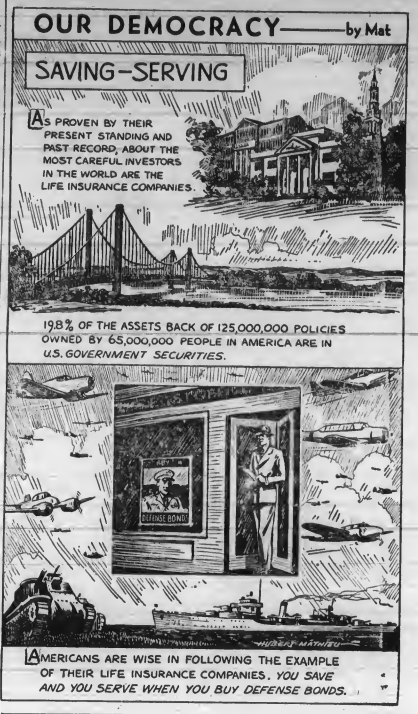
ENROLLEES GRADUATE FROM CCC COOKS' AND BAKERS' SCHOOL

Eleven Ohio, 10 West Virginia, and 1 Kentucky enrolee have successfully completed the course of instruction prescribed by Headquarters Fifth Corps Area, CCC for cooks and bakers. These graduates were enrolled in the Cooks' and Bakers' School to attend the six weeks course ending Oct. 6th.

Other Ohio, W. Va. and Ky. CCC enrollees are now enrolled and attending classes in this school which began Oct. 13 for the prescribed period of 6 weeks. Both the Army and industry profit by CCC training. Although the CCC itself gets first returns from the training offered to enrollees in the Ohio-West Virginia District, the Army and the nation will be the chief beneficiaries. The Cooks' and Bakers' School is graduating a number of excellent workmen, some of whom will no doubt find their way eventually into Army kitchens. Some of them will also find thei rway into civilian restaurants as chefs.



They will all serve the CCC until they acquire a bit of work experience together with the individual and student practice they have absorbed at the school.

The Cooks' and Bakers' School of Ohio-West Virginia District is conducted at Company 3528, London, Ohio and assures enjoyable and nourishing meals in the companies of the District by the continuous graduation of enrollees who can return to their companies and function as qualified Cooks and Bakers.

This is only one of the many advantages offered to CCC enrollees of this District. There are other Educational Programs such as: the Radio School no win progress at Company 2599, Charleston, W. Va., wherein successful students will be afforded the opportunity to maintain amateur radio stations now being installed in all CCC camps in this District and the Auto Mechanic Schools now being conducted at the CCC Central Repair Shops, Elkins, W. Va. and Circleville, Ohio wherein they can secure the course prescribed for apprentice mechanics. Every eight weeks a group of approximately 24 enrollees are to be graduated from the District Clerks School conducted at Camp SCS-42, Marion, Ohio.

Young men desiring further information relative to enrollment and additional programs now being conducted in the CCC of this District may secure this information from Company Commander CCC Company 3541, Walton, Ky.

--"telling Kentuckians of Kentucky"

(This is one of a series of articles sponsored by the Kentucky Press Association which in 1941 would tell Kentuckians of Kentucky as Kentucky should tell the world in 1942—Sesqui-Centennial Year.)

(By Marion Rust)

In 1750, when Virginia was a Royal Province of the British Crown, the Loyal Land Company of Virginia sent Dr. Thomas Walker with five associates, Ambrose Powell, William Tomlinson, Colby Chew, Henry Lawless and John Hughes, across the Appalachian Mountains into the wilderness of Kentucky to locate lands suitable for settlement.

They left "Castle Hill," Walker's home near Charlottsville, March 6. After struggling through the rugged mountains covered with primeval forests and dense undergrowth down through the southwestern end of the state and through eastern Tennessee, then a part of North Carolina, they observed the dip in the mountain range now known as Cumberland Gap just east of the present site of Middlesboro. Pressing on through this gap they came on down northeastward through the great gorge at Pineville where they discovered and named the Cumberland River after the Duke of Cumberland. Due to heavy rains they could not cross at the ages old Cumberland Ford and accordingly traveled on down the south side of the river.

Ascending Brush Creek and Little Brush and on over the Divide they descended Swan Pond Creek to the river again. Finding it too deep to ford they made a bark canoe and crossed on April 23. After wading through the low marsh land and up onto a knoll they, in the next seven days, built a house 8 feet wide and 12 feet long; planted some corn and peach stones as well as killed many bears, curing the meat to use for food in further travel.

On April 30th, they left for continued exploration down through central and eastern Kentucky. Returning over the rough mountainous area of West Virginia, they reached their point of starting on July 13th. During the journey of 4 months and 7 days they had killed 13 buffaloes; 8 elks; 53 bears; 20 dear; 4 wild geese and about 150 wild turkeys. Dr. Walker states in his daily Journal that they could have killed three times as many had they so wished. That Kentucky's First House was built on this site is verified by folklore, proximity of the spring and Dr. Walker's Journal, a copy of which is available at the office of the Park custodian.

The Kentucky First House replica is a faithful reproduction of the type of pioneer log hut of the period. Its roof poles hold the oak clapboards in place. The door is made of rough slabs pegged together and hinged in the early pioneer fashion without iron. Other items added are the one-post bed, tripple decked; the hinged wall table; three-legged stools; and outside one is amazed at the skinning pole and salting trough. The visitor gains respect for his ancestor. He learns from the displays that he was strong, sensible, sturdy and unafraid. Here one becomes thankful for the very great heritage of his forebears in these days of stress. No one visiting this historic park will regret it. Come and bring others. The children will find swings, teeter boards, and a slide for their entertainment. Adults will enjoy the nearby mountains and the beautiful valley and will take stock of their blessings.

KOL-GAS

New Type Heater

COKES THE COAL — BURNS THE GASES

ONE FUELING HEATS ALL DAY — HOLDS FIRE OVERNIGHT — MAKE ONE FIRE FOR THE WINTER

KOL-GAS

Magazine Feed Heaters

Fill fuel magazine with 100 lbs. of coal. It feeds down automatically by gravity. Fire continues until fuel is consumed—saves work. Heat controlled by air intakes both below and above the fire—burns all gases—saves fuel. "Heat Booster" lengthens fire travel—increases radiating surface—saves heat that would ordinarily be wasted up chimney—gives you more heat.

NOW YOU CAN BE EXTRAVAGANT WITH HEAT, YET THRIFTY WITH FUEL

The KOL-GAS Magazine Feed Heater is today's answer of science to the heating problem, offering unheardof convenience and economy. People can scarcely believe their eyes when they see its simplicity and the tremendous volume of heat is delivers.

CONTINUES UNIFORM HEAT

Cozy warmth day and night—free from care and colds. How different from the ordinary heater and circulator—hot and cold—firing and regulating all day long.

CLEAN HEAT — NO CLINKERS

Fire is started on the grate and when it is burning briskly, the magazine is filled from the top with coal—100 lbs. for the medium-size heater—180 lbs. for the alrger size. Heater so designed that entire bed of coal is coked, after which the fire burns with intense heat, and practically without smoke or sook. Efficiently burns the coal gases, leaving no clinkers and only a small quantity of fine ash.

MORE AIR MEANS MORE HEAT

Perfect combustion requires 15 lbs. of air to one lb. of coal. The air supplied below the fire in the KOL-GAS circulates up through the flues. As the volatile gases are given off at the top of the fire, more air is injected here, consuming the gases entirely and producing the maximum volume of heat from the fuel, an important, exclusive KOL-GAS feature. Nut or egg coal, hard or soft, preferred; also burns wood or coke.

SHOULD LIQUOR CARRY A WARNING LABEL?

(NOTE: The following article was taken from The Editor'sComments in the November issue of Life & Health, the National Health Journal.—Ed.)

At the last session of the American Medical Association a new approach was made to the problem of alcoholism in a paper prepared by Doctors Leo Alexander, Merrill Moore, and Abraham Myerson. Their thesis was that inasmuch as alcoholic beverages contain the powerful drug, alcohol, and may prove habit forming and disastrous to health, such beverages should be labeled according to the rules of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act. They declare, in part:

"Every bottle of alcoholic beverage, and especially of the stronger drinks, violates the spirit, and we believe, the letter, of the law, namely the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, in that it contains a substance which may be habit forming and may bring about disastrous effects, if unwisely used, to the purchaser, without so stating on the label. There is no question but that the most important and widely used habit-forming drug of Western civilization, and certainly of America, is alcohol. Irrespective of what anyone may claim about underlying personality problems in the chronic alcoholic addict (with which we might agree) the fact remains that without alcohol taken to excess, alcoholism does not occur. And it cannot be denied that methods of advertising, sale, and distribution, as social factors, play an enormously important part in the production of alcoholism. If one placed in a heap all the wreckage of human lives produced by the habit formation implied in morphinism, cocainism, barbiturate addiction, and all the narcotic and hypnotic drugs put together, and if one were to balance against them all the habit formation of disastrous type subsumed under the term 'alcoholism," the scale would shift immediately and unmistakably toward alcoholism.

"One of the innumerable studies in this matter is that of Alexander, Moore, and Leary, which showed that alcohol caused not only more deaths than any other toxic substance, but more than all of them put together.

"Therefore, there can be no question that if the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act is designed to prevent, and to protect the American public and its health from the menace of drug intoxication and addiction, then it should apply to alcohol as its first drug of choice instead of neglecting and ignoring it altogether."

Their idea of the label that should appear on the liquor bottle is as follows:

"Directions for use: Use moderately and not on successive days. Eat well while drinking, and if necessary, supplement food by vitamin tablets while drinking. WARNING: May be habit forming: not for use by children. If this beverage is indulged in immoderately it may cause intoxication (drunkenness), later neuralgia and paralysis (neuritis), and serious mental derangement, such as delirium tremens and other curable and incurable mental diseases, as well as kidney and liver damage."

They follow this statement of a proposed label with these concluding paragraphs to their paper:

"There are many people who are afraid to take two aspirins at once for a cold, because of its possible effect on the heart. However, those people do not hesitate at all to take six highballs in a row.

"We think this paradoxical discrepancy in public opinion and knowledge should be corrected.

"Physicians today fully realize that alcoholism is the greatest single public-health problem related to any drug. Physicians strongly support the Federal Food and Drug Administration in its general operations and in its special task of protecting public health from intoxication and mental derangement following or associated with the use of any drug. Physicians are further aware that the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act is primarily designed to protect public welfare and not to protect a special group of manufacturers or industrialists. It would appear that in present-day operation of the law the biggest single drug problem in the United States is neglected. The overlapping of authority has resulted not in protecting the American public by virtue of excessive legislation, but rather to defeat the primary purpose of public policy, behind both these laws, that is, the protection of public health. This is a state of affairs in which physicians are not only vitally interested, but against which they should firmly and uncompromisingly act.

"It is our opinion that if the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act does not apply to the distribution and sale of alcoholic beverages, is most certainly should."

These physicians are discussing this whole question from the coldly scientific viewpoint. They are not prohibitionists. They make that very clear in their paper. They even think it quite safe to use liquor "moderately." Their arguments and indictments against liquor are therefore safe from any counterattack on the ground they are prejudiced.

SERVICE THAT SATISFIES

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist. CIVIC RESPONSIBILITY REGARDING BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

LESSON TEXT — Deuteronomy 5:32, 33; 11:26-28; Isaiah 28:1-6; Habakkuk 2:12.

GOLDEN TEXT—Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people.—Proverbs 14:34.

Legal approval of the sale of alcoholic beverages has largely taken the matter out of the hands of the home and the church and has made liquor a civic problem. That, of course, does not provide us with a convenient excuse for evading our personal responsibility, for the nation is made up of you and me, of your home and mine, of your church and mine. We must share the nation's responsibility gladly and actively if we are to be worthy of our citizenship. Especially is that true of the Christian, for he sees the spiritual and moral implications of the matter, and he also knows what to do about it.

I. "Righteousness Exalteth a Nation; but Sin Is a Reproach to Any People" (Deut. 5:32-33; 11:26-28).

That may sound a bit old-fashioned and it may appear that men have abrogated that principle, but if we wait a bit we shall see that it still works.

1. Righteousness Brings Blessing (Deut. 5:32, 33; 11:26, 27). In this callous and indifferent generation we need to repeat with emphasis the fact that there is laid down in the very constitution of the universe a moral distinction between right and wrong. Right is always right and wrong is always wrong.

The book of Deuteronomy presents the fundamental laws of God. In this fifth chapter there is a review of many of these laws and a practical appeal for obedience. It is pointed out that the way of liberty in the walk of life is to turn neither to the extreme of legal bondage nor to the opposite extreme of human license, but to "walk in all the ways which the Lord your God hath commanded you." Walking in His ways brings all the blessings of Deuteronomy 5:33, a promise which is repeated in 11:27.

2. Unrighteousness Brings Judgment (Deut. 11:28). Turning aside from God's ways must bring upon man His curse. It is no light matter to be under God's disapproval. We who know how much the approval or disapproval of frail human beings around us may mean, should consider what it means in the life of a man (or of a nation) to have the eternal, omnipresent and omnipotent God against him.

Then what about a people which countenances the manufacture and the sale of intoxicants, which they well know bring about wickedness and vice which can only call for the judgment of God. Many believe that the great war in which the world is embroiled is simply God's judgment upon the nations (including England and America) because they have turned aside from His holy ways. That means that the most effective way to stop the conflict is national penitence and prayer. Why not believe and practice II Chronicles 7:14?

II. Civic Greatness Cannot Be Built on Sin and Oppression (Isa. 28:1-6; Hab. 2:12).

Yes, that sounds old-fashioned too! The theory of today seems to be that the road to greatness is by way of disregard of God's laws, and by the application of the mailed fist of cruel conquest. But let us remember that others have tried the same violation of God's law, and let us recall what happened to them. Did you ever hear of Napoleon?—of Alexander the Great?—of the "glory that was Greece"?—and the world conquering power of ancient Rome? Modern military leaders could well afford to spend less time on their books of strategy and their war maps and more time reading the Bible and the pages of history.

1. Drunkenness and National Decay Go Together (Isa. 28:1-6). The leaders of Israel (Ephraim) lingered long over their wine bowls as they spoke with pride of their nation, and especially of Samaria, its crown. It was a city beautifully situated on a hillside surrounded by a fertile terraced hillside.

Does not that all have a vaguely familiar sound? A great nation of our day which now lies in bondage to its neighbor dictator not long ago spoke with pride of its attainments and its security, while (according to the testimony of its own leaders) the use of intoxicants went on apace, even in the army.

2. Permanent Power Cannot Be Built on Oppression (Hab. 2:12). Here again history reveals the correctness of Scripture. Many a nation has sought to find its "place in the sun" by building with the blood of its vanquished enemies. It has never worked, and it will fail now just as it has in the past.

What about the city, state, or nation that attempts to promote its own growth out of the taxes on liquor and its sale?

SAVE and SACK the BEANS

WHILE chopping and storing the hay, the new Letz mill with grain separator sacks the beans. Saving high priced beans soon pays for a Letz—the surest money maker for any livestock farm.

Says Letz user, Lee Chatham, Danville, Indiana, "We chopped and blew into the mow 72 acres of soybean hay. We sacked 1,000 bushels of Manchu beans, keeping some for seed, recleaning and selling the rest for $1.25 per bushel. These beans brought us in over $1000.00."

Come in and investigate this wonderful machine. For most farmers feeding beef or dairy cattle, lambs or hogs, the Letz mill saves its cost and more the first season used. Let us demonstrate one for you.

We're all serving the kind of steak you cook by braising these days—all because it's less expensive than the tender cuts. It's one good reason for gathering a supply of good recipes using less tender cuts of steaks. Here is one that joins round steak with cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce—and that means it's a whole meal that's quick to fix as well as especially good in flavor:

Braised Steak with Spaghetti

Cut in small strips about 1 by 1½ inches—

1 pound round steak, ½ inch thick.

Brown in hot fat in skillet, then add—

½ cup sliced mushrooms
Dash pepper
1 teaspoon salt.

Add—

½ cup warm water.

Cover and cook slowly until meat is tender and water cooked away. Move to one side of skillet and heat in it—

1 large (24-oz.) can cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce.

Remove to platter and serve with the meat over top or to one side. Garnish with parsley and fresh cucumber pickle. Serves 4.

Soups for Flavor

When you're concerned about making the healthful foods nutritionists are talking about these days taste extra good, turn to prepared soups for the delicious flavor you need. They are recognized for their perfect harmony of seasoning and spicing—so they make good sauces for meats and give certain vegetables tempting savoriness.

Calves' Liver with Mushrooms

1 lb. calves' liver, sliced ¼ inch thick
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 medium (2 cups) can cream of mushroom soup
Pepper.

Place liver in boiling water, remove from heat and let remain 5 minutes. Drain, then cut into ¼ inch cubes. Fry in butter until well browned. Sprinkle with flour and salt, and mix thoroughly. Pour soup over liver and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add pepper to taste. Serve between hot biscuits or over toast.

Broccoli with Chicken Sauce

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 medium (2 cups) can country-style chicken soup
1 bunch broccoli, separated and cooked.

Melt butter, add flour and blend well. Cook until bubbling, then add soup and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Serve as sauce over broccoli (between ½ and ½ cup per serving). Serve on toast for luncheon dish. Serves 4 to 6. This sauce may also be used on asparagus.

NAGGING BACKACHE
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Don't Neglect It!

Modern life with its ceaseless hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion, whatnot, keeps doctors busy, hospitals crowded. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and oftentimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.

After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.

Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbance sometimes are burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. They have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Be sure to get Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Autumn in the Country

Orchards red with apples,
Woods agleam with gold;
Barnes and cellars holding
All that they can hold.
Cider presses going,
Sausage making near—
Oh! Autumn in the country
Is the gladdest time of year.

Sky all soft and hazy,
Perfect dreams of peace,
Winds all sweet and lazy,
Southward sailing geese.
In every heart the feeling
Which thankfulness evokes—
The good Lord seems revealing
His love for country folk.

Fodder shocks by thousands,
Tenting on the fields,
Tell of work accomplished
And of goodly yields;
Makes you think of armies
(Not of war or blood)
Mighty armies gathered
For the common good.

Appetites grow keener
(Lots for folks to do)
Steps grow more elastic,
Eyes are brighter too;
Roads just right for driving,
Moonlight night my dear—
Oh! Autumn in the country
Is the gladdest time of year.

We are glad to report Thomas Powers better at this writing.

We are sorry to learn of the serious illness of Chester Elliott who is very low at his home near Piner. We, his friends in this section, extend our heartfelt sympathy and pray for his speedy recovery, trusting that it may be God's will to restore him to his family, if only for a while longer. "If only just a little while longer, Oh, God we trust."

To sit in the lovely sunshine and hear the rustle of the autumn leaves and smell the sweet scented fall flowers—it brings to our memory just a little poem.

Items of interest are few in this vicinity, although everyone is enjoying good health and the lovely autumn weather.

The farmers in this section are rejoicing over the nice rains, for fall grass and plenty of water.

There seems to be quite a bit of visiting and vacationing in this vicinity. Everyone seems to be taking advantage of the fine autumn and enjoying the stroll in the lovely woods, gathering the fall fruits of nuts, grapes and berries.

Miss Wanda Bales visited her parents at this place this weekend.

E. Huff is nearing a completion of the beautification of his place of business, which add very greatly to appearance of same.

Several from around here attended the show at Walton Sunday afternoon.

Our neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Conrad, returned Saturday fro mtheir sojourn in the Northern States, reporting a fine time—with a very pleasant sight seeing trip.

Wesley Burgess is improving from his severe operation and is now able to perform his duties at E. Huff's place of business.

Packed House See "Poor Father"

"Poor Father," described as being a hilarious, side-splitting comedy, proved to be just that. Verona witnessed one of the largest crowds, in years, assembled in the Verona school auditorium. Every seat in the house was filled, and chair swere gathered as fast as was possible and crowded into corners and aisles, and in spite of that, a large number of persons were fortunate to obtain standing room.

It has been rumored that the play will be given elsewhere for the benefit of those who did not get the opportunity to see it at Verona. However, no definite plans have been made to that effect, as yet. If enough interest is shown in any other community it is almost certain that "Poor Father" will be repeated.

Candy made for this occasion was sold out early and it was estimated that double that amount would not have been enough to go around.

The P.-T. A. wishes to express their thanks to the members of the cast, to Mrs. Frances McCormick, the director; Mrs. Edna Hamilton, manager; and the entire audience who enjoyed themselves and at the same time participated in assisting the maintenance of the Verona school lunch room for the children.

As a word of appreciation to the business men who contributed by means of advertising, Mrs. Hamilton made announcements to the audience urging them to patronize the members advertised on the programs. Mrs. Hamilton also presented, for inspection, a Bible and Dictionary offered by this paper for advance payment of subscriptions to the Advertiser.

LENTS CHAIRMAN OF SEAL SALE

Announcement was made Monday by the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association that R. V. Lents the Principal of Constance school has been appointed general chairman of the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale in Boone county.

This is the 35th Christmas season in America that has brought forth a group of voluntary workers ready to cooperate with state and national tuberculosis associations for the purpose of raising funds in a nation wide campaign against tuberculosis. Mr. Lents is aided in this sale by all the schools in Boone county.

Boone county, like all other cunties, has its tuberculosis problem, and at least once a year we should intensify our efforts to help solve the problem. This is the time to pile up more ammunition for the militant campaign against the disease.

Plans of the sale are now being completed by Mr. Lents, who will announce further detailed plans within the next few weeks.

Unified Service At Christian Church

The First Christian church has voted to conduct a unified service of the Bible School and worship on Sunday mornings. The worship and Communion service will begin immediately on adjournment of the Bible Study and adjourn at 11:45. It is expected that the entire membership will take notice of the change of schedule and cooperate fully.

FELLOWSHIP SERVICE NEXT WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The First Christian Church will have Fellowship Service on next Wednesday night beginning at 6:30 at the church. A covered dish supper will be served and a program of fellowship and inspiration will follow. Every family of the church is urged to attend this meeting.

Dog Law Must Be Enforced

The Dog Law in Boone county must be enforced, according to officers of the Boone County Sheep Protective Association. Sheep losses by dogs in recent weeks have been especially heavy to members.

Greatest losses in recent weeks have been around Walton. John Conrad, alone, has had losses in six different occasions and other farmers have had heavy losses. Sheep killing dogs in most instances are unlicensed dogs and the Association plans to make strong demands of the Sheriff and to back him up 100 percent in strict dog law enforcement.

Most sheep owners are also dog owners and dog lovers and yet dogs are the greatest menace to the development of the sheep industry in the county. A good dog is worth taking care of and should not be allowed to roam promiscuously around at night. Such outrages cause sheepmen to make general rules of shooting every dog that crosses their farm and often causes feeling among dog owners.

The law gives full protection to the farmer who buys his land and pays taxes on that land. He has the full right to raise whatever livestock he wishes on that land without fear of trespassing or harm.

Let us all cooperate in the dog law enforcement, keep our dogs under control, prevent sheep losses and help build up a more beneficial and cooperative spirit between dog owners, sheep owners and land owners. Eliminate the stray dogs and pay tax on 100 percent of our dogs.

"Harvests For Tomorrow" at James

A short film entitled "Harvests for Tomorrow" will be shown in connection with the regular show at the James Theatre, Walton, on Tuesday evening, Nov. 4th. This film was developed for the AAA and shows a section of the New England States, its people, its ways of life and what its people are doing for Soil Conservation and National Defense. It also shows the great dairy region of the Northeast. It is taken of real farms and shows the village people in their familiar surroundings and in their own homes and on their own farms.

The AAA invites everyone to see this picture, especially the farmers, as they should be interested in a play of this type.

Members of the AAA county and community committee met at Burlington, Wednesday, Oct. 29, to discuss plans for the Farm Defense Program campaign, according to John E. Crigler, Secretary. Forms are being prepared in the county office showing the acreage allotments of tobacco and wheat, and committeemen have been asked to contact all farmers and tenants in the county and to complete their reports by Dec. 1, showing the intended acreage of all crops for 1942 and the amount of other needed commodities such as milk, eggs, pork and beef.

Increases in Boone county that are requested by the AAA are milk 15 percent or a total of 471,000 gallons; eggs 16 percent or 81,000 dozen; marketings of cattle and calves 17 percent and increases in pigs farrowed 17 percent.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

—Courtesy Kentucky Post

Tuesday, Oct. 21 marked the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Northcutt of Scott Blvd., Covington. On this happy occasion the couple were the guests of the Woman's Missionary society of the Immanuel Baptist church, at a tea held in the Ladies' Parlor.

Mrs. M. H. Highland, president of the Woman's Missionary Society, presided at this delightful open house. The program opened with the singing of "Love is the Theme" and "When They Ring Those Golden Bells," in which all the members of the society and the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Northcutt were asked to join, as they are the couple's favorite hymns. The junior chorus also sang. Mrs. R. B. Williams, organist of the church, accompanied the singing, and also played soft music—a selection of old favorites — during the tea.

NO SHOOTING NEAR CCC CAMPS, APPEAL

An appeal to hunters to refrain from shooting while in the vicinity of Civilian Conservaton Corps camps and work areas was made by S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish.

There have been relatively few serious and fatal accidents in the past around the CCC camps because of the fine cooperation of the sportsmen and hunters with the Division of Game and Fish in this matter. Wakefield pointed out, and urged that this record be continued during the coming hunting season by all nimrods using care and caution when in the vicinity of a CCC camp.

COHEN COMPANY CELEBRATES 50th ANNIVERSARY

The Dan Cohen Shoe Co., 24-26 Pike street, Covington, celebrates their 50th Anniversary in opening a brand new store at their same old location tomorrow (Thursday).

The Cohen Company, founded in 1891, has taken care of the shoe needs from their Pike street store, for Northern Kentuckians for the last three generations, supplying them footwear for the entire family.

Thursday they are anxious for everyone to see their new, complete and extensively remodeled shoe store. Rebuilt from front to back, from floor to ceiling. This store surpasses any modern family shoe store in this section of the country.

This store also features one of the largest shoe displays in the middle West, elaborately trimmed and with unusual lighting effects.

The Dan Cohen store has originated the department store idea of having on display shoes representing every style in the store, so customers will, at a glance, see the entire stock of merchandise.

Special features of the new Dan Cohen Shoe Store are the new Hosiery Bar, Dan Cohen's Kiddie Corner, which will contain 48 newly built, handsomely colored and decorated seats for the entertainment of the kiddies, and a new First Floor Shoe Repair Department. A new department in the front of the store will feature Handbags.

This store is decorated in red, white and blue buntings. In honor of the founders of this 50-year-old organization, they have placed life-size photographs of Nathan Cohen, More Cohen and A. E. Cohen in their new store.

Doors will be open Thursday, to the public in a gala opening. Everyone is invited to see this Greater Dan Cohen Shoe Store, and to participate in greater values and savings.

Free souvenirs will be given to all children, accompanied by parents, during their opening.

VOTE "YES" ON AMENDMENT NO. 1

Below are listed five reasons why you should vote "Yes" on Amendment No. 1, to the State Constitution, on November 4th.

1. It will make possible much better school services in many areas in Kentucky that are in desperate need.

2. It will protect the wealthier school districts of the State from future legislation efforts to divert local school funds.

3. It will be economical to the taxpayers of the State because it will permit the General Assembly to appropriate school funds for those districts which need help the most, without putting on a blanket raise over the entire State.

4. The proposal is educationally sound and morally right.

5. Many school districts of the State will be helped, none will be harmed.

Be sure to go the Polls on Nov. 4th and vote "YES" on Amendment No. 1.

YOUTH MEETING AT LOCAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The North Kentucky District of the Christian Youth Fellowship, will hold its fall meeting at the local Christian church next Sunday afternoon from three to six o'clock. Visitors frtm many of the churches in the area are expected, and State Youth Leaders will be in charge of the program.

Mrs. Maggie Waller Passes Oct. 28th

Mrs. Maggie Waller, 71, of Glencoe, passed away October 28 from arteriosclerosis after an illness of about seven weeks. She died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Bettie Olds, Anchorage, Ky. Mrs. Waller was born in Boone county and was a member of the Baptist church.

Funeral services are to be held this (Thursday) afternoon at 3:00 Eastern Standard Time at the New Bethel Baptist church, Verona, with the Rev. A. K. Johnson officiating. Burial will be in New Bethel cemetery.

Besides her sister, Mrs. Waller leaves Mrs. Ed Brashear, a girl reared by Mrs. Waller and her husband, and a number of nephews and nieces.

J. L. Hamilton & Son have charge of funeral arrangements.

Milk And Disease

Recent facts show that several cases of Undulent Fever have developed in the county. Best known of these cases is that which Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent, has been fighting for the past nine months.

The source of the disease is milk or milk products from dairy animals suffering from Bangs Disease. The disease is very contagious among the animals and transmissable to human beings. There has been very little work done in the county to combat the disease, perhaps because of lack of knowledge concerning the danger harboring it. Not only is Bang's undesirable from the standpoint of health, but from the farmer's viewpoint of financial loss.

Efforts are being made to get Government inspectors into the county to test animals. There is no charge for this service, but it is necessary to sign "agreement" sheets stating that infected animals will be sold for slaughter and that any animals added to the herd in the future would be tested before coming into contact with the herd. Obtain these sheets at the county agent's office and return immediately.

Boone County farmers can popularize the practice of herd testing to the extent that enforcement of the mandate "to test all dairy animals" will not be necessary. The informed farmer will sign his sheet, so there will be no further danger in the use of dairy products so necessary to health, but dangerous as disease carriers when not pure.

The Young People's class of the Walton Christian church are planning an outing in the country next Tuesday evening at the home of the teacher, W. Cloyd Johnson, about six and a half miles west of Walton.

This class is one of the newest organizations in the Christian church Sunday School, and its growth has been very gratifying.

Final plans for the outing, which will also see the election of officers and a philanthropic project inaugurated, will be made in the class next Sunday morning.

All of those who are interested should be present at 10 o'clock, sharp.

The group will meet at the parsonage Tuesday evening at six o'clock and go in a body to Mr. Johnson's home. Transportation will be available for all those who do not have a way.

Aid to Britain, Russia

Lend-Lease Expediter Harriman, returned from Moscow conferences on aid to Russia, reported to the President that the Russian government and people are determined to fight on at all costs but the Soviet armies "need substantial quantities of munitions and raw materials." Treasury Secretary Morgenthau advanced the Soviet Union another $30,000,000 against gold Russia is sending to this country. The Defense Supplies Corporation authorized payment of $36,889,000 to the Russian-owned Amtorg Trading Company for imports of manganese and other materials necessary to U. S. defense industry.

The Federal Loan Agency announced disbursment to Great Britain of another $100,000,000 on the $425,000,000 loan to that country for which Britain put up as collateral British-owned American factories and investments.

Both Houses of Congress passed the $5,985,000,000 new lend-lease appropriation and sent it to conference to adjust minor differences.

U. S. Ships Sunk

The 9,000-ton freighter Lehigh, flying the American flag on a run from Spain to West Africa to pick up cargo, was sunk in the South Atlantic on Oct. 19. All hands were rescued. The American-owned freighter Bold Venture was sunk several hundred miles south of Iceland, Oct. 16. The President told a press conference the sinking of the Lehigh seems to establish that merely keeping ships from actual combat areas no longer protects them.

The Navy Department announced the destroyer Kearny, "attacked by a submarine undoubtedly German," on October 17th, reached port with 11 crew members missing, one critically injured and eight injured slightly.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a resolution authorizing the arming of American merchant ships.

Production Progress

OPM Production Director Harrison issued the following summary of production progress: Ships — All Navy and Maritime Commission contracts are ahead of schedule and by the end of November one 10,000-ton cargo ship will be turned out every day; Bombers—designs ready for mass production and four gigantic new plants will be in operation by next summer; Tanks—production being doubled by farming out to make 2,000 a month; Powder and small arms—abreast of schedule with 30 of 70 planned plants now in production, 61 by spring.

The President announced that by January 1 he will place before Congress a program to step up tank output to double the present contemplated production. He said the program is being developed primarily for this country's own needs. Maj. Gen. Devers, armored force commander, speaking in Philadelphia, said there are already ample tanks for training purposes.

Subcontracting

The OPM Defense Contract Distribution Division issued an Army compilation of existing contracts offering the best subcontracting opportunities and announced a plan for prime contractors to "adopt" whole small industries for the duration. Division Director Odlum said the Curtiss-Wright Airplane Company, for example, has adopted the aluminum industry and will farm out parts of its orders to those aluminum plants hard hit by curtailment of civilian production.

The War Department announced the Quartermaster Corps will make its contract awards on a regional basis, direct negotiations will be made with bidders, and prices will no longer be "the dominating factor" in making awards.

Labor

OPM Directors Knudsen and Hillman and War and Navy Secretaries Stimson and Knox issued a joint statement that the interruption of defense production by strikes or slowdowns "is the greatest help aggressors can get these days when material on the battlefield is everything." They asked employers and employees to telephone the U. S. Conciliation Service or the OPM in cases of labor difficulties so they can receive "immediate attention."

Living Costs and Prices

The Labor Department reported living costs for moderate income families in large cities are now 9.6 percent higher than before the outbreak of war in Europe. Price Administrator Henderson, in a report to the President, said the U. S. needs price control legislation "and we need it fast."

Priorities

Priorities Director Nelson issued an order entirely prohibiting the use of copper for non-defense construction after Nov. 1 and after Jan. 1 for 100 civilian articles such as toys, jewelry, dress accessories, house furnishings and burial equipment. He also ordered continued through December the curtailment of light truck production for civilian use.

Mr. Nelson announced a series of open meetings in Minneapolis, Nov. 3; Cincinnati, Nov. 5; Indianapolis, Nov. 6; Rochester, Nov. 11; East Orange, N. J., Nov. 14; and Pittsburgh, Nov. 18; to acquaint businessmen with the priorities system.

The OPM certified these seven mid-West communities as entitled to special consideration in the negotiation of defense contracts because they face unemployment due to priorities: Grand Rapids, Mich.; Eatonton, Ga.; Greenville, Mich.; Ripon, Wis.; Newton and Kellogg, Ia.; and Mansfield, O.

Civilian Defense

The President proclaimed Nov. 11-16 "Civilian Defense Week." The proclamation asked Americans "to become better informed of the many vital phases of the civilian defense program and of opportunities—for the participation of every individual—" Civilian Defense Director LaGuardia announced the theme of the week "The only effective answer to total war is total defense."

Air

The War Department announced the present 54-group combat plane program is being expanded to provide organization of 84 combat groups—a virtual doubling of Army air strength. The new program calls for an increase in Air Force enlisted personnel to 400,000 by next July.

Navy, Army

The Navy launched the submarine Haddock and commissioned for active service the aircraft carrier Hornet and th edestroyer Bristol. OCD Director LaGuardia made available through local defense councils a description of the entire Naval program in a report "The Progress of the Navy."

The Army awarded contracts for the construction of 56 more USO recreation buildings, bringing the number under contract to 107. Deputy OCD Director Gill issued a report to local defense councils — "The Progress of the Army" — giving detailed information on all phases of the Army defense program.

Selective Service

Selective Service Headquarters completed arrangements to classify Army men with mechanical skills before they are discharged so they may be immediately employed in defense industry. "Referral offices" operated by the U. S. Employment Service in each camp will interview each man to give him specific advice as to where he can find work.

Oil, Gasoline

Because of a "more optimistic outlook" Defense Petroleum Coordinator Ickes withdrew his request that East coast filling stations remain closed between 7 p. m. and 7 a. m. Mr. Ickes said the move was made possible by the return of 40 tankers by the British, increased transportation facilities to bring oil to the East coast and the fact that his conservation program had reduced the oil reserves shortage from 9,000,000 barrels to 476,000 barrels.

SAILORS LEARN METALWORKING

Enlisted men in the U. S. Navy and Naval Reserve have the opportunity to learn more than fifty different trades and vocations. This schooling, worth hundreds of dollars, is free, and the sailors are paid their regular Navy pay while learning.

One of the most popular trades chosen by the bluejacket is metalworking. Pictured here are two enlisted men receiving instruction in acetylene welding from a qualified Navy instructor. Courses included at the metalworker's school are blacksmithing, oxy-acetylene welding, arc welding and cutting, coppersmithing, sheetmetalworking, general metalsmithing and boilermaking.

Any ambitious and patriotic young man will be given the chance to qualify for one of the Navy trade schools if he enlists for service in Uncle Sam's new "Two-Ocean" Navy.

Talismans

Many superstitions are subjective and thus cannot be seen, in origin or in practice; others are objective and stand a much better chance of being known and perpetuated. In our time many of the superstitious customs or objects are deliberately phony, just for the fun of the thing. It is hard to tell whether some of them are to be taken seriously or not. This is especially true with objects that are supposed to bring good luck or ward off evil.

Of the numerous talismans that still persist I suppose the asafeetida bag is the one of widest use. There is never a year that I fail to find it in use in some part of the state, in the open country, in coal-mining towns, in villages of the old type, even in cities. Some of the best students I have taught have assured me that they were an asafeetida bag when they were younger, to be like the other children if for no other purpose.

Rheumatism is probably as common as formerly, but it bears high-sounding names now and requires dieting, the extraction of teeth, the removal of appendixes, and other troublesome and expensive remedies. Rheumatiz, though, could be stopped dead in its tracks by the use of a buckeye carried in the pocket or by wearing a ring made of a horseshoe nail.

When I was teaching my first school, in 1907, I lived on a farm where a Negro cropper's daughter, otherwise above average in intelligence, whether of white or black folks, always wore around her neck a home-made necklace containing one of her own teeth. I never asked just what is was supposed to cure or prevent, but I just supposed that it must be a charm or talisman against toothache. Lately it has occurred to me that it may have been a voodoo charm, to ward off the evil eye of a rival or to prevent some witch from having power over her.

After all, red flannel must have been regarded much in the nature of a talisman for common sense and reason would have long ago condemned it. The color itself had something to do with its charm, for I cannot recall having heard of any other color that was worn by babies and by people who feared rheumatiz and other fearful diseases. Infant mortality, I read, is much less than formerly. I wonder whether red flannel as a passing institution may not have something to do with this condition.

Horseshoes are so common as signs of good luck that it seems almost superfluous to mention them. Rather oddly, though, people do not always agree what constitutes the proper position for the shoe, with the open or closed part up. Years ago I found horseshoes nailed over the door of every imaginable place: stock barns, smokehouses, henhouses, pumping stations along the railroads. Undoubtedly many of these are still in their time-hallowed places.

It is Thanksgiving as I write this. I am reminded of the good-luck value of the pullybone of a chicken or turkey. Some people say the shortest piece when two break it is the lucky part; some counter by saying the holder of the longer piece will live longer, as if that could remunerate one for not getting married sooner. Anyway, it is good luck to put your lucky piece above the door; the first eligible person walking under it will be your future partner. A few years ago when an old house was torn down, we found a double handful of chicken pullybones over the door.

Money Talks

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

The hearings before Congress on the Price Control Bill should be of great importance to every consumer and to every business man. It indicates that we are in for real inflation unless something is done before long.

Isador Lubin, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, advised the committee "that price rises in retail goods might be in store as retail prices have not gone up as fast as commodities and raw materials." He pointed out "that prices of 28 basic commodities on September 28 were 55.6% above August, 1939, levels, but that the cost of living had risen only 8%."

It was also brought out that between August, 1939 and September 1941 prices of raw wool had gone up 51.9% and worsted suitings 41.0%, while the retail price of men's worsted suits had risen only 9%. In this same period raw foodstuffs went up 69%; wholesale prices of processed foods rose 33% but retail prices were up only 9%.

Although retail price rise for foodstuffs was high, the great disparity between wholesale and retail price increases indicates that we may look for much higher retail prices.

Many experts are predicting a 10% increase in the cost of living by next spring and very likely as much as 25% higher a year from now. This will have a direct bearing on our wage and budget plans. Although hoarding is frowned upon, I cannot help but advise prudent buying now. Goods on your shelves is far better than money in your pockets in times or rapid price advances.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Within the next fortnight, you'll be reading statements and reports of speeches about the new defense plans now being hatched. The watchword at Capitol Hill is "anything can happen," and the White House now talks of a defense program triple—not double—present estimates.

The plans afoot call for 10 billion dollars to be spent by the end of 1943 or early 1944 More battleships, tens of thousands of tanks, and more than 100,000 airplanes, including about 30,000 long-range bombers; and defense to consume 50 percent of industrial capacity, as against 18 percent at present—That's the new goal.

It was only a year ago that Washington was assuring industry and labor that defense would be superimposed on the regular business of the country. "Guns and butter" was the slogan. And no one in Washington had the courage to talk of sacrifices to come. Instead, with each month, came stories of the need to raise defense sights. And the funds authorized for defense grew, though there was no over-all blueprint for the spending apparent.

The budget for 1942, announced in January of this year, called for $10,800,000,000 for defense. By March the seven billions of the original Lease-Lend Bill had been added. By August, the defense program was visualized as a 50-billion effort.

The 100-billion program now talked of would mean man-hours of work enough to employ every single man and woman in the country's whole labor force for one year. Or, looked at another way, it would mean putting all present employees in manufacturing to work on a 40-hour week schedule for six whole years.

Washington behind-the-scenes talk these days is of the "stiffening" White House attitude on strikes that are hamstringing defense work. The fact is that even the pro-labor men around the President are beginning to talk of being "fed up."

Congressional leaders are now drafting legislation with sufficient teeth, they think, to eliminate jurisdictional labor disputes, which have been paralyzing business and industrial activity in some entire communities. The new bill would combine the best features of five measures now pending before the House Judiciary Committee: the Walter and Monroney bills which would permit prosecution of labor unions by the anti-trust division for certain types of offenses in restraint of trade; the Boren and Disney bills which would deny the benefits of the National Labor Relations Act to unions whose officers do not meet certain qualifications; and the Bennet bill to compel labor organizations to file periodic financial reports.

Some observers believe the President may try to head off legislation by some Proclamation or stern statement against defense strikes. So far the President has already announced that the OPM would take action to reduce or eliminate jurisdictional disputes. Symptomatic also was the President's message to the AFL convention urging a moratorium on strikes.

What's behind this startling change of sentiment? A number of things. The Bureau of Labor Statistics, forone, showed that strikes during the first seven months of 1941 cost 15,750,000 man days, 500 percent more than in the corresponding period of last year.

The steady spread of purisdictional strikes throughout the country has given the administration a lot of worry. And even within the aggressive pro-labor circles of the Administration there's a growing belief that the unions are pushing the closed shop maintenance issue too far and the defense program is suffering as a result.

Then, too, the nationwide attention attracted by the Currier case has contributed to the "souring." The Government rejected the Currier bid on a Michigan housing project because of AFL protests despite the fact that it was an extremely low bid.

Further evidence of changed attitude was shown in the sharp letter written by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Bard to the Metal Trades Department of the AFL. The letter, criticizing the number of strikes, said: "If Navy men—are not ready to back up what they say with action, they have learned to keep their mouths shut until that time arrives."

Secretary of Labor Perkins got on the bandwagon, too. At the AFL convention she said tradeunionism "is no longer in swaddling clothes—its affairs are therefore public property and it must expect to be judged as other institutions are judged." The public she said, asks that the practices of closed membership and high dues, combined with closed shop, be "re-studied with a view to the public welfare and to the rights and liberties of all the citizens of the United States."

A number of Congressmen are saying they never expected to see the New Dealers go sour on the closed shop. Even more surprising is the increasing comment by officials in the defense agencies and friends of the Administration ahat definite labor policy to replace the present confusion and bewilderment is number one prerequisite to victory in the battle to defend democracy.

Q.: What is the beer industry doing to protect these benefits?

A.: This committee cooperates with law enforcement officials to keep retail beer outlets wholesome. We do not and will not tolerate law violations by a few undesirable beer retailers.

Q.: Is this program getting results?

A.: Here they are for the past two years:

23 retail licenses revoked

KENTON COUNTY NUTRITION COM. FOR NAT. DEF. MEETS

The Kenton County Nutrition Committee for National Defense met Tuesday, Oct. 21 at the Federal Bldg., Covington, to formulate plans to carry on the National Nutrition Program which has been set up by experts under the supervision of Paul V. McNutt, Coordinator of Health, Welfare and Related Defense Activities.

Educational methods to spread the newer knowledge of nutrition among layman by means of schools, adult education groups, public health organizations, women's clubs, and social workers were discussed.

A ten point personal program as arranged by the State Chairman, was presented by Miss Zelma E. Byerly, County Chairman of the Kenton County Nutrition Committee for Defense, which is as follows.

(1) Collect accurate data on good nutrition.

(2) Spread this information—be a one-man unit of publicity for better health through better nutrition.

(3) See that your family has the right diet, including plenty of fruits and vegetables, meats, a pint of milk daily per person, several eggs every week, etc.

(4) When the income is very limited, spend every available penny on the basic thing, good food—exclude non-essentials.

(5) Find out about the school lunch in your community.

(6) Learn how to evalute the school lunch; if it isn't up to standard, assume responsibility for getting it improved.

(7) Learn what local agencies will cooperate gladly in improving the school lunch program.

(8) Take advantage of every easy way to improve nutrition; as, enriched bread or flour or else whole-wheat bread, the State's dairy industry that makes dairy products inexpensive, the fact that codliver oil is available.

(9) Remember that well-fed, well-balanced people as a whole are not easy prey for subversive interests.

(10) Help improve the health of Kentucky by 33 percent, as a goal.

The chairman also descussed the master plan for the American defense diet as prepared by home economists of the United States Department of Agriculture, and presented at the National Conference on Nutrition. These leading nutrition scientists prepared the yardstick as a guide to the kind of diet Americans should follow for health and for the strength and morale needed for national defense. The yardstick calls for a diet planned as follows:

MILK—2 or more glasses daily for adults; 3 to 4 or more glasses daily for children, to drink and combined with other foods.

VEGETABLES—2 or more servings daily besides potato, 1 raw green and yellow often.

FRUITS — 2 or more servings daily, 1 citrus fruit or tomato.

EGGS—3 to 5 a week; 1 daily preferred.

MEAT, CHEESE, FISH, OR LEGUMES— 1 or more servings daily.

CEREAL OR BREAD—At least two servings of whole-grain products or "enriched bread."

FATS & SWEETS—Some butter or Vitamin A-rich fat every day, and enough more fats and sweets to satisfy the appetite.

These are daily requirements, not requirements for each meal. They are the basic essentials on which a good daily lied to built. Put them into your three-meals-a-day planning where they seem to fit best.

Dr. H. C. White, Kenton County Health Officer, in addressing the group said, "Malnutrition and dietary deficiency diseases constitute one of America's great health problems. Our goal should be the eradication and prevention of all forms of malnutrition; all families should be taught what constitutes an adequate diet and how to obtain it at minimum cost. He urged local groups to give as much time to the program as they could.

Mrs. Raymond Eubanks, president of the Kenton County Homemakers Association discussed the work this organization has been doing.

Miss Georgia Hafer, past president of the Northern Kentucky Dietic group, an organization of dietitans, trained home economists, who met to study newer things in nutrition, said that they had cooperated by giving talks to various social organizations in the county.

Exhibits, talks, demonstrations and discussons are to be features of the program which the various organizations in the county will have to promote this nation-wide program.

SIN AND ITS CONSEQUENCES

LESSON TEXT—Galatians 6:7, 8; I John 1:5-2:6.

GOLDEN TEXT—If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.—I John 1:9.

Sin is an appalling reality, hideous and horrible in itself, and bearing with it the gravest consequences both in this life and in the life to come. Man does not find it pleasant to face that fact, and so he makes light of sin and even may go so far as to deny its existence. Obviously such an expedient does nothing to solve the difficulty or to meet the gnawing distress of a heart facing and fearing the judgment of God.

Far better to meet the reality of it, admit its awfulness, and seek God's way of full deliverance. Sin, which came into the world when man listened to Satan and disobeyed God in the Garden of Eden, has gone on to mar and to mark all mankind. We note that

I. Sin Brings Corruption (Gal. 6: 7, 8).

Seedtime is followed by harvest. This is the law of nature, the law of God. The farmer who sowed wheat in the spring looked for wheat when the harvest time came. The same principle holds in the spiritual realm. Just as the one who sows to the Spirit reaps eternal life, the one who sows to the flesh reaps corruption, and death.

A life of self-indulgence (which is sowing to the flesh) brings moral decay. The weakened will yields to desire, and it "bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death" (James 1:14, 15). This death is spiritual, bringing separation from God, a loss of fellowship and communion with Him. Spiritual death as well as physical death came upon mankind through Adam's sin.

II. Sin Loves Darkness (I John 1:5-7).

There is not a bit of darkness in God. He is light. When Jesus came into the world, He came as the Light of the World. But "men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved" (John 3:17-21).

The corollary of that truth is that a man who says he has fellowship with God, but continues to walk in darkness, brands himself a liar (v. 6). Compare Revelation 21:27-28 for what God thinks of liars.

The light still shines, and the one who is walking in darkness has only to step over into the light (v. 7) where he will find fellowship with all God's people and know the cleansing of the blood of the Son of God.

III. Sin Is an Undeniable Fact (I John 1:8-10).

It seems impossible that a man who knows himself and knows the life he lives would ever deny sin, for it is one of the most evident of all facts. Yet men have denied it, or sought to explain it away, calling it error, or a "fall upward," or a step in man's development, or the evidence of man's self-consciousness and desire to learn.

There is no hope for a man as long as he assumes such an attitude, for he not only lies himself, but he makes God a liar. He denies the truth of God's Word about sin, makes meaningless or wicked God's dealings with sin, and reveals that God's Word is not in him. Those who make such statements declare that they do not belong to God and do not accept His Word. It is evident that they ought never to be permitted to teach such things in the church, or in the name of Christianity.

IV. Sin Calls for a Saviour (I John 2:1-6).

Christ the propitiation, the mercy-seat covering for our sins, is the only Saviour. He paid the price, and made it possible for God to be just and at the same time a justifier of the ungodly. The sinner needs such a Saviour.

Sin in the life of the believer also calls for a Saviour, one who will cleanse us (1:9) and who will in His own blessed name plead our cause "if we sin." He is our Advocate (2:1) pleading His righteousness in our behalf when we do fall.

This does not mean that we may then become indifferent or careless about sin. If we say we know Him and do not keep His commandments, we lie about our professed relationship to Him. The mark of a true child is a spirit of obedience.

God's children prove their love to Him by keeping His commandments. Talking about our devotion to Him, giving our service for Him, or sacrificing for His cause mean nothing if we do not obey Him. We only pile evidence upon evidence of our untruthfulness by making claims and doing things which are negated by our disobedience.

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. Navy Questions And Answers ---

Why are new recruits in the U. S. Navy called "boots?" All new recruits must wear regulation canvas leggings during their training period. These mark them as new men. They must wear these "boots" during the entire period of their apprenticeship. Mistakes made early in a new recruit's period of training are some times excused because of this distinguishing mark.

Are sports competitions held while a U. S. Naval ship is off land? Yes, some form of intramural competition is always in progress. Boxing, wrestling and basketball rank among the favorite shipboard competitive sports.

What is the most thrilling job in the U. S. Navy? Men who join the United States Navy for excitement generally select duty on destroyer.

Do battleships in the United States Navy have Chaplains? Yes, the Chaplain is the chief morale officer and official social worker for the ship. He is in charge of the ship's weekly paper, and the ship's library (every ship has a large, fully-equipped library), and practically all entertainment.

How many books does the average U. S. battleship library contain? About 8500 volumes, generally, and the supply is continually replenished. Every quarter the Bureau of Navigation sends the ship about forty new volumes.

Have sailors in Uncle Sam's Navy many social activities? Yes but most of their group entertainment takes place on shore. This consists of dances, chiefly, which are run by the men themselves and are held in halls hired for the occasions. Often, however, boat parties are held for the benefit of orphans and underprivileged children, and frequently smokers and entertainment are held on shipboard.

How can one officer be distinguished from another in the U. S. Navy? Any U. S. Naval officer can be recognized by the decorations on his arm if he wears "blues" or by his shoulder decorations if he is in "whites." The ensign wears a half-inch stripe or bar of gold lace. The junior-grade lieutenant wears the same with a quarter-inch stripe above it. Two half-inch stripes or bars mark the lieutenant and the same decoration in found on the sleeve or shoulder of the lieutenant-commander with an additional quarter-inch stripe between the other two. Commanders wear three half-inch stripes or bars and captains wear four.

Is there any particular age at which a sailor in the U. S. Navy is required to retire? No. A sailor in Uncle Sam's Navy can continue to reenlist as long as he can pass the physical examination.

Thirty percent more Wolfe county farmers sowed greens, such as turnips, for winter use.

How to make home storage structures has been studied in Calloway county, in a series of 11 community meetings.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

STRAIGHT FROM NEW YORK

THE "TWO-PIECE LOOK"

Whether it's an evening gown with skirt falling in graceful elegance to the floor, or a street-length afternoon frock—it's the "two-piece look" that's top fashion today. The tunic, so popular this season, gives it to the pearl grey dinner gown with its slit skirt and silver studded coral belt. The other New York creation, an afternoon dress, grey-green in two tones, has smoothly fitting jumper top with side lacings, and a tucked skirt.

— DEFENSE BOND QUIZ —

Q. I cannot find the word "Defense" anywhere on the Defense Savings Stamps I have bought. Are they merely Postal Savings Stamps or does my money invested in these Stamps go into the Defense Program?

A. The money you use to purchase these Stamps goes definitely into the Defense Program. The Stamps bear the words "America on Guard," which indicates that they are an integral part of the Defense Program.

Q. What is the Treasury's purpose in putting Defense Savings Stamps on sale in retail stores throughout the Nation?

A. To make it as easy as possible for Americans everywhere to buy these Stamps, which, as everyone knows, may be exchanged at many post offices and banks for Defense Savings Bonds.

NOTE— To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps now are on sale at most retail stores.

—SOCIAL SECURITY NOTES—

Less than three months remain in which workers may check their 1937 wage records of the Social Security Board. The Social Security Act provides that wage records under old-age and survivors insurance may be considered closed at the end of your years. Hence workers who wish to check their 1937 records must do so before the end of 1941. There is a 60-day period for appeal after the close of the year.

Post cards which are used to obtain statements of wages as recorded by the Social Security Board may be obtained through the Covington field office of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance. There is no charge for the check-up except one cent for postage on the request card, according to Frank B. Decker, Jr. manager of the office in the Post Office Building, Covington.

In Powell county, 5,000 pounds of vetch will be seeded this fall; also, spring seedings were large.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

"Train up a child in the way he should go." Parents and teachers have the tremendous task of molding the characters of children, under their care in beauty and usefulness. Assume your duty with a prayer for Divine guidance in training them right. "What do we do when we teach the child? The nature is taken untrained and moulded into a life serene, with heart and will and judgment clean. We make the man who's undefiled, when we teach as we ought the little child.

Deep appreciation is extended to Edwin Frank Jackson, promising young son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jackson, for kindly giving ten lovely little bantams to his youthful friends, Charles Otis Morgan and Billy Dietz.

The many friends of Mrs. R. F. DeMoisey of Walton, regret to learn of the accident that has befallen her, and sincerely trust that she shall recover speedily and fully.

Sadness came into many hearts at the announcement of the death of Mrs. William Mann. Peacefully and serenely she passed from earth's shadows at the residence of her devoted sister, Mrs. Esther Beers, Covington. Besides her sister and brother, Venner Baker, she is survived by other relatives for whom profound sympathy is expressed. Following the last rites, the remains sweetly slumber in the beauty of the hills in the Independence cemetery. "We cannot think of them as dead, who from our sight have gone, nor that the way we henceforth tread must be drear and lone. They live beyond the reach of sense, but not beyond our thought. In deathless memories from hence. Their lives with ours are wrought We cannot think of them as lost, who have passed within the veil. Who walk now with the radiant host, in the gates of gold. So near their spirits to our are, so close our hearts are bound. Their dwelling place cannot be far from where our own is found."

In McCracken county farmers brought apples to a central depot for grading instructions from State College of Agriculture and Home Economics specialists. Of those graded, less than a quarter fell below U. S. No. 1 grade.

Many Harlan county farmers are producing fall fryers for the first time. Frank Wheeler continues to sell 250 chicks per week from his broiler plant; Elmer Blair sells 100 weekly from his plant, and Charles Hall sells 50 a week from his front door.

It is estimated 1,000 acres of soybeans will be harvested for grain by Christian county farmers.

Walton Presents 'Poor Father' Nov. 7

A considerable amount of favorable comments have been made regarding the comedy "Poor Father," given at Verona a short time ago. Many have expressed themselves as wishing to see the play again, while others hoped it would be repeated as they were unable to see it the first time.

Because of popular demand, and because of the assistance the proceeds will afford the Walton-Verona school lunch rooms, the Walton P.-T. A., in collaboration with the Verona P.-T. A., will present "Poor Father," with added entertainment between acts, at Walton, Friday, Nov. 7th at the Walton-Verona school gymnasium at 8:30, EST. The admission remains the same: Children 15c, and adults 25c.

From all indications a large gathering is expected to see this comedy, therefore, you are urged to be present early and be sure of a seat.

"Poor Father" is under the direction of Mrs. Frences McCormick and is under Mrs. Edna Hamilton's management. The cast is composed of persons well known in this vicinity, and are: Bob Orr as William Thompkins, a hard-pressed father; Albert Hunt as Clifford Thompkins, a student of psychology; Fred Hamilton as Harold Caldwell, who is always in the way; Charles Vest as Sidney Dummel, a wealthy bachelor; Bob Gordon as George Washington Brown, a colored "boogy-man" who trifles with the truth; Dick Reffitt as Sergeant O'Conner, a clumsy policeman; Mattie Orr, as Mary Thompkins, a distracted mother; Sib Gordon, as Gladys, the eldest daughter; Mary Zelma Richards, as Bessie, another daughter; Jean Shetler, as Caroline, also one of the daughters; Ellena M. Greenwell, as Marie, the new French maid, and Katherine Reffitt, as Vivian Larramie, an actress and acquaintance of Mr. Thompkins, and what an acquaintance.

NAME OMITTED LAST WEEK

We are very sorry that the name of Mrs. C. J. Alford was omitted from those at the surprise party for Mrs. B. F. Elliott, last week.

MAGGIE GRUBBS PASSES NOV. 3rd

Mrs. Maggie Grubbs, 70, passed away at her home on Frogtown Rd., Nov. 3, of chronic nephritis after a few days illness. She was born in this county, and was a member of the Lutheran church.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Chambers & Grubbs Funeral Home, Walton, with the Rev. H. M. Hauter in charge. Interment was in the Hopeful cemetery, Florence.

Mrs. Grubbs is survived by one son, Wiley Grubbs; a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Gilpin; four brothers, Ed Rice, George Rice, Wm. Rice and Eli Rice; three grandchildren, four great-grandchildren, and a number of other relatives.

Chambers & Grubbs had charge of the funeral arrangements.

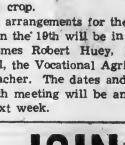
Walton Methodist Church Services

The Walton Methodist church School begins at 9:45 a. m., with the morning worship at 11:00 o'clock. The subject for the morning service will be, "The Blood of Christ, On Our Hands or Hearts. Which?" We realize that if we do not permit it on our hearts it will of necessity fall on our hands. That may be said of nations as well as individuals.

The young people will meet at 6 p. m. Instead of an evening service, we will meet at the church at 7 p. m. and form a motorcade and drive to the First Methodist church, Covington, for a Mass meeting of the District, at 7:45. An outstanding College President will speak, with Bishop Darlington and Dr. Powell, Pres. of Ky. Wesleyan College, also having part on the program. Persons not having a way of transportation will be at the church and there will be a way provided. We would like to have at least fifty from Walton attend this great meeting, in the interest of Christian Education.

There is a mid-week prayer service each week at 7 p. m., and choir practice each Thursday at 8 p. m. The public is invited to attend all services.

"He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty." Ps. 91:1.—Pub. Com.



Tobacco Grading Demonstrations

Four tobacco stripping and grading demonstrations will be held in Boone county on Nov. 19 and 21, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The demonstrations will be presented by the Federal Graders, who will grade on the tobacco markets this year.

The tobacco stripping and grading demonstrations are especially important this year in that all tobacco will be sold on Federal Graded Markets and growers will be eligible to secure 85% of parity on their crops through the pool if the warehouse sale price is not satisfactory.

The Federal graders in many instances are different from those grades ordinarily used by growers. Because of this difference, it is to the advantage of every grower to be familiar with the Federal grades in order to secure greatest protection on the sale value of his crop.

The arrangements for the meetings on the 19th will be in charge of James Robert Huey, Hebron School, the Vocational Agricultural Teacher. The dates and places of each meeting will be announced next week.

The Annual meeting of the Boone County Red Cross and the organization meeting of the Roll Call workers will be held Monday night, Nov. 10 at the Union Presbyterian church.

Dinner will be served by the Woman's Auxiliary at six o'clock. All workers in the roll call are urged to make every effort to be at this meeting.

The slogan for this year's roll call is, "All Out for the Red Cross."

HOMEMAKERS GET FLOWER BULBS

Boone County Homemakers recently received flower bulbs for use in their Exterior Beautification project. The combined order for 2,168 bulbs, including Narcissus, Jonquils, Tulips, Hyacinths and Crocus and Iris were shipped from Washington State. Instructions for setting these bulbs were distributed by the Home Demonstration Agent. This new supply will assure an ever more gorgeous display of flowers for the Annual Homemakers Flower show to be held next Spring, according to Mrs. Garnett Tolin, Chairman of Landscaping Committee, and Mrs. Mary S. County Defense Board Meets

The Boone County National Agricultural Defense Board met at Burlington, Thursday, Oct. 29. Members attending were J. F. Cleek, Chairman of the County AAA Association; Rev. Will Smith of the REA; Myron Clark, Soil Conservation Service; Ray Wilson, Farm Security Administration; H. R. Forkner and Franklin Frazier, Extension Service. J. F. Cleek was elected chairman and H. R. Forkner, secretary.

The Board received county allotments for increased agricultural production for 1942, set up by the State Agricultural Defense Boards. These allotments call for a 15% increase in milk production, totaling 47,1000 gallons; 16⅔ increase in eggs, totaling 81,000 dozens; 17% increase in spring farrowings of pigs and a 5 percent marketing in beef cattle.

The county allotments were approved with the exception of milk which the board asked the State Board to reconsider in relationship to surplus milk prices in the Cincinnati Market and further need for improvement in whole milk prices. The patriotic spirit of our farmers combined with improved prices for farm products will encourage expanded production in not only milk, pork, eggs and beef for which allotments have been set up but also corn, barley, soybeans for seed, and sheep for which increases are also requested.

The "Live at Home" program on the program for producing a larger part of the home food supply was recommended for all farms. The Board recommended that this program be made a part of the Farm Defense Program survey that will be made by the County Agricultural Conservation Association Committeemen beginning the week of Nov. 10.

Soil Conservation District Hearings Are Set For November 14

The petition of Boone county farmers for the hearing for the formation of a Soil Conservation District has been approved by the State Board, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The hearing date has been set for the Burlington Court House on Friday, Nov. 14, at 1:30 p. m.

A member of the State Conservation District Board will attend this hearing. Every farmer, land owner or interested citizen is invited to attend this meeting and to express his or her opinion whether or not a district should be formed in this county. If the hearing officer is convinced a district should be formed, a future referendum will be offered in which all land owners will have an opportunity to vote. If the majority of the land owners vote in favor of a district, such district will be formed. Once a district is formed, it will operate for five years.

Farmers who are interested in the forming of a district point to certain advantages (1) Future CCC Camp labor will be available (2) Large power machinery for carrying out water conservation and farm water supply work can be secured from the government by paying upkeep and depreciation costs (3) Trained technical help of the Soil Conservation Service will be available (4) Such district as a corporate body can carry out many cooperative soil consenvation and soil building practices that farmers, as individuals, could not here-to-fore carry out.

Those farmers who have been studying the soil conservation district program feel that it will be a great aid to the county and are very much interested in its formation.

Aid to Britian and Russia

OPM Materials Director Batt said in a radio speech from Washington he had returned from the aid conference in Moscow with the thought that the "sensible, sane and selfish" course for the U. S. "is to deliver the goods—everything we possibly can provide—into the hands of people who can use them . . . against the enemy while he is still thousands of miles from our shores . . ."

The Maritime Commission announced delivery of the first of 60 emergency cargo boats being built for the British. The President signed the $5,985,000,000 second lend-lease appropriation and created in the Office for Emergency Management a Lend-Lease Administration with Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as Administrator.

Pan-American Relations

The Export-Import Bank authorized a $6,000,000 credit to the Banco Obrero, Venezuela, and announced special credit arrangements with banks in Latin America will be made to facilitate trade among the nations of the Western Hemisphere to enable the American Republics to procure essential requirements for development of their resources and stabilization of their economies.

Prices

The Labor Department reported its daily price index of 28 basic commodities rose 1.3 percent during the week of Oct. 17 to 24, bringing prices in the index to more than 34 percent higher than a year ago.

Price Administrator Henderson announced a comprehensive program to stabilize prices of all products made of copper, brass, or their alloys. He also issued a price schedule on glycerine and bed sheets. Sheet prices will be approximately 15 percent below current market levels, Mr. Henderson said.

Facts and Figures

Archibald MacLeish, Librarian of Congress, was appointed by the President to direct a new Office of Facts and Figures to "formulate programs designed to facilitate a widespread and accurate understanding of the status and progress of the national defense effort." The new office will advise Government agencies how they can best present information and data on national defense to keep the public fully informed.

Employment and Wages

Secretary of Labor Perkins reported average hourly earnings of factory wage earners were 74.5 cents during August. Federal Security Administrator McNutt announced 545,700 jobs were filled through the State employment services during September—55% more than last year. Wage-Hour Administrator Fleming said he favored a program of wage stabilization which would not freeze wages at present levels, but would first adjust existing differences between one plant and another doing the same work and make provisions for adjustments to increases in the cost of living.

Labor Disputes

The President directed Secretary of War Stimson to take possession of and operate the Bendix, N. J., plant of Air Associates, Inc., after a dispute developed at the plant over the reinstatement of strikers on the recommendation of the Defense Mediation Bd. Colonel Roy M. Jones, in charge of 2,100 soldiers who took over the plant, said "employees desiring to return to their jobs will be given all necessary protection—"

The Defense Mediation Board began hearings on the labor dispute involving captive coal mines in the Appalachian area after the United Mine Workers voted to accept the President's request to return to work in the interest of defense pending settlement of the dispute. The U. S. Conciliation Service reported settlement of 30 other labor disputes.

Defense Housing

Defense Housing Coordinator Palmer reported 1,285 publicly-financed defense homes were completed during the week ended Oct. 25, bringing the total ready for occupancy to 46,572. Homes being built or already completed under the defense program now number 101,785.

Lt. Commander C. R. Wells, chief dental officer of the Selective Service System, said in a speech in Texas that the program to rehabilitate selective service registrants with physical defects that can be remedied will begin with the treatment of 100,000 men for dental defects. The men will be treated by dentists in their own communities at the expense of the Federal Government.

Civilian Morale

The Office of Education announced that in cooperation with the Office of Civilian Defense it will develop a School and College Civilian Morale Service through which "hundreds of thousands of teachers, educational leaders and citizen volunteers" can participate in the defense program by organizing "Freedom's Forums" in schools, colleges, clubs, churches and libraries to discuss national problems "with respect to facts and without hysteria."

Civilian Supply

Priorities Director Nelson ordered a 35 percent reduction in the use of steel by non-mechanical ice refrigerator manufacturers and a 17 percent cut in production of domestic washers and ironers. Mr. Nelson said that in one year 32,000 tons of steel would be saved by the latter cut.

Army

Secretary of War Stimson announced that specially selected Signal Corps reserve officers are in England studying air-raid defense prior to assignment with the U. S. Army Aircraft Warning Service. Mr. Stimson also announced the first battalion of the 87th Infantry Mountain Regiments—first regiment designed for mountain warfare—will be organized at Ft. Lewis, Washington, this month. The regiment will be made up of men specially skilled in mountain climbing and ski and snowshoe travel.

Ships

The Maritime Com'ission launched two more Liberty ships. The Navy announced the 368 craft in its small-boat building program are being built by 76 firms thruout the country to spread the work as far as possible.

Power

Priorities Director Nelson inaugurated a power conservation program calling for curtailment of the use of power by non-defense industry in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee unless heavy rains end the power shortage in these States before Nov. 10. Program would prohibit use of power for advertising signs and shop windows, and night athletic events.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

Talking Like Negroes

Many outsiders who visit in the South often remark on how the whites talk like Negroes: these people are actually reversing what has taken place in historic time. To begin with, the Negro when he was brought to America spoke one of gibberish to his master. The slave had to learn to understand and speak, to the best of his ability, the language of the master. His own ways of saying things were almost if not wholly lost. Scholars tell us that probably there are left a few imitations of African word order or construction in the language of the Gullahs, the Negroes of Charleston and the Sea Islands. Otherwise there seems to be no remnant of African influence. It is not known whether any word in common use, even in the South, owes its origin to these primitive language of the slaves. "Buckra," a word used in some places in the South to mean the "boss man" is thought to be an African word, but it is utterly unknown to most people in the South and found only in rare works of an earlier period or in books written by actual folklorists.

In slave times there was undoubtedly a wide difference between the speech of the Negro house servant and the field hand. The boy or girl who grew up around the Big House consciously or unconsciously acquired some of the vocabulary and some of the intonation and pronunciation of the "quality folks." Farm hands saw and spoke to few of the whites other than the overseer. The few educated Negroes must have sprung largely from the house servant class as a matter of course, as it is unlikely that the field hand would have a chance to show any unusual ability that would attract the master's attention.

Negro speech as it exists today, then, is largely the speech of the earlier whites, modified, of course, by segregation and isolation, particularly since slave days. Education and a newer vocabulary have gradually permeated much of the race, so that some of the talk about Negro language would lose its point if one did not see the Negro actually talking. The Negro voice is decidedly richer and of a timbre different from the average white voice; this, to the trained ear, constitutes real Negro language, though the words used are those of our own regular vocabulary. In the very nature of things the primitive language of the Poor White, which is also primitive, has had little effect on the Negro, since economically they have been thrown together. Slavery thrived in the fertile agricultural areas; the poor white has grown up in areas lacking in fertility, areas that could not afford the luxury of slavery. Besides the Negro took his cue from the aristocratic Southerner and probably gave currency to the very term "poor white trash," showing his disdain for white people not belonging to the quality.

Of course, there have been few special Negro pronunciations that have attracted attention and are usually believed to be on the Negro's own coinage, but scholars can trace practically everything in Uncle Remus and similar writings to usages of the white immigrants from England, Scotland, and Ireland. It can be said that the Negro has given distictive stamp to certain words and ideas, though they, like most of his music, have come from his former owners.

STATE'S RICHEST LITERARY POSSESSION AT TRANSYLVANIA

Collection in College's Library Rated as Most Valuable in Country by Independence Woman

Mention of Kentucky's richest possessions is made in an article written by Mrs. Helen Metcalfe Frazer of Independence, Ky.

Mrs. Frazer makes reference to these treasures which are to be found in Transylvania College in Lexington, Ky.

It is asserted by Mrs. Frazer that the library in that college is among the most valuable in the country.

In her article this historian says: "Transylvania Library at Lexington, with its 18,000 old books and 10,000 pamphlets, is Kentucky's richest literary possession and among the most valuable college-owned libraries in this country.

"One stands in awe before this collection of rare books, recalling that Kentucky, when the foundation of Transylvania was laid, was separated from the coastal states by days of dangerous and toilsome journeys over mountain and through forest, and that Lexington a little more than a pioneer settlement, could mother a school that soon would place her as the 'Athens of the West' in things cultural.

"The nucleus of the library was a gift of books from the Rev. John Todd of Virginia, and acknowledged by the board of the school at its second meeting (at that time at Crow's Station in Lincoln County) in 1784.

Buys Book in Paris

"Meanwhile a College of Law and Medicine were added. In 1821 Dr. Charles Caldwell was sent to Paris to purchase books, and in 1839 Dr. Porter and Dr. Bush were sent on a similar mission to Paris and London. Dr. Caldwell purchased books for the medical library and, due to the ravages of the French Revolution, many priceless books were put on the market and he was able to obtain them for a reasonable sum.

"These early purchases bear such dates as 1533, 1534, 1608 and 1635. Valuable and beautifully illustrated medical botanies and natural histories are found in the medical library and bespeak the influence of Rafinesque, who was a teacher at Transylvania. The law books are dated 1650, 1658, 1661, through a long list, and are still in their original bindings. King William IV sent these law books in 1834.

"Rare Bibles bear the dates 1564, 1595, 1561, etc.

"A small red leather book bears the coat of arms of Queen Marie Antionette, another of Charles X. King of France. One of the manuscripts bears the autograph of George Washington.

"The lover of books will enjoy a modest edition of 'Pilgrim's Progress' (1686) and examine with interest Capt. John Smith's experiences in Virginia with the mysterious savages. This is a reprint of his 1631 edition, and it must be remembered that he was the author of the first book written in America.

" 'Plutarch's Lives' is a handsome volume, published in Paris in 1634 and weighing 16 pounds. Some of the vellum bindings carry a design in tooling which has the appearance of exquisitely carved ivory.

"An interesting book could be written on the ownership, authorship, printing, book plates, and Oriental splendor of gold on leather that binds these books."

Money Talks

The seriousness of raw material shortages at this time has been indicated by Floyd B Odlum of the Office of Production Management. Mr. Odlum pointed out that 20,000 small firms might be shut down during the defense emergency because of the lack of raw material. Since many of these manufacturers are in small towns, you can see the widespread unemployment it will cause in these communities.

Both Mr. Odlum and a "small business defense committee" of Congress are holding meetings throughout the country to see what can be done to keep open these plants. In Columbus, Ohio, over 300 manufacturers and dealers told the defense committee they would have to close their businesses unless they could get a "reasonable allocation" of metals, ethyl alcohol, cottons, woolens and other raw materials.

If there are small businesses in your community which are having difficulty in securing raw materials, they should get in touch with the Office of Production Management. This office is anxious to keep small industry alive, and it may be that it can aid you in securing defense contracts and raw materials. It may pay each of you to find out where regional meetings of the OPM are being held and attend them. You can then present your problem and also indicate what type of work your plant can do and how you can fit into the defense program. Immediate investigation of these problems may bring thousands of dollars to your community in defense contracts later on. If you don't act, some other communities will, and they will receive the benefit. You cannot afford to wait.

Dairymen Attend Dairy Feeding School at Independence

Dairymen from various sections of Kenton county attended the dairy feeding school held at Independence Courthouse, Oct. 30. George M. Harris, Extension Dairyman from the Dairy Department, College of Agriculture, outlined the factors that have to do with Success in Dairying and led the question and answer part of the school after discussing Management Problems.

Factors that are important in a Good Dairy Program, which were studied at the school and are also incorporated in the University of Ky. College of Agriculture, Extension Division Circular 364, Feeding Dairy Cows.

1. Plenty of good pasture and good legume hay are practically essential for the most economical feeding of dairy cows.

2. The amount of suitable pasture and hay grown on a given farm should in a large measure determine the size of the herd for that farm.

3. Good cows give a better return for their feed than poor cows

4. A cow should freshen each year, produce milk for ten months, and then have a rest or dry period of six to eight weeks.

5. The amount and kind of grain should be determined by (a) the price of the mixture in comparison with the price of dairy products, (b) the quantity and quality of the roughage fed, (c) the condition, stage of lactation, and the daily milk production of the individual cow.

6. When concentrates are purchased, careful consideration should be given to the statement of analysis and constituents on the state official tag.

7. The importance of plenty of good water, especially during the winter months is essential in a good dairy program.

Tests have been conducted that show the milk flow can be increased from 4 to 10 percent in many cases where an abundant water supply is provided for the cows in cold and winter weather.

8. Usually the dairy enterprise is one of a number of enterprises on a farm, and it should me made to "fit in" with the others.

9. Be kind and gentle to your cows. Experience proves that it pays to treat your cows with kindness and gentleness. Fear and excitement will retard the milk flow at milking time.

10. Call at your county agent's office and get a copy of Extension Circular 364, Feeding Dairy Cows, for information that will aid you in your dairy feeding program.

Pioneer Fare

Fall is the season when we go old-fashioned in our menus more than any other time. This is partly because substantial foods are in demand when there's a chill in the air. Substantial foods like baked beans, of course, were important in the meals prepared by pioneer mothers.

If you don't have the time for the long, slow baking that is necessary to make this dish mealy and mellow, turn to the prepared oven-baked beans in cans. Your family will enjoy them every time.

You will find you can use these old-fashioned baked beans in preparing a variety of delicious main dishes, including a flavorsome stew. Here are two recipes which make one-dish meals of them:

Bean and Hamburger Casserole

Prepare—
½ pound ground beef
By seasoning with—
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper.
Arrange in bottom of shallow baking dish, then spread over it—
2 tablespoons ketchup.
Cover all with—
1 medium (18-oz.) can oven-baked beans, Boston style.
Bake, covered, in a moderate oven (375° F) 30 minutes. Serves 5.

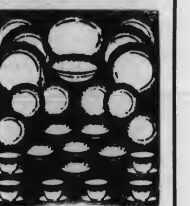
Brunswick Stew

Cut into 1½-inch pieces—
1 pound veal steak, ½ inch thick.
Brown in bacon fat with—
1 small onion, finely chopped.
Sprinkle with—
3 tablespoons flour.
Mix well and add—
1 madium (19-oz.) can tomatoes
1 medium (18-oz.) can oven-baked beans with pork and tomato sauce
1 medium (20-oz.) can whole kernel corn, drained
1½ teaspoons salt
Pepper
2 teaspoons sugar.
Stir well, then cover and simmer slowly for 20 minutes. Serve hot. Serves 6.

Fruity New Oatmeal Cookies

Oatmeal cookies are always good news, and when they have the spicy, fruity flavor of mincemeat they deserve mention in a head line. Use the prepared mincemeat that comes in cans and glass jars, for it is made by chefs expert in the art of spicing and seasoning.

Fruit and Nut Oatmeal Cookies



Sift together—
1½ cups sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt.
Cream—
⅓ cup butter.
Add gradually—
¾ cup light brown sugar (firmly packed).
Cream together thoroughly, then add—
1 egg.
Beat until light and fluffy. Add—
1 cup oatmeal (uncooked)
½ cup chopped nut meats
1 cup mincemeat.
Mix well. Add flour mixture all at once, stirring until all is moistened. Drop by tablespoons on a lightly greased cooky sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 12 to 15 minutes.

The Abundant Life Forever

CHRIST JESUS declared (John 10:10), "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." What an inspiring promise is contained in this statement! But men, while quick to see the promise which engenders within the heart a hope of fulfillment, often fail to prove practical this promise of the Master.

If we have failed individually to prove the truth of this promise, we may be helped by considering how far we have applied the rules which Jesus has given for experiencing abundant life. The difficulty may have come from reading into his words a material concept of abundance for oneself, as a surplus of material holdings. But the latter concept certainly conflicts with Jesus' precept (Luke 12:15), "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." Another reason for the failure of mankind to perceive the abundance of good in our present experience may be the mistaken supposition that the Master's promise was limited to his immediate followers. But those today who wish to prove true his promises, may, as Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, says on page 92 of "Retrospection and Introspection," "unloose the latchets of his Christliness, inherit his legacy of love, and reach the fruition of his promise: 'If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.'"

Thus it may be perceived that abundant life is not to be found in material goods, chattels, or possessions, nor was it confined to Jesus' contemporaries. Then it may be asked, "If the abundant life does not consist of physical comforts and material possessions, just what is the life which Jesus promised was to be had 'more abundantly'?" The answer to this question may be found by contemplating Jesus' own declaration. Do not his words imply that the manifestation or unfoldment of the Christ, Truth, in individual consciousness reveals God as the only Life, and that those who would be his followers must gain an understanding of Life as God, as a prerequisite to having or manifesting life "more abundantly"?

This brings up another point for consideration if we would prove the promise of Jesus, namely, adherence to the rules which he gave for our guidance. In his Sermon on the Mount the Master said (Matthew 6:31, 33): "Take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed? . . . But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." And the Master proved what he said; for he demonstrated the abundance of needful supply, in feeding multitudes on more than one occasion, in arranging for the payment of taxes, and in providing for the last supper with his disciples and the breakfast on the shore of the Sea of Galilee.

It is well for us to ask ourselves, "Are we taking thought — that is, worrying or being doubtful — as to where or how or when our human need will be met?" it is well, too, to ask ourselves, "What are we seeking?" Do we desire to satisfy our selfish wants rather than our actual needs? Are we coveting personal adornment, material success? Do we chafe in our employment or our environment? Or are we striving to understand God better, to recognize and exemplify the attributes of His divine nature? Are we earnestly seeking to express good qualities in daily experience? Are we really trying to be more loving and kind, more tolerant and patient, more willing, helpful, and obedient, in our daily contact with others? To express the qualities of the divine nature is to have life "more abundantly," for these demonstrate that of which spiritual existence is comprised. . . . — The Christian Science Monitor.

REPENTANCE AND FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Luke 15:11-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Repent ye, and believe the gospel.—Mark 1:15.

Sin with its devastating consequences has its only remedy in the salvation which is in Christ Jesus. He died to set us free from the penalty, the power, and ultimately the very presence of sin. However, His death, which was for all mankind, is effective only for those who in repentance and faith accept His redeeming grace and turning from their sin.

I. Worldly Pleasure Brings Sorrow (vv. 11-16).

Selfishness is at the heart of sin, which is essentially self-will over against God's will. The younger son, who represents the sinner, wanted his own way. He suffered from

1. Restlessness Under Restraint (vv. 11, 12). The father loved his son and sought his welfare by proper parental control, but the boy wanted to be free to live as he pleased. God loves all men and seeks by loving and gracious restraint to lead them in ways of righteousness and peace. But they, while they want His blessings, are often eager to get away from His guiding hand.

2. A Request Resulting in Responsibility (vv. 12, 13). When the prodigal asked for his inheritance he took upon himself full responsibility for its use. The man who refuses to have Christ rule over his life assumes a grave and heavy burden which he is not able to bear.

It is an awful thing to rule God out of one's life, to attempt to steer a successful course through the stormy sea of life. Why do it? It will always result in loss and failure.

3. Riotous Living Leading to Reproach (vv. 13-16). In the "far country" he found for a time what we call "fun," but it led to bitter sorrow. To the flesh there are "pleasures of sin" (Heb. 11:25), but they are only "for a season"; that is, very short lived—and they come high. The devil is not such a fool as to go fishing without bait. The pleasures of sin are the devil's bait, and they always have a hook in them. If you bite at the devil's bait you will soon have the devil's hook in your gills and be in the bottom of the devil's boat" (John W. Bradbury).

The end of Satan's "fun" road was a pigpen in a far country. That may not always be literally true (although it happens often enough), but it is always true spiritually. Men and women are in a state of spiritual collapse and disgrace because they have rejected God's way. But there is a way out.

II. Godly Sorrow Brings Joy (vv. 17-24).

Paul tells us that "godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation" and thus differs from "the sorrow of the world" which "worketh death" (II Cor. 7:10). The prodigal found his way back to the father's house. First, there came to him

1. Remembrance and Realization (vv. 17-19). He began to think. If men and women could only be made to think we would have more repentance, but Satan tries to keep them too busy to think. He remembered what he had as a son in his father's household. What memories will your boy have in his hour of need? You are writing that record now.

He "came to himself." The man in sin is really unbalanced, subnormal, not himself, spiritually insane. When he "came to" he knew that he was in the way of the perishing. Then came

2. Repentance and Return (vv. 20, 21). To repent means to change your mind, to turn your life in an "about face" from sin to God. Repentance calls for more than thinking or talking or praying. One must act. The young man "arose and came to his father." That was his part, and then came the father's part—

3. Restoration and Rejoicing (vv. 22-24). The son expected to return as a hired servant, but his father restored him to full family fellowship. God is gracious, and the repentant sinner finds himself clad in the spotless robe of Christ's righteousness, wearing the ring of sonship, with shoes on his feet, so that he may go on the errands of his Father.

God's plan of salvation brings no half-way redemption. There are no stepsons or distant relatives in His family. It is a full salvation which brings glorious fellowship in life and service.

You who are still eating the husks of this world, who are in the far country tending swine, we invite you too to come to God and share in the rejoicing in the Father's house.

Life a Struggle

Life is a struggle, but not a warfare; it is a day's labor, but labor on God's earth, under the sun and stars with other laborers, where we may think and sing and rejoice as we work.—John Burroughs.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist. THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of worldwide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and discreet medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

SAVE and SACK the BEANS

WHILE chopping and storing the hay, the new Letz mill with grain separator sacks the beans. Saving high priced beans soon pays for a Letz—the surest money maker for any livestock farm.

Says Letz user, Lee Chatham, Danville, Indiana, "We chopped and blew into the mow 72 acres of soybean hay. We sacked 1,000 bushels of Manchu beans, keeping some for seed, reclearing and selling the rest for $1.25 per bushel. These beans brought us in over $1000.00."

Come in and investigate this wonderful machine. For most farmers feeding beef or dairy cattle, lambs or hogs, the Letz mill saves its cost and more the first season used. Let us demonstrate one for you.

THE LIQUOR BUSINESS AND THE NATIONAL EMERGENCY

NOTE: The following article is taken from the Review and Herald, a church paper, and was brought to us for publication by a subscriber.—Ed.

We have just finished reading a ten-page release sent out to the press by the Anti-Saloon League of America. In it, two main points are brought out forcefully: first the relation of liquor to national defense, and second, the relation of liquor to crime. The Anti-Saloon League rightly stresses the fact that the health of the citizenry is most important in a time of national emergency, and that the conserving of individual and family resources is likewise important.

With these premises as a base, the Anti-Saloon League proceeds to marshal the fact, more or less generally known now, of the malnourished state of many millions of people in this country. This is followed immediately by the declaration that the problem in the United States at present is not lack of food, for there is abundant production in this land; the difficulty, rather, is underconsumption. This underconsumption is due, in most instances, to limited finances on the part of possible consumers. Department of Agriculture authorities declare that two thirds of the population has an average cash income of only $69 a family per month and that 20,000,000 of them can spend only five cents a meal for food.

Most Liquor Money From Poor

It is in the setting of such hard and startling facts as these that the disastrous effect of liquor drinking can best be seen. It is a pathetic fact that through all the years, the poor have been as much addicted to drink as the rich. Now a dollar spent for liquor is a dollar that cannot be spent for food. During 1940 the estimated expenditure for alcoholic beverages was $4.500,000,000. It would be impossible to say how much was spent by those of limited income, but it would be reasonable to conclude that the very great part of this was spent by those of limited means. We are safe in drawing such a conclusion for the following reasons:

Those who have better than a daily wage are a very small fraction of the population. This small fraction who have all the money they need for groceries and for anything else besides, have stomachs no larger than poor people, and thus only a limited capacity for liquor. Theoretically, they might drink vastly more, but everyone knows that those on the better financial levels are no more likely to be found intoxicated than those on the low economic levels. Cheap drinking places, frequented by only poor workingmen, are just as crowded as palatial bars—yes, more crowded—and there are a great many more of them. We repeat, therefore, that it is not unreasonable to conclude that a very large part of the $4.500.000,000 squandered on alcoholic beverages last year came out of the pockets of wage earners who could ill afford to spend the money for that which is not bread. It is a notorious fact that some of this money was spent by those on Government relief.

A Strange Spectacle

Thus we have the strange spectacle today, of a federal government tremendosly aroused to the need of better nutrition to make a stronger citizenry for national defense, while at the same time legalizing a business which unquestionably takes out of the pockets of millions of people several billions of dollars that ought to have been spent for better food. Yes, and not only is something taken out of their pockets, but something is put into their stomachs instead, that not only fails to build health, but actually tears it down. If there is anything more irrational than this, we have not heard of it.

The Anti-Saloon League, in the release we are discussing, draws another contrast between liquor drinking and economic strength. Attention is called to the fact that the $4.500.000,000 spent for liquor in one year would enable twenty million persons to buy an $18.75 Government bond every month for the whole year. Now the maturity value of these Government bonds would be $5,000.000,000. Maturity value of the year's investment in liquor will be vice, crime, disease, poverty, insanity, social and family difficulties, accidents, lowered efficiency, etc.

Liquor and Crime

And this brings us to the other half of the picture, the relation of liquor consumption to vice and crime. We did not have to wait until the year 1940 to learn that liquor is always closely related to immorality, vice, and crime of every sort. Nor did we have to wait until this present year to discover that liquor drinking is closely related to accidents of all kinds and to lowered efficiency. One of the great problems confronting a country in time of national emergency is that of a wholesome environment for the hundreds of thousands of young men who have been taken from their homes to camps in different parts of the land. The most drastic steps have had to be taken in many instances to keep unregulated liquor establishments, with their twin evil of commercialized vice, at a safe distance from military camps. It is no puritanical prohibition fervor that prompts Army officers to drastic action in these matters. With them it is a question both of morale and of morals, of health and of good discipline. Liquor does not blend with any of these; it is the enemy of all of them. In an hour of national emergency, it is not only drinking youth who pay a price. The country that has called them into these training camps pays an even greater price.

Though we as Seventh-day Adventists are non-combatants, we are certainly not blind to certain important facts that have to do with modern combat. One of these is that modern warfare is mechanized warfare. Intricate machinery calls for clear heads and steady hands; otherwise it is likely to prove dangerous only to the man who uses it. This is a simple statement of fact entirely apart from the question of noncombatancy. The great factories of the land today are being turned to the task of manufacturing delicate equipment for a modern mechanized army, while Army canteens are allowed to operate full blast. But alcohol has the same effect on the human constitution whether it is purchased from an unregulated private tavern or from a supervised Army canteen.

As a denomination, we are against both war and liquor. We can only hope that in this disordered world of ours, we may once more see one evil tending to offset another and the wrath of man being made to praise God. We believe that the logic of the facts and the long history of liquor will serve to place it under an increasing ban as national emergency increases. It is not unreasonable to believe that we may witness, as we did in 1917 and 1918, that war, or at least the danger of war, may prove to be one of the greatest forces working against the liquor industry.—F. STRAIGHT FROM NEW YORK

PEPLUMS ARE POPULAR

The new "interrupted silhouette" this year is achieved with peplums, tiers and tunics. This New York creation features a perky, pleated peplum that fastens on like a little apron over this featherweight wool dress of rascal red. Slanted pockets are hidden beneath the peplum to complement the high pockets on the bodice. The look is soft and feminine, typical of this season's fashion trend.

MORGANSVILLE

"Therefore be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of man cometh." We should ever be ready to meet the Lord, and our going leave behind a clear testimony of faith in God, and of consistent Christian living. "He gives the most who bravely lends a hand." To help his brother in his hour of need, God keeps the record. He can understand, and of our slightest services will take heed.

Warmly appreciated was the recent kindness of Miss Clare Sisson in giving roses while their fragrance may be inhaled. A gloom of sadness was cast over this community October 18, when word was received that Al Crouch of near here had ended his life by hanging himself in his barn. He was one of the most highly respected men of his community. If he had an enemy, no one knew it. He was a fine Christian character, one of the outstanding members of Wesley Chapel church. He will be sadly missed. His health had been failing him for some time, which could have been the only cause for ending his life. He was 76 yrs. of age and leaves to mourn for him, his devoted wife, nine children, namely: Mrs. Dan Beach, Mrs. Ike Hutton, Mrs. Lawrence Crouch, Stanley Crouch and Rosco Crouch of Elliston; Bill Crouch of Jonesville; Mrs. Edward Dowell and Jim Crouch of Covington; Mrs. Helan Salyers of Cincinnati; two brothers and two sisters, Mrs. Kate Delph and Bob Crouch of Elliston, and John Crouch and Mrs. Ed Webster of Covington; twenty grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. His funeral was preached at the Wesley Chapel church by his pastor, Rev. Gilbert, in the presence of a large crowd of sorrowing relatives and friends. His body was laid to rest in the Jr. O. U. A. MORE PORK and BEEF
This year hogs have been selling at the highest prices in three years. Home defense demands for pork are increasing every day and exports to Great Britain take up all we can spare. Moreover, the demand for beef is just as great. Defense workers, soldiers, people in war-torn countries—all must be fed by the pork and beef American farmers produce!
Purina Hog Chow and Steer Fatena are built to bring top results in the feedlot. For example, for years many experienced feeders have produced 100 lbs. of pork in dry lots on about 5½ bu. grain and 50 lbs. Hog Chow. They have fed Steer Fatena for fast gains, early to market and more money for their grain. So drop in to see us. We'll show you records that prove these feeds can bring top results at low cost!

Final Drive, Fair Grounds Donations

The final drive to secure sufficient funds to procure a permanent Fair Grounds and Picnic Grounds was being made by the committeemen this week, according to H. R. Forkner. The final meeting to decide whether it will be possible to purchase the grounds will be held at Burlington Courthouse this (Thursday) evening at 7:45 p. m.

The committeemen report encouraging results, but indications are that the amount pledged will fall considerable short unless substantial pledges are made before Thursday evening.

Encouraging reports to the committee early this week were when the following looked up their local committee and, without solicitation, volunteered their pledges as follows:

C. I. Sahlfeld, Bullittsville, $50; Frank DeMoisey, Walton, $25; E. C. Roberts, Walton, $25.

We have the opportunity now to secure a site that will serve as a foundation for a permanent event in displaying our agricultural, home economics and industrial products, which represent the newest, the best and most improved in our productions. We will also have the opportunity to gather annually on the soil under the shade of trees that were fifty years ago known as Hawkins' Woods and Picnic Grounds, and today as Smith's Woods.

Our opportunity to secure these grounds will expire Thursday night, unless more of our people can come forward while we still have time to act. See your local committeeman now, or phone in your pledge to Charles Riley, County Attorney, or the County Agent's office, before tonight. The hard way—public donations is the plan—but the good way. The non-profit, public spirited plan that will never need to sell out to undesirable concessions in order to operate, is being followed. The success of this plan depends on you. Act now—this very minute.

S. K. Pioneers Win Opening Contest

The Simon Kenton Pioneers inaugurated their 1941-42 basketball season last Friday night by being hosts to the Crittenden basketeers.

A large crowd was present to witness the goings-on, which were very satisfactory to the S. K. fans as the Kenton county lads won both games. The clash between the first-stringers was really a nip-and-tuck affair for the first 16 minutes of play, with Crittenden being on top 19 to 18 at the intermission. As the game progressed in the last half, the Pioneers gained momentum and outscored their opponents 21 to 6 in the last half—the final count being 39 to 25, with Simon Kenton on the long end.

Morgan and Collier led the winners' attack, scoring 8 points each; and for Crittenden, Mullins and May were the best, also registering 8 markers each.

In the curtain-raiser, the Simon Kenton reserves took the Crittenden reserves into camp 14 to 9.

The school band, under the direction of Mr. Thake, supplied entertainment between games and during intermissions.

Basketball Season Opens Here Nov. 19

The basketball season is to open in Walton on November 19 when the Dry Ridge Cardinals come here to play the Bearcats.

Coach Lewis Shields has had his charges at work for quite some time and, according to reports, the boys have been looking pretty good in their pre-season work-outs. With the exception of Stan McElroy, who has an injured ankle, the Cats are in good condition and ready for the opening gong.

Coach Shields expects to carry fifteen men on the squad, and they are as follows: Stanley McElroy, Paul Simpson, Harry Mayhugh, Leon Pennington, Russell Groger, Truett DeMoisey, Lawrence Welch, Ray Coyle, Clifford Ryan, Charles Holder, Jimmie Pennington, LaVerne Ryan, Gaines Edward Huey, Bill Piner and John Taylor.

The future is bright for the Bearcats. They have the same group of boys on hand this year as last season, but the schedule is really tough, and they will have to play first class ball in order to end the season on the right side of the ledger.

Don't forget the opening tilt will be played at the local hardwood on Wednesday evening, Nov. 19th. Two games are on tap.

Tuesday evening the Bearcats played a practice tilt with Frank DeMoisey's Florence Baptist church team, and in an over-time session were able to win 26-20. The locals looked none too good in this initial showing, but we all have hopes of improvement.

INDEPENDENCE GIRL WED NOVEMBER 11th

S. K. Pioneers Win Opening Contest

The Simon Kenton Pioneers inaugurated their 1941-42 basketball season last Friday night by being hosts to the Crittenden basketeers.

A large crowd was present to witness the goings-on, which were very satisfactory to the S. K. fans as the Kenton county lads won both games. The clash between the first-stringers was really a nip-and-tuck affair for the first 16 minutes of play, with Crittenden being on top 19 to 18 at the intermission. As the game progressed in the last half, the Pioneers gained momentum and outscored their opponents 21 to 6 in the last half—the final count being 39 to 25, with Simon Kenton on the long end.

Morgan and Collier led the winners' attack, scoring 8 points each; and for Crittenden, Mullins and May were the best, also registering 8 markers each.

In the curtain-raiser, the Simon Kenton reserves took the Crittenden reserves into camp 14 to 9.

The school band, under the direction of Mr. Thake, supplied entertainment between games and during intermissions.

REV. A. K. JOHNSON HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

A number of relatives and friends assembled at the hospitable home of Rev. and Mrs. A. K. Johnson of South Walton, Sunday, after attending church to help in celebrating Rev. Johnson's seventy-first birthday.

About 1:30, "Happy Birthday" was sung by the group, as they were entering the dining room, where the tables were filled with a variety of meats, pickles, vegetables, delicious salads, pies and cakes. Basketball Season Opens Here Nov. 19

The basketball season is to open in Walton on November 19 when the Dry Ridge Cardinals come here to play the Bearcats.

Coach Lewis Shields has had his charigers at work for quite some time and, according to reports, the boys have been looking pretty good in their pre-season work-outs. With the exception of Stan McElroy, who has an injured ankle, the Cats are in good condition and ready for the opening gong.

Coach Shields expects to carry fifteen men on the squad, and they are as follows: Stanley McElroy, Paul Simpson, Harry Maybugh, Leon Pennington, Russell Groger, Truett DeMoisey, Lawrence Welch, Ray Coyle, Clifford Ryan, Charles Holder, Jimmie Pennington, LaVerne Ryan, Gaines Edward Huey, Bill Piner and John Taylor.

The future is bright for the Bearcats. They have the same group of boys on hand this year as last season, but the schedule is really tough, and they will have to play first class ball in order to end the season on the right side of the ledger.

Don't forget the opening tilt will be played at the local hardwood on Wednesday evening, Nov. 19th. Two games are on tap.

Tuesday evening the Bearcats played a practice tilt with Frank DeMoisey's Florence Baptist church team, and in an over-time session were able to win 26-20. The locals looked none too good in this initial showing, but we all have hopes of improvement.

This Week In Defense

The President, speaking by radio, said "The choice we have to make is this: Shall we make our full sacrifice now, produce to the limit, and deliver our products today and every day to the battlefronts of the entire world? Or shall we remain satisfied with our present rate of armament output, postponing the day of real sacrifice—as did the French—until it is too late?

"The first," the President said, "is the choice of realism—realism in terms of three shifts a day; the fullest use of every vital machine every minute of every day and every night; . . . staying on the job and getting things made, and entrusting industrial grievances to the established machinery of collective bargaining . . The second choice is the approach of the blind . . . for them there is still 'plenty of time' . . . And their tombstones would bear the legend 'Too late' . . . "

In a statement issued regarding Civilian Defense Week, Nov. 11-16, the President said "Each and every citizen as a civilian must do his share for defense . . . We must halt the waste and unnecessary use of critical materials required for defense. We must work longer hours . . . And each of us must be trained in some task that is essential to our total defense. . ."

Lend-Lease Aid

The President arranged a $1,000,000,000 loan to Russia under the Lend-Lease Act. The loan carries no interest. Repayment—partly in materials—will start five years after the war ends and is to be completed in 10 years from that time. Observing the 24th anniversary of the Soviet revolution, the President telegraphed the Soviet Government. "I am confident that the sacrifices and sufferings of those who have the courage to struggle against agression will not have been in vain."

The Navy authorized construction of 50 escort vessels for transfer to Great Britian under the Lend-Lease Act at a cost of $300,000,000. The State Department announced a lend-lease agreement with Cuba involving an undisclosed amount of U. S. defense supplies for that country and supplies of sugar, tobacco and manganese in return.

Other Foreign Relations

State Secretary Hull announced the U. S. transmitted to Finland a peace offer from the Soviet Union with the advice that Finland must give evidence of willingness to discontinue military operations against Russia if Finland wishes to keep U. S. friendship. Mr. Hull also announced that if Germany does not now pay $2,967,000 damages for sinking the Robin Moor, the claim would be grouped with other pending cases for adjustment after the war. The President told a press conference the U. S. is considering withdrawing Marine detachments from China. Japan dispatched a special envoy to the U. S. for further discussion of Far Eastren problems.

Ships Attacked

The Navy announced the U. S. S. Salinas, Navy oil tanker, reached port safely and without loss of life despite serious damage from a torpedo the night of Oct. 29-30 while in a convoy near Iceland. The Navy revised its list of causualties on the destroyer Reuben James to show two known dead and 98 missing and given up for dead. The vessel was torpedoed while convoying near Iceland. There were 45 survivors.

Navy Strengthened

The President transferred the entire Coast Guard to the Navy Department and asked Congress for an additional $449,820,000 for the Navy. The Coast Guard transfer gave the Navy 230 patrol and auxiliary vessels and a large number of in-shore and port craft

Ships Building

The Navy reported that during the first 10 months of 1941, keels were laid for 115 new combatant ships, 34 ships were launched and 25 ships were commissioned. The Maritime Commission reported the first three Liberty cargo ships will be delivered the week of Nov. 18. The Commission has so far launched 148 new ships and delivered 118 as result of its long-range and emergency programs.

Army Progress

The War Department reported the rate of delivery of critical armament and ammunition to the Army by June, 1942, will be 360 times the rate during May, 1940—when $1,000,000 worth was delivered. The rate, the Department said, increased 40 times by June of this year, 60 times by September, and 80 times by October.

The Army also announced increase in the rate of training of motor maintenance officers by four times, battalion commanders and communications officers by 100 percent, and aircraft warning service men by 900 percent. The Army also reported the rate of accidents in military flying during the past year remained unchanged despite greatly increased training and tactical flying and use of new and faster ships.

Fuel Coordinator

The President appointed Interior Secretary Ickes to coordinate information regarding solid fuels (coal, coke, wood, etc.) as well as oil and to make recommendations to the Supply Priorities and Allocations Board as to production, storage, transportation, marketing and other phases of the relationship of fuels to the defense program. The SPAB refused priority assistance for construction of a pipeline from East Texas to Bayonne, N. J. and said its action "constituted a final disapproval." Mr. Ickes announced 15 U. S. oil tankers were released from British service during Oct. and 25 more will be released this month.

Power

The President asked Congress for $30,000,000 for additional power facilities in the Bonneville power system because "a critical power shortage in this area is now imminent." The OPM postponed from November 10 to November 17 the planned 30 percent power curtailment for non-defense industries in six Southern States.

Prices

Price Administrator Henderson asked heating and cooking stove manufacturers not to increase prices above October 24 levels and radio and radio-phonograph combination manufacturers not to increase prices above October 15 levels. He said price programs are being formulated for both industries. The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill which would freeze apartment, house and hotel rents in the District of Columbia as they were on January 1, 1941.

Materials

Lessing J. Rosenwald, Chief of the OPM Bureau of Industrial Conservation, announced the Government will soon begin a series of continuous campaigns to seek out unneeded household rubber, iron, aluminum, paper, steel, copper (which OPM said this week was more scarce than any other needed material), lead, zinc, and cotton and wool. In the new campaigns materials would be given outright or sold to scrap and junk dealers who would resell to defense industries. Price Administrator Henderson reported 400,000 members of the Boys' Clubs of America in 360 cities are enlisting in the nation's waste-paper salvage campaign now underway.

Labor Disputes

The President's fact - finding board set up to adjust a wage dispute in the railroad industry recommended that approximately 350,000 members of the "Big Five" Operating Brotherhoods receive an increase of 7½ percent. The Brotherhoods had asked for a 30 percent increase for these men. For 800,000 other employees the board recommended an increase averaging 13½ percent. The increases were termed by the board as temporary pending a re-examination of economic conditions in 1943. The railroads accepted the proposals. The unions rejected them.

The U. S. Conciliation Service reported settlement of 36 labor disputes.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Washington is giving a lot of belated attention these rectic days to the problem of the small businessman.

On September 4, the President appointed Floyd B. Odlum to head a Division of Contract Distribution for the OPM. Mr. Odlum, after a rapid survey of the situation in which the small businessman found himself, said his job should have been started six months or maybe a year before. Some 20,000 small industries had "died overnight" when England turned to all-out war production, and he's determined to prevent that kind of dislocation resulting from all-out defense here if he can.

Mr. Odlum has taken on a job of gigantic proportions. He's up against the fact that neither the Army nor Navy people believe small business and defense can be mixed. They look upon the subcontracting program as a type of "relief" necessary politically, but a thorn in the side of defense. The big companies, having patriotically accepted contracts forced upon them by government demand, are being accused of hogging the work which actually government officials should have broken up and spread throughout industry. Military officials have argued that many small producers are high-cost producers, failing to realize that in times of emergency higher cost producers have their place. A time of emergency is certainly a time for utilizing all machines, all equipment, all producers.

Many businessmen warned the Administration time and again that small business most be utilized more fully. The National Association of Manufacturers early this year instituted a self-census by industry whereby every manufacturer, no matter how small, was urged to register, to make known his facilities available for defense contracts or subcontracts. More than 18,000 individual concerns were registered, in addition to about 12,000 which the armed services had already surveyed. All the data was filed with the OPM.

Manufacturers in many small towns also arranged to pool their facilities in the plan fashioned after that used in York, Pa. And some startling results were achieved by industry's own efforts to spread the work. For example, in the New York City area more than $800,000,000 of defense work is sublet. In the Rochester, N. Y. area, the 170 prime contractors let work to 2,000 main subcontractors who in turn spread the work out even wider. But such efforts left many communities still untouched.

Mr. Odlum found when he took office that the government contract service had 39 field offices in September. He plans to have 200 offices and to employ 4,000 persons (all but 400 in the field). He has requested a budget of $25,000,000. Already in preparation are three exhibit trains which will tour through 27 states to display to manufacturers the parts and pieces the Government wants somebody to make. You'll probably be seeing these trains beginning some time in November.

Congressmen, who've been getting frantic appeals from their communities back home, where labor is slipping away, factories working half-time or closing up, and relief loads increasing, are bitter about the failure of the Administration to take heed of the problems of small business. In addition, they accuse the government planners of failing to plan at all, of instituting a system of raw-materials controls that leaves nothing for non-defense industries and creates artificial scarcities.

Stories of panic-buying by the Navy and the War Department are reaching Congressional ears. Reports are that the Navy Department, for example, ordered six million dollars worth of monel metal valves, thus placing a top priority on this alloy largely composed of hard-to-get nickel, though the valves couldn't be used until other parts were finished—in a year. Odder reports even than this come in—of companies receiving steel with which to manufacture munitions before they could get steel to start building the munitions plant, of steel plates being stored for months before the ships' keels could even be laid.

So Congress is worrying about whether Mr. Odlum will be able to stem the flood of unemployment arising from the muddled handling of defense orders and of raw materials allocations. Preliminary returns of a nation-wide defense unemployment survey point to reduced employment and production in many communities throughout the country. Industries producing stoves, clocks, watches, radios and phonographs, engines, and others have been markedly hit. How many can change over to defense if they are given the opportunity? And if they cannot make the switch, will they be able to obtain materials enough to keep alive?

With the sights of the defense efforts being raised to a point which envisions the use of all critical raw materials which can be produced in the two Americas there is no question that material for non-defense industry will be scarcer and scarcer. The doubled tank program just announced is just the beginning of a tremendously broadened defense program all along the line. Upon Capitol Hill, therefore, Mr. Congressman is wondering how to answer letters asking how defense will affect this and that community. He is quietly praying Mr. Odlum will bring forth a miracle.

The Unusual and Signs

"Ef hit ain't nachel, hit's a sign." Most people who fail to stop and think look upon the unusual as protentous. The son can rise in glory every morning for a lifetime without causing any comment or fear or hope. But if it seems the least bit different, then something is coming. The less superstitious would say that the weather is about to change, that certain atmospheric conditions are responsible for the sunrise that differs from the ordinary. The more superstitious would regard the odd sunrise as a sure indicator of God's disapproval or approval of what men have been doing. The rainbow, perpetually interesting and alluring, is excepted a little less as a matter of course, since rainbows do not occur very frequently. When there is a double rainbow, at once some one fears that we are in for a severe storm or fair weather or even some national change.

The commonness of the happening measures the seriousness of regarding it as a sign. A daily or weekly event, which can be expected and known in advance, leaves the superstitious cold. Put an irregular interval between two phenomena, and fear starts. The aurora borealis, however common it may be in the northern parts of America and still farther north, rarely appears in Kentucky. Some of the fearful ones can recall through the years the few times they have seen this brilliant display of light and color. Many a person has told me of these occurrances and associated them with some serious happening in the family or the nation. In the midst of the World War a brilliant aurora appeared, lighting all the northern heavens. Fortunately, I saw it, though it was dimmed slightly by the lights of the town. Hundreds of other people saw it distinctly and declared that it took the form and color of the American flag. That meant, of course, that the atmospheric conditions were decreeing and publishing our victory over Germany. Now, I would not say that the aurora took no such form, but it certainly did not while I was looking. Maybe my eyes were a bit too honest and skeptical.

Many rare occurrences of another nature provoke thought and fear. "A whistling girl and a crowing hen," you remember, "always come to some bad end." Whether this was seriously believed in my childhood I do not know. Certainly it gave us a queer feeling to see a hen stretch her neck after the fashion of a rooster and attempt, very tamely, to imitate his ringing shout. I am sure we had little fear for the mannish girl who whistled, since most of the girls had long ago learned how to make the sounds that so delighted or comforted them as they worked about the house. It must be admitted that girls can never get the greatest joy out of whistling, since they probably do not have so many calls on their courage, which since the earliest days of man has been renewed by whistling.

A list of exceptional things that are signs or have some potency would be almost endless. A child born with teeth showing will be an idiot; a child born with a caul will be a prophet; even a black cat, not as common as yellow or gray ones, becomes a sign of evil. The black sheep that is in every flock and family may be inwardly as white as the rest of them; his being an exception makes him weared or despised.

To beat the drouth, Fayette county farmers cleaned ponds, springs, wells and other waterholes, and constructed spillways on earth dams.

Money Talks

Frederick Stamm, Economist

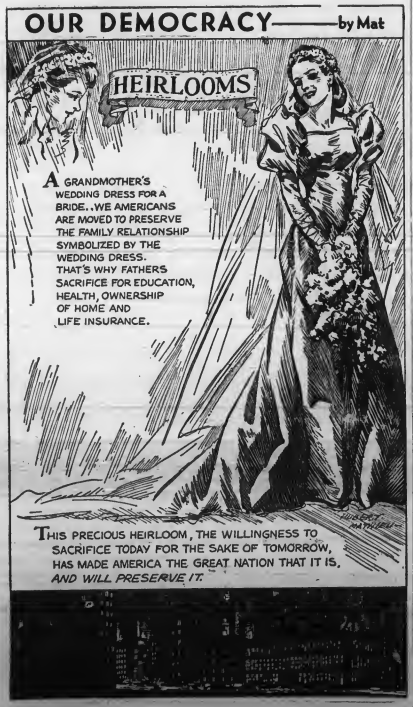
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

The Canadian Government last week imposed a strict price and wage ceiling on all agricultural and manufactured products as well as on all labor. These anti-inflation measures have been characterized by some as the "strictest economic regimentation yet attempted in any democratic country." It may be "economic regimentation," but we must recognize at once its fairness to all classes, — farmers, industrialists, labor.

Wage ceilings now in effect in all war industries will be extended on November 15th to cover all industry. The Government, realizing labor's distaste for wage ceilings, softened the blow somewhat by assurances of bonuses to cover increases in the cost of living.



The Canadian farmers also dislike price fixing as much as our farmers do, but the Government realized that no price measure could be effective without including farm commodities.

Price ceilings will be set Nov. 17th. The ceiling will be the maximum prices or rates charged during the four weeks from Sept. 15th to Oct. 11th of this year. This stops price rise and covers everything you can think of. It places a ceiling on foodstuffs, clothing, fuel, rent, electricity, gas, water, telephone, telegraph, tailoring, railway, bus and airplane fares, plumbing, dry cleaning and the supply of meals and refreshments, etc.

Canada has applied this rigid law because its Government sees the danger of inflation. In the meantime our Congressmen are trying to decide what to do about inflation symptoms here, without knocking down the political fences they have built up back home. Ever since the beginning of this war, wages, prices and the cost of living have risen persistently. There is no doubt that inflation has started rolling in this country. It is just a question of how far it will go. Unless Congress is willing to look at this problem as the Canadian Government has, and regulates wages and prices without any thought of politics, we may see some real inflation.

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Morning View Hill Farmers Discuss Projects for 1942

Farmers in the Morning View hill section met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Parr, Friday night to discuss farm projects for 1942.

Dairymen are planning to hold a dairy-feeding discussion group at the farm of Roscoe Mullins during the latter part of November or early December to study local dairy feeding problems, balanced feeding, management and other factors that relate to cost of milk production.

The sheep producers in this section, in cooperation with Clif Cavanaugh are planning lamb grading demonstrations and a study of feeding practices that will aid in marketing lambs.

Alfalfa production, pasture improvement, through seeding of poor pastures with lespedeza and grass in the spring, tobacco plant-bed management, erosion control, poultry management, and better home gardens will be a part of the program for the year.

Conservation — Stop Burning Your Leaves

Make LEAF COMPOST. Excellent soil and plant food material can be conserved by making compost from your leaves. Pile your leaves in a place where they will be out of the way and make alternate layers of leaves and soil and let the compost rot. According to plant food specialists you can make your own B1 plant food by making compost out of leaves and a little soil. Plant food minerals are conserved this way.

In Whitley county, several more fields of rye were seeded last month, with larger acreages.

Canning and "food for freedom" demonstrations and talks last month attracted many Floyd county homemakers.

More than 15,000 national defense pamphlets were distributed by Perry county 4-H club members.

Mrs. W. E. Davis, Powell county, had 3½ dozens of eggs per day from her flock of 72 pullets last month.

ROADSIDE BEAUTIFICATION PROJECT

Boone County persons who appreciate Civic beauty will be glad to know that the State Highway Department, through the interest of Lyter Donaldson, Commissioner, will guide and assist Boone County Homemakers and other interested citizens in a roadside beautification project.

Friday afternoon, Oct. 31, the County Homemakers Committee on Landscaping met with William Schlosser, State Highway Landscape Architect of the 5th District, to plan procedure for carrying on the project. A "model" planting will be placed on two stretches of the Burlington-Florence road. Definite locations will be announced later. Trees and shrubs will be provided through generous donations from Homemakers throughout the county. Mr. Schlosser will plan and direct this work. It is hoped that every landowner will cooperate with the program, and if native shrubs or trees are available, will contribute such to the plantings, clean fence rows or in other ways help to carry out the plan.

After the county "model" planting is completed the same guidance will be given to local groups in planting their community "models." These models will exemplify principles in selection of trees, shrubs, vines, flowers; where and why of following certain rules in planting and locating plants on banks, grades, narrow road margins, curves, drainage, sheds or other situations. If you are interested in seeing all Boone County roadsides as beautiful as Highway 42, talk this plan to your neighbors, offer the committee donations in money or plants, and check up on what you can do to beautify your own roadside.

Members of the County Committee of Homemakers are: Mrs. Garnet Tolin, Chairman; Mrs. J. F. Cleek, Mrs. John Vest, Mrs. Charles Engle, Mrs. J. C. Layne and Mrs. Mary Scott Moore, Acting Home Demonstration Agent.

A litter of 10 purebred pigs owned by J. A. Barber in Washington county weighed 2,116 lbs. when 166 days old.

Kenton county homemakers are continuing to plant shrubs as a minor project.

HYBRID CORN INCREASES YIELDS

Hybrid corn, harvested from demonstration plots on the farms of Ira Tanner, Florence; Shelby Beemon, Florence, and Reuben E. Kirtley, Hamilton, produced on an average of 50% more per acre this year than local varieties grown under similar conditions, according to Franklin Frazier, Assistant County Agent.

The average calculated yield per acre from all hybrids was 51.4 bushels, compared with a yield of only 32.4 bushels per acre from local varieties. Therefore, the hybrid corn produced an average of 19 bushels of corn more per acre.

Kentucky 69 lead other white hybrids with an increased yield of 68.5 percent over local varieties. U. S. 13 produced more than other varieties of yellow hybrid grown in ridge land, while in the Ohio River bottoms, Kentucky 103 produced the largest amount.

Dry weather, experienced by these farmers during a large part of the growing season, was a primary factor in bringing about an outstanding increase in the yield of hybrids over that of local varieties. Hybrid corn has a more extensive root system than local varieties, and, naturally the superior root system was effective in bringing about increased yields. During an average season hybrid corn can be expected to yield about 20% more than local varieties.

MORGANSVILLE

"The wages of sin is death." Not only does it bring its awful harvest in this life, but it ends in eternal night if it is allowed to go on to its fruition.

Heartiest congratulations are extended to the Falmouth Baptist church on the cancellation of the indebtedness which had overshadowed their lovely structure costing approximately $45,000.

C. O. Morgan paid the last tribute of respect to the memory of Robert S. Perry at his late residence on Maple Ave., Newport, Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Perry was a friend of long standing, having passed his boyhood and early years of young manhood on his father's farm here. Years ago Mr. Morgan served as best man at his wedding to Miss Florence Ring at Butler Christian church.

Announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Margaret Settle and Mr. Thomas McClure is of interest to a wide circle who extend warmest felicitations.

Million Red Cross Volunteers Aid Defense Program

Washington, D. C.—Behind the front lines of U. S. defenses more than 1,200,000 Red Cross volunteers are on the job—making surgical dressings, knitting sweaters and giving comfort articles, learning the rudiments of emergency mass feeding and scores of other duties in an all-out effort for national defense.

The largest defense task now being undertaken by Red Cross volunteers is the production of 40,000,000 surgical dressings for the Army and Navy, according to Mrs. Dwight F. Davis, national director of Volunteer Special Services. The undertaking came to the Red Cross at the request of the surgeons general of the Army and Navy when a survey revealed commercial manufacturers could provide only ten per cent of the surgical dressings needed.

Home Service volunteers and Gray Ladies, whose duties are directly concerned with the man in uniform also are expanding their programs, Mrs. Davis said.

As a preparedness measure, thousands of women throughout the country are learning mass feeding and nutrition as members of the Red Cross Canteen Corps. Added thousands are being trained in the Motor Corps to serve as emergency drivers.

Verona Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Dartha Dance on Friday, Nov. 7, with the president Mrs. Pearl Lamn, presiding. The leaders, Mrs. Maude Wilson and Mrs. Grace Renaker, presented the lesson in a very acceptable manner, the subject being "The Family Meal Hour." The proper method of setting the table was demonstrated and members were urged to use the knowledge gained in improved practices—serving well balanced meals attractively. At the close of this discussion members were given an opportunity of the library service. Several books were taken out. We consider the distribution of good books a splendid addition to benefits derivet from the Homemakers service. At the noon hour lunch, which was prepared according to directions brought from the training class by the leaders, was enjoyed by all. In the afternoon the business of the club was transacted. Response to roll call was an expression of "something for which I am thankful." Necessary appropriation of funds were made to several causes, literature distributed, committees reported, etc. Mrs. Moore urged members to obtain loose leaf note books, that material gathered in our study might be preserved and made more easily accessible. Mrs. Dance was a gracious hostess, as the following members and guests will agree: Mesdames Pearl Lamn, Maude Wilson, Lela Wassom, Grace Renaker, Lillian Stephenson, Frances McCormick, Lena Harris, Lizzie Noel, Gladys Stewart, Althea Hon, Lena Rogers, Allene Dance, Joe Reffitt, Miss Mary Turley, Ruby Renaker, Clifford A. 91 YEARS of PROGRESS

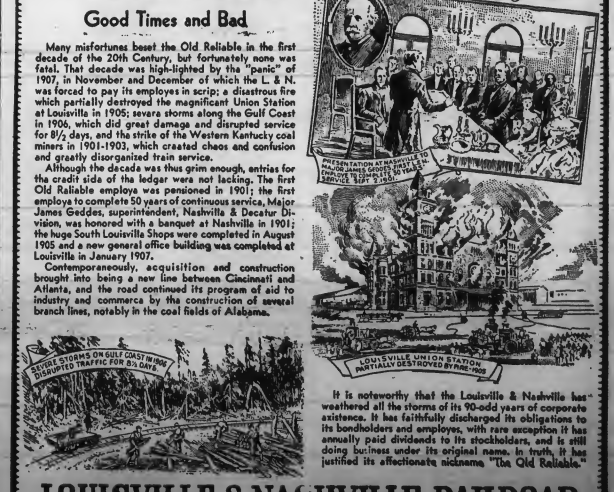
A Historical Tour of the Louisville & Nashville R.R.



Good Times and Bad

Many misfortunes beset the Old Reliable in the first decade of the 20th Century, but fortunately none was fatal. That decade was high-lighted by the "panic" of 1907, in November and December of which the L. & N. was forced to pay its employes in scrip; a disastrous fire which partially destroyed the magnificent Union Station at Louisville in 1905; severe storms along the Gulf Coast in 1906, which did great damage and disrupted service for 8½ days, and the strike of the Western Kentucky coal miners in 1901-1903, which created chaos and confusion and greatly disorganized train service.

Although the decade was thus grim enough, entries for the credit side of the ledger were not lacking. The first Old Reliable employe was pensioned in 1901; the first employe to complete 50 years of continuous service, Major James Geddes, superintendent, Nashville & Decatur Division, was honored with a banquet at Nashville in 1901; the huge South Louisville Shops were completed in August 1905 and a new general office building was completed at Louisville in January 1907.

Contemporaneously, acquisition and construction brought into being a new line between Cincinnati and Atlanta, and the road continued its program of aid to industry and commerce by the construction of several branch lines, notably in the coal fields of Alabama.

It is noteworthy that the Louisville & Nashville has weathered all the storms of its 90-odd years of corporate existence. It has faithfully discharged its obligations to its bondholders and employes, with rare exception it has annually paid dividends to its stockholders, and is still doing business under its original name. In truth, it has justified its affectionate nickname "the Old Reliable."

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist. Red Cross Helps Solve Problems Of Our Recruits

Through Its Directors in Camps Red Cross Links Men With Home

Washington, D. C.—On the home and military fronts the American Red Cross is turning its focus on the man in uniform. In his behalf, more than 10,000 nurses are being recruited. Volunteers are donating their blood for a huge plasma bank. Red Cross women in chapters throughout the country are making 40,000,000 surgical dressings, and knitting sweaters for men in outlying posts and sailors on patrol.

But these are just fragments of the story. In military and naval stations, the Red Cross is concerning itself with the personal problems of the service man, helping him adjust himself to military life. For the disabled, the Red Cross is on the job in service hospitals, helping to speed recovery of the sick through a morale-building program.

In mobilizing a 2,000,000-man fighting force, the personal problems of the able-bodied man in uniform have to turn become problems of the morale divisions. Red Cross field directors stationed in all camps and reservations have been entrusted with the task of helping to solve these problems.

Speaking in a nation-wide broadcast recently, Chief of Staff Marshall, of the Army, addressed the following words to Red Cross field directors:

"When you help straighten out any of the great variety of tangles that human beings seem unable to avoid, you are helping to maintain morale on the home front and on the military front; you are helping us in training for defense."

The disabled man in a service hospital also can look to the Red Cross for help in speeding recovery. Medical-social workers, trained for their specialized assignment, are on duty at Army general and Navy hospitals to aid service physicians, to act as a medium of communication with the families of hospitalized men and to conduct recreational programs for convalescents.

The Red Cross provides recreational service for patients in all Army and Navy hospitals. Sixty-five new hospitals are under construction by the Army, and their recreation buildings are being equipped and staffed by the Red Cross as each one opens.

As part of the Army and Navy safety programs, members of the national Red Cross staff are qualifying instructors in First Aid and Water Safety among the ranks of the enlisted man.

The number of Army and Navy cases assisted by Red Cross field directors has increased in volume 140 per cent since Selective Service has been in operation. During the past year 126,515 cases involving active service men have been handled in the camps.

The Red Cross recently made available $1,000,000 to meet an emergency need for athletic equipment for the Army and Navy. This need arose when Government appropriations for the purpose became exhausted.

In addition to providing the Army and Navy with an official reservoir of nurses, the Red Cross is cataloging the nation's medical technologists. Through this program, in which approximately 3,000 technicians have registered, the Army and Navy will select such professional personnel as laboratory workers, dietitians, dental technicians, pharmacists and other categories of trained technologists.

Approximately 90 percent of Meade county's school children took part in a parade during the two-day farm fair.

Negro farming has increased in Hopkins county until two Negro 4-H clubs have been organized.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

UNION WITH CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—John 15:1-10.
GOLDEN TEXT—Abide in me, and I in you.—John 15:4.

Our lesson presents deep spiritual truths concerning our union with Christ — mystical, but practical; precious, but too often forgotten or neglected.

I. The Conditions of Union With Christ.

There is a sense in which union with Christ is entirely unconditional, one is either united with Him by faith or he is not. However, there are conditions for the fulfillment of all that such union carries with it. It is in that sense we use the word.

1. Cleansing (vv. 1-3). Christ is the Vine, and the believer as a true branch is united with Him. There is a oneness here which is difficult to express but delightful to receive and believe. He who is the Vine needs no cleansing, but the branch needs constant, daily purification by "the Word" (v. 3). Are we permitting God's Word to keep us clean? Only if we are reading it, studying it, meditating upon it.

There is moreover a severer type of purging to which the husbandman subjects the vine that it may bear more richly, and that is pruning (v. 2). It may not be pleasant, my brother, but it is profitable, and remember whose loving and sure hand it is that wields the pruning knife (v. 1).

Some branches must be cut away altogether (v. 1) and burned (v. 6). They lack the evidence of life—fruitbearing — and must be destroyed. These words are evidently not written to dishearten true believers, but they are a solemn warning to those who bear a false profession of Christianity.

2. Abiding (vv. 4-8). The branch bears the fruit of the vine. It has no strength or ability of its own to bring forth fruit. The Christian cannot serve Christ without abiding, and if he does abide the life of Christ will show forth in His living and serving There can be no union without abiding in Christ.

3. Obedience (vv. 9, 10). The hall-mark of character in a child is obedience. That is also true in God's household. There is no use in talking sweetly and piously about abiding in God's love unless we obey His commandments. The Christian who disobeys the teachings of God's Word regarding holy living and does not respond to the leading of the Holy Spirit shuts off the blessing of God in his own life and stops its flow out to others.

II. The Results of Union With Christ.

1. Purity of Life (v. 3). "Now ye are clean"—how refreshing our Lord's words sound to us as we live in a wicked and filthy world. We sometimes wonder if there are any pure lives anymore. Yes, there are—those whom the Lord has cleansed by His Word. Would you like to be clean? Turn to Him and to His Word.

2. Prevailing Prayer (v. 7). At first one wonders why our Lord put in that word about prayer, but it is evident that one of the fruits of union and fellowship with Christ must be intelligent prayer according to God's will, in the power of the Spirit, and certain of an answer.

Notice that the prayer promise here is absolutely unlimited, but that it follows an "if" which states a closely limited condition. Let us fulfill the condition and claim the promise.

3. Fruithearing (vv. 2, 4, 5, 8). The fruit a Christian bears is the fruit of Christ who is the Vine, but as the branch he does have the joy of bearing "fruit" (v. 2), "more fruit" (v. 2), and "much fruit" (vv. 5, 8). The Christian's phraseology can be borrowed, the Christian's service imitated, but his fruit produced only by abiding in Christ.

4. Abiding in Love (v. 10). We have been talking about abiding all through our lesson and it may seem strange to list it as one of the results of union with Christ, yet it belongs here. Our Lord said (v. 10) that the cleansed and obedient disciple should abide in His love, even as He obeys the Father and abides in His love.

What a picture that is. Christ, the One who knew no stain of sin (II Cor. 5:21), always perfectly obedient to the Father (Heb. 10:7), who knows complete and perfect fellowship with the Father, reaches out His loving arms and draws the believer into the circle of that blessed union and love.

'Only Thee'

No one can ever become quite solitary, quite poor, quite miserable, who can truly say "Lord, if only I have Thee." That is just the time when God makes his consolation most gratifying and abundant, when we through distress of body and soul have turned from all temporal things to Him, and have learned that royal, overshadowing "only thee."—Theodore Christlieb.

SAVE and SACK the BEANS

WHILE chopping and storing the hay, the new Letz mill with grain separator sacks the beans. Saving high priced beans soon pays for a Letz—the surest money maker for any livestock farm.

Says Letz user, Lee Chatham, Danville, Indiana, "We chopped and blew into the mow 72 acres of soybean hay. We sacked 1,000 bushels of Manchu beans, keeping some for seed, recleaning and selling the rest for $1.25 per bushel. These beans brought us in over $1000.00."

Come in and investigate this wonderful machine. For most farmers feeding beef or dairy cattle, lambs or hogs, the Letz mill saves its cost and more the first season used. Let us demonstrate one for you.

FURTHER FACTS ON THE LIQUOR BUSINESS

NOTE: This article was brought to us by a subscriber, and we publish same as purely news matter.—Ed.

Last week we presented certain evidence concerning the gravity of the liquor situation in relation to the present national crisis. But no editorial, or article, even if it filled a hundred pages, could present, fully, the gravity of the liquor problem. We do not have the old-fashioned saloons as in preprohibition days, but we have the new-fashioned tavern and cocktail bar. And experience is teaching us that a saloon by any other name is just as disastrous to the health, sobriety, and morals of the public.

Has Drunkenness Decreased?

In the old days, liquor was purchased almost exclusively in saloons. Now it seems possible to purchase it in almost any kind of store on any street in any city. When the prohibition amendment was repealed, we were told by the wets that true temperance and moderation would be the result. The last year before repeal became effective, the average per capita consumption of alcohol was one tenth of a gallon. For the fiscal year 1940, it was one and one-quarter gallons, or almost exactly twelve times as much. And of course the amount of alcohol consumed bears a close relation to the question of moderation and temperance. We were told that if beers and light wines were legalized, it would promote temperance, because people would drink these instead of hard liquor. But the records show that whisky drinking has increased in just as startling a fashion as beer drinking.

We were told that if prohibition were repealed, there would be a great reduction in drunkenness. Fortunately, as a result of the work of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in securing accurate national statistics on arrests throughout the country, it is possible for us to draw some rather accurate comparative conclusions on the matter of drunkenness. While the figures of the Federal Bureau of Investigation do not cover the entire country, they do deal with a sufficient number of cities scattered over the U. S. to provide a very accurate sampling of the population. In the year 1932, according to these figures, 831.1 persons per 100,000 population, were arrested on the charge of drunkenness. In the year 1940, the number was 1,593.7 This represents nearly one hundred per cent increase. In the year 1932, according to these same figures, 65.7 persons per 100,000 were arrested on the charge of "driving while intoxicated." In 1940, the figure was 102.7.

The relation of the figures to accidents and horrible death on the highways is measuredly set forth in the statistical records of police courts and insurance companies. The Travelers Insurance Company calls attention to the depressing fact that 1940 saw 35,000 persons killed, and 1,320,000 injured on the highways, a total very definitely above the totals for the two preceding years. Drunken driving and walking were given as two of the chief causes of these tragedies. In one State, Ohio, from which detailed figures are obtainable, these facts stand out: In 1935 3.3 per cent of the automobile drivers involved in fatal accidents had been drinking. In 1940 the per cent had risen to 10.2. In California, intoxicating liquor played a part in every fifth fatal traffic accident and every sixth injury accident.

As increasing scientific study has been given to the relation of alcohol to accidents the conviction has grown in the minds of investigators that liquor must be charged with a much higher percentage of the deaths and injuries from traffic accidents than it is possible to discover from ordinary drinking tests employed by the police. An extended discussion of "Alcohol in Relation to Traffic Accidents" in the Journal of the American Medical Association makes this declaration in conclusion: "It has not yet been objectively and conclusively proved just how important a causative factor alcohol is, and, because of the complexity of the whole accident problem, it may never be proved. The data gathered in this study, however, point in one direction only. They confirm a self-evident fact, that alcohol is a major cause of automobile accidents."Sept. 17, 1938.

Has the Bootlegger Disappeared?

We were told that repeal would abolish the bootlegger. The assumption, of course, was that the bootlegger was a child of the prohibition era. But this was a false assumption, as the wets ought to have known. Bootlegging flourished under the name of "blind tigers," and similar colorful titles, in the preprohibition era. The reason was that through illegal sale the heavy Government tax was escaped and more profit was made. During prohibition the whole spotlight was turned on the bootlegger simply because he was the only seller of liquor and his business was doubly illegal. But when repeal came, the bootlegger did not disappear. In the year 1940 there were 25,000 arrests for bootlegging. No argument can make that total sound insignificant. And that was the total of arrests after repeal had been in effect for seven years, and despite the fact that in 1940 there were 409,176 retail stores where liquor might be purchased legally.

Now comes a statement from the Federal Treasury Department in regard to sugar sales that throws an interesting light on the bootlegging business. Sugar is the lifeblood of the illicit distilling business. A hundred-pound [illegible] is mixed with fifty pounds of mash, and the end product is a quantity of liquor which should bring the Government $37.05 in taxes. Obviously, the Government is desirous of discovering through the medium of sugar-sales records, where illicit distilling is going on. The Treasury Department appeals to commodities selling sugar to refuse to sell to suspicious persons and to take the license number on the automobile. The Government is doubly anxious to stop any leaks in revenue today, for the national emergency calls for ever-increasing tax receipts.

Brewers Take Amazing Step

It was not so long ago that the United Brewers Industrial Foundation ran a series of advertisements in the leading newspapers of the country in an endeavor to persuade the public that beer is a fine, wholesome drink and that the only real problem in connection with it lies "in those conditions, undesirable to us all, which sometimes surround its sale." After pledging the brewing industry to the support of duly constituted authorities for the elimination of antisocial conditions in connection with the sale of beer, the public is informed that it can help, also, by "restriction of your patronage only to legal, respectable retail outlets." So far from the illegal seller of liquor having been abolished as a result of repeal, the brewing industry is now doing the rather breathtaking and quite unprecedented thing of buying large newspaper space to ask the public to buy only from the "legal" seller.

Even the Catholic press, which heaped ridicule on prohibitionists in the dry era, and implied that the country's only hope of betterment lay in repeal, made this candid admission after repeal had been in effect four years: "We do not believe that conditions are as bad as they were at the peak of prohibition, but they are bad enough, and they will grow worse unless a check is at once imposed."—America, Jan. 1, 1938. Similar admissions from other disillusioned sources might be quoted.

The facts and figures here given speak for themselves. They reveal most forcefully the dimensions and gravity of the liquor situation today. When these facts are put in the setting of the present national emergency, the picture becomes even more somber, if that were possible.—F. D. N., Review and Herald, Sept. 11, 1941

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. When will the "drive" to sell Defense Savings Bonds begin?

A. There will be no "drive." Many people think of the Defense Savings Program as like the Liberty Loan campaigns of the first World War, which were conducted for stated periods to raise specific quotas. The Defense Savings Program is a long-range, continuing effort to stimulate the public to buy more and more Defense Bonds and Stamps month by month, and is essentially a program to promote mass saving, as well as to provide money for defense.

Q. Are the Defense Savings Stamps sold at retail stores exchangeable for Defense Savings Bonds?

A. Yes. They are the same as Stamps on sale at post offices and elsewhere.

NOTE: To buy DefenseBonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps now are on sale at retail stores.

Rudicill of Williamstown; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wilson of Dry Ridge; Mrs. Mary C. McClure, Mrs. Lucy Beatty, Miss Nancy Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hetterman and sons Jack and Jim, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Sebree and sons Malvin and Donald, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Walton, Carl Echel, Mrs. Nellie Webster, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Monohan, all of Crittenden; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Kelly of Falmouth; Miss Madge Hightower of Florence; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Griffith, Miss Helen Hamilton of Erlanger; Mrs. D. L. Ransom of Covington; Rev. and Mrs. Ira A. Paternoster and daughter Phyllis Gene of Northside, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wilson and daughter Annett of Oakwood, Ohio. A strange act of fate—of those gathered there, only two, outside of Mr. Wilson, two brothers, a niece and his sister were known to this couple 25 years ago. Mrs. Mary C. McClure and Miss Nancy Thompson were the two; and another thing, was that the bride of that day, had not a single relative present. After a renewing of the vows of 25 years, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Paternoster, the guests repaired to the dining room where a long table fairly groaned with the delicacies of the seasons, which was served buffet style. In the center of the table was a beautifully decorated cake, appropriate to the day, which was presented by the Echel family. Guests left at a late hour saying they would return to help with the 50th anniversary.

Donald Sebree and his father and mother, spent a few days the past week with their relatives in West Virginia.

Master Jack Hetterman, one of the future farmers, visited the stock yards this week and sold some of his hogs, topping the market for that day at $10.35.

Floyd Sebree of West Virginia visited his father, and sister and husband this week, and we understand that while here he acquired some more farm land.

The friends of Rev. Ira Paternoster, a former pastor of the Church of Christ at Crittenden, will be glad to hear that he has continued to climb steadily since leaving, and has now been called to the church in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. This church has something near 800 members.

Malvin Sebree, a teacher in the Simon Kenton High School, attended the educational meeting in Covington last week.

There were eighty-eight people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller recently, the occasion being a wedding shower given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Webster. They were the recipients of many useful and appropriate gifts by those present, as well as receiving a number of gifts later. Mr. and Mrs. Webster very graciously accepted the gifts, assisted by their closest friend, Miss Dorcie Miller. Fruit punch and home-made cake were the refreshments. Games and music were enjoyed by some, while others visited with one another. Everyone left at a late hour, congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Webster, wishing them a long and happy life together, and thanking Mrs. Miller and daughter Dorcie for the happy occasion.

WHY FIGHT ABOUT LIGHT?

Have enough I.E.S. lamps to give everyone in the family safe light for easy seeing

A home with only one or two good reading lamps is a battleground for many a fight over light. Why let the first person to claim "the chair by the good lamp" have a corner on light? Give the whole family a break by having enough lamps so everyone can use his eyes in comfort. And be sure they're I.E.S. Lamps—especially designed by scientists for safe, easy seeing. You'll recognize them by the I.E.S. Tag and by the white glass diffusing bowl which filters out harmful glare and provides generous "conditioned" light.

See our wide selection of I.E.S. Lamps priced from $7.95. Terms as low as 95c down, $1.00 monthly.

COMMUNITY PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

WHEN THE CHILDREN STUDY guard their eyes and make homework easier with an I.E.S. study lamp.

WHEN DAD WRITES keep his temper sweet and his nerves calm with the soothing light of an I.E.S. swinging arm lamp.

WHEN MOTHER SEWS give her the eye-comfort and protection of an I. E. S. three-lite lamp.

WHEN GRANDMA READS remember that old eyes benefit even more than young eyes from the ample light of an I.E.S. end-table lamp.

To Distribute Tob. Marketing Cards

Tobacco Marketing Cards are being prepared for delivery to all tobacco growers within the next few days, according to John E. Crigler, Secretary.

Producers will be notified at an early date regarding the delivery of these cards. A within quota marketing card will be delivered to all producers who have not exceeded their acreage of tobacco, and all tobacco raised on the farm may be sold free of the marketing quota tax. An excess marketing card will be issued so those producers who have exceeded their allotment. A marketing quota tax of 10c a pound must be paid on that percentage of the poundage sold by which the allotment is exceeded.

1955.7 acres was grown in the county this year according to reports of the supervisors. Approximately 2000 acres was grown in 1940. A check-up of the warehouse sales for 1940 shows that 2,168,988 pounds of tobacco sold and the gross dollars received were $277,333.46. This figures 1,084 pounds per acre and a total of $138.66 per acre, which is an average of $12.79 per 100 pounds. A substantial increase in price is expected for the 1941 crop of tobacco.

Pinneers Defeat Silver Grove 27-24

Scoring their second consecutive victory, Simon Kenton's Pioneers defeated Silver Grove, 27 to 24, in a non-conference basketball game last Friday night at the Independence court. The Pioneers held a 19-18 advantage at the half.

Casey, the Pioneer's six-foot, five-inch center, hit the hoop for 11 points, to cop scoring honors. Sterling was next best for the winners, tallying 10 markers. For the losers, Hahn, with 8 points, was best.

The Simon Kenton reserves eked out a 15-14 decision over the Silver Grove second team, in the preliminary game.

CHRISTIAN RALLY HELD IN COVINGTON

A very fine Christian Educational Rally was held in the First Methodist church, Covington, last week. Dr. Paul S. Powell, President of Kentucky Wesleyan College, and Bishop U. V. W. Darlington were present and had part on the program. The principal address was delivered by Judge Osso Stanley of the Supreme Court of Kentucky. We were reminded of the rigid educational process that the youth of Totalitarian States must pass through in order that they may be war minded and give their lives for the destruction of life. We must educate according to the mind and will of Christ that our youth may know how to respect life and preserve it if we are to save the present and on coming generation as well as the more distant future.

The last week in November in the Kentucky and Louisville Conferences is Christian Education Week. All phases of Christian Education are to be presented. Our College situations are to receive special emphasis. Nov. 30 is College Day throughout Kentucky Methodism.—Pub. Com.

A CORRECTION

In last week's paper we stated that Paul H. Williams was Ass't Secretary of the Big Burley Tobacco Warehouse Co., Carrollton. This statement was incorrect, as Mr. Williams is not connected with this Warehouse this year.

TIME EXTENDED BY FAIR GROUNDS COMMITTEE

The Boone County Fair Grounds Committee met at Burlington last Thursday evening and reported $2.000 pledged for the grounds. The 4-H Council pledged their full reserve fund of $600, is needed, leaving $900 necessary to successfully complete the program.

The committee asked for an additional week's time to raise the funds. A large number of interested people had not been contacted and many folk who had pledged agreed to give more if needed. The final drive to secure a permanent fair and picnic grounds for the county will close Friday evening, Nov. 21. Every citizen who can is urged to report his pledge. The final drive is expected to be most difficult and will need the whole hearted support of everybody.

GUEST SPEAKER AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The young people of the First Christian Church, Walton, will have charge of the service next Sunday evening and will have as their guest speaker, Rev. T. J. Liggett. Mr. Liggett is a student of the College of the Bible and pastor of the Antioch Christian Church, Fayette County.

TO SEW FOR RED CROSS

There will be a meeting on Tuesday, November 25th at the home of Mrs. John C. Bedinger on North Main street, for the purpose of sewing for the Red Cross. All who are interested are urged to attend—bring a sandwich and spend the day.

Tobacco Meetings On November 21st

Two tobacco stripping and grading demonstrations will be held in Boone County on Friday, November 21. Federal tobacco graders will give the demonstrations at each of the meetings.

The schedule is as follows:

9:00 a. m.—Hubert E. White's farm, 2 miles south of Burlington on East Bend Road.

1:00 p. m.—O. K. Whitson's tobacco barn in Verona.

Tobacco growers in most instances will need this year to make slight changes in their grades to secure greatest advantage from Government gradings and Government loans on tobacco that is pooled. The graders at these meetings should prove a big help to all growers. All tobacco growers are invited and urged to attend.

AGAIN WITH BIG BURLEY

Tom Marshall, local tobacco expert, will again be associated with the Big Burley Warehouse Co. at Carrollton for the 1941-42 season.

Xmas Seal Sale Begins Nov. 24

The sale of Tuberculosis Xmas Seals will start Monday, Nov. 24, according to a statement made to the Advertiser, Monday, by R. V. Lents, chairman of the committee in charge of the sales.

Every school in Boone county is taking part in this campaign to sell the seals. According to Mr. Lents, sheets of 100 seals are being mailed to many of our civic minded citizens who may purchase them or return them. It is hoped that each and every citizen who receives the seals will purchase them. The schools in the county have a contest and when purchasing seals sent to you by Mr. Lents, state the name of the school and the name of the child to whom give credit for the sale.

Much has been done in the past from the proceeds of the Christmas Seal Sale. It was partially through the efforts of this organization that a county nurse was employed. This organization was instrumental in holding an X-ray tuberculosis clinic and contributed to its expenses. This organization has done much in the past in aiding directly several tuberculosis patients. The net proceeds of the Christmas Seal sale in the county have never been so large as to meet the needs of the county and probably never will be, but every seal sold will help some worthy person.

There is a lot of work done to carry on the Christmas Seal sale, but not a single person connected with the campaign receives any compensation. Buy all the seals that you can afford to buy.

Farm Defence Program Progressing

The Boone County Agricultural Conservation County and Community Committeemen reported a total of 326 farms visited in the Farm Defense Program, according to John E. Crigler, secretary, for the first week's work. Increases in certain livestock and livestock products are being urged by the Federal Government.

A summary of the farms visited shows that the increase that farmers expect to make in milk production in 1942 over 1941 is 8.8%, increase in number of hogs 8.2%, beef cattle 9.1%, eggs 70.2%.

There is very little increase shown in home gardens, corn or small grain. Egg production and beef cattle for 1942 are the only items that exceeds the goal, as only 16% increase in the present goal for eggs and 5% for beef cattle is requested.

The goal for increase in milk production is 15% and that of hogs 17%. Committeemen report that the great majority of farmers contacted have been very cooperative and have gladly furnished the information.

It is with distinct pleasure that Rev. J. Russell Cross, Chairman of the Boone County Chapter of the American Red Cross, announces receipt of a check in the amount of $85.70 from the Carroll County Chapter, American Red Cross Tobacco Fund Committee, H. R. Lorch, Chairman.

These funds were made available for the Boone County Chapter through the good offices and cooperation of the Carrollton Tobacco Warehouse Co., of which our own Mr. George Baker, of Beaver, is President, and the buyers for the various tobacco companies.

Boone countians sold 843,320 pounds of tobacco at the warehouse last year. One hand of tobacco was taken from each farmer's load, regraded and sold for the Red Cross of this county. The Carrollton Chapter Committee attended to the details and to the distribution of the monies to the various chapters concerned.

The Executive Committee of the Boone County Chapter desires to express its appreciation to the Carrollton Tobacco Warehouse Company, it's president, Mr. Baker, the buyers, and the Carroll County Chapter. We would also call attention to the farmers of Boone County of this way in which they can help their local chapter.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Not much statistical information on the progress of our defense production is likely to get in the press in the immediate future. The President announced that after November 1 the OPM would keep the details secret. Observers in Washington had been expecting some such clampdown because of the worry in London that such information was valuable to the Nazis. London especially complained that our stories on tank production were too good a tip-off for Berlin.

And so even though the OPM hasn't said it, experts in Washington are greatly cheered by our aircraft output. They see our American warplane production as just about reaching 2,400 a month by this year's end and by the middle of next year, it should be well over the 3,000 mark. The increase in production is almost incredible: from 70 planes, mostly commercial, in October, 1939, to 742 planes in October, 1940, to between 2,150 and 2,200 last month.

Add to the fact that nowhere has anyone ever seen such a remarkable leap in production, the fact that American planes are proving themselves better than the German planes, and the further fact that with each month our planes become heavier, bigger, more technically superior.

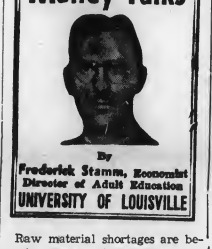
The main interest of everyone, of course, is how our production compares with that of Germany. Well, no one knows exactly what goes on inside of Nazi Germany, but a good deal of pretty reliable information from Germany and the conquered countries can be pieced together. German production appears to be somewhere around our total — perhaps 2,300 planes monthly. On this basis it's pretty obvious that Britian, with her 1,900 planes produced a month can, with American aid more than equal the output of Germany, Italy and anything received from conquered European countries.

Airplane engines—once termed a serious bottleneck—are no worry these days. Three companies—the Pratt & Whitney division of United Aircraft Corp., Wright Aeronatutical Corp., and the Allison division of General Motors—are now making high-powered engines enough to surpass the best guesstimates of production by the Nazis. Germany is said to be getting out between 3 and 4 million horsepower per month, plus some small help from the French plants taken over. Three companies here are now producing an estimated 4.6 million horsepower per month, and by the middle of next year their production should be 8 million horsepower monthly. In addition, airplane engines will be forthcoming from Packard, Ford, Buick, Chevrolet, Studebaker, Continental and Jacobs.

When the ware record is written, probably the most dramatic industrial chaper will tell of this feat of American industry of learning in one year to turn planes off the assembly line—planes that Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson has said are the "best planes in the world," able to outfly, outclimb, outshoot and outmaneuver "the latest models produced by a certain nation that boasted not long ago that it had the best."

Four Bourbon county farmers seeded 90 acres of certified Thorn seed wheat.

— DEFENSE BOND QUIZ —



Q. Who said: "In only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country"?

A. Nathan Hale, who gave his life for America, like great numbers of his fellow countrymen. We are only asked to lend our dollars for Defense Bnds and Stamps to defend the liberty for which they died.

Q. Where I work there is no pay-roll allotment plan for the buying of Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps. How can I get one started?

A. This depends on your position, and the kind of organization in which you are employed. Generally speaking, your immediate superior would be the proper person to receive your suggestion that you would like to have a voluntary pay-roll allotment plan introduced. The firm's bank can supply information about such a plan.

NOTE: To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps now are on sale at retail stores.

Raw material shortages are becoming more serious day by day. The Department of Agriculture has asked the farmers throughout this country to collect and to sell their scrap iron for use in defense production.

The Office of Production Management has organized several drives to increase the flow of scrap metal, aluminum, and iron from the cities into defense industries. This Office is now asking the farmers to join in these drives.

It seems to me that there are three good reasons why every farmer should cooperate. First, we must remember that modern farming demands modern machinery and that farm implements take a great deal of iron and steel. If we are to have an uninterrupted production of farm implements we must have more scrap iron. A scarcity of iron and steel scrap may curtail production of necessary farm machinery. Second, the farmers can make a little extra money by selling scrap metal. The Department of Agriculture has asked state and county agents to cooperate with farmers in this endeavor and to keep them informed on the prices of scrap metal. Third, the barnyard and fence corners look much better when broken down implements and discarded tools are picked up and sold.

Several weeks ago I talked with a farmer who had collected over a thousand pounds of scrap iron. Some of it had been rusting away for years. He told me he made a little money and the "place" looked much neater without the "junk" lying around.

It seems to me this is an excellent way for every farmer not only to help his government, but also to help himself. It sounds like a good idea!

STAFFORDSBURG

Tribute to Kirby Richardson

Do we miss you, sure we miss you
Since you have gone so far away,
But we would not call you back
Even for a single day.
You have left a chair that's vacant
But your spirit linger here,
And in many an hour of sorrow
It will give us greater cheer.
For in Christ your trust was centered
And in His you placed your hand,
And in Heaven above we will meet you
For you have journeyed to that land.

This community suffered a real loss in the passing on Thursday, Nov. 13 of Kirby Richardson, a life-long resident. He was born here on April 2, 1862, the son of Augustus and Missouri Bannister Richardson. In early life he married Mary Coleman, and to them were born five sons, two of whom preceded him to the Better Land. Following her death, he was married to Daisy Mann and to this union were born two daughters. He was always an honorable and upright citizen, a true friend and good neighbor, a loving husband and father. He had been for several years a member of the Staffordsburg Methodist church. Surviving him are his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Geo. Folmer and Miss Helen Richardson; three sons Gilbert of Fulton, Tenn., Ray of Springfield, Mo. and Joseph of this place; three sisters, one brother, six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Mr. Vehr stated that Northern Kentucky should profit by the many developments and opportunities that are found in this section of the state. With the opening of free bridges the traffic from Cincinnati will move to Northern Kentucky. This will add to the progress and opportunity in this section and Kenton county.

W. W. Magill, Extension Horticulturist, College of Agriculture, Lexington, talked on the long time viewpoint of fruit, berry and nut production in Northern Kentucky. Mr. Magill pointed out that there were opportunities in planting treefruits, apples, peaches and plums in addition to small fruits, like raspberries and strawberries.

Paul Fehr, fruit grower from Campbell county, and manager of the Cincinnati Produce growers cooperative talked on the opportunities for marketing of fruits and vegetables in this section of the state. He told the farmers at the meeting about opportunities in growing raspberries and small fruits. And that the farmers should not overlook the possibilities in pear production in Northern Ky. If the growers gave a part of the attention to pear production that the California growers do it would help their marketing.

Robert Scott talked about the possibilities in developing home markets and the marketing of fruits at the farm. He emphasized the need for cooperative efforts among fruit growers in working out their marketing program and problems. Mr. Scott has a successful home marketing program for his five or more acres of grapes.

Industrial Director Talks

Edw. Jenisch, Industrial Director of the Covington Chamber of Commerce told the fruit growers about the opportunities in grape production. He quated Adolph Rexinger, President of the Monte Cassino Wine Co., Covington, and told the fruit growers that there was a ready market for several hundred acres of grapes in this territory.

The fruit growers committee of Northern Kentucky, Boone Kenton and Campbell county, voted to meet with committee from the Retail Merchants and Chamber of Commerce to plan a program for 1942.

TOBACCO GRADING DEMONSTRATIONS HELD

Four tobacco grading demonstrations were held in different parts of Kenton county, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 13-14 for the purpose of acquainting the tobacco growers with the recommended methods of sorting and stripping tobacco.

The grading demonstrations were conducted by the County Agricultural Extension Service, cooperating with local demonstrator.

Russell Hunt, Field Agent in Tobacco work, Department of Agronomy, College of Agriculture, Lexington, and Aubrey Waits, field representative from the Tobacco Grading Service were in charge of the grading work at each of the demonserations.

Grading demonstrations were arranged in cooperation with Stanley Feder in the Morning View section, Martin Code in the Green Road section, Frank D. Cooke in the Atwood section, and George Flynn in the Crittenden-Bracht area.

At each of the demonstrations, sorting and stripping of the different grades were explained to the growers. In most cases six to eight grades of tobacco will take care of the average crop. It aids in the work to stick sort before starting to strip. Mr. Waits also explained the importance of arranging the baskets on the floor of the warehouse.

Mr. Hunt explained the importance of using the one-stick method of pressing tobacco to improve its marketing appearance. Farmers interested in a mimeograph sheet telling how to make a home made tobacco press can obtain copy at County Agent's office or by writing to the Agronomy Department, Experiment Station, at Lexington, Ky.

MORGANSVILLE

"All things work together for good to them who love God." However dark the clouds of sorrow, broken plans and blasted hopes He overrules all to the purifying of His children.

"Leaves have their time to fall, and flowers to wither at the North wind's breath, and stars to set, but thou hast all seasons for thine own, oh death."

A host of friends deeply deplore the recent passing of Mr. Robert S. Perry, 68, at his late residence, Maple Ave., Newport, following a prolonged illness. Despite every effort put forth to stay the hand of death and all kindly ministrations, he passed peacefully and serenely from earth's shadows into the unclouded Presence. In his youthful days he became affiliated with the Oak Island church and was in possession of many sterling characteristics. He was an outstanding personality, prominently known, having served for 37 years as motorman on the Green Line. Besides his beloved wife, he is survived by one sone son, three daughters, six grandchildren, two sisters, Mrs. Mattie Mills of Independence, Miss Carrie L. Perry of Covington, a brother, Walter E. Perry of Covington, and other relatives to whom deepest sympathy is extended. Following the final rites, the funeral cortege wended its way to Independence cemetery, where in the family plot amid a profusion of blossoms of surpassing beauty, his remains were consigned to the realm of quiet repose. "They are not dead who live in hearts they leave behind. In those whom they have blest, they live a life again."

Is Your Subscription Paid?

Dear Friends:

We want to express our sincere appreciation for any business you may have given us in the past and to extend to you a cordial invitation to have you sell your tobacco with us this coming year.

We base this invitation upon the following facts: We own and operate the largest, newest and best lighted Warehouse on the Cynthiana market. We were the first Warehouse in Kentucky, who offered their Warehouse and its facilities to the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association and the New Burley Association for the handling of the 1940 crop, to use it as they deemed best for the betterment of the depressed tobacco market. A member of our firm is the only tobacco warehouseman who went to Louisville on January 1, 1941, to meet with Governmental Officials and ask that some aid be given the distressed tobacco market in Kentucky. The results of which were that $6,000,000 was made available for the tobacco growers in Kentucky, which made a substantial increase in the price of tobacco.

Ours was the first Warehouse in Cynthiana to issue the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association's Participation Certificates to farmers on January 13, 1941.

We do not claim to have broken any records but we do claimto be the leaders in securing for Cynthiana a better tobacco market for the 1940 crop as well as for tobacco that will be sold in the future.

It has been our policy to not pick the good and big crops and pass up the small and bad ones. We give fair, equal and courteous treatment to all.

We are not speculators but our auctioneer with twenty-one years' experience and a member of our firm personally guarantee you that your tobacco will not be sold until the high dollar is obtained.

Our Warehouse will be open day andnight for the receiving of tobacco beginning Monday, November 17, 1941.

We Will Appreciate Your Coming to See Us

NAGGING BACKACHE

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Don't Neglect It!

Modern life with its excessive hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion, whatnot, keeps doctors busy, hospitals crowded. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and oftentimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.

After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.

Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbance sometimes are burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. They have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Be sure to get Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

THE REASON DOAN'S ARE FAMOUS
All over the country grateful people tell others: "Doan's have helped me; I recommend them to you." That is why we say, Ask your neighbor!

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

PRAYER AND THANKSGIVING

LESSON TEXT — Matthew 6:5-15; Ephesians 5:20; I Thessalonians 5:16-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks.—I Thessalonians 5:17, 18.

Being one with Christ, the Christian finds prayer to be as natural as breathing. As he walks with the Master he talks with Him, praises Him, thanks Him, makes his petitions and his needs known to Him. We feel, however, like Christ's disciples who asked Him to teach them to pray (Luke 11:1).

I. Instruction in Prayer

Approaching the subject from the negative viewpoint, Jesus told them

1. How Not to Pray (Matt. 6:5, 7). Prayer, which is the highest privilege of the Christian, is beset by some deadly dangers.

a. No hypocritical performance (v. 5). Some who wished to be seen in prayer managed to be in a conspicuous place at the Jewish hours of prayer (nine, twelve, and three o'clock). There, before a crowd, they put on a prayer "show" for the benefit of the onlooking audience. Such a prayer is designed for the ears of men and never reaches God.

b. No vain repetition (v. 7). We do not need to repeat our petitions. God knows our need (v. 8). When repetition is the outpouring of an earnest and urgent heart it means much, but that is different from just repeating phrases.

2. How to Pray (Matt. 6:6, 8, 14, 15; Eph. 5:20; I Thess. 5:16-18). Public prayer is sometimes both necessary and proper, but usually our prayer should be a. In secret (v. 6). When we pray we should be free from distracting influences or personalities. We are talking to God and should give ourselves entirely over to communion with Him.

b. In faith (vv. 6, 8). God knows what we need even though He waits to be inquired of concerning it. He will answer prayer so as to honor His name in our lives and in our testimony before others.

c. With forgiveness (vv. 14, 15). No one who comes before God with an unforgiving spirit toward his brother is ready to ask God for the forgiveness which he himself so greatly needs.

d. With thanksgiving (Eph. 5:20). To give thanks is altogether fitting as we come to God in prayer. Note that we are to be thankful "always" and "for all things," not just when some special blessing or favor has come to us.

e. Without ceasing (I Thess. 5:16-18). Union with Christ enables us to pray without ceasing, even as He ever prays for us. This does not call for the constant utterance of words, but the moment by moment prayer of a heart and life lifted to Him. With such praying comes constant rejoicing (v. 16).

II. A Model of Prayer (Matt. 6:9-13).

The prayer which our Lord taught His disciples was intended to be a model rather than a form of prayer. We may repeat it, however, if we put into it the prayer of our hearts.

1. God and His Glory (vv. 9, 10).

Recognizing Him as our Father to whom we may and must come for all things, we in all humility ascribe all honor to Him. Then we pray that His kingdom may come, not only in the future (and we look forward to it!), but now, in our own hearts. The true believer wants the will of God done in his own life and throughout the earth, even as it is perfectly done in heaven.

This prayer begins at the proper point. A right relationship with God brings true blessing on earth. The one who prays is now ready to present to God

2. Man and His Needs (vv. 11-13).

Daily bread is mentioned first, for without it life could not continue. This is the constant need of man, and his great struggle. God is able for that problem, and only He is able. Unless He gives "seed to the sower and bread to the eater" (Isa. 55:10) we are gone.

But man has even greater spiritual needs. Sin needs forgiveness, weakness needs strength, the power of the enemy of our souls calls for deliverance. Again God is able and ready to hear man's prayer.

One of the sad things about the study of prayer is that we are all so ready to talk about it, discuss it, even preach about it, and then do so little praying. Knowing how to pray, and admiring a model of prayer, will profit us nothing, unless we pray.

Good Work Never Fails

So, then, Elijah's life had been no failure after all. Seven thousand at least in Israel had been braced and encouraged by his example, and silently blessed him, perhaps, for the courage which they felt. In God's world, for those who are in earnest there is no failure. No work truly done, no word earnestly spoken, no sacrifice freely made, was ever made in vain.—F. W. Robertson.

Kirby Richardson Passes

We are grieved to report the death of Kirby Richardson, which occurred at his home last Thursday morning, Nov. 13 near Staffordsburg.

Mr. Richardson was well known and respected by his many friends of this county, as he was born and reared on the same farm. He was a well-to-do farmer and only retired a couple of years ago, as his health began to fail. He took a great delight in raising cattle and horses, and in his younger days carried away a great many blue ribbons at the fairs on his horses. He always found it a great pleasure to take you to his barn and show you his horses, of which he was very proud.

Mr. Richardson was a member of the Staffordsburg church and a good citizen, friend and neighbor, always willing to lend a helping hand to any one who needed it. He was 79 years of age. Funeral services were conducted at the Swindler funeral parlor, Saturday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. E. K. Kidwell, assisted by an old friend, Rev. James Wright, and a nephew, Rev. Neville White, in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends and neighbors. The floral pieces were numerous and beautiful.

Mr. Richardson leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, two daughters, Miss Helen and Mrs. Geo. Folmer, and three sons, Gilbert, Joe and Ray; three sisters, one brother, six grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, a host of nieces and nephews and other relatives.

The entire family has the deepest sympathy of the entire community.

SWEARING BEFORE LADIES ...

A few days ago one of my colleagues, Northern-born but of Southern extraction, remarked about the unnaturalness of the speech in some of the naturalistic novels of our time, where no restraint is found in how people talk to each other. He particularly spoke of the very dirty language used by men to women who are considered respectable in novels. He and I agreed that nothing could be any farther from life truth. However filthy may have been the speech of men among themselves, only chaste language was used before women. Women of the better stripe were only thought of as ladies, and it was literally true that men who were regarded as gentlemen must not use cus words or obcenity before them. To do so reacted doubly against the men: no one but some one very poorly bred would do this accidently, and to do so intentionally would be an insult to the women, deliberately placing them on alower level.

We hear much about a double moral standard but not so much about a double speech standard. Many a time I have been with a group of men working the road or at a log rolling or barn raising when language got pretty strong; if some of the neighbor women or girls came along, every particle of the objectionable language vanished instantly. If any half-grown boy had got smart and said a few he had lately learned, he would have been literally worn out by the other boys and men.

Another unnaturalness in the raw novels that are so popular today is the franknes of speech between boys and their fathers. Even though both knew the same words and used them in each other's presence. Other and more dignified words would somehow find a place in their speech. This was not prudishness or fear but a recognized dignity of fathers that everyone accepted. This was This same modesty prevailed before very small boys. I have watched the language of the gossipers around the country store take a sudden chaste turn when some little boy came along to buy something for his mother; to have been obscene before him would have caused the same penalty as being cnurse before ladies.

In much the same way women refrained from certain words, many of them not at all obscene but apparantly suggestive to them. Names of male animals, cort in innocent bywords, certain toplics of conversation just did not appear in the speech of nice ladies. Some of the most severe critism I ever heard against some of our neigabors was that they did not know what to leave out of their conversation.

This does not mean to negate at all the fact that many of the very best women of the neighborhood still clung to an older franknes of speech that had never developed a flavor of obscenity. Things were talked about that today one would would not hear of except in a doctor's private office ; a person transferred from our immediate age to one of the nineties would be amused at once by the words that avoided being naughty side by side with others that one now never uses in mixed company. It took a skilled person, one to the manner born, to know what and when to speak.

ELEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE KENTON COUNTY HOMEMAKERS ASS'N

Two hundred sixty women attended the meeting of the Kenton County Homemakers Association held Friday, Nov. 7 at the Simon Kenton High School, Independence. The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Mrs. Warren Scouten, in the absence of Mrs. Raymond Eubank, county president, whose resignation was made due to the fact that she will be engaged in work in the national defense program.

The theme of the day, "The Homemaker in a Time of National Emergency," was carried out in every detail. Decorations being patriotic, the Statue of Liberty and the American Eagle were used on the luncheon table, signifying Liberty and Justice for all. Favors were miniature boxes of raisins, typical of Nutrition project, and labels, representing the consumer education project.

Mrs. R. A. Scroth, a member of Mrs. Eubank's club, gave the welcome address that had been prepared by Mrs. Eubanks. Mrs. C. D. Vaughn, in making the response to the welcome address paid high tribute to the administration of Mrs. Eubanks for the past two years.

The guests were Miss Lulie Logan, Assistant State Leader of Home Demonstration Agents, and Mrs. Sam Sleet, chairman of the Blue Grass District, Kentucky Federation of Homemakers, Mr. W. Haden Ware, secretary Kenton County Farm Bureau, Mr. C. A. Wicklund, Kenton County Agricultural Agent. Mr. Maurice Williams, Ass't County Agent, W. L. Mendenhall, Deputy County Clerk and Mr. Clifford Northcutt and Mr. Olin Keeney.

The year's activities were given in the form of several clever playlets arranged by Mrs. C. D. Vaughn, program conducter. The work done in consumer education was depicted by two skits entitled "Which One?" and "Treasure Hunt," which gave information learned about the wise selection of buying hats and dresses given by the following: Mrs. W. I. Black Mrs. Ralph Cook, Mrs. W. A. Damon, Mrs. J. A. Rich, Mrs. Harry Rubbe. The nutrition program as carried on in the county was revealed in a humorous play entitled, "All Aboard." Those participating in it were Mrs. Dan Markey, Mrs. Carl Yockum, Mrs. W. G. Christman and Mrs. Eula Grant. The various citizenship activities carried on during the year were portrayed by Mrs. Clyde Schroth, Mrs. Robert Scott, Mrs. Tate Hageman, Mrs. Harold Eubanks, Mrs. Stanley Naegly and Miss Jean Eubanks.

The standing committee reports were given by the following chairmen: Publicity, Mrs. Leo H. Shewalter, who stated that 187 news articles were reported as appearing in the local newspapers; Mrs. Bernard Rosing, 4-H Club leader, awarded certificates of service by the College of Agriculture, Lexington, to county 4-H Club leaders Mrs. H. R. Hutchins, Mrs. Russell Yates, Mrs. Dan Hacker, Mrs. Denver Binder, Mrs. Wayne Meyers, Mrs. Omer Lucas, Mrs. Joseph Kunkel, Mrs. Harold Eubanks, Mrs. W. G. Christman and Mrs. Bernard Rosing. Mrs. Bluch Rich, citizenship chairman, gave an inspiring talk on the subject "National Situation and the Part that Women Have Played," and the big role that they will assume in the future, and stressed the fact that the homemaker is the hub of the economic structure of the defense effort, not the woman who holds a big job, but the one whose problems are the feeding of the family in order to have an adequate diet and the making of ends meet in the face of rising prices. She urged conservation in every phase of the household, stating that the boys in the camps must have the best. She also stated that our army uses huge quantities of materials, that it consumes a cow a minute thus the women of America must be able to adjust their living in order that these materials may go into defense activities.

Miss Zelma E. Byerly, Home Demonstration Agent, reported on some of her activities, stating that she had traveled 9,564 miles doing official duty, made 187 home visits and had 456 office calls relating to work and made 1,565 telephone calls and distributed 6,082 bulletins, attended 271 meetings. She also reported that 196 women participating in the conservation program canned 15,335 quarts of fruits, 11,143 quarts of vegetables, 9,400 pints of jellies, jams, etc., 644 quarts of meat and 631 families reached in the nutrition project by club members.

Newly elected officers for 1942 are Mrs. Warren Scouten, president; Mrs. J. C. Reynolds, vice-president, and Mrs. Harry Rubbe, secretary-treasurer.

The guest speaker for the afternoon was Miss Olive Kackley, WCKY Good Will Ambassador. She stressed the fact that the homemaker today had an important part to play. The homemaker is the leading lady in the home and the home is her stage and she should use every opportunity to create an atmosphere for this setting.

The program concluded with a concert given by artists from the Ohio Music Project, consisting of fourteen mixed voices. These artists are highly trained, many of them having studied in Europe. A variety of songs were given, including "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Camptown Races," and a group of Indian and English songs

Perry Hughes Listed In "Who's Who"

Mr. Perry Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Hughes, Crittenden, Ky., who will receive his A. B. degree from Hanover College in June, 1943, is among those students who will be listed in the 1941-42 issue of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." This book will be released in January or February.

This publication is published through the cooperation of over 600 American universities and colleges. It is the only means of national recognition for graduates which is devoid of politics, fees and dues. Several students from accredited colleges are selected each year, by an unprejudiced committee, for their biographies to appear in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. These books are placed in the hands of hundreds of companies and others which annually recruit outstanding students for employment.

The purpose of "Who's Who" is to serve as an incentive for students to get the most out of their college careers, as a means of compensation to students for what they have already done, as a recommendation to the business world; and as a standard of measurement for students.

Mr. Hughes is a member of Phi Gamma Delta, of which he is treasurer at the present time. He is a member of Alpha Phi Gamma, national honorary journalistic fraternity, Business Manager of the school paper, manager of intramural sports, and a member of the German and Science clubs. Christmas Seal Sale Under Way

The annual Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale began Monday and will last through the Christmas hilodays.

According to R. V. Lents, chairman of the committee in charge of the sales in Boone County, this year's sales in Boone County will surpass all other campaigns. People have just begun to realize the amount of good that can be done by purchasing the little bright colored seals. The sale of the seals is positively the only means of carrying on scientific research against tuberculosis. Boone County retains at least 52 percent of the proceeds of the sale in this county; 60 percent if the sale amounts to $500. Help to make the sale go to $500.

The school children are selling the seals, and sheets of 100 have been mailed to some citizens by the committee in charge. Buy your seals from the children or the ones mailed you. It makes no difference from whom you buy if you purchase from a Boone County pupil. Only Boone County sales help Boone County. Buy today, and place them on all your mail from now until Christmas.

CAPITOL HILL talk — in the corridors, in the offices of Senators and Representatives, at lunch as well as on the floor and in committee rooms — revolves around prices, inflation, taxes. But it's largely talk. The amount of action taking place couldn't be used to push a stalled car.

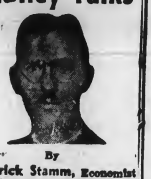
The Administration is frankly—at last—worrying about the rising price level, about the urgent need to block the incipient inflation. But the Administration is no more willing than is Congress to settle down to serious wrestling with the problem. Each wants to go on record as warning about the horrors of the coming inflation; each does not want to be held responsible for slapping on another stiff tax bill or a rigid price-wage fixing bill. So it looks like a great future for the buck-passers.

It's a fair bet that a compromise and hence not very effective price bill will be worked out several months hence. The new tax plan, proposed by Secretary Morganthau, is even farther off. The fact is the Secretary of the Treasury placed the problem of new taxes in the hands of the House Ways and Means Committee, which is just beginning to show signs of recovering from drafting the biggest tax bill in history.

Federal taxes this fiscal year will produce about $13,000,000.000 while the expectation is that we will spend about $25,500,000.000. Obviously, that leaves a deficit almost equal to the entire tax receipts.

While several proposals for raising more revenue are being discussed, the one prompting the most comment is the suggestion by the Secretary of the Treasury for a 15 percent check-off tax on 1942 incomes. This tax would be collected monthly during 1942, while the taxpayer is worrying about the taxes due on the 1941 income. In other words, it would be like paying almost two year's taxes in one year.

The plan, under consideration privately by the Treasury officials for more than a year, met a cool reception at the Capitol. One Congressman, whose reaction may be regarded as indicative of Capitol attitude, said the "check-off is o. k. if you'll give me an exemption."



The Treasury leans to the check-off as the most practical way of collecting revenue. Congress wouldn't dispute this, but they believe it would work an unreasonable hardship to ask the check-off on 1942 incomes and salaries run concurently with 1941 payments. They reason that most people have no real notion of how severely they will be hit by the 1941 income tax and should have a chance to readjust themselves before being hit by a 15 percent cut in wage or salary.

Officially, the Ways and Means Committee has decided to defer a decision as to when next tax legislation will be considered. Many more meetings will be held before the problem of new taxes is under way. The guessing in Washington now is that some variety of tax-at-source will be on the books, but not 15 percent, and not for some time to come.

Meanwhile, a comforting fact has just come to the attention of Congress. The fact: that living costs have advanced 5.6 percent since the first of this year, but average hourly earnings have risen 11.3 percent. The net result has been a 5.3 percent advance in the purchasing power of average hourly earrings. But Congressmen are still worrying—and with good cause — about the increasing demands for wage increases in anticipation of higher prices. They know full well that the race between wages and prices inevitably leads to the age-old inflation spiral, where prices rise because of higher wage costs, and wages in turn are pushed up because of higher prices, and everyone is the sufferer.

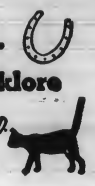
If this seems academic and pretty dull stuff, you had better steel yourself. Prices, inflation and related subjects are bound to be the news for months to come, and the price controversy is going to play an important role in the coming 1942 Congressional elections.

Money Talks

By
Frederick Stamm, Economist Director of Adult Education
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

The farmers of the United States are enjoying the best year since 1929, and may expect a better year in 1942. This year's total cash income for farmers (including federal subsidies) will amount to about $10.700,000,000 against $9.120,000,000 in 1940 or an increase of approximately 18%. Next year's estimates place the farmers' income at well over 13 billion dollars. A thirteen billion dollar-year for the farmer would be the largest since 1919, even topping the 1929 peak by a comfortable margin.

But to share in this increase our farmers must plan their production more carefully than they have in the past. Farmers, who have been accustomed to raising wheat cotton and tobacco every year, may make more money by shifting to other crops. They now have surplus cotton and equivalent to approximately a full year's requirement after deducting anticipated domestic consumption and exports during the current crop year. And since we have lost our export market for tobacco, due to the war, we have more than we can possibly consume for several years to come.



If farmers are to "cash in" on war prices, they should plan to raise more poultry and eggs, produce more hogs and cattle and milk. These are the products Great Britain and her allies need so badly. We will also need an additional 1,500,000 acres each, planted to soy beans and peanuts, to meet the increasing needs for edible oils. Wheat farmers can easily switch to soy beans while cotton producers can switch to peanuts. And there is practically no climatic limitations to the production of poultry and eggs.

If the farmers are willing to shift crop production to meet increasing demand for various products they should make money in 1942. Add higher prices to larger crops and you have very optimistic outlook for the agricultural regions. We can truthfully say the farmers are "in clover."

Swinging On the Gate

A few days ago one of my former students came to see me and to show me her little five-year-old boy, whom I had never seen. As soon as the introduction was over, and he had extended his left hand, as most small children do, he began swinging on the door of my office. The long talk about old times made no impression on him, for he was having a good time. His action brought back a custom that was very old long before his time, swinging on the gate.

Our parents always told us not to swing on the gate, as that would make it sag (only they said "swag"). We promised faithfully that we would not, but human flesh is weak when tempted by a large, strong farm gate. Though we were often punished, we somehow found oursilves sinning again, not openly but rather furtively. Most of the time we were not caught; we got a thrill out of doing something forbidden. Sometimes a sister or brother would turn state's evidence on us and get us spanked, the mean things. But not all the forces of righteousness could keep us off the gate.

It has been a long time since I rode on a swinging gate, partly because there are few gates strong enough for me. But I still remember the thrill. The gate was a means of locomotion, older by generations than the automobile or the aeroplane. We did not go far when we rode, but we burned the wind while we were at it. Some of the gates had been ridden long or had acquired the decrepitude of age in other ways so that we probably had many types of motion at the same time. Some of the hateful things would drag on the ground before we got around our quarter circle and thus cheat us of our dues. One old gate was made in such a fashion that we got some strange up-and-down sweeps. Instead of hinges it had an upright beam that was held in at the top by an old wagon wheel bent around a tree; the bottom was set in an old iron pot, not perfectly symmetrical. When we cut loose and swung around, we described arcs that would baffle a good mathematician to name. The worst feature was that the last arc let us down pretty suddenly on some very hard ground and gave us a taste of the licking that might be in store for us. After I was nearly grown it fell to my lot to replace this old gate by a new one; it seemed a shame that our old faithful could not stand up under hard usage. I recall that I worked hard to make the new gate strong, as if paying up for the stolen rides on the old one that did not bring a scolding or whipping. Fortunately the new gate seemed to realize the importance of its strong construction, for it lasted nearly thirty years. Of course, the mere fact that there were no more boys to ride it several times a day may have had something to do with its being so long-lived.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

A CALL IN THE NIGHT

We heard the children romping in their playroom upstairs—then suddenly, a scream!

We both rushed up and found our young son had fallen and apparently broken his arm. We immediately phoned our family physician, who verified our worst fears.

In time, the arm was carefully set, but other difficulties arose that called for an unusual prescription.

I looked at the clock—where could we get it filled at this late hour? We spoke to the doctor, who then picked up the phone and called "that man" out of bed—again "that man" (our neighborhood druggist), did not fail us.

Our neighborhood druggist never fails us! Should you, like most women, suffer discomforts during the menstrual period, just phone your druggist—he usually advises women to try Vatona Tablets—this may be just what you need!

SAVE and SACK the BEANS

WHILE chopping and storing the hay, the new Letz mill with grain separator sacks the beans. Saving high priced beans soon pays for a Letz—the surest money maker for any livestock farm.

Says Letz user, Lee Chatham, Danville, Indiana, "We chopped and blew into the mow 72 acres of soybean hay. We sacked 1,000 bushels of Manchu beans, keeping some for seed, recleaning and selling the rest for $1.25 per bushel. These beans brought us in over $1000.00."

Come in and investigate this wonderful machine. For most farmers feeding beef or dairy cattle, lambs or hogs, the Letz mill saves its cost and more the first season used. Let us demonstrate one for you.

Journeyed to that land.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE

I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!

I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.

In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.

Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist. Divine Assurance

A DICTIONARY defines "assurance," in part, as "firmness of mind; steadiness; intrepidity; courage; confidence." How greatly mankind needs spiritual assurance! Is it possible of attainment? If so, whence and how may it be obtained? If the assurance of good, of a supreme power, has been gained by even one individual, does not this fact give promise of the possibility that everyone can gain the true concept of spiritual supremacy?

Christ Jesus maintained divine assurance throughout his ministry. Among others who have emulated the Master's example was the Apostle Paul. As recorded in the Acts of the Apostles (8:1, 3), Saul, who had consented to the stoning of Stephen, "made havock of the church, entering into every house, and haling men and women committed them to prison." Later, through the illumination of the Christ, Truth, realizing the wrong that he had done, just as assiduously as he had let himself be a tool for evil designs Paul became an advocate for the supremacy and infinite power of God, divine Love, as revealed and exemplified by Christ Jesus, the Way-shower.

The practicality of Paul's divine assurance is shown in the incident recorded in the sixteenth chapter of Acts, in which Paul and Silas, being persecuted and lashed with many stripes, were thrust into the inner prison, their feet made fast in stocks. Did they indulge self-pity, fear, revenge? No, they made of their plight an opportunity to realize their divine right to peace and safety. At midnight they "prayed, and sang praises unto God" (Acts 16:25). What perfect assurance they had gained from their obedience to God through following Christ Jesus' example! Their experience recalls a message expressed in these comforting words (Christian Science Hymnal, No. 99):

"His tender love and watchful care
Shall free thee from the fowler's snare,
From every harm and pestilence."

Quickly or slowly, dangers and disasters are overcome for each one proportionately as he follows Christ Jesus' example of perfect assurance that God, divine Love, is present to give peace and protection. Thus it was with Paul and Silas. An earthquake opened the prison doors, and their bonds were loosed. They were then tenderly cared for, and through their Christian influence the keeper of the prison believed "in God with all his house." . . .

Mary Baker Eddy says in "Miscellaneous Writings" (p. 307): "God gives you His spiritual ideas, and in turn, they give you daily supplies. Never ask for tomorrow: it is enough that divine Love is an ever-present help; and if you wait, never doubting, you will have all you need every moment. What a glorious inheritance is given to us through the understanding of omnipresent Love! More we cannot ask: more we do not want: more we cannot have. This sweet assurance is the 'Peace, be still' to all human fears, to suffering of every sort." . . .

From the secure foundation of the ever-present, protecting power of God, can be built up a firm assurance that will enable one to face serenely every circumstance and prove the unreality of error. Sinful thoughts, sickness, poverty, death, grief, resentment, should be seen as error, and denied admittance into our consciousness. Then gratitude to God for man's unity with Him, and a patient, rejoicing waiting until His guiding ideas are received, will open the way for a steady increase of assurance until one learns that God's plan for His children is dominion, the consciousness of the allness of good. Thus with an assurance that cannot be shaken, one willingly and consistently works to realize the presence of good in his experience. Following Christ Jesus' example surely makes possible of fulfillment his promise (Luke 10:19), "Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall by any means hurt you."—The Christian Science Monitor.

Buying Blankets

Come the chill winter, and many a homemaker needs a blanket or two to fill the gaps in her bedding supply.

This year, blankets—like many another household item—are reflecting the international uncertainty. Wool, fiber for making the warmest blankets, is scarce. And there is a trend toward simplification of both sizes and colors to conserve labor and materials for defense purposes. As a result there may be a more limited variety this year from which to choose.

However, just as in other years, it's the woman who knows a good quality blanket when she sees one who comes home with the best buy. To bring homemakers up-to-date on marks of blanket quality, textile experts in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Home Economics give here some blanket-buying tips.

Find the Fiber

First of all, find the kind of fibers that have gone into a blanket. According to fiber content, there are three main types. A blanket may be all wool, part wool or all cotton. There is considerable variety in the part-wool groups. For the other part may be cotton, rayon or a mixture. And the part that's wool may range from 5 to 98 percent of the whole.

The more wool, the warmer the blanket—if the wool is of good quality. A part-wool blanket must be at least 25 percent wool to make much difference in its warmth or to give the blanket any of the characteristics of a wool blanket—such as fluffiness, elasticity, ability of the blanket to absorb moisture without the blanket itself feeling damp.

According to the Wool Labeling Act now in effect, any blanket called wool or part wool must have the exact percentage stated on the label. It also must be specified whether the wool is new reprocessed or reused. There are good, poor and indifferent qualities of all three.

Cotton makes a stronger blanket, wool a warmer one. When the two are combined, cotton is used in the lengthwise or warp yarns that need to be the stronger, and sometimes as a core for the filling yarns when only a small amount of wool is used. Wool or the mixed fibers are used in the crosswise or fillingwise yarns, either alone or wrapped around the cotton core. Then, in a finishing process called napping, the loose ends of the fillingwise yarns are pulled out to the surface of the blanket to give it that fluffy appearance.

Wool fluffs up better than cotton, and therefore is warmer. The still air that gets enmeshed in the fluff keeps the person under it warm. A new cotton blanket might fluff up to be almost as warm as a new wool blanket. But wool keeps this fluffiness after countless launderings — if the washings are done carefully. Cotton must be renapped after each washing.

Incidentally, many a good wool blanket has become second rate as warm bedclothing simply because of rough handling in the laundry. Wool must be washed in warm, soft water with a mild soap. It should be handled as little as possible. And there should be no sudden changes in temperature during the washing. Hot and then cold water, strong soaps, and rubbing cause the wool to shrink and become boardy. Once a wool blanket becomes stiff, flat, and boardy nothing can restore it to its original fluffiness.

See How It's Made

Hold the blanket up to the light. See if the napping is even all over. Blankets that are overnapped will have thick and thin spots. The thin spots soon wear out.

While you have the blanket up to the light, look at the underlying weave. This should be regular all over, yarns should be smooth, even, spaced regularly and close together.

Note end finishes of the blanket. Most blankets are now bound with rayon or sateen. If it is, make sure the binding is sewed on securely. Rayon bindings wear out more quickly than sateen, but they hold their color better, and show soil less. Edges on lightweight cotton blankets are usually lock-stitched. Make sure all thread ends are securely fastened.

To see that the blanket is cut straight, hold it up to the light and note whether the end is cut parallel to the crosswise threads. It should be. If there are stripes or borders, use them as guides and make sure the threads are parallel to them.

Be sure, too, that any contrasting borders, stripes and plaids are of the same fiber and woven in the same way as the rest of the blanket. Otherwise the blanket will shrink unevenly.

Size and Color

The size of the blanket usually is market on the label. When you buy "bargain" blankets, though, it's a good iea to have the blanket measured for you at the store to make sure of full size. Choose a blanket long enough to tuck in at the foot, yet come up well around the neck and ears. Short blankets wear out more quickly than those of ample size, because they get more tugging.

For a double bed, a blanket needs to be at least 72x84 inches. More satisfactory, of course, are the "luxury" 80x90's. For a single bed, 63x84 is about the minimum satisfactory size—and for a twin bed, the blanket needs to be at least 66x84.

After you decide on quality of the blanket, it matters little what color you select. But be sure to have the blanket unfolded at the store so you can look at the color all over—to make sure there is no uneveness in the shading.

Information Labels

There is a trend these days towards putting more information on labels attached to the blanket. Chief value of much information on labels is that it makes it possible for the consumer to compare the various properties of different blankets in the same price range.

Some labels give breaking strength for the blanket for both the fillingwise and lengthwise yarns. For most purposes, the higher the breaking strength for the fillingwise yarns, the stronger the blanket. Blankets that are long enough usually are strong enough in the warp for the wear they get. But napping often weakens the fillingwise yarns.

Some informative labels also tell the weight of the blanket. This may be given for the blanket as a whole or for a square yard of the fabric. The latter is the more usable information, because it makes it possible to compare the weight of blankets of different sizes. Naturally, when you are comparing blanket weights, you can compare only those with the same fiber content. For example, if two all-wool blankets are alike in size and price, but different in weight, the heavier one will give you more wool for the money. But if one of the blankets contains some fiber besides wool and the other doesn't, then you cannot compare them this way.

CHRISTIAN LOVE

LESSON TEXT—John 13:34, 35; I Corinthians 13:1-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—We love him, because he first loved us.—I John 4:19.

Many important things enlist the interest of the Christian, but we need to beware lest we neglect what Jesus declared to be the first and great commandment—that we love God; and its necessary sequel—that we love our neighbor. If love is forgotten (and who can deny that it often is in our day?), the very foundations are shaken. We need a revival of Christian love.

I. Love—A Mark of Discipleship (John 13:34, 35).

Do you want to know whether a man is a Christian? Find out whether he loves his brethren. Such is the test Jesus gives in these verses.

1. Commanded. It is the will and purpose of God that the followers of Christ should have a real love for one another. It is not to be a matter of impulse or chance, but the love God has for us should constrain us to love one another. Thus is love

2. Exemplified. God has loved us. He does love us. How infinitely much is wrapped up in these simple words! He even gave His Son to die for us because He loved us (John 3:16). How then can we withhold our love from Him and from one another?

II. Love—A Christian Grace (I Cor. 13).

In a world where hatred prevails, and is in fact glorified, this chapter needs to be read and reread. We find that love is

1. Essential (vv. 1-3). Life has many excellent gifts and men quite properly seek after them. How do they compare with love, and what do they amount to apart from love? Glowing, angelic eloquence; the far-seeing eye of the prophet; the attainments of knowledge and culture; mountain-moving faith; liberal-hearted charity: martyr-like self-sacrifice—without love they are all as nothing. Apart from Christ and His love operating in our hearts and lives the worthiest attainments of men are vain and empty. Love is the very essence of a satisfying and useful life.

2. Effective (vv. 4-7). Does love really work, or is this just a fine sounding but obsolete theory? It works.

Think of the things in life which irritate and depress us; then put opposite them the qualities of Christian love as given in verses 4 to 7, and you will agree that what this world needs most of all is love.

Remember that talking about love or reading about it or studying it in the Sunday school will not make it effective. We must put it into practice. Why not start now? You will be surprised at the results.

3. Eternal (vv. 8, 12). Many gifts are only temporary in their usefulness; in fact, almost everything that man makes or does (apart from his service for God) is transient. Even so vital a matter as prophecy shall one day find its end in fulfillment. Hope shall eventually find its longing expectation satisfied. Faith will be justified in seeing what it has believed. Childish things will be put away by the full-grown man, knowledge will increase and darkness disappear.

But love—love is eternal. It never fails, and will never fail. God is love and God is eternal. From all eternity and unto all eternity love continues. Therefore, we agree with Paul who in the verse preceding this chapter (I Cor. 12:31) says that while you may covet the best gifts, here is the more excellent way —love.

Let us be clear about this. Love is not a substitute for regeneration, and certainly regeneration is no excuse for lack of love. Read John 13: 34, 35 again and remember that if we are Christ's disciples we will count it a high privilege to keep this first and great commandment of love.

Dependence on God

Poverty in any shape helps to stir in man a sense of need, a disposition to consider himself as dependent . . . The real puzzle of life consists not in the fact of widespread poverty but in that of widespread affluence; in the fact that so many are sufficiently endowed with "goods" as to believe they can live by them, and so cease to look for their true life to God their Father.—E. Lyttleton.

Death Becomes Transparent

And so the empty tomb becomes the symbol of a thoroughfare between life in time and life in the unshadowed presence of our God. Death is now like a short tunnel which is near my home; I can look through it and see the other side! In the risen Lord death becomes transparent. "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?"—Dr. J. D. Jowett.

MORGANSVILLE

"Bless the Lord, oh, my soul and forget not all His benefits." At this Thanksgiving season do not forget to thank God for all of the blessings of life, and the heritage enjoyed, handed down by the Pilgrims. "It is easy to walk when the way is bright, when the flowers strew our path, then happy comrades journey along and bear aloft the voice of song, but when flowers fade and the way grows rough, and our path with thorns are strewn, many depart, ah, the question comes—oh, then can he walk alone? Yes, for the Master walks with us all the dark way, His servants are never alone for His presence with them doth abide."

Most heartily do we thank Rev. Courtland Weldon and the Hickory Grove Baptist church for a lovely Thanksgiving basket.

OUR DEMOCRACY — by Mat

Red Cross, OCD Look to Volunteers For Civil Defense

Washington, D. C.—To the question, "What can I do for America?" the Red Cross is providing an answer for hundreds of thousands of men and women who want to do their part on the civilian defense front.

For women, the Red Cross is providing an 80-hour training course to recruit a corps of 100,000 Nurse's Aides. It is the Red Cross' newest project, undertaken at the request of the U. S. Office of Civilian Defense to relieve the current pressure on nursing facilities.

With thousands of nurses being taken into military service with our armed forces, civilian nursing has suffered a direct blow, the Red Cross points out.

Red Cross Nurse's Aides will serve as assistants to registered nurses, performing scores of important duties which will enable nurses to care for more cases. The Red Cross stresses that Nurse's Aides will not take the place of the registered nurse, but will serve in an auxiliary capacity.

On the more dramatic side of civilian defense, the Red Cross is gearing its far-flung disaster fighting machine to handle mass feeding, housing and clothing of evacuees under wartime conditions. In cooperation with the Office of Civilian Defense, chapters are strengthening disaster relief committees to cope with man-made disaster much on the same scale as relief operations following natural catastrophe.

Organization along these lines includes preparedness measures for fires, explosions and epidemics which may be expected to result from accelerated industrial activity incident to national defense.

Strictly as a precautionary measure, the Red Cross is devising means of confronting emergency relief in the event of sporadic air or sea attacks, considered conceivable hazards in some coastal and boundary areas.

The need for First Aid in civilian defense has not been neglected by the Red Cross. Last year nearly 600,000 were trained in emergency treatment of the injured. This year the figure is expected to go much higher with special emphasis being placed on the formation of detachments which would serve as units in factories, offices, schools and other places where persons are

Red Cross courses in Home Nursing and in Nutrition also are being expanded as a feature of the civilian defense program, it was pointed out. Mounting health hazards and the shortage of civilian nurses may at any time obligate the housewife—or even the man of the house—to assist in caring for the sick. Likewise, the Red Cross is placing greater emphasis on Nutrition courses designed to teach householders the art of purchasing and preparing well-balanced meals within the range of the family pocketbook.

Survey Gives Soldier's "Rules" For Good Morale In Army Camps

HERE are the American soldier's own specifications for good army "morale":

1. Fair treatment.
2. Complete "freedom and variety" when on leave.
3. Decent, hospitable attitudes among local townspeople near camps, making him feel he's "as good as anyone else."
4. First class training and straight talk from his superiors on what the war is about, so he can feel he's getting something tangible out of his experience in the army.

These "rules" are based on findings made in a dozen training camps and all sorts of places outside by Alden Stevens, widely experienced sociologist and writer His report appeared in Survey Graphic.

"The building of army camp morale calls for positive action now," Stevens declares. "You have to provide the conditions that make for good morale—then you will get it. No mere words cooked up in Washington are going to be effective unless the fundamental requirements for good morale are present."

There are two sets of factors bearing on morale, Stevens finds: 1—camp and training; 2—recreational. A number of things enter into the latter "and one of them is simply the relative sizes of the camp and the nearest town."

"Most men want to get away from any planned recreation," Stevens says, "and anything with a welfare or social work tint is unpopular. The only group of people who have furnished the army with something else to do are the private operators of tent-shows, carnivals, roller-skating rinks and, most of all, the juke joints

"There is no more thoroughly American institution than the juke joint, with its freedom, complete informality, and democratic camaraderie.

"Some of the juke joints need control. The United Brewers Industrial Foundation . . the beer manufacturers' conscience . . which is running a nationwide campaign for moderation, especially near camps, is serving to keep many of the proprietors within proper bounds, and to improve local regulation where it has been slack."

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

$30,011 Pledged For Fair Ground

Boone county will have a county Fair and Picnic grounds if $480 can be raised by Thursday night, according to Charles Riley, Chairman of the County Fair Grounds drive.

Committeemen at the meeting last Thursday evening reported that $3.011 of the $3.500 required had been raised and stated that, "We are now too close to stop." The County Fair Grounds program must go "over the top."

People of the county and friends have shown a splendid response. The program offers foundation possibilities of a permanent memorial for the county, agricultural and home economics improvement for our boys and girls, and as a fair and county picnic grounds for our people. Every citizen of the county is invited to make his contribution to his committeeman who is serving without pay for the common interest of all. See your committeeman today. Make your pledge before the end of the campaign, so the goal will be reached in full. It's your fair grounds and you will want a part in securing it.

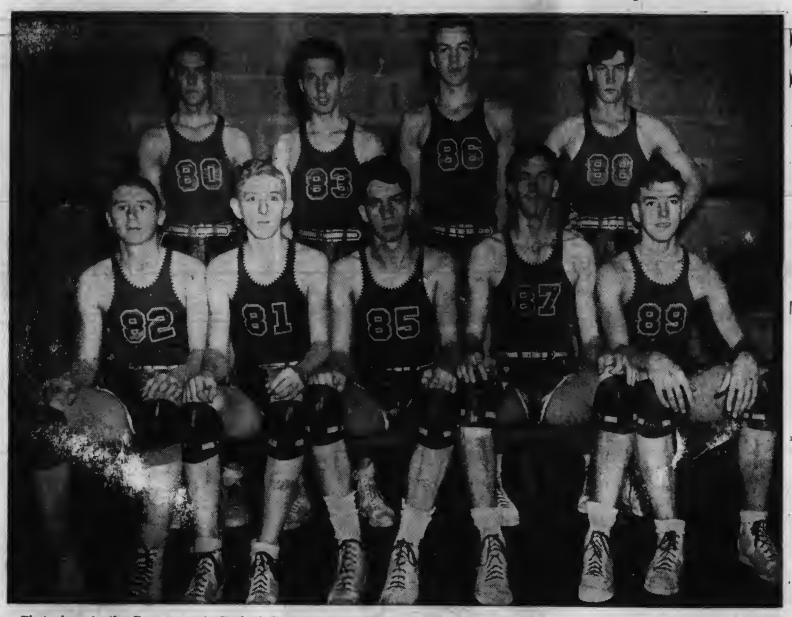
At the intermission, the Pioneers were in front 17 to 14. Morgan and Casey, with 6 points each, were top scorers for the winners.



In a preliminary game, the S. K. reserves had little difficulty in swamping the Cold Springs second-stringers, 38 to 10. Franklin Breeden was high scorer for the Kenton countians.

On Saturday night, Dec. 6, the Simon Kenton boys will entertain the Winchester (Ky.) team. This will be the last home game for the Pioneers until Dec. 16, when they are hosts to Covington.

BEARCATS HANG UP THREE VICTORIES IN PAST WEEK

The past week has been a busy one for the W.-V. basketeers, who met three foes and conquered each. Two were Conference tilts and one was a non-Conference encounter. Last Friday night they upset Burlington 27 to 17; on Saturday night they annihilated Hebron 41 to 22, and Tuesday night knocked off Beechwood 40 to 26, and from our viewpoint, this was the best of the lot.

In the game with Burlington, the teams played on even terms for the first quarter, the score being 4-4 at the end of this period. In the second stanza the locals took the lead and were never headed thereafter, leading 11-4 at the half; 18-15 at the end of the third quarter, and 27-17 at the final gong.

Groger was top scorer for the winners, with 12 points; Simpson was next with 6, and Welch ran third, with 5. Huey was high for Burlington, with 9 points, and Porter, with 5, was next.

The Walton - Verona reserves lost the preliminary contest, 21-19 and in the final game, a Walton independent team defeated Hamilton independents, 38-34.

At Hebron the Cats had things under control at all times, leading throughout. Scores at end of quarters were: first, 13-1; second, 18-1; third, 34-20, and final 41-22 in favor of W.-V.

Groger led the scoring parade with 13 points. DeMoisey and Mayhugh were next with 7 tallies each.

The curtain-raiser was captured by the Walton reserves 22-16.

The Bearcats led throughout in their tilt with Beechwood, although the visitors threatened several times. The locals led at the end of the first quarter 12-7; at the half, 20-14; at the third quarter, 28-22, and at the end of the game, 40 to 26.

The three high scorers for the winners were Welch, with 13; DeMoisey, with 10, and Groger with 9.

Walton - Verona's second team defeated Beechwood's reserves 15 to 9 in the prelim.

The Cats go to Dixie Heights on December 9th, and following Friday night's engagement with New Haven, the next home game will be on December 12, with the Florence Knights.

John R. DeMoisey Heads Reform Houses

"Local boy makes good," is an age-old and well worn phrase, but in the case of John R. DeMoisey, we think it could be removed from the moth balls, dusted off, and used again, because that's exactly what John has done. He is a local boy, the son of Rev. and Mrs. R. F. DeMoisey, and he has made good. As you probably know, he was recently named Superintendent of the Kentucky Houses of Reform at Greendale. This is an honor and accomplishment in itself, but we believe that the greatest opportunities for his success lie in the future. In such a capacity as his, and can really be of great benefit to the unfortunate youngsters under his direction. We believe his ideas of management are good, and that a bright future lies before him.

"Frenchy," as he is familiarly known, graduated from Walton High school in 1930, and in 1934 was graduated from the University of Kentucky. He was an outstanding basketball player while in High school, and at the University gained All-American recognition. After graduation John coached at Grayson and Harrodsburg, and also played professional baseball with Louisville in the American Association, for a time. He went to the Greendale institution in August, 1939, as recreational director. In October of that year he was named assistant director.

We congratulate John on his success, and extend best wishes for a most successful future.

TO VOTE ON SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT IN KENTON CO.

Land owners of Kenton County, excluding town lots within the incorporated towns and unincorporated villages of Kenton County, will vote in a referendum Saturday, Dec. 6, 1941, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m., EST, on the proposed creation of a Kenton County Soil Conservation District.

Voting Places

Three voting places have been established in the county. Voting division and polling places for the referendum are as follows:

Division No. 1—Comprising the lands within the northern one-third of Kenton County. Polling place located at Crescent Springs, in the Crescent Springs Fire House.

Division No. 2—Comprising the lands within the central section of Kenton County. Polling place at Independence Court House.

Division No. 3—Comprising the lands within the southern section of Kenton county. Polling place at Piner, in the Piner School.

Eligible voters residing within the proposed district shall cast their ballots at the polling place for the division wherein they reside. Eligible voters not residing within the proposed district shall cast their ballots at the polling place for the division which includes their land, or the greater part thereof. Eligible voters who will be absent from their division on the day of the referendum may apply in person or in writing to S. W. Durr, Polling Superintendent, Route 1, Walton, for absentee ballots. Each applicant for an absentee ballot shall state his name, residence, location, and the acreage of land owned.

Soil Conservation Refrendum Jan. 10

Boone county land owners will have an opportunity to vote on January 10th in a referendum on the formation of a Soil Conservation District under the enabling law passed by the last legislature. Every land owner is urged to vote according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

More than fifty percent of land owners voting in the referendum must favor a district or it will not be formed. The district, after being formed, will develop a program of soil conservation planned under the supervision of five farmer supervisors elected from the district. Only farmers requesting service of the district may have work done.

The district as a government corporate body may secure government aid direct and redistribute it to farmers in the district. This aid will usually be in the form of machinery, CCC labor and technical advice.

The law does provide that ordinances requiring soil conservation practices carried out may be passed but these ordinances can not be put into effect unless 90% of all landowners owning 80% of all the land in the district vote in favor of them. Because of this practical impossible majority and the state attitude on this phase of the work, it is understood that at no time will there be any ordinances passed.

The district has many possibilities. It must be considered, however, if a district is formed, the work it does will be up to the local people. They will be the ones who will be required to plan and develop the program.

NAMED GIRL SCOUT COMMISSIONER

Mrs. O. G. Loomis, formerly of Walton, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Johnson, was elected to serve as Commissioner of Dixie Area Girl Scout Council. The election was held in conjunction with a meeting conducted by Miss Margaret Compton of Rochelle, N. Y., who is passing several months in this vicinity training new leaders for the Girl Scout troops.

Mr. and Mrs. Loomis are residents of Newport.

Evelyn Franks To Attend 4-H Congress

Miss Evelyn Franks

Boone County 4-H Clubs have the honor of sending Miss Evelyn Franks, member of the New Haven Club, to represent Kentucky in the 4-H Foods Judging Contest to be held during National 4-H Congress in Chicago, with girls from the other states and U. S. possessions.

Miss Franks is the 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. Corinne McCormac, a teacher in the New Haven school, and makes her home with her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. McCormac, Verona.

The Chicago trip comes to this young lady as a climax to a six year 4-H Club career. During the time she completed three projects in foods, three projects in clothing, and one project in poultry. She has taken part in few contests or county club events and considered herself a real amateur when she entered the county foods judging contest last May. Her winning score was 590 out of a possible 600 points, on classes of yeast rolls, muffins in menus.

The ability to evaluate food standards comes to her quite naturally. She made a high score at the State Contest held in Lexington during Junior Week last June. She expects to judge baked products, menu plans, and table setting arrangements in the Chicago contest. Mrs. Walter Ferguson of U[illegible] has served as foods project leader at New Haven this year. Mrs. Ferguson expressed surprise, but delight, to have one of her club girls win the contest. She is a volunteer leader and receives reward for her service in the form of satisfaction in having her pupils achieve honors, and in the congratulations justly due her.

Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie, the county Demonstration Agent, conducts the county 4-H Club girls' program.

John Masters, principal of the New Haven School, has cooperated in making it possible to conduct 4-H Club meetings and classes at his school and the school organization and P.-T. A. have contributed much to the success of the club.

Funds for the trip are a combine contribution from local 4-H Clubs, Homemakers Clubs, County 4-H Council, and the New Haven School and P.-T. A.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL WORKERS TAKE NOTICE

Workers in the 1942 Red Cross Roll Call are urged to cover their territories again in order that we may reach the Boone County Quota of 1800 members. Reports from Constance indicate that they have reached and surpassed their quota of 75 members. If each precinct chairman will see that the quota is reached for his community, we will be ALL OUT FOR THE RED CROSS.—Chr.

Her winning score was 590 out of a possible 600 points, on classes of yeast rolls, muffins an menus.

The ability to evaluate food standards comes to her quite naturally. She made a high score at the State Contest held in Lexington during Junior Week last June. She expects to judge baked products, menu plans, and table setting arrangements in the Chicago contest. Mrs. Walter Ferguson of Union has served as foods project leader at New Haven this year. Mrs. Ferguson expressed surprise, but delight, to have one of her club girls win the contest. She is a volunteer leader and receives reward for her service in the form of satisfaction in having her pupils achieve honors, and in the congratulations justly due her.

Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie, the county Demonstration Agent, conducts the county 4-H Club girls' program.

John Masters, principal of the New Haven School, has cooperated in making it possible to conduct 4-H Club meetings and classes at his school and the school organization and P.-T. A. have contributed much to the success of the club.

Funds for the trip are a combine contribution from local 4-H Clubs, Homemakers Clubs, County 4-H Council, and the New Haven School and P.-T. A.

Washington Snapshots by James Preston

The current strike situation—one of the hottest problems in recent legislative history— has produced a growing demand among the law passers here that union labor must wake up to its responsibilities I n the current defense program. The public clamor that strikes in vital defense industries must not be permitted to cripple production— that labors agitation for a universal closed shop must cease— is apparantly bringing results.

Observers here point out that unions have ben so much in the news recently that many people are beginning to think that they represent almost all the employees in America Actually they represent less than 20 percent of them. And with the C.I.O.-A.F.L. split, there is no union spokesman who can authoritatively speak for as much as 10 percent of American labor.

In the past, however, that 10% has done quite a lot of speaking in its effort to force all employees in the country into unions before they are permitted to work. Talk of the tail wagging the dog, and you get a pretty accurate impression of the union picture in this respect.

Indications are that a growing number of Congressmen are getting set to change that picture. At long last people are beginning to find it a little difficult to understand why a man should join a union if he doesn't want to—why he should pay dues if he wants to use the money for something else. Labor unions have been using national defense as a smoke screen to hide their effort to create an industry-wide (and, if possible, a nation-wide) labor monopoly. The wave of preventable strikes in defense industries seems to have roused the public to a realization of what's going on, and it begins to seem as though reasonable steps may be taken to stop the trend.

Now that economy in non-defense government spending is finally beginning to receive attention here, cloak rooms buzz with speculation as to who gets cut and how much.

Secretary Morgenthau's recent statement that he could lop a billion dollars off the budget has been received with mixed feelings. A billion dollars may seem like a substantial cut to some people—obviously it does to Mr. Morgenthau.

To Senator Harry Byrd and others in the pare-to-the-bone economy block it seems like just a beginning and, to many of uswho watch from the sidelines, it seems like a belated beginning. Senator Byrd has already indicated that he thinks the billion can very likely be doubled; and he expects to have a report ready by the middle of December with an itemized list of specific expenditures that can be reduced.

A recent report indicating the cost of government overhead has opened up a whole new field for the economy mindedacording to those in close touch with the situation. The report shows that the cost of administering the defense program has been $1 for every $6 spent.

While no one questions the fact that mistakes were to some extent unavoidable in setting up a defense program as huge and complicated as ours has become, yet there seems to be little reason why so many were made and why, once they were made,the were not unmade imediately. Government bureaus with overlapping duties not only cause confusion and slow up defense effort; they cost money and increase our taxes.

MICKIE SAYS—

— DEFENSE BOND QUIZ —

Q. I am a machinist in an airplane factory. When the war in over I may be laid off. How can I prepare for that time?

A. Make systematic and regular purchases of Defense Savings Bonds. They will give you a substantial reserve which you can fall back on in the period or readjustment after the emergency.

Q. To what very large group of Americans does the Government look particularly for extensive buying of Defense Bonds and Stamps?

A. People in the middle and lower income brackets, where many of the most rapid increases in national earnings have taken place. This immense part of our population can be especially effective in reducing national purchasing power by buying Bonds and Stamps, thus aiding the country's defense program, while helping to keep down the cost of living.

NOTE: To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps now are on sale at retail stores.

SOCIAL SECURITY NOTES

A warning to all persons who are hired for temporary work during the coming holiday seasons was issued today by Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager of the Covington field office of the social security board, who said: "Because of the heavy demand for labor in defense work many housewives and others who have not been employed in in commerce or industry in recent years are likely to obtain temporary jobs in commercial establishments between now and the end of 1941. Those persons who have not had social security account numbers should obtain their cards and present them to the employer at the time work is started.

"Persons who had cards but have lost them should obtain duplicates, not new numbers. Employers will save time and trouble by copying the names and social security numbers of new workers directly from their account cards at, or shortly after, the time such workers are hired. Every employerof one or more in commerce or industry is covered by the Social Securit Act, under the old-age and survivors Insurance program contained herein.

"New employers entering business for the holiday season must get 'dentification numbers and later make reports showing wages paid to all persons in their service. These reports are made when social security taxes are paid at the end of each quarter."

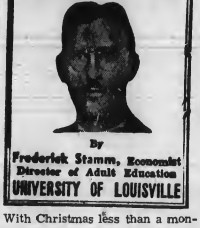
"NOW"

Among all the words that I have heard none sems more universal in extent than "Now". I have questioned people from every part of the nation and have found that all children have used it and in exactly the same way. I suppose that it started by being used to mean literall what it says as in "You let me alone now." But it soon lost this and arquired a slightly bellicose tone, as if it might have been a substitute for a word prohibited by parents or school teachers. Sometimes it did not have any sentence to intensify but appeared alone; when that happened, the poor little fellow who was using it had got so angry that he had run out of anything to say and was merely exploding.

Here is a typical use of the word. Two children are playing with a ball or other toy. One gets it and keeps it, though he is not the owner. The other one asks for it for a while and then rests to "Let me have my ball, now." If this does not bring it, there often follows a loud and angry appeal to Mammy to "make Jim give me my ball, now." If Mammy is too far away or tob busy ironing or washing or cooking, fists come in handy. Diplomacy yields to warfare, just as if the youngsters were two great and mighty nations acting like small boys.



"What's in a name?" asked Shakespeare. Too much is made of mere words that are supposed to be naughty. Since many such words were under the ban, we had to let our feelings out in some way. I have heard "Now" said in a tone that would make mere profanity sound reverent. There was no punishment ever offered for this strong word so far as I can recall; hence we could put into it every conceivable shade or tint of meaning. Only the initiated could know just how profane we were when we said the word.

The same thing could be said for many another harmless by-word. Swearing as such was sternly forbidden by parents and by custom. Some people used by-words very much as we use salt and pepper, for seasoning and not to attract attention.

But on occasions a thing that was merely "daggummed" could be so had that we smaller boys and the women might very well blush with shame for ourselves and for the naughty man who said it. One of our teachers regularly called a boy "honey" when he was on the vergé of administering a thrashing. We soon learned when that word was used to expect a scene, one in which the teacher would acquire more power and more respect. Some "honeys" were not very bad, but others were about as bad as blankety-blanks could be in ordinary society.

It is strange, after all, that mere words are expected to express what we mean. No amount of writing can explain the flavor of the simplest words uttered with passion. If we can ever perfect a simple and inexpensive way of recording all kinds of speech, I want to put down for future reference some of the "Nows" that I still hear wherever I go.

Money Talks

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

With Christmas less than a month away, the merchants of this country are expecting the largest holiday trade in history. Retailers are predicting a twenty per-cent rise in dollar volume of sales over 1940.

There are several reasons for this prediction. First, our national income has reached a new high, and the working people have money to spend. Our defense dollars have reached into every city and practically every hamlet and farm. The buying power is again in the hands of those who spend for necessities and semi-luxuries, that is, the industrials workers.

Second, consumers see this Christmas as the last chance for some time to select goods from full stocks. The psychology of a world at war is to spend while we can still get the goods. It is the consumer's final splurge.

Merchants expect to sell a greater percentage of medium -priced merchandise this year than in the past periods of prosperity.

The industrial workers and farmers, whose incomes have increased so greatly, are not usually buyers of luxuries. People in the upper income brackets who buy luxuries are beginning to lay away their extra funds to meet their March 15 federal income tax.

Up to November 9,retail sales in this country were seventeen percent ahead of last year. It seem to me this trend will continue although there are two major factors which will check Christmas buying: first, the inability of merchants to get the goodsfrom the manufacturers and the second, taxes.

The wise shopper will do her Christmas buying early if she expects to find the merchandise she desires. The merchant also should plan ahead, for he cannot expect to order 'short lines" a few days before Christmas and receive the goods promptly. This is the year when planning ahead will pay big dividends to both consumer and merchant.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

This Week In Defense

The White House announced a U. S. Army contingent has been sent to Dutch Guiana in South America to cooperate with Netherlands forces in protecting mines there which furnish more than 60 percent of the bauxite supply to the U. S. aluminum industry. The move had the approval of Brazil, whose forces will patrol the Guiana-Brazilian border. The White House said the Army force would be withdrawn as soon as the present danger passes.

Foreign Relations

Following conferences with envoys of Britian, China, Australia and the Netherlands and then representatives of Japan, the State Department announced it had presented Japan with a plan dealing with the Far Eastern situation. The Department said the plan was based on U. S. policy previously announced. The President told his press conference that for the present U. S. merchant ships in the Pacific would not be armed.

Army Progress

War Secretary Stimson told his press conference the Army "has shown really wonderful progress" in the current maneuvers in the Carolinas. He said reports from the British in Egypt and Libya have testified to the excellent performance of American equipment being used there.

Mr. Stimson said although the great bulk of tanks fighting in Europe are rivited, the Army is ordering cast steel and swelded tanks which are stronger. Gen. Wesson, Chief of Ordnance, reported arrangements for $53,000,000 in facilities to make these new tanks.

Selective Service and The Navy

Navy Secretary Knox told his press conference there has been a 15 percent drop in Navy enlistments since the torpedoings of Navy ships in the North Atlantic because parents are no longer as willing to give their consent to sons under 21. The Navy needs 13,000 volunteers a month now and beginning next July will need 15,000 a month. If sufficient men do not volunteer, Mr. Knox said, the Navy may have to utilize selectees.

Prices

Labor Secretary Perkins reported the cost of goods purchased by wage earners and lower-salaried workers in large cities increased 1.2 percent from mid-September to mid-October. She said a survey of 18 staple foods in 19 cities showed food prices also rose moderately during the first half of November.

Price Administrator Henderson announced prices of wooden household furniture were no longer going up. He asked manufacturers of mattresses, bedsprings, studio couches, metal beds and pillows to hold prices where they were on Nov. 1, and announced the Government is planning to restrict further price increases in water heaters, radiators and air conditioners. He also announced manufacturers of more than 50 percent of all writing paper, book and printing paper—except newsprint—have indicated they will not raise prices further.

Priorities

OPM ordered a 10 percent cut in production by large manufacturers of vacuum cleaners for household use; a two-thirds cut in production of lead and tin foil for decorative purposes and for tobacco, chewing gum, beverages, confections, films, and similar articles. OPM also announced it will shortly institute a new priority system under which manufacturers of essential items will be allotted materials on a three-months basis in order to cut down the number of applications for priorities.

Priority Unemployment

Special Assistant Nehemkis of the OPM Contract Distribution Division, speaking in St. Louis, said Army and Navy contracts totaling $31,577,090 have been awarded in areas where OPM found unemployment caused by shortage of materials for non-defense work. He said ten acres, including 75 plants and one entire industry, have been certified as eligible for these special awards.

Labor Supply

The Social Security Board reported 475,000 workers were scheduled to be hired and 100,000 scheduled to be laid off in 9,900 industrial establishments between now and February. Nearly 250,000 workers will be taken on in the aircraft and shipping industries, the report estimated.

The Office of Agricultural Defense Relations announced that "if all possible means of conserving manpower and utilizing it efficiently are employed . . . farmers should not be handicapped seriously by labor shortages next year." Assistant OCD Director Eleanor Roosevelt told a press conference the OCD is planning a "women's land army" to help harvest next year's crops.

Property Requisitioning

The President by Executive Order delegated to the OPM the power to requisition property under tht conditions set forth by Congress in the Acts of October 10, 1940 and October 16, 1941. Whenever requested by OPM, any Federal agency is authorized to requisition property essential to national defense which cannot be obtained in any other way.

OPM issued a comparison of present industrial defense efforts with those during 1917 and 1918. The comparison showed the productive capacity of each worker has greatly increased because of technical efficiency, and that because of lower prices, the U. S. is now getting more value for every dollar spent.

Lend-Lease

Lend-Lease Administration Stettinius reported lend-lease aid has steadily increased from $18,000,000 in March to a present total of more than one billion dollars; contracts have been let for more than 75 percent of the first $7,000,000,000; and the new $6,000,000,000 fund is being allocated rapidly. The Agriculture Department reported U. S. production of dry skim milk must be increased 40 to 50 percent to meet the total of 200,000,000 pounds required for shipment to Britain. Secretary of State Hull announced a lend-lease agreement with Iceland.

Defense Expenditures and Taxes

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Eccles, speaking in New York said "by the middle of next year defense expenditures will probably be running at an annual rate of somewhat more than 15 billion dollars above the middle of the current year . . . Additional taxation must be imposed and further restraints (to consumer spending) must be imposed." He said he hoped "further taxation . . . will first tap the corporate excess profits and the middle and upper individual income brackets . . ." An OPA credit consultant, speaking in Chicago, said "consumer credit control is contributing as much as the new Federal tax law to the battle against inflation."

Labor Disputes

UMW President John L. Lewis agreed to submit the captive mine dispute to the arbitration of a board composed of himself, Benjamin Fairless, President of the U. S. Steel Corporation, and Dr. John R. Steelman, who resigned his position as Director of the U. S. Conciliation Service to represent the public on the board. All the mines resumed operations and the board began meetings in N. Y.

The President referred back to his special fact-finding board for further examination, the dispute between railroad management and labor. The U. S. Conciliation Service reported settlement of 68 other labor disputes.

Harve Fischman, who participated in the celebration, knew the answer to the first, NBC's 15th anniversary; and Ruth Duskin, little seven-year-old, said that chickens should be thankful because Thanksgiving is Turkey Day.

BULLITTSVILLE HOMEMAKERS ENTERTAINED

The Bullittsville Homemakers club held their November meeting at the home of Mrs. Wm. Hill. There were eleven members, one visitor and Mrs. Moore, Home Demonstration Agent, present.

The president, Mrs. H. E. Bruce, called the meeting to order, then asked the project leaders, Mrs. W. Hill and Mrs. J. R. Williams, to give the lesson for the month, which was the family meal hour and table service. Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Hill are excellent leaders and made the lesson most interesting.

Mrs. Charles Utzinger, Mrs. Burnham Roberts, Mrs. James Stevens and Mrs. Albert Willis assisted the hostess in preparing and serving the lunch.

In the afternoon session, Mrs. Moore explained how the Homemakers clubs could help with the 4-H work with volunteer leadership. Mrs. Albert Willis was asked to serve as chairman of the 4-H work in the club. The club contributed toward the expenses of the 4-H club girl that is being sent as a delegate from the county to Chicago.

The exterior beautification chairman, Mrs. Charles Engle, gave a very interesting talk on the planting and care of fall and winter ornamental shrubs. She also told about the planting of the Model Mile on Highway 20.

Miss Lucy Lee Grant visited the meeting in the afternoon and distributed Red Cross sewing among the women and discussed holding a First Aid class or Home Hygiene class beginning in January. Mrs. Huey Aylor invited the club to hold the December meeting in her home. The December meeting will be in the form of a Christmas party and each member is asked to take a small gife. The meeting will be on the 18th.

The project leaders presented the lesson in a clear and interesting way, that holds the attention and then it is illustrated by the food served. A great deal of business was transacted during the afternoon session. The purchase of the hospital bed, which will be available to the whole county, was ordered, as the entertainment given to raise money for its purchase was so successful, as to make it possible to supply a mattress an drubber sheet as well. We had five or six new members who joined.—Mabel G. Sayre, Reporter

FLORENCE HOMEMAKERS HAVE ENJOYABLE MEET

First, because we had Mrs. Jane Sleet of New Haven Club (she is also our District President) whose charming presence would make any gathering enjoyable; second, because we had 39 in attendance; and third, because of the delicious lunch which was served at noon time.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Improved Uniform International

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for December 7

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE NATURE AND WORK OF THE CHURCH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2:41-47; Ephesians 4:11-16.

GOLDEN TEXT—Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it.—Ephesians 5:25.

The church, which is so much the center of life for Christians, is not as well understood as it should be. We have come to regard it as just one organization among many competing for the attention and interest of men, when it is really a divine, living organism established by Christ as His Body and representing Him in this world. Our lesson presents significant truth for both study and teaching. The church is

I. A Fellowship of Believers (Acts 2:41-47).

The church is made up of those who are saved (v. 47), those who have received the Word by faith and witnessed a good confession of their faith in Christ (v. 41). This is a fact to be remembered in a time when there is so much laxness in receiving members into the church. It is not a religious or social club. It is not a rallying place for those who wish to work for some economic, political, or social project. It is not a gathering of good people who wish to share common interests.

The church needs to cleanse its rolls of all unbelievers, all hangers-on, and get back to the purity which it had when only those were received who were manifestly "added" by the Lord (v. 47).

Such folk have many interests which bind them together in fellowship, devotion, and service. The early church was interested in sound doctrinal teaching (v. 42), an excellent thing. They had fellowship in prayer (v. 42); we need that too. They had gladness of heart (v. 46); do we not need a renewal of the song of the Lord in our midst?

They had such fervent love for each other that they established a communal system of sharing with one another, something which God had never commanded and which apparently failed with them, for it was later abandoned. But the point is that they really did love each other and thus showed their true discipleship (see lesson of last Sunday).

II. A Center of Christian Ministry (Eph. 4:11).

The church is God's chosen depository for spiritual gifts, among them being the special ministries mentioned here. The Holy Spirit calls men as He chooses. Blessed is the church which recognizes His choice of teachers, evangelists, preachers, and leaders and gives them liberty to serve the Lord in their calling.

It is God who calls men for these various activities in His vineyard. Self-appointed or man-chosen leaders and preachers are destined to fail, but God's men may be assured of His blessing and power.

III. A Place of Spiritual Growth (Eph. 4:12-16).

The purpose of the gifts of the Spirit is the edifying and building up of believers. A church should always be evangelistic in its efforts. The pastor should be a soul-winner, but essentially his ministry is to so edify and instruct believers that they may go out and win others to Christ.

Verses 13 to 16 tell us how this "perfecting of the saints" moves forward. There is unity of the faith and a growth in knowledge, a steadiness which keeps believers from being led astray by error or the cleverness of men. Thus kept from drifting, and being steadily enriched in knowledge of the truth, the believer grows up to spiritual manhood.

Do not miss the beauty and helpfulness of verses 15 and 16. Like the body "fitly framed and knit together," the church of Christ is to be a perfectly co-ordinated organism, every member performing its perfect service in building up the body in love for the glory of its Head—Christ.

This figure of the Church as the body of Christ and the working together of the members for the glory of the Head is further developed in I Corinthians 12, which the reader is urged to consider, especially verses 12 to 27.

Watching to See

With the Christian who takes the deep true view of his religion as a guide in all earthly matters, material or spiritual, there is never any feverish, blind-alley skirmishing in the face of threatened ill. He just waits vigilantly, trustfully, upon God, ready to do His will the moment it is made clear to him. "I will watch to see what He will say to me." Watching to see! In those telling words lies the whole secret of the thing that mystifies non-religious folk so completely—the inviolate calm and courage with which real Christians meet the worst adversities that can befall them in the world.

Fayette County.... The Heart Of The Bluegrass

By Victor R. Portmann

Fayette County, Kentucky, "the Heart of the Bluegrass", is proud of its traditions, its history, and its place in the economic and social life of the state. It is the Bluegrass at its finest—a placid and entrancing "bit of Kentucky" full of scenic beauty and rich in historic interest, romance and tradition. There is the everchanging beauty of landscape; rolling farms amid white fences, while stately colonial mansions, many as old as the state itself, add dignity and charm to the land of the Kentucky colonel.

Fayette county, with Lexington as its capital, is recognized world-wide as the horse center. Here the horse is still supreme, and millions of dollars have been spent in providing the most complete breeding and racing establishments. The Thoroughbred, the Standard bred, the Saddle horse, all have their following. Running and trotting races are among the chief sports; and foxhunting, polo and steeplechase racing fill in the seasons. It is a wonderful hunting country with good riding, panelled fences, and plenty of foxes. There is an organized hunt club with an excellent pack of hounds, a polo club, a gentlemen's driving club. Race meets are held each year by the Keeneland Association and the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association.

Many of the vast horse farms, some individual establishments containing more than one thousand acres, are open to visitors throughout the year. These farms with their broad pastures, their sparkling streams, their woodlands of gigantic forest trees, their paved drives, all bounded by miles of stone and white-painted or whitewashed fences, provide a system of parks which is decidedly unique. On these farms are found today many of the famous horses of race, track, and stud. Man-o'-War, world famous, and his illustrious son, War Admiral, attract thousands of visitors from every part of the globe. Every farm boasts of famous sires and mares that have made glorious the history of racing.

Not all the broad acres of the famous bluegrass are devoted to horseraising. Field after field of waving Burley, used in cigarette and smoking tobacco manufacture, stretch on all sides of the traveller. Pedigreed cattle wax fat on bluegrass pastures, and flocks of blue-blooded sheep, make an ever-changing picture.

Lexington is the center of the world's largest loose leaf tobacco market with the world's largest tobacco warehouses located on its busy streets. Sales in these have run as high as 94,000,000 pounds in one season which brought wealth to the grower to the sum of 27 million dollars. All the leading tobacco companies have storage houses here.

Fayette county, the gateway to Eastern and Southeastern Kentucky, is the state's largest interior transportation center. It is served by three railroads, the Louisville & Nashville, the Chesapeake & Ohio, and the Southern railroad. It is one of the country's largest motor bus transportation centers, having more than 142 daily arrivals and departures of buses on hourly schedules, serving the entire state and continental transport lines.

The county is the chief bluegrass seed producing center—a million dollar industry—as well as one of the country's largest spring lamb-producing centers. It is the heart of one of America's richest agricultural sections, second to none in soil fertility, climate, pure-bred livestock, and crop production. It stands today as one of the greatest touring regions of the south, an unspoiled and beautiful scenic section filled with romantic interest. There are few, if any places, which excel Fayette County's delightful country life with its many opportunities for all kinds of outdoor sports, its luxurious surroundings and its healthful and invigorating climate.

Lexington is one of the South's foremost educational centers with the University of Kentucky, Transylvania College, Sayre College and Hamilton College. The Agricultural Extension College, co-operating with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is helping to bring millions of dollars to the state through research and improved methods of agriculture and marketing.

The highway center, the county is convenient to the tourist from every compass point. Four federal highways cross its borders—No. 25, Michigan to Georgia; No. 27, Canada to Florida; No. 60, Washington, D. C., to San Francisco; and No. 68, Toledo to Paducah. Through its gateways the tourist has easy access to all parts of the state on many miles of improved and smooth roads.

The tourist can find hundreds of places of interest within its borders, especially in the tours of the famous horse farms. Who has not heard of Idle Hour (Bradley's show place). Elmendorf, Walnut Hall, Calumet, home of Whirlaway), Castleton, Hamburg Place (with its famous horse cemetery), Dixiana, Coldstream, Faraway home of Man-o-War and War Admiral), Spindletop, and the three Whitney farms. He can also visit the new Keeneland race track, and Trotting track, the U. S. Veterans Hospital, the new U. S. Public Health Service Hospital (an eight million dollar plant), the Agricultural Experiment Farm, and other places made famous in song and story. Lexington itself offers many show places of historic interest for the tourist's pleasure — Ashland (home of Henry Clay), General John Hunt Morgan's home, home of Mary Todd, wife of President Lincoln the two Federal housing projects, and the tobacco sales and warehouse district. Lexington and Fayette county invite you to see their glories.

79 FARMERS ATTEND TOBACCO GRADING DEMONSTRATIONS

Seventy-nine local farmers attended four tobacco stripping and grading demonstrations held recently, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Meetings were held at H. W. Baker's, Petersburg; Frank Hossman's, Hebron; H. E. White's, Burlington, and O. K. Whitson's, Verona.

M. W. Tuttle, Federal Tobacco Grader, presented the demonstrations at the meetings. He urged that farmers strip their tobacco more closely to grades this year because tobacco markets will be Federal graded and if grades are mixed over 15 to 20% they will go into the lower grade. Flyings that cannot be stemmed are used for granulator or cigarette sack tobacco and are ground up for sack tobacco. Trash and lugs can be stemmed and are used to make ready made cigarettes; bright leaf that is too heavy for cigarettes is used for pipe smoking tobacco; heavy red leaf and tips are used for making chewing tobacco.

Mr. Tuttle urged farmers to use greater care in stripping and in grading their tobaccos as to its use and to see that it is kept separate when it goes to market.

Federal Grading will be on all markets this year. Tobacco average parity prices are at present around 24c. Government loans are 85% of parity which is calculated for each particular grade. Boone county farmers have worked for several years to secure Federal grading on local markets. They are greatly encouraged that this system is being put in force for this year.

BOONE HOMEMAKERS ADVISORY COUNCIL MEETS

The Boone County Homemakers Advisory Council added their approval to the current 4-H Fair Grounds Drive and pledged further work in the efforts to raise the necessary funds for purchase of the site. The action took place at a meeting held at the Court House in Burlington, on Monday of last week. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Alan H. Gaines, who was wielding the gavel for the first time in her new office of president of the county association.

Other business considered by the executives was as follows: The support of 4-H club leadership as a part of the citizenship project and a new county chairman for that work appointed to sit on the council; supplement of expenses necessary for the county president to attend Farm and Home Week in Lexington in January, when she and some other voting delegate will attend the business meeting of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers Clubs; importance of and depth of the program which has been planned; the past annual meeting expenses incurred and suggestions for improvement.

Mrs. Mary Scott Moore, acting Home Demonstration Ag't. pointed out the value of Homemakers clubs taking an active interest in school lunch programs.

H. R. Forkner, Co. Agt., spoke to the group with regard to the proposed increase for agricultural products in Boone County in accord with National Defense.

Miss Lulie Logan, assistant state leader of home demonstration agents, directed a study of qualifications and duties of homemakers' officers. She pointed out the fact that the most successful officer contributed enthusiasm, vision and insight to the success of her club.

By setting an example and soliciting cooperation much can be accomplished. The "home work" assigned to each officer was to study her manuel carefully, criticise herself, resolve to improve, and plan her program of work.

Project chairmen were asked to report. Mrs. Garnet Tolin, Chairman of Exteior Beautification, reported communications with Mr. Schlosser, State Highway Landscape Architect, relatice to the planting of the "Model Mile" within the near future. Mrs. John Elliott, Reading Chairman, reported the purchase of nine new books for the county Homemaker library.

Meetings of standing committees will be held in the near future to plan programs for the yr.

Those present were Mrs. Alan Gaines, Mrs. John Vest, Walton; Misses Edna Berkshire and Johnna Mae Terrill, Petersburg; Mrs. Garnet Tolin, Burlington; Mrs. John Elliott, Mrs. Orville Willeford, Florence; Mrs. Haynes Bruce and Mrs. Albert Willis, Bullittsville; Mrs. Elmer Peena, Mrs. Geo. Kottmyer, Constance; Mrs. Sam Sleet and Mrs. Walter Ferguson, New Haven; Mrs. Pearl Lamn and Mrs. Will McCormick, Verona. Arrangements for the meeting were made by Mrs. Mary Scott Moore, Acting Home Demonstration Agent.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

I DARED NOT LEAVE THE HOUSE
I had just put the children to bed and turned out the lights, when the youngest started to cough. With confidence, I went to the medicine cabinet — the bottle was empty!
I knew from experience the child would grow worse through the night unless relieved, but my husband was away — I could not leave the house.
In this predicament, I thought of "that man", (our neighborhood druggist) and phoned immediately — then in what seemed but a few moments, I heard welcome footsteps — the filled prescription had arrived.
Yes, our neighborhood druggist fills prescriptions with infinite care and also carries a fine line of cosmetics and proprietary products. For women, he usually recommends Vatona Tablets to aid in the relief of those trying discomforts of the menstrual period — this may be just what you need — at least get in touch with your druggist.

New Waffle Party Idea

Next time you give a waffle party, you'll want to do something different. So leave the food be creamed chipped ham with peas and mushrooms served on corn meal waffles. You can mix up the waffle batter quickly with the help of a corn meal mix—and the topping requires no measuring of this and that to skew you up because all the seasoning it needs is in the prepared cream of mushroom soup which makes the sauce.

Creamed Chipped Ham with Peas and Mushrooms

Melt—
2 tablespoons butter.
Add, blending well—
2 tablespoons flour.
Cook until bubbling, then add—
1 medium can (2 cups) prepared cream of mushroom soup.
Stir constantly until thickened. Then stir in—
½ pound chipped ham, coarsely shredded
1 cup cooked or canned peas.

Serve hot on fresh-baked corn meal waffles. Garnish with chilled crescent sweet pickles. Serves 6.

Man! Coffee Cake for Breakfast

It's important for everyone to eat a good breakfast each morning before starting out on the day's activities. One way to assure yourself that every member of the family does follow this health practice is to make this first meal of the day as tempting as possible. Variety is a factor—so have sweet yeast rolls one day and toast the next and frequently mix up some muffins and griddle cakes when time permits.

You will like the new quick coffee cake which is topped with a crunchy mixture of rice flakes, nuts and brown sugar. It's fluffy and fine-grained—tastes wonderful when it's just out of the oven with butter melting over it.

Coffee Cake with Rice Flakes Topping

Mix and sift together—
2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar.
Cut into it or blend in with fingers—
6 tablespoons shortening.
Combine, beating lightly—
1 egg
¾ cup milk.
Add these liquids to flour mixture, stirring only until just blended. Turn into greased 9-inch square layer cake pan, spreading evenly. Brush top with—
Evaporated milk.
Make topping by mixing together—
2 tablespoons melted butter
¾ cup rice flakes cereal
¼ cup chopped nuts
¼ cup brown sugar
¾ teaspoon cinnamon.

Sprinkle evenly over the batter. Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) 40 minutes or until done. Cut in wedges while in pan and remove pieces separately.

CHURCH GETS A $250 DONATION

The Rev. J. Russell Cross, supply pastor of the Lebanon Presbyterian Church, announces receeipt of a check in the amount of $250 to be used in the work of the Lebanon church.

This gift comes from the Williamstown Presbyterian Church Fund, a fund established after the sale of the Williamstown Presbyterian Church, several years ago. It is given to the Lebanon church in memory of Mr. Moses McClure of Dry Ridge, who united with the Lebanon church when he was 14 years of age and who later became Ruling Elder in the Williamstown Church, which position he held until his death.

The only remaining trustees of the Williamstown Presbyterian Fund are Mrs. Laura Webb Chipman and Mrs. R. T. Dickerson. Mrs. Chipman and Mrs. Dickerson announced last week that final disposition had been made of all monies, and that this gift to the Lebanon church and a gift of $892 to home missionary work in the Presbytery finished up the business of the Fund which they have served so faithfully and loyally.

MELVIN McGLASSON IS 4-H GARDEN PROJECT CHAMP

Melvin Ray McGlasson of the Hebron 4-H Club was declared the County 4-H Garden project champion last week after careful consideration was given to outstanding garden project work of 46 other boys and girls competing for this honor.

In recognition of this achievement, he was awarded a garden cultivator by Geo. W. Hill Co., Covington, at the Hebron 4-H Club meeting last Wednesday.

This award was made on the basis of the amount and variety of vegetables produced in the garden, and the record book submitted after the project had been completed.

In a plot of grond approximately one-quarter of an acre in size Melvin produced 8 bushels of beans, 70 dozen ears of corn, 9½ bushels of tomatoes; 8 bushels of potatoes; 2 bushels of onions, in addition to a quantity of carrots, beets and lima beans. Christmas Gift Suggestions

SOMETHING TO BLOW ABOUT This young lady has a happy solution to her Christmas gift problem. The tiny hat, made to be used for an ash tray, is one of a series of miniatures created to be packaged with hat gift certificates. The lucky-man is bound to be pleased, for he'll choose his own hat in the size and style he wants. The give-a-hat-for-Christmas notion has grown rapidly with the advent of these miniatures, for a hat is a lasting gift, not likely to be duplicated, and one that gives pleasure for days to come.

WATCH THEM GROW — Each of these tiny hats means that there will be a new derby, snap brim or mountain hat, adorning some masculine head come Christmas time. Made to accompany gift certificates, they have in two seasons become favorites for holiday giving. They are as satisfying to give as they are to get, for hats make different gifts, unlikely to be duplicated.

STERLING SILVER R.A.F. HAT EMBLEMS MAKE CUTE XMAS GIFTS—These imported sterling silver R.A.F. hat emblems make most attractive Christmas gifts for the men in your family. They come in a variety of forms—wishbones, horse shoes, and the R.A.F. circle emblem to lend ZIP to his Winter hat.

Cats Trim New Haven; Lose to Dixie Heights

The Walton - Verona Bearcats took over first place in the Boone County Basketball Conference last Friday night, when they defeated New Haven 29 to 22 on the local floor, in a hard-fought and interesting game. The Cats jumped into an early lead and were never deaded by the Tigers. Scores at the end of the various periods were: first, 13-7, W.-V.; second, 16-11; third, 25-17, and fourth, 29-22.

The two teams are pretty evenly matched. The only edge we could give Walton was in manpower and size, and at times that difference means the difference between defeat and victory.

DeMoisey was top scorer for the Bearcats with 10 points, Groger, Pennington and Simpson were next with 6, 5 and 4 markers, respectively. Judge was bets for the Tigers with 6 points and next was Newman, with 4.

The local second team won the preliminary game from the New Haven seconds, 29 to 21.

The Cats succumbed to their first defeat of the infant season Tuesday night, of this week, when Dixie Heights came from behind in the final seconds of play to eke out a 29 to 26 win over the locals. Walton-Verona was leading 12-8 at the end of the first quarter; 19-10 at the half, and 24-19 at the start of the final quarter. With the score knotted 26-26, and with less than a minute to play, Dixie registered a free throw and a field goal to win 29-26.

For the losers, Groger and Welsh were high scorers, with 7 tallies each, and Nill, with 9 points, was tops for the winners.

Dixie Heights also won the preliminary contest, 22-16.

On Friday night, Dec. 12th the Cats will play at Florence, and on Tuesday night, Dec. 16 they will be hosts to Erlanger on the home floor. This will be their last game until after the Xmas holidays.

Fair Grounds Goal Over Subscribed

The Boone County Fair grounds goal of $3,500 was over subscribed at the county meeting held at the Burlington Court House last Thursday evening, according to Charles Riley, Chairman of the program. All additional pledges will be used to erect permanent buildings needed for the development of the grounds.

Mr. Riley reported that a total of $3,525.70 has been pledged and several committeemen would have additional pledges to turn in for the near future. Committeemen were instructed to begin immediately collecting pledges and to turn them in to John Conner, the cashier of Hebron Deposit Bank, who was elected treasurer to receive funds needed for paying for the grounds.

Boone County people and their friends undertook a big job in securing for the county a permanent fair and picnic grounds that can be developed through the years to come and should find a place in each citizens' heart that will be dear to our people and friends as an annual gathering place for all our people in a spirit of recreation, friendship and education. The 4-H and Utopia Club Council, which will be in charge of the grounds, has pledged full support to use the grounds only for worthwhile events that will be for the upbuilding of the county.

A contract for deed and down payment to purchase the grounds has already been made. A deed will be made as soon as funds pledged can be paid. A permanent record of all people cooperating in purchasing the grounds will be placed on the grounds and all persons names as a matter of permanent record will be filed in the deed at the county clerk's office.

It is pointed out that the major benefits our people will derive from the grounds will now depend on improvements to be developed in the future. Buildings and the equipment are needed. Boone County Dairymen Plan For Increased Production For Defense

Boone County Dairy Extension Committeemen plan full cooperation in increased production for National Defense, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

Twenty-one dairymen met for an all day meeting last Thursday with Geo. Harris, dairy specialist from the College of Agriculture, to plan the 1942 dairy improvement program. Mr. Harris discussed methods of improved feeding and management as means of securing greater and more efficient production. He urged that dry cows be well fed as research work shows that feeding a good balanced ration to the dry cows would produce an approximate 15% more milk during the lactation period. Fall freshening cows produce more milk than spring freshening cows.

Franklin Huey of Burlington outlined the breeding and feeding program followed on his herd during the past five years. Two-thirds of the cows freshen in the fall and the remaining third throughout the year. Alfalfa pasture is used to prevent the usual drop in milk production in August and silage is used to offset the droughts that may occur in Sept. Some grain feed is fed throughout the year. This herd, averaging 26½ cows, produced over 6,000 pounds of milk and 300 pounds of butterfat per cow for the year.

Robert Youell of near Limaburg outlined a proven sire breeding program, in which the average production of his herd had increased 105 pounds of butterfat per cow, per year, in three years. A good herd sire in a thirty cow herd is calculated to be worth more than $900 per year. Farmers cannot know the real progress of a breeding program unless they follow a Dairy Herd Improvement Testing program and use proven sires. Mr. Youell is a member of the Boone County Jersey Bull Association, which owns the third high proven production index Jersey bull in the U. S.

Grant Maddox of Florence outlined plans of his combined poultry-dairy production program. Mr. Maddox stressed the importance of balancing dairy cattle with the size of the farm and feed produced. Alfalfa hay production for both hay and pasture was considered very important for small dairymen.

MARRIED BY REV. R. F. DeMOISEY, SATURDAY

Mr. Edwin Beetem of Covington and Miss Mary Louise Ryle, the pretty daughter of Mrs. Stanley Ryle of Florence, were united in marriage Saturday, Dec. 6th at 3 p. m., in the home of the officiating minister, Rev. R. F. DeMoisey, on South Main street, Walton.

Thomas Winders and Miss Ardelle Tutman were the attendants.

After a short honeymoon, they will be at home to their many friends in Florence.

Meat cooling demonstrations were features of the homemakers' program in Madison county last month.

Money Talks

By
Frederick Stamm, Economist
Director of Adult Education
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

Several days ago the House of Representatives defeated a bill to freeze wages, rents, and prices at their present peaks until 1943. This bill, sponsored by Representative Albert Gore of Tennessee, was too severe for most of our political leaders.

Congressmen from the farm belt argued against the bill because it regulated farm prices; one congressman from the industrial area voted against it because "it would put industry in a straight jacket;" pro-labor leaders were opposed because it would stop higher wages.

While Congress argues all kinds of inequalities are cropping up in our economic life. The dairy, beef and hog producing regions are prospering, for the prices of these products are up sharply. The tobacco, cotton and wheat regions are not faring so well, for the price of these products has not increased to any extent. Yet the farmers of these sections are paying as much for the manufactured products that they buy as the farmers of the dairy, beef or hog sections.

Then, too, the wages of the city workers have risen much faster than those of the small town workers. In many of our smaller communities, wages have not gone up as much as five per cent. With the cost of living increasing each month, you can readily see the unfavorable position these people are in today.

Let me cite one more example. I noticed recently that the Office of Price Administration in Washington recommended that the retail price of new automobiles be fixed at present levels. Now why should this be done if it does not also fix the wages the automobile dealer pays his mechanics, the rent he pays for his salesroom, the price he pays for his gasoline and oil? Why regulate one or two prices and let the rest run wild?

Officials in Washington realize inflation is disastrous economically. They realize that it should be stopped, but they lack courage to act.

War and the preparation for war calls for stern measures. Congress recently passed the stiffest income tax bill in our nation's history. This tax bill will cut down the savings of thousands and undoubtedly will affect their economic and social life. It seems to me a price and wage control law is no more of an economic "strait jacket" than many other laws which have been passed. If we are to have any semblance of economic equality, we must have a strict control of all prices and wages.

MORGANSVILLE

"The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms." Nowhere in the book of books is it promised that the Christians shall be exempt from the trials of life, but the life of faith is the only life which enables us when we pass through darkest and deepest trials to look up and see brightness behind the darkness. The sweet story of angels announcing the Savior's birth to a little group of watching shepherds is ever new, and causes a flood of sympathy and charity to sweep over the world.

Like a gleam in the dark was the kind thoughtfulness of Mrs. Flora Rich Maddox, Cincinnati, and Robert L. Rich, Erlanger, for which grateful appreciation is extended.

Most heartily do we thank Mr. and Mrs. John Riggs and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Riggs and bright little son Glenn for lovely gifts which shine out lustrously in these dark and stressful days.

Deeply appreciated was the recent kindness of Neuman Armstrong, Kenton County's highly efficient detective.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

— DEFENSE BOND QUIZ —

Q. What are payroll allotments for the purchase of Defense Savings Bonds?

A. They are portions of employee earnings set aside each pay day voluntarily by individual workers for buying Defense Savings Bnds or Stamps to be exchanged eventually for Bonds, which become the personal property of the employee. Hundreds of companies have set up such arrangements to help their personnel save continuously and regularly.

Q. How can I give a Defense Savings Bond as a gift?

A. Buy a Series E Bond at your post office or bank, and have it issued in the name of the intended recipient.

NOTE — To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps are now on sale at retail stores.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP

LESSON TEXT—II Corinthians 8:1-9; 9:6, 7.

GOLDEN TEXT—It is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful.—I Corinthians 4:2.

The Christmas season, when there is so much thought about gifts, is a most appropriate time for a lesson on Christian giving. Dr. John Willis Baer was once asked: "How can we raise money for foreign missions?" Quick as a flash, he answered: "Don't raise it, give it." "If all believers could come to a true knowledge of what the New Testament teaches regarding giving, and would seriously put this knowledge into practice, the Christian church could advance more in the next 10 years than it has advanced in any 50 years in its history" (Wilbur M. Smith).

I. An Example of Liberality (8:1-5).

For some reason people are overly sensitive when one speaks of money. The subject must be approached tactfully, so Paul skillfully directs the attention of the Corinthian church to their fellow Christians in Macedonia. They had been in great affliction and were in "deep poverty" (v. 2), but out of their sorrow and want they gave far above Paul's expectation (v. 5) and "beyond their power," and then pleaded with Paul that he should let them give more. The explanation is found in verse 5, where we learn that they had first given "their own selves to the Lord," and then in loving co-operation with Paul himself as the Lord's agent, in this matter of the offering.

Is it not strange that those who suffer most for the gospel and have the least to give are the most generous in their giving Those to whom the gospel has come easily who bear no special burdens for Christ, and who are well situated financially, are commonly the most stingy with their money Could it be that they have not really given themselves to the Lord? One wonders.

II. An Exhortation to Faithfulness (8:6-9).

Apparently the Corinthians had made a promise or pledge to give for the poor at Jerusalem, but had become a bit forgetful and negligent. It seems to be so easy to neglect to keep up a pledge for the Lord's work. Some folk even feel that they cannot make a pledge. They pledge to pay their rent, to make payments on a car, or a washing machine; but to the church they just can't pledge, or if they do, the promise is often neglected. Such things are dishonoring to the name of Christ.

As they abound in other graces (v. 7), Paul exhorts the Corinthians to abound in "this grace also." So giving is a Christian grace! And why not? Consider Christ (v. 9), who left the glory He had with the Father and came to the poverty of the One who had not where to lay His head, that we through Him might be eternally rich.

Christian friend, when that truth lays hold of your heart and life your purse strings will loosen, your check book will open more easily, you will gladly give—for Christ's sake.

III. A Principle of Christian Giving (9:6).

The harvest is always in proportion to the sowing of the seed. The man who is stingy with his seed at sowing time will reap that kind of a harvest. The opposite is also true.

It works in the field of business too. The merchant who gives the fullest return for one's money and the most liberal measure of service is bound to prosper, while the stingy one is left to lament the fact that his goods rot on his shelves.

In the spiritual realm it is even more true. But, someone may say, we ought not to do good that we may profit by it. No real Christian will give just that he may prosper, but, mark it well, if he does give for Christ's sake and His glory, God will prosper him. "You can't beat God giving."

IV. The Spirit of Christian Stewardship (9:7).

Our giving is to be done according to the purpose of our heart—not grudgingly, nor with grief, nor yet by compulsion, because someone put on pressure.

God loves a cheerful or (as it may be translated) hilarious giver. When done in the right spirit, giving for Christ can be one of the happiest experiences of the Christian life. Let's make offering time in our church services the most joyful time in the meeting. Then we shall be liberal as well as cheerful in this grace of stewardship.

Faith in Christ

"Martha said, 'Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.' Of all the true disciples of Christ this may with perfect confidence be said, 'He is here, therefore they shall not die.' Faith causes Christ to be present in the heart; and where Christ is, eternal death cannot be."—Dean Howson.

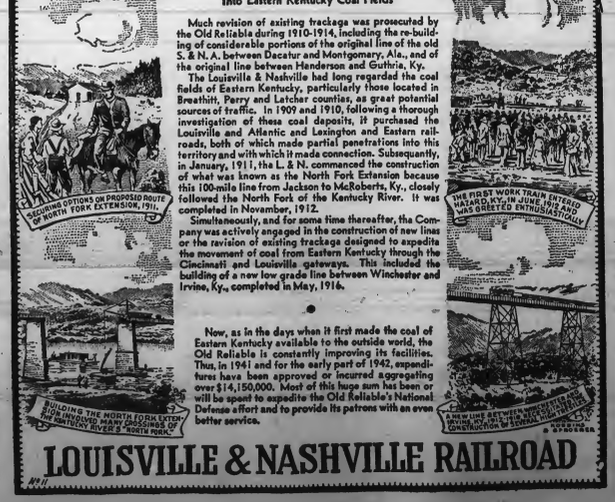
A Historical Tour of the Louisville & Nashville R.R.



Into Eastern Kentucky Coal Fields

Much revision of existing trackage was prosecuted by the Old Reliable during 1910-1914, including the re-building of considerable portions of the original line of the old S. & N. A. between Decatur and Montgomery, Ala., and of the original line between Henderson and Guthrie, Ky.

The Louisville & Nashville had long regarded the coal fields of Eastern Kentucky, particularly those located in Breathitt, Perry and Letcher counties, as great potential sources of traffic. In 1909 and 1910, following a thorough investigation of these coal deposits, it purchased the Louisville and Atlantic and Lexington and Eastern railroads, both of which made partial penetrations into this territory and with which it made connection. Subsequently, in January, 1911, the L. & N. commenced the construction of what was known as the North Fork Extension because this 100-mile line from Jackson to McRoberts, Ky., closely followed the North Fork of the Kentucky River. It was completed in November, 1912.

Simultaneously, and for some time thereafter, the Company was actively engaged in the construction of new lines or the revision of existing trackage designed to expedite the movement of coal from Eastern Kentucky through the Cincinnati and Louisville gateways. This included the building of a new low grade line between Winchester and Irvine, Ky., completed in May, 1916.

Now, as in the days when it first made the coal of Eastern Kentucky available to the outside world, the Old Reliable is constantly improving its facilities. Thus, in 1941 and for the early part of 1942, expenditures have been approved or incurred aggregating over $14,150,000. Most of this huge sum has been or will be spent to expedite the Old Reliable's National Defense effort and to provide its patrons with an even better service.

Farm Account School Jan. 14

All Boone County farmers who are interested in keeping complete Farm Account records in 1942 are invited to attend the Farm Account School to be held in Burlington. Wednesday, Jan. 24, according to County Agent H. R. Forkner.

The school will be divided into two parts: The morning meeting will be devoted to a school for farmers who kept complete records in 1941. They will bring their books to the meeting and will analyze their farm business in relation to the county summary.

The afternoon meeting will be devoted to a discussion of the '41 county farm business analysis, based on the total reports of all farmers who kept records. New 1942 farm account books will be started at this time.

Farm accounts present a new angle in 1942. All records of individual farmers are strictly confidential. However, the business account records will enable the farmers to reliably account for depreciation of buildings, fences and equipment. Many farmers under the new Federal Tax program will be required to pay income taxes. The farm account project will enable them to present the most reliable information for filing their individual reports.

All farmers are invited to cooperate in this meeting and this project. Books are available at the County Agent's Office. They are distributed at cost, which is 15c each. The inventories of stock and equipment should be made previous to the meeting.

UTOPIANS HOLD XMAS PROGRAM

Boone County Utopia Club members will present a special Christmas program at their regular meeting on this Thursday evening, Dec. 18, at the Court House, according to Elva Akin, Club Reporter.

Mary Rector, Petersburg, will be in charge of the special program. Each member will bring a special gift for distribution to the needy. Mary Scott Moore, Jane Scott and Jo Crigler will be in charge of distribution of gifts.

Everyone interested in Utopia club work is invited to attend.

XMAS OPERETTA AT NEW HAVEN

Music, attractive costumes and a cast of more than a hundred children are some of the features of the Christmas operetta, "She Didn't Believe" to be presented at New Haven, Friday at 1:00 p. m. by the first six grades.

The characters are: Dorothy, the little girl who "didn't believe"; five elves; 8 dolls in beautiful costumes; five poinsettias; a train that really whistles; twelve mistletoes and hollys; ten wind-up toys from tops to Popeye the Sailor; fourteen candles; 5 Santa Clauses; nine gifts; eight jumping jacks; nine housewives; eight merchants.

The scene of the operetta is in the South, amid palm trees, along an ocean beach.

The plot goes as follows: Dorothy doesn't believe in Christmas; when she came South with her family for the Holiday season she felt she would be free from what she considered nonsense, and would be truly modern. However she finds that no one will play with such a queer little girl. She is finally visited by the Merchants Association, which asks her to leave, because she is spoiling their business; she is tearful and repentent and with the help of others, she is soon restored to happiness.

After the program the Christmas gifts will be given out under a large Christmas tree, decorated with shiny ornaments and hanging tinsel.

Parents and friends are cordially invited to attend this program.

Xmas Services at Christian Church

Christmas will be the theme throughout the services at First Christian Church, Walton, next Sunday. The subject of the message at 10:50 will be "The Star Must Not Be Dimmed." There will be special music.

Evening worship at 7:30 will consist of the Christmas message in the well loved carols as special music by the choir.

The Sunday School will have their Children's Christmas program on Wednesday night at 7:30.

The public is invited to all of these services.

Bearcats Hang Up 2 More Victories

Florence and Erlanger Latest Victims of Bearcat Blitz

The Walton-Verona High school basketball team was rolling in high the past week. They not only defeated both Florence and Erlanger, but each contest developed into a complete route. Last Friday night at Florence, they snowed under the Knights 67 to 15, and on Tuesday night of this week, on the home floor they showered the Erlanger Juggernaut 46 to 12.

In the Boone County Conference tilt with Florence, the Cats were on top throughout, leading 15-1 at the end of the first quarter; 30-6 at the half; 52-8 at the end of the third period, and at the finish 67-15. Coach Shields used his entire first squad of ten men, with eight of them aiding in the scoring column. Paul Simpson was high with 14 points. The Walton reserves won the initial game of the evening, 28 to 11.

The Cats were expecting some real opposition from Erlanger on Tuesday night, but the Juggernaut cracked and it was a walk-away for the locals. They led 8-0 at the close of the first period; 17-5 at the half; 31-8 at the end of the third quarter, and 46-12 at the close of activities. DeMoisey was high scorer for the Blue and White with 11 points; Groger was next with 9, and Welsh ran third with 7. Erlanger was able to score but two field goals, one in each half.

Led by Holder, who tallied 16 points, the Walton second team won the preliminary 32 to 22.

The Cats are now idle until after the Xmas holidays. On January 6th they meet Ludlow here, and Jan. 9th they go to Simon Kenton.

War Is Declared On Tuberculosis

War was declared on tuberculosis more than thirty years ago, and the battle has been in progress since the declaration. The battle has not been won. Won't you help to win this war by purchasing Christmas Seals today? Tuberculosis germs are small enemies, but it is the hidden enemy such as disease germs that kill more people than all wars.

All the school children in the county are selling the bright little stamps, that will go a long way to wipe out white plague. You may have received a sheet of seals from R. V. Lents, the seal sale chairman. If so, buy them. More than half the money derived from the sale will be spent here in Boone county to aid some T. B. patient. Do your bit!

Navy Modifies It's Physical Requirem'ts

Many Applicants Rejected In Past Because of Minor Physical Defects May Re-apply For Re-examination

A relaxation of physical standards for enlistments in the U. S. Navy and the Naval Reserve was announced this week by the Navy Department. In commenting on this action, the Navy Department announcement stated that numerous men who in past months have sought to enlist and have been rejected on the basis of minor physical defects will, because of the modification of physical standards be encouraged to re-apply for enlistment in either the regular Navy or the Naval Reserve for the duration of the emergency.

The Navy Department has requested that any person knowing of young men who had been barred from enlistment in the Navy or the Naval Reserve because of minor physical reasons should bring this modification in physical requirements to the attention of these young men.

Applicants with varicose veins will be acceptable under the changed standards, this varicocele condition to be corrected, if the condition if painful, at the Naval Training Station to which the new recruits are sent. Hydrocele, another defect that formerly ruled out numerous applicants, will be corrected, if necessary, after enlistees arrive at Training Stations. Applicants suffering from hernia will be accepted provided their I. Q.'s are 75 or better. Recruits suffering from hernia will be treated at the Training Stations and will be enrolled for schooling during their periods of convalescence.

Other physical defects which formerly prevented men from being accepted as recruits, but which now are waived, are seasonal hay fever; correctable nasal deformities or nasal deformities of such a degree as not to interfere with duty; undernourished and underdeveloped applicants, providing the condition is not due to organic disease; and minor surgical defects which can be corrected within a month. Applicants who possess 18 natural serviceable teeth, with at least two molars in functional occlusion and not more than four incisors missing, will be acceptable. Dental treatment will be given at the Training Stations.

Any applicant who has been rejected because of any of the defects noted above is urged to re-

MORGANSVILLE

"Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them." True christians do not need to shout from the housetops that they are christians. The work of a christian is his love for Jesus, and his fellowman. "Example is far better than precept."

Each one of us writes his own life's story. A new page is written every day and at the end of each month a whole chapter is complete. A volume of three hundred and sixty-five pages within a year

"I heard the bells on Christmas day, their old familiar carols play and wild and sweet the words repeat of 'Peace on earth, good will to men'."

Grateful appreciation is extended to Mrs. Raymond Sewell of near Cincinnati, Ohio and Mrs. H. Hoelke of near Milwaukee, Wis., for lovely Christmas boxes. The lives of these loyal Pen Pals of the WLW cheery Mail Bag circle, are resplendent with kindly deeds even in these dark stressful days. Friends enrich life for all of us.

Like the tendrils of a vine heavy with foliage they cling fast and long, and by their actions to us we can discern their loyalty. When one fails to "lend a hand" in hours of need, naturally we question the sincereity of their friendship for being a true friend certainly does consist of more than giving smiles or a pat on the shoulder.

Instead of three 5-lb. cans of cookies sent to Louisville Baptist Orphans' Home and Covington Children's Home, three 50-lb. cans were sent.

Deeply appreciated was the recent kindness of Mr. Max Gray of Covington.

Mrs. James Gray, daughter Miss Dale and sons Billy and Max, of Covington, were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Morgan and family.

Chryslers Attractive in New Dress

This is the way the 1942 Chryslers are going to look with chrome and stainless steel eliminated except for the bumpers and bumper guards. The car shown is a Windsor six-passenger sedan, painted in two tones of green, the upper body in Meadow green and the lower in Heather green. Grille, front fender mouldings and hub caps are painted in the same color as the upper body. Belt moulding and body side shields match the lower body paint. In singletons jobs, grilles, front fender mouldings and hub caps are painted in a color that contrasts with the body. These changes enable Chrysler to eliminate a large number of items of bright work and thus make another notable contribution to the defense program.

It is the opinion of persons who have seen the cars in their new dress that they are fully as handsome as formerly. Many definitely prefer them with the changes.

This Week In Defense

While its envoys discussed with Secretary of State Hull means of maintaining peace in the Pacific, Japan's forces attacked the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines, Wake and Midway Islands, Guam, Hong Kong and Malaya. In the attacks on American possessions there were approximately 3,000 casualties, one battleship and a destroyer were sunk, several other U. S. ships severely damaged and a large number of planes put out of commission.

Stating that "always will we remember the character of the onslaught against us," the President asked Congress to declare a state of war exists between the U. S. and the Japanese Empire. Following Congress's affirmative action, Germany and Italy—in accordance with their agreement with Japan—declared war on the United States. Almost immediately Congress declared war on the European members of the Axis.

Addressing the nation by radio, the President said "it will not only be a long war, it will be a hard war. . . Not only must the shame of Japanese treachery be wiped out, but the sources of international brutality, wherever they exist, must be absolutely and finally broken. . . With confidence in our armed forces—with the unbounding determination of our people—we will gain the inevitable triumph. . . We will win the war and we are going to win the peace that follows. . ."

Army and Navy Action

The President announced he had instructed the Army and Navy to take all steps necessary to U. S. defense. The War and Navy Department announced that the Army and Navy had beaten off attempted Japanese troop landings in the Philippines, sunk a 29,000 ton Japanese battleship, a cruiser and a destroyer, scored hits on the battleship Kongo; that Marine garrisons at Midway and Wake were holding out; that Navy Secretary Knox had flown to Hawaii.

Both the Army and Navy announced volunteer enlistments at a record level. The War Department asked Congress for legislation to register all men 18 to 64 years old and to permit use of men 18 to 45 for military service. Selective Service Director Hershey said it may be possible to raise the number of selectees in service from the present 800,000 to about 3,000,000 without using other than the 21-28 age groups. If Congress approves the induction of those from 28 to 35, now registered but deferred, another 1,000,000 might be raised, Gen. Hershey said. SS national headquarters directed all local boards to reclassify ex-Service men who have been deferred because of prior service.

Congress passed legislation removing the ban on U. S. Army men from serving outside the hemisphere. Congress also granted the Army and Navy permission to hold enlisted men for the duration.

Civilian Defense

Following air raid alarms in San Francisco and New York, the Office of Civilian Defense ordered all Pacific and East coast and District of Columbia air raid volunteers on the alert. OCD Director LaGuardia announced enrollment of 950,000 air raid wardens and other volunteers and called for three times the existing permanent fire personnel, plus one air raid warden for every 500 persons.

The War Department asked all Governors to be "on the alert" with home guards and State troopers available to meet any situation; instructed special plant protection service to protect all arsenals, factories and storage depots against sabotage.

Director McNutt of Defense Health and Welfare Services asked Governors to complete mobilization of State health and welfare services. He also issued a call for young women to enroll in schools of nursing to meet critical shortages of professional nurses for the Army, Navy and civilian requirements.

Communications

The Navy initiated censorship on all outgoing communications and forbid publication of any naval information that might be of value to the enemy. The Army restricted information of troop movements except when announced by the War Department. The Maritime Commission requested the press, radio and other news channels to refrain from publishing information about merchant vessels in any waters.

The President authorized the Defense Communications Board to designate radio facilities of the nation for use, control, inspection or closure by Federal agencies. The Federal Communications Commission prohibited operation of amateur radio stations in all U. S. Territory.

The Army and Navy announced casualty lists will be withheld from publication in order to avoid giving aid to the enemy in determining where and when and how many losses the U. S. had sustained. Families of casualties, however, will be notified immediately whenever possible.

Lend-Lease To Continue

The White House issued a statement that "the Lend-Lease program is and will continue in full operation. . ." The statement said "It was the German hope that if the U. S. and Japan could be pushed into war, that such a conflict would put an end to the Lend-Lease program." Germany and Japan, the President said, "are conducting their military and naval operations in accordance with a joint plan. . . The American people must realize it can be matched only with similar grand strategy. . ."

Aid to U. S.

The State Department asked the Pan-American Union to call a conference of Western Hemisphere nations in Rio de Janerio in January. By December 12, Great Britain, Canada, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Australia, Belgium, China, Cuba, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Free France, Greece, Haiti, Honduras, Netherlands Indies, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Panama, Poland, South Africa, and the Soviet Union had either declared war on Japan, severed relations with that country, or expressed willingness to cooperate with the U. S.

Production

Under Secretary of War Patterson called for production of all munitions on a 24-hour-a-day basis. The SPAB issued a declaration that the defense program had been replaced with a victory program. OPM Director Knudsen told his press conference the victory program calls for 1,000 heavy four-engine bombers a month and a 168-hour week for the plane, tank, gun, ammunition and shipbuilding industries as fast as men, materials and machines are available. Director Odlum of the OPM Contract Distribution Division, speaking in New York, said war production will double in 1942. Civilian Supply Director Henderson cut auto production to 60% of December last year.

The President invited industry and labor leaders to meet in Washington, December 17 to reach an agreement to prevent labor disputes.

Civilian Supply

The President told his press conference the very great shortage of most metals will necessitate use in war production of at least 50% of the metals now going into civilian use. The Secretary of Agriculture issued a statement "we enter this struggle with greater reserves of food, feed and fiber than at any other time in our history."

OPM Priorities Director Nelson prohibited sale of new auto tires from December 11 to December 22 to stop a "buying wave" which started after Japan's attack. Price Administrator Henderson placed ceiling prices on flashlights, bulbs and batteres and asked purchasers of "must" items in coastal areas threatened by air raids to report all profiteering. He also asked for a nationwide campaign to conserve and accumulate waste paper.

Economic Defense

The Economic Defense Board prohibited exports to Japan and Japanese occupied territory, to Japanese nationals all over the world, and to China—except for shipments to the Burma Road via Rangoon. The Board also stopped exports of all rubber until further notice except in connection with Lend-Lease and to U. S. forces.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau ordered a halt to any commerce or communication with Japan or her allies, ordered all borders closed to Japanese and froze all assets of Japanese nationals or businesses.

Stating that defense expenditure increases will have to be matched by increases in purchases of defense bonds and stamps, Mr. Morgenthau ordered an intensive sales campaign.

Aliens

The President designated by proclamation all nationals of Germany, Italy and Japan as "enemy aliens" and authorized the Justice Department to take into custody those considered dangerous. The Justice Department requested that all State and local officials leave the handling of aliens to Federal authorities to prevent persecution of law-abiding and peaceful enemy nationals. All but 2,303 of the 1,100,000 Axis nationals in the U. S. were allowed to remain free subject to arrest on the slightest provocation, the Department said. The others, considered dangerous were taken into custody and will be placed in concentration camps supervised by the Army.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE COMING OF GOD'S SON

LESSON TEXT—Isaiah 9:6, 7; John 1:1-4, 10-14; I John 4:9-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world.—I John 4:14.

Christmas again! How shall we keep it in a world torn by strife and poisoned by man's bitterness against man? Let us keep it with all the joy and gladness at our command. Let us make this the best Christmas we and our families have ever had. How? By giving more and richer gifts? No—although they have their place when rightly given and received. By feasting and merrymaking? No—although they too have their place when carried on in the true spirit of love and friendship. What then? Let us make this an outstanding Christmas by centering our thougbts, our affections, our joys—yes, and our gifts of self and substance—around God's Son, whose "birthday" we celebrate.

May Christmas, 1941, be the best you have ever spent. This is the writer's sincere wish for you. One way to make it just that is to diligently study our lesson for this next Sunday, which tells of the coming of God's Son.

I. His Coming and Character Prophesied (Isa 9:6, 7).

God who was to send His Son into the world to become the Saviour of sinful man fittingly made known His coming through Isaiah (and others) 800 years before it took place. This greatest event in all history was the subject of exact and detailed prophecy, which was completely fulfilled. Although Isaiah calls Him "a child" (as indeed He was), he saw Him as the divine One whose glory and power is revealed in the magnificent array of names found in verse 6.

"Wonderful," a much abused and misused word, found its real meaning in Him—He really is wonderful in every way. "Counsellor!" He does not need or seek the counsel of others—He is the Counsellor. Have you sought His counsel? "The Mighty God"—not a mere man, but God unlimited in power. "The Everlasting Father," which is really the "Father of eternity," the One to whom eternity owes its existence. "The Prince of Peace," who will one day bring peace to the earth when He comes to reign; something we need not expect before that blessed day.

Little wonder that "the government shall be upon his shoulders" (v. 6), and that He shall reign on the throne of David forever. That is prophecy yet to be fulfilled, but it will be, even as the others, for "the zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this."

II. His Incarnation and Redemption Completed (John 1:1-4, 10-14).

The Eternal One—who was in the beginning with the Father, He who was God and who made all things, this One who was the life and the light of men—humbled Himself and took upon Himself the likeness of sinful man. He was "made flesh and dwelt among us," revealing the grace and glory of God. The incarnation of Christ is a truth the greatness and glory of which we cannot fully understand; but we know that it was for us that He came—for our redemption.

The world—His own world—received Him not. "But"—and thank God for that blessed "but!"—"as many as received him, to them gave he the power (or better, 'the right,' as in R.V.) to become the children of God." Redemption is by a new birth, a divine birth, "not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man." It is a complete redemption by faith in Him who revealed the grace of God to man. This is the great message of Christmas. Let us not miss it.

But there is another word for this precious and blessed season—it is that of love.

III. His Love and Our Love Manifested (I John 4:9-11).

The love of God has been expressed in many precious ways, but the full and final manifestation was in the sending of His only begotten Son into the world that we might have life through Him. This is love supreme, that God loved us when we did not love Him, the altogether lovely One giving His best and dearest in loving sacrifice for the altogether unlovely ones.

Such love in making the unspeakable gift to us must of necessity call forth from us not only love toward Him, but also for one another. Christmas is an excellent time to deepen and sweeten the love which exists between Christian brethren. We need to be drawn very close to one another for mutual encouragement, strengthening of our faith, and for the effective outreach of Christ's love to the whole world through us.

The eternal, glorious Christ came. He wrought out redemption full and free. He revealed God's great love to us—and to all the world. What a delightful Christmas message that is. Let us receive it and declare it.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

The priorities system is on its way out. It is being superseded by a new arrangement designed to correct the shortcomings of priorities and to allocate strategic materials more effectively.

The priorities system is based on the simple proposition that first things come first. Certain defense projects and foreign orders which the government deemed most important are given preference ratings. These serve as notices to the suplier of raw materials that such orders are to be filled first. This is to be done by withholding or defering deliveries on other contracts and orders. The trouble is that soon everyone was holding preference orders, and that jammed up the works. Under the allocations system—now being whipped into shape—all the emphasis is placed on actual delivery of goods where they are most needed. SPAB is working out a 1942 production program for each industry. When that is done, the OPM will have to devise a system for handling raw materials so that the industries can fulfill these programs.

In line with this change, another reorganization of SPAB is due shortly. This will mean more centralized authority in the hands of Executive Director Donald Nelson. Those who have been working with Mr. Nelson feel that if anyone can make the new allocations program work, he can. For the most part, Washington business men are cooperating to further allocations, for it is the general opinion that this is the best solution of the problem. Many, however, are reserving judgment, aware that allocations raise new problems not met under the priorities system.

There is a general feeling that the allocations system, once the emergency need for it is over, offers a back door to planned economy. No one speaks of it that way yet, but both the Administration and business recognize the possibility of danger. Senators and Represenatatives are warning of the major alterations to the economic system that are looming. It is said, privately, that the United States Government is embarking via the allocations system, upon its boldest venture in the field of Government-controlled economy.

Although there is no indication that government officials intend to use the allocations system in this manner, it is admitted that such a possibility is not too remote in view of the published thoughts of New Deal leaders and the endorsement which the Philip Murray plan for industrial councils has received from some of the Administration men. It would certainly be in keeping with New Deal philosophy.

In some quarters it is predicted that consumer rationing is the next step. Under the allocations program Government officials are able to determine what industries may operate; what industries must curtail operation; and, when necessary, what industries must cease to operate. Under the guise of conserving materials, the Government will be able to undertake studies of consumer needs and through allocations shape a policy for industrial production, and, directly or indirectly, for civilian consumption designed to meet what Washington officials think the country should have.

Much suspicion is directed at the change in status of the Army and Navy Munitions Board. Up to the present, this Board has been able to determine its own priorities and thus regulate the size and production speed of its own program. Now it must appear before SPAB and, in the same manner as any industrial group, apply for its materials. Many Army and Navy men have expressed their displeasure with the new arrangement in private. No public statement has been made.

Questions as yet unanswered are whether allocations will be given to an industry as a whole or whether, as now appears to be the plan, they will be based on the requirements of individual units, whether a yardstick will be established at the outset; what the position of the Industry Advisory Committee will be in the new arrangement; whether there is any degree of assurance that the promised materials will be delivered; and how long it will take to decide a particular allocation problem once an industrial branch has developed a program.

TELLING TALES

Cheap literature, radio, and moving pictures have about destroyed a means of entertainment that was almost as ancient as the hills, the telling tales. In the earlier days of the race this was the one great means of passing on all that had happened to the tribe or the family. People prided themselves on being able to repeat the sacred legends and stories of their clan or family. Much of this same feeling was still left a generation ago. Tales were told not alone for the information they conveyed but to keep alive the feeling of other times and places. The ancient Hebrews were exhorted to talk of their great events while sitting in the house or walking by the way, "when thou liest down, and when thou risest up." Long before writing as such was invented, this method of passing on traditions was in use; books have only given a little more objective form to it.

Tales were of many kinds. First of all, we children had to be told for the nth time about thepioneers. Some of the tales were actual, individual ones, but many of them had become pure folklore, told again and again and half believed by their tellers. Indians, bears, panthers, buffaloes, pigeons—these figured in many of the tales. All of our ancestors had come from Virginia or North Carolina in covered wagons, a generation or two before our time. Some of them had lived for a time in sections of Kentucky or Tennessee on the way over, before the Purchase had been opened for settlement. I knew a few people who had hunted in the Purchase while it was still the property of Indians. These tales lost nothing in the telling, for children in those days idealized the good old days of the pioneer; I am afraid that we pictured the whole westward movement as a prolonged picnic.

Pioneer stories had close rivals in the endless yarns we heard about the Civil War. Many of these yarns grew under the telling, apparently because the teller did not remember all the details until he got warmed up, much as Rip Van Winkle could not recall all of his strange experience at first because some of his twenty years' sleep was still in his eyes and mind. Our stories about the Civil War had the Southern slant, so that we heard only of the valor of our ancestors and how they always fought against fearful odds.

But even more distinctive were the legends and genuine folk tales. We knew many of the fairy tales contained in some form in many of the scholarly collections but ours were purely traditional and not borrowed from some published version. Some of our fairy tales did not have the names you know; Little Red Riding-hood never appeared by name; we knew her only as the little girl that the wolf ate. There were various arts practiced by the yarn spinner, such as acting out the eating of the little girl. All of us sat spellbound while the familiar words were uttered, only to jump and scream when the narrator grabbed us or made a pass with his hands, meanwhile imitating in some fashion the bad old wolf in a great display of teeth.

Another folk type that we loved had to do with ghosts and other supernatural things. When we got around to this type, in front o fthe fire at night, we drew up our feet to protect them from visible or invisible monsters. Every community had a haunted house or a story of the dead walking or talking. It took a great deal of bravery after such an ongy of nerves for the teller of tales to continue his way homeward from sitting till bedtime. Pranks were played on many people wrought up by the several hours of wild tales. We were of the folk without knowing it and were getting a great thrill out of our harrowing experiences.

NAGGING BACKACHE
May Warn of Disordered Kidneys — Don't Neglect It!
Modern life with its ceaseless hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion whatnot, keeps doctors busy, hospitals crowded. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and oftentimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.
After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.
Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbance sometimes are burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. They have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Be sure to get Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.
THE REASON DOAN'S ARE FAMOUS
All over the country grateful people tell others: "Doan's have helped me; I recommend them to you." That is why we say, Ask your neighbor!

Money Talks

By
Frederick Stamm, Economist Director of Adult Education
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

For the past ten years we have heard a great deal about the "forgotten man." From 1932 to 1937, he was the industrial worker who was out of a job, or the farmer who was plagued by low prices. In order to help these "forgotten men" the government organized various Federal agencies.

Since the beginning of the war these groups have been getting along very nicely. The industrial worker has been one of the major participants in the defense boom. The farmer also seems destined to get a larger share of the national income than he has for some time.

The "forgotten man" of 1941 is the white-collared worker in our offices and stores. Recent statistics indicate that his income is more or less static and that he has not benefitted from the defense boom. In fact, he is fighting a losing battle against higher prices and higher taxes.

His taxes have been increased several times over that which he paid last year and are also headed much higher. Leon Henderson, Price Administrator, stated recently "that cost-of-living, already 11½% higher than at the beginning of the war, will be up as much as 20% by next year."

Faced with higher costs on the one hand and static income on the other, we can readily see that the buying power, and consequently the standard of living, of this large group is almost certain to be much lower, for at least, the balance of the emergency period.

ILL IN DETROIT

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Boulton of Park Hills, regret to hear of Mr. Boulton's illness. He suffered a stroke at a Detroit hotel, while there on business. His son-in-law, Malcolm MacDonald, left immediately to be with him, as his wife was not able to make the trip. It is hoped he will soon be able to return to his home.

Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Mottier of Indianapolis, Ind., were the week end guests of Mr. Mottier's aunt, Mrs. Mollie M. Wallace.

-that man IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

A CALL IN THE NIGHT

We heard the children romping in their playroom upstairs—then suddenly, a scream!
We both rushed up and found our young son had fallen and apparently broken his arm. We immediately phoned our family physician, who verified our worst fears!
In time, the arm was carefully set, but other difficulties arose that called for an unusual prescription.
I looked at the clock—where could we get it filled at this late hour?
We spoke to the doctor, who then picked up the phone and called "that man" out of bed—again "that man" (our neighborhood druggist) did not fail us.
Our neighborhood druggist never fails us! Should you, like most women, suffer discomforts during the menstrual period, just phone your druggist—he usually advises women to try Vatona Tablets—this may be just what you need!

Air-Raid Spotters To Be Named

Air-raid spotters, whose duty it will be to locate enemy planes and report them to the Army, will be assigned to their posts next month members of the American Legion were told Sunday at a meeting of the sixth district of the department of Kentucky in the Covington Legion Home.

Fred Lampe, who has been designed to organize the Legionnaires, told the veterans the procedure of the air-raid spotting system. Outposts are to be established with proper equipment, in various sections of Campbell, Kenton, Boone, Trimble, Carroll, Grant, Pendleton and Gallatin counties, which compose the sixth district of the legion.

The spotters will be named by the commanding general of the Fifth Corps Area and the entire service will be under the supervision and direction of the Army.

HICKORY GROVE HOMEMAGERS ENTERTAINED

The Hickory Grove Homemakers Club held it's December meeting at the home of Mrs. Clifford Weldon. Roll call was answered by "What sacrifices I am making for National Defense."

Nutrition, and what we can do for National Defense were the main topics of discussion.

A delightful luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by the co-hostess, Mrs. A. J. Beckman. Suggestions for Christmas decorations were given by Mrs. Weldon and Mrs. Carr.

A Christmas party of songs, games and an exchange of gifts completed the meeting.

The next meeting will be held January 19th at the home of Mrs. A. J. Beckman.

Those present were Mrs. J. G. Carlisle, Mrs. E. Carr, Mrs. A. J. Beckman, Mrs. C. S. Mills, Mrs F. Glass, Mrs. C. Weldon, Mrs. V. Bailey, Mrs. F. Kidwell and Mrs. A. W. Butler.

MOTHER PASSES

Mrs. Clarence Sturgeon has returned to her home after spending six weeks at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Julia Ann Straub, who passed away at her home at Unity, December 6th. The funeral was held at Gardnersville.

HAPPY HELPERS XMAS BANQUET

The Happy Helpers Class of the Walton Methodist Church School held its December meeting and annual turkey banquet at the church on Friday, Dec. 19th at 7 o'clock. There were some seventy-seven who dined sumptuously at the evergreen, poinsetta and candle decorated tables. All decorations were in keeping with the season, thanks to Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Pruett and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jones.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mr. Clay Myers, including the election of officers for 1942. Mrs. F. E. Bedinger was elected President; Mr. Clifford Pruett, Vice-President; Mrs. Sam Hudson, Secretary, and Mrs. Fay Conner, Treasurer.

At the close of the business session, the Chritmas party was enjoyed by all, which consisted of toys for the Orphan Children's Home at Versailles. It is the custom of the class to draw names and each member brings a toy for the person whose name he drew. Then after Santa Claus' visit, the gifts are opened and all indulge in going back to childhood for a time and playing delightedly with their toys. However, before departing for their homes, the class bring the toys all together agaln and pack and send them to the orphans. This really makes it all the more enjoyable and is a fitting climax to a happy evening.

Those enjoying this happy occasion were as follows:

Rev. and Mrs. James H. Talley, Rev. and Mrs. D. E. Bedinger, Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Bedinger, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Carlisle and Guy, Mrs. Fay Conner and Jack, Mr. V. D. CINCINNATIANS PURCHASE BIG BONE PROPERTY

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Kirby of East Walnut Hills, Cincinnati purchased the Wm. McG. Wilson farm of 420 acres near Big Bone Church, known as the Tom Rich farm, last Wednesday. The purchasers plan to make extensive improvements to this property. A. B. Rensaker of Burlington handled the sale.

Florence Home Looted Saturday

Sheriff Frank Walton and Deputy Sheriff Jake Williams have been investigating a number of clues in connection with the robbery Saturday night at the home of L. B. Simpson, Florence.

Entrance was made through a jimmied kitchen window on the rear porch and every room of the two-story building ransacked, Mr. Williams reported.

Officials were told that three guns, an automatic shotgun, a 20-25 Winchester rifle and a 410 shotgun, Christmas presents, a mounting to $50, a gold ring and wrist watch and $30 in cash were missing.

The Simpson family had been out of the house for about two hours and upon their return at 8 p. m. found drawers and clothes closets ransacked and all window blinds on the south side of the house lowered.

According to authorities this was the fourth theft reported in this county within the past three days, and was apparently of the same nature as those recently reported in other parts of the county.

Dec. 31 Deadline Signing Farm Plans

The closing date for signing 1942 Farm Plans has been set for December 31, 1941. The past two years the closing date has been April 15th, but it has now been set up to December 31st. The Farm Plan must be signed before any A. C. payment will be made after the farm is checked for the 1942 Program year. There are still about 200 farm plans that have not been signed to date. Producers are urged to sign up before the closing date if they wish to receive payment, either tobacco or soil-building allowance, or to get any grant of aid material, either limestone or phosphate.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM AT METHODIST CHURCH

A large crowd attended the Christmas program at the Walton Methodist church, Sunday evening. The church was well decorated with appropriate lighting, a star in the East and a beautiful tree.

The children's program, under direction of their faithful Sunday School class teachers, was well given. A Santa Claus distributed gifts and a Sunday School "treat" after the program.

FLORENCE HOMEMAKERS ENJOY CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Christmas party of the Florence Homemakers Club on December 16th was held in the basement of the Methodist church. Though there were only 16 present, we had a wonderfully good time playing games, singing Xmas carols and exchanging gifts. The gifts were put in a bag and each one reached in and drew out a package. The tables were prettily decorated and the favors were a candlstick made of a gum drop with a life-saver for a handle. When we sat down at the tables the little candles were lighted and burned while we were eating. We had plum pudding and fruit sauce and coffee. The lighted Christmas tree added to the festivities.

The regular meeting was held at the Town Hall on December 19 and a busy day it was. Thirty-one partook of the delicious dinner and we had two visitors, whom we believe, will be members before long. The Florence Homemakers Club is very much alive.—Mabel G. Sayre, Reporter.

$1,600 In Fair Grounds Pledges Paid

The Boone County Fair Grounds Committee paid in over $1600 in pledges at a committee meeting at the Burlington Court House last Tuesday evening, according to J. L. Conner, Treasurer of the Committee. Substantial payments have been made since this meeting.

Boone countians did an outstanding job in pledging contributions for the grounds. They are paying their pledges in the same outstanding way. Many of the committeemen report 100% of their pledges already paid.

Contract to purchase the grounds has already been completed and a $500 payment has been made on the grounds. The contract calls for the full payment on the grounds to be made early in January. Because the grounds can not be in any way mortgaged or held as collateral, full payment of pledges must be made before final payment can be made and the deed secured. Because of this situation, all who have pledged are urged to make payment at the earliest possible date, either to the local committeeman, or direct to John L. Conner, Cashier of Hebron Deposit Bank.

Those who have pledged have started a permanent memorial in the county. This memorial will grow in size and as a part of the people and their friends as years come. Names of all subscribers will be filed in the permanent deed and placed at a pertinent place on the grounds. All pledges made in the future will go to erect permanent buildings and equipment on the grounds. The names of all new subscribers before the final deed is made will be included with the original subscribers. Those who would like to make new or additional pledges are urged to contact their committeeman or the treasurer.

Much terracing will be done during the next 12 months on the Bracken county farm of H. L. McKinney, according to plans already laid out.

Walton Residence Robbed Monday

Some time between 5:30 and 10:00 p. m., Monday, thieves entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Percival on North Main St., and ransacked the entire house, and escaped with loot estimated to be over $200. Entrance was gained by breaking the glass in the rear door. Listed among the articles taken are jewelry, Xmas packages, some cash, and practically all of Mr. Percival's clothing. The thief, or thieves, made their departure through the rear of the property, as a bit of the loot was found near the Southern Railroad tracks Tuesday morning.

This resembles, to a great extent, other burglaries in the county in the last few days, and particularly the one Saturday night at a Florence home. In both instances the thieves undoubtedly turned on the electric lights while searching the places, as the window shades were all left drawn.

Five Men Held On Robbery Charges

Grant County authorities turned over to Boone County five men, including two Cincinnatians, for investigation in a wave of burglaries sweeping Boone and Grant Counties.

The Cincinnati men, Frank Palmisano, 22, and Willard Scott, 19, were to be arraigned before Judge N. E. Riddle, Monday. They were arrested by Cincinnati police for Grant County.

Walter, Marvin and Wm. Ellis, Pendleton County, are being held pending investigation of crimes in this county.

Another youth, Ray Johnson, 22 of Butler, pleaded guilty to housebreaking charges in Grant County and is held to the grand jury.

Sheriff Walton said Palmisano and Scott are charged with robbing Zimmer's Dance Hall, Florence, which was entered Dec. 5th and amusement machines rifled of about $25.

REV. ALDERSON TO CLOSE PASTORATE NEXT SUNDAY

Rev. Alderson has announced the following subjects for next Sunday: At 10:50, "The Light On His Face," and at 7:30, "Nothing But Christ." The public is invited to all the services.

XMAS PROGRAM AT THE VERONA BAPTIST CHURCH

The Christmas program of the New Bethel Baptist Church at Verona was given Sunday night in the school building. A play, "Where Lies the Child," was well rendered. If each of us would give more thought to the moral of this play, "More love and appreciation to our fellow men," there would be more happiness in this old world.

The stage settings were very attractive, and a large crowd was present to enjoy this well rendered program, which was under the capable leadership of Mrs. Edna B. Hamilton.

By tile-draining two fields, Jno. Lewis of Harlan county was able to combine them and shorten the work of cultivation.

Money Talks

By Frederick Stamm, Economist Director of Adult Education UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

War with the Axis Powers means industrial readjustment in the United States on the largest scale ever attempted.

If we are to produce the things needed to defeat the enemy, we must reshape our American industrial machine. This will not be an easy task. It means an unheard-of expansion of certain industries, a strict rationing for others, and a complete shut-down for a very few.

War with the Axis Powers will be a war of great distances. This means we must produce unlimited quantities of bombers and bombs, shells, ships, oil and gasoline, and maintain far-distant bases from which these units may operate. It also means the maintenance of an army far in excess of our present force. We must adequately arm our enlarged military force.

These are the reasons American products from factories, farms, mines, and forests must go into wartime production.

Many materials which are now hard to get will become practically non-existent for civilian use. It is a certainty that very little steel, copper, tin, aluminum and a wide range of chemical products will be used for consumer goods.

The automobile industry will become totally a war industry. Passenger car production, now cut by 50%, may very likely disappear altogether.

The Government has ruled that consumers can buy no new tires or tubes from December 11, to December 22. Raw rubber comes from the East Indies. It is now an open question of how long the Government can permit the manufacture of tires for pleasure cars.

By next year, it may be very difficult to buy radios, radio tubes, refrigerators, and other household electrical appliances. The electrical manufacturing industry is at present devoting 50% of its capacity to production and it may be expected to do even more.

To defeat the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo Axis will require the diversion of from two-thirds to three-fourths of our industrial facilities to munition making. We must expect civilian curtailment of industrial goods to levels below those experienced in 1932 and 1933.

—— DEFENSE BOND QUIZ ——

Q. What is the Treasury's underlying thought in avoiding a pressure campaign to sell Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps?

A. The belief that the American public is anxious to aid to the limit in defense of the Nation, and also wants to save money for future needs, especially since such savings will help to keep down the cost of living.

Q. Should I buy Defense Savings Stamps at retail stores rather that at post offices and banks?

A. Buy stamps wherever it is most convenient. The important thing is to purchase Stamps as often as you can, and exchange the completed Stamp album for a Defense Savings Bond.

NOTE — To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps are now on sale at retail stores.

Kenton Farm News

Poultry School To Be Held

The annual Kenton County poultry school will be held at the Independence Court House, Thursday, January, 8th. Prof. W. M. Insko and J. E. Humphrey from the College of Agriculture, Lexington, Ky., are scheduled to speak at the meeting.

The program of the meeting will appear in this column around the first of January.

New Poultry Circular

A new circular has been published by the Poultry Department on feeding laying hens. You may obtain a free copy of the circular by calling or writing to the County Agent's office.

Compare your poultry flock's production with State Demonstration flocks:

The ten highest demonstration flocks in Kentucky in October produced 23,805 eggs, an average of 18.6 eggs per hen. There were 1,279 hens in the ten demonstration flocks.

Poultry Pointers
by C. E. Harris—

It is extremely important that the flock be given the best of care at this season of the year. Eggs are high and one should do everything that will encourage high production. A little time spent in the poultry house each day is well worthwhile because it will enable you to check any trouble before much damage is done.

One mash hopper 3½-4 feet long that permits the hens to eat from both side sshould be provided for 30-40 hens. One reason many flocks do not produce as they should is because they do not eat enough mash. Greater mash consumption will be encouraged if you will put fresh mash in the hoppers frequently rather than to fill the hoppers once or twice a week. Stir the mash in each hopper every time you are in the poultry house. A warm, wet mash, crumbly, not sloppy, given in the forenoon each day will pay. Mix 3-4 pounds of the dry mash with warm milk or water and give to the flock each morning. Feed the wet mash in a clean V-shapped trough and as soon as the mash is eaten turn the trough unside down and it is ready for the next day.

Warm water will pay in increased production during cold weather. The egg is two-thirds water and unless the hens drink freely they will not produce as they should.

Oyster shell or ground limestone should be available at all times.

It is much easier to keep grain in hoppers than to feed it by hand and it gives the timid pullets a chance to get the amount they need.

Keep plenty of litter on the floor and rather than clean the floor so often it is better to take off an inch or so of the top and add more clean litter.

Yes, lice live on the hens during cold weather and their presence costs many dollars. Continued vigilance is necessary if we are to control these pests.

I want to remind you that cracks in the house that will permit drafts or a leak that will cause the house to be damp can cause much trouble. Another cause of dampness in the house is a lack of floor ventilation due to closing all opendings in the house. Study the ventilation system in Circular 351 and leave an opening in the front of the house. Remember fresh air is necessary regardless of the temperature.

A sunvey has been made showing that 67,000 acres of Garrard county land could be drained and made to produce good crops.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

"To the Full Extent of the Law"

When young fellows trespassed on property around Fidelity, particularly on property belonging to people who resented intrusion, they were threatened with being prosecuted "to the full extent of the law," whatever that means. That phrase had dirtied into the neighborhood from some lawsuit at the county seat and sounded big and dangerous. I did not know then, and fear I am not much wiser now, what these harsh words mean. Fortunately, I never heard of anyone's actually applying the law to the offenders. The saying of the phrase must have relieved the feelings of the man who had lost some watermelons or apples.

Lawsuits as such were rare. Most of us lived in great fear of the law, a sort of invisible monster that might grab us when we were off guard. Occasionally some neighbor would be summoned to appear on the grand jury; we, including the neighbors and family, were hardly free from fear until he returned safe and sound, and with a few dollars extra for his services. Even this inducement never made the post of juror especially attractive to most of us, though I have known several people less fearful who would ride out to the county seat and hang around during circuit court in the home that their services as good men and true would be required. A very few civil suits involving any of our citizens appeared on the docket; I grew up to believe that each party to such a suit was disgraced forever. When a sensational suit to break a rich old man's will came up, the whole neighborhood took sides and probably still do. I doubt whether the old fellow's monument in the Fidelity graveyard has ever been taken for what is was worth because of this trial, which divided a family and the rest of us.

But the magistrate's court was a solemn thing, attended by all the men and boys with much the same zeal that they would have shown in a dog fight, without any of the noise and open partisanship. The magistrate himself realized that he was important, and he rattled off fine points of the law as if he were a modern Moses. The young lawyers from the county seat spread their stuff before us yokels and felt amply rewarded by the open-mouthed wonder that we showed. The county attorney cut the biggest swath of all, for he was law incarnate, interpreting for us all the beauties and rigors of abstract justice.

It was a great day in my young life when I was allowed to be a spectator at a trial in the magistrate's court. The charge was running a horse on the public highway (the little dirt road down the creek toward the Tennessee River). The offender had imbibed more than his usual portion of mountain dew; his horse was a spirited fellow that needed little coaxing to perform his best. Away off in a field I stood, watching him do his antics and let off a lot of superfluous steam. I was rather loud in my telling of it until I found that the boy had been arrested and would be tried at Fidelity. I went to the trial as mute as a mouse, fearful that I might be called. It seems that the testimony of a minor was not needed, as plenty of stalwart citizens had been unconscious witnesses (I mean unwilling, I suspect). The whole affair was conducted like an internation court, and with just about as much decorum. The lawyer did a great piece of defending the boy; the county attorney quoted a deal of Scripture, and the jurors, who did not own fast horses, brought in a verdict of guilty. The magistrate adjusted his specs, consulted a musty law book, and fined the young fello wten dollars. The law was satisfied, we had had a great afternoon, and the two lawyers departed arm in arm for the county seat. That was my one time to see the law in action in Fidelity.

LESSON

Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Lesson for December 28

THE CHRISTIAN'S HOPE

LESSON TEXT—John 14:1-6; Revelation 22:1-5.
GOLDEN TEXT—In my Father's house are many mansions.—John 14:2.

Hope is something this world desperately needs, and which it has all but abandoned. Little wonder when one recalls that the usual meaning of hope is hardly more than "wishful thinking" without any real confidence—and that such hope as men have, has been only in their fellowmen, who have so often grievously failed them.

The Christian's hope—ah, that is something quite different. To him hope is certain expectation resting on the assured Word of God. Such a light only shines brighter as the darkness deepens. As the lights of men's promises and purposes flicker and die out, the hope of God's people shines like a beacon in a dark and stormy night.

How appropriate that we should use the last Sunday of this year to remind one another of that hope, to trim the lamp, as it were, for even brighter shining, as we cast its beams out into the unknown year just ahead. There are three great and helpful things in this lesson.

I. A Sure Promise of Heaven (John 14:1-3).

We are not forgetting that for us who love the Lord there is the blessed hope of His return. He is coming again (v. 3). But whether we have the joy of being caught up to be with Him, or go by way of death, we have a sure promise of the eternal dwelling place which He has prepared for us.

"Let not your heart be troubled"—the very words come like the balm of Gilead upon our restless, troubled lives. Faith in God and in Christ—there we have the sure anchor of the soul. He has promised. We may count on His fulfillment. We show our faith in our fellowmen by trusting their word, even though they often fail us. Shall we not then fully trust the omnipotent, never-failing God?

II. A Safe Way to Heaven (John 14:4-6).

Our Saviour has not just gone before us and bade us follow as best we may, but He is Himself the Way. Having Christ, we have the way. Observe that He does not say that He is the "way-shower," as one religious system names Him. He is not just an example, or the master-teacher, or a martyr to a holy cause. He is "the way, the truth, and the life."

Note, too, that no man comes to the Father but by Christ. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith points out that "the apostle Paul in his epistles constantly emphasizes the truth that we have access to the Father only through the Lord Jesus Christ (Rom. 5:2; Eph. 2:13, 18; 3:15; Heb. 7:25; 10:19-21). Jesus is not one way to God, He is the only way to God. Men cannot come to God through anyone, but only through Christ."

Someone may say, "That's very true, and wonderful. I am a Christian, and I have Christ who is the way. But what is heaven like?

III. A Symbolic Picture of Heaven (Rev. 22:1-5).

First of all there is "life"—the river of life, the water of life. In heaven there is no death, but only eternal life, blessing, peace, and joy. In this world man lives under the constant shadow of death as the enemy which hurts, destroys, and reminds him of sin. But in heaven all is life through eternity.

"When we've been there ten thousand years
Bright shining as the sun,
We've no less days to sing God's praise
Than when we first begun."

Then we have what Dr. A. C. Gaebelein calls "the seven glories of the redeemed" (vv. 3-5). Let us enumerate them. (1) "No curse"—perfect sinlessness. (2) "The throne of God and of the Lamb shall be therein"—giving perfect and blessed government forever. (3) "His servants shall serve him"—in perfect, unhindered, untiring service. Heaven will not be idleness (perish the thought!), but blessed and happy service for God. (4) "They shall see his face"—an eternal, undimmed vision of God. (5) "His name shall be on their foreheads"—speaking of eternal ownership and possession. (6) "There shall be night no more"—God is the light throughout eternity. No more darkness to fear. (7) "They shall reign forever and ever." Few of us would care to reign in this world, for that brings only sorrow and trouble, but to reign with Him, that indeed will be eternal blessedness.

So then we have—a sure promise of a heaven to which we have a safe way, and concerning which we have such blessed knowledge. But what good is the promise if we do not accept it? What good is the way if we do not receive Him? What good is there in knowing about heaven unless we are going there? "Everybody talks about heaven, ain't going there" sings the folk song. Are you? Or are you only going to talk about it?

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

The nation's capital has settled down to the grim task of defeating the Axis powers in the Pacific. From one end of Pennsylvania Avenue to the other all partison differences have been laid aside. The entire nation is united, as it never has been before, in the face of its common danger.

Industry is fighting mad. It has promised to match every enemy bomb with a dozen. Labor has pledged to ban strikes until the war is won. A labor union which had called a strike in an industry vital to defense has rescinded its action. SPAB has proclaimed a victory program, which means virtually doubling all present production schedules—and you may be sure that every effort will be made to carry it out.

This may be the silver lining to the black clouds which are gathering.

Brightest spot in the unpleasant situation forced upon us is the fact that we were preparing for the worst.

Plans for civilian protection and uninterrupted production have long been under way. For example, the War Department has been demonstrating to defense plants its Plant Protective Service. On the same day that Japan declared war against us these secret plans for the protection of industrial plants working on government defense contracts were ordered into operation.

The use of camouflage to protect light-colored factories outlined against dark waters and other similar civilion targets for enemy planes has been explained to industry and local governments.

Radio is going to play an important part on the home front. The alert receiver is a new device for warning all those with radios of impending danger. The alert receiver turns on automatically when it receives a special inaudible signal from a broadcasting station. It rings a bell to attract attention, and shuts off when an all-clear signal is flashed. The radio need not be tuned in to the station in order to get the alarm.

Plans for the use of television and radio as outposts for coastal defense are being considered. A series of transmitters are to be anchored to buoys 300 miles off the coast. These transmitters would automatically spot the approach of enemy vessels, submarines and airplanes far out at sea. Information would be reported to shore stations by cable or radio, as soon as received.

Some experts are saying that gasoline will win or lose the war. On that score we need have no fears. The American petroleum industry is producing 4,100,000 barrels of crude oil a day. It is pointing towards a supply of 5,000,000 a day—which is more than the whole world produced or consumed less than five years ago.

Should the United States ever experience a gasoline shortage such as Europe faces today, our scientists can tap huge stores of synthetic fuel. There is, however, no present danger of exhausting this country's tremendous reserves of petroleum above and below the ground.

More important is a new gasoline which has just been perfected in American laboratories. By the use of this new gasoline an American warplane could travel faster than it is now possible to travel. It is much more powerful than 100-octane gasoline, which was hailed as a great improvement over ordinary fuel.

At the same time, a process for the production of larger quantities of high octane aviation fuel from less material has been revealed.

Research continues in American laboratories. New products, new methods are devised as additional protection in these troubled times.

The United States has developed a new anti-aircraft gun capable of piercing the stratosphere far beyond the 30,000 foot limit of present weapons. Contracts have been let for electrically heated flying suits designed to keep the aviator warm at high altitudes.

Work is being completed on a plastic which is to be used for shatterproof warplane windshields; on a new anti-tank weapon; on propellerless aerial gun turrets that may be able to fly straight up at 70 miles an hour. Scientists are studying infrared radiation which may allow an observer to see through fog or darkness. Secret research is being conducted in the field of supersonics, the realm of vibrations beyond the upper limit of our hearing.

Civilian defense means new problems for industry. Simple every-day items like flash-light batteries, first-aid kits and warm clothing have become matters of prime importance. Industry is prepared; civilian needs are being met as fast as present physical limitations make possible.

Season's Greetings

As another Christmas season draws near we are deeply grateful for the privilege we have of living in the best country in the world. It is now our duty and privilege to help keep it that way. We must back up the boys at the front in every way we can and the best way is to buy U. S. Defense Savings Bonds.

Our Christmas wish to you is that the time may soon come when we can truly say, "Peace on earth and good will to man."

In Kentucky It's COPPIN'S

Artist Sketch of Our New Fur and Coat Shop

Artist Sketch of Our New Dress Shop

Every city has one store its women are proud to call their own. In Chicago it's MARSHALL FIELD'S . . . in Philadelphia it's WANAMAKER'S . . . in Atlanta it's RICH'S . . . here in Kentucky it's COPPIN'S!

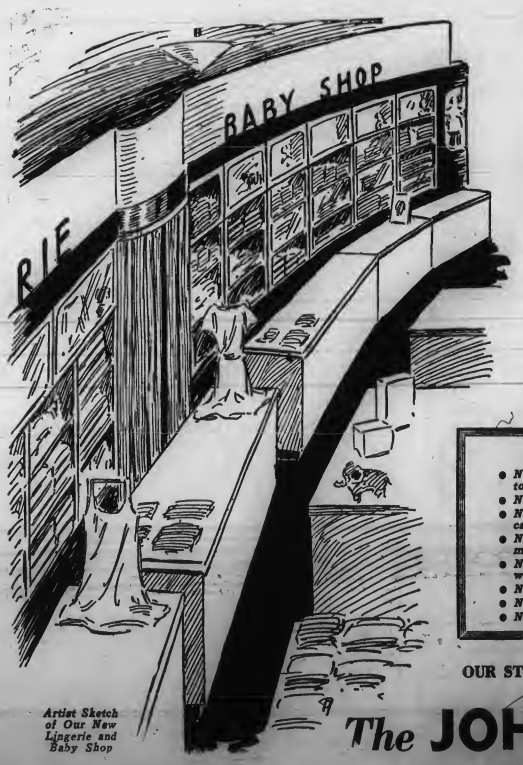
Stores do not start with these warm friendships, this wonderful preference . . . these things must be deserved and earned through many years of faithful service.

COPPIN'S is proud of the 68 years it has lived in this community. Step by step we, all of us, have endeavored to build for the women of Northern Kentucky a store they would really love, a store that could have and hold their affection.

Today we feel that this store is better equipped than ever to please that wonderful lady . . . our customer. We have surrounded her and the merchandise we have selected for her approval with a touch of glamour and beauty and convenience.

We want to have her feel that the second floor in particular is dedicated to her . . . the spot where she can wisely select her finery . . . where she will choose from America's best . . . at prices that meet her budget requirements.

In the past five years you have witnessed the "face lifting" at Coppin's . . . in the future you will see still more. A brighter, cheerier, wide-aisled store second to none in the land is our ambitious program. What we need to accomplish this is to hold your good will, and keep you enthusiastically our customer.



And . . . it's worth remembering that whether you come to town by car, bus or drive your own car, you'll find it easier, more convenient to shop at Coppin's. No traffic confusion . . . no Terminal jams . . . no high parking rates.

Here in the NEW Coppin's . . . with all its modern appearance we have preserved that old-fashioned Kentucky courtesy. Here you will meet the smiling faces of your friends and neighbors who form our personnel . . . Kentuckians who were educated in your schools, attend your churches, support your civic and charitable organizations . . . in fact ALL are a definite, vital factor in your community. We are proud to add that every COPPIN executive is a graduate of some Northern Kentucky school.

Let us add that every dollar spent on our new fixtures has been spent with Northern Kentucky UNION carpenters, painters and electricians.

So now that Christmas shopping is in full swing, come to Coppin's, your favorite store, and see if we haven't done a pretty good job on that big order . . . PLEASING YOU, MY LADY!
